What has been the effect of this hasty action on the part of the Government? Just what might have been expected—Manitoba has resented interference. And so on one side the cry has gone up, all over the Dominion, pass the remedial order; and on the other side, let there be no coercion. To my mind the question has completely outgrown the constitutional principle involved, and as it now stands it is overwhelming importance, of greater importance than any question with which we have been confronted since Confederation, and if I had a voice in the House of Commons I would implore my fellow-members to hasten slowly.

Let us see what is the issue and who are the contending parties. On the one side is the Dominion Government representing the political force of five millions of people; and on the other side a member of the family—a sister province, one of the six that at the time of granting the political force of 160,000, are about engaging in a very unseemly family quarrel.

How should family quarrels be settled? I put it to you as a matter of experience. Is it not by conciliation? When we had our difficulty with Nova Scotia as far back as '67, because of her objection to Confederation, were orders issued to Nova Scotia that unless she entered Confederation within forty-eight hours she would be swept into the sea or cut adrift from the Dominion? Not at all. Her objections were considered, her complaints were listened to and her grievances to a certain extent removed and the very leader of the opposing forces—the Hon. Joseph Howe—received into the Government. That was practical politics. That was the statesmanship of Sir John Macdonald twenty-five years ago. Who would say that in the light of history the proper thing was not done? (Applause.)

Passing on Mr. Ross said:

Mr. Martin, in a letter to the public press, written during the last session of Parliament, said everybody wishes that a solution of the question may be found without any coercion on the part of the Dominion Parliament.

That the rights of the minority will be treated with the utmost respect by the Liberal party is shown by their treatment of the Roman Catholic Separate schools in the Province of Ontario, and the question therefore which the electors have to settle very speedily is shall we have a commission, then an inquiry, then a settlement, peaceful, permanent and satisfactory, or shall we have remedial legislation, then a disruption of the friendly relations which exist and should exist between Protestants and Catholics, then the majority of the people of Manitoba coerced to accept a school system which their Legislature rejected and then the whole fabric of Confederation riven and shaken to its very foundations. The choice is simply, Sir Mackenzie Bowell and coercion, or Mr. Laurier and conciliation. (Applause.)

Why should there be any objection to a commission? A commission is not a new thing in the history of Canada. It was only the other day that appointments were made by the Dominion Government to a commission to consider the waterways lying between Canada and the United States. There is a commission now in session endeavoring to settle the accounts between Ontario and Quebec. We had a commission on the labor question, on prohibition, on the boundaries between Canada and the United States, on the western and northern boundaries of Ontario. We had a commission to settle the value of our Canadian fisheries. We had a commission to settle the claims between Great Britain and the United States, which sat at Geneva and considered what was known as the Alabama claims. And was it not last year that the late Sir John Thompson and Sir Hibbert Tupper won for themselves and their country much honor, one as a commissioner and the other as the representative of the Canadian Government, in connection with the rights of sealers in the Behring Sea. Now, if the Provinces have issued commissions in great matters of state, if it is not beneath the dignity of Great Britain and the United States and Imperial Russia to settle international affairs involving millions of money and the consideration of important questions of international law, surely the Dominion Government can afford, without any loss of dignity, to refer the matters in dispute with Manitoba to a commission composed of the best men in the Dominion, not for the purpose simply of settling the law, for the Privy Council has declared what the law is, but of finding some way whereby the grievances recognized by the Privy Council may be removed without impairing the integrity of the school act of 1890. This is the only practicable and statesmanlike solution of the difficulty, the only solution which will prevent future complications, and remove the question forever, as it should be removed from the arena of Dominion politics. (Loud applause.)

Telfordian Temperature Topics.

Saturday, Dec. 21st.—At this morning's observation the self-registering thermometer indicated 41 degrees above zero with a continuance of fine weather. There is a proverb on the the weather, "If a new moon occurs in the morning we will have a soft first quarter." This time we had a new moon 18 minutes past one o'clock in the morning of the 16th, so this one at least is fully carrying out the old saying. —THOS. TELFORD.

An Ashburnham Bridal.

A very pleasant event took place at the residence of Mr. John Agnew, Munroe avenue, Ashburnham, Wednesday, Dec. 18th, when his eldest daughter, Margaret, was united in marriage to Mr. Thomas J. Calvert, of Smith. The bride was neatly attired in llama cloth, with veil and orange blossoms. The bridesmaid was Miss Ada Mitchell, while Rev. Calvert Carew, cousin of the groom, acted as best man. A number of beautiful and costly presents were received by the bride. Rev. W. C. Bear performed the ceremony.

The Pearl of Great Price

To woman is beauty. Beauty the key that unlocks every door, commands deference, inspires homage. But beauty of face cannot satisfy unless the additional grace, beauty of teeth, adds this charm. Fine teeth, sweet breath, rippling laughter—three graces that always go together. Ivorine imparts dazzling pearly like whiteness, removes discoloration and tartar from the teeth, and renders the breath as fragrant as flowers.

ST. ANDREW'S SUNDAY SCHOOL.

The Annual Entertainment and Tea was Held Last Evening.

Last night the annual entertainment of St. Andrew's Sunday School was held. From 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. tea was served to the children. It was a pleasant sight to see so many bright, happy faces at the various tables laden with the good things provided by the ladies. After tea the scholars enjoyed themselves for half an hour. Then all were called to order by the pastor who occupied the chair.

After devotional exercises, conducted by Mr. MacWilliams, the prizes were distributed. Prizes were offered at the beginning of the of the year for attendance and for the recitation of the Shorter Catichism. The attendance and the recitation have been exceptionally good, so that 41 prizes had to be given—ten earning diplomas for the perfect recitation of the Shorter Catechism.

The work done in this flourishing school during the year has been most satisfactory. The increase in attendance has also been very great, there now being over 400 scholars. After the prizes were distributed, Miss Maggie Fowler and Miss Gladman played an instrumental duet that was greatly appreciated. Mr. Walter Mulligan, brother of St. Andrew's choir leader, then sang a solo, "The Rolling Sea," in excellent voice, after which Mrs. MacWilliams sang "Jessie's Dream," which was greatly applauded. Mr. Roy then delighted the audience for an hour and a half with his exquisitely beautiful views. His scenes from the land of Shakespeare are new, were exhibited last night for the first time in Peterborough, and are fine. The meeting was brought to a close about 10 p.m., all highly delighted with the evening's entertainment.

ST. JOSEPH'S FAIR.

Continued Success of the Enterprise—The Drawing this Afternoon.

Last night the great success that has attended the daily and nightly sessions of St. Joseph's fancy fair was repeated. Though the crowds that overflowed the the hall the previous night was exceedingly large the attendance last night was nearly as great, and the energetic ladies concerned in the affair have reason to be well pleased. One feature of the Fair that has not been sufficiently emphasized is the splendid refreshments that have been served from time to time. The tables have been pronounced as perhaps the best that the ladies of the congregation of St. Peter's have ever presented to the public. And the credit of this condition is due to the taste and enterprise of the following committee of ladies:—Mesdames (Dr.) O'Sullivan, N. LePlante, T. Dolan, M. O'Brien, B. Morrow, Archambault, E. Phelan, Brady and T. Cavanagh, and Misses Maud Morrow, LePlante and Minnie O'Sullivan. During the evening a very pleasant programme was presented and enjoyed. The drawing in connection with the fancy fair took place this afternoon.

HE COULDN'T "SHAKE" ARCHIE.

Constable Moore Takes a Prisoner who Tries to Escape From Him.

Aaron Brooks was this morning remanded for sentence until Friday by the magistrate on a charge of stealing a silver watch and also one of vagrancy. Brooks it seems was working in his cousin's yard in Ashburnham, and in passing through the house picked up a silver watch and pocketed it. He was arrested by Constable Moore in a hotel, and Policeman Adams and Moore walked the prisoner between them towards the cells. Brooks thought he saw an opening to escape and made a dash for liberty, but Constable Moore was too quick for him and easily ran him down.

The missing watch was found on Brook's person and he confessed his guilt.

The Night after Christmas.

Max O'Rell, the great humourist, whom everybody who has laughed over his books has longed to see, will stop over in Peterborough the night after Christmas, Thursday evening, December 26th. The people of Peterborough will then be given the privilege of seeing and hearing this fascinating entertainer in a programme of his own coining. Max. O'Rell, who is one of the few eminent homourists who are a success on the platform, has been designated "the Wittiest of Frenchmen." His theme for the evening of the 26th will be, "Her Royal Highness, Woman." For two hours he will hold his audience spellbound, and the audience is most likely to be one of the largest that ever was packed into Bradburn's opera house. 2d

DR. BELL NOT A CANDIDATE.

He Cannot Meet the Wishes of the Requisition.

Notwithstanding the large and influential petition that has been presented to Dr. Bell, asking him to become a candidate for the mayoralty, he has, after giving the matter full consideration, declined, though so urgently pressed, to offer himself for election for mayor in opposition to Mr. Cahill. Dr. Bell would, no doubt, have made a strong candidate, but, by declining, a large number of the electors will feel that he has shown a commendable degree of fairness in recognising the claims of a councillor whose long service in the interests of the town have entitled him to the honour of representing Peterborough as Mayor before retiring from municipal life. Dr. Bell's action on this occasion has not weakened him in the public favour in relation to a future candidature for the office of mayor, should he decide to acquiesce in so strongly expressed a wish of the ratepayers as he has been favoured with this week.

MR. CAHILL IS A CANDIDATE.

He is in the Field for the Mayoralty.

Mr. T. Cahill informed a representative of the EXAMINER to-day that he has, in deference to the express desire of a large number of the most influential citizens of Peterborough, consented to be put in nomination for the office of Mayor of Peterborough for the year 1896. Mr. Cahill says that he has been a representative of the people in the council for the past twenty-two years without a break in the representation; that during these 22 years he has devoted his best energies to the promotion of the best interests of the town; that although pressed on previous occasions to consent to become a mayoralty candidate he had declined, and that now, after serving so many years, feeling inclined to retire from active participation in municipal matters, he felt it his duty to yield to the representation of his friends, who were kind enough to think that his services to the town were worthy of recognition implied in being made an occupant of the Mayor's chair.

MR. WM. YELLAND A CANDIDATE

Just as we go to press Mr. William Yelland informs the EXAMINER that he offers himself, by request of a large number of ratepayers, as a candidate for the Mayoralty. Mr. Yelland was for many years a member of the council and is familiar with the business of the town. He will make the Mayoralty fight interesting and the contest will be a warm one.

Mr. George Gumpricht, as a first class piano tuner, is highly recommended by Messrs. Heintzman & Co., and all leading piano dealers. Orders may be left at Mr. H. S. Macdonald's drug store.

Suitable.

Nothing more suitable for a Christmas present than a dinner or tea set or a lovely lamp. China Hall has the assortment and prices to suit the times. Buy early.

Being Carried too Far.

At one of the Hornerite meetings in Carleton Place on Sunday a young girl was prostrated owing, it is said, to religious excitement, and remained in that state of collapse for several hours in the church. She was taken home by her parents, when it was thought safe to remove her, but was back to the night meeting as brisk as ever. Numbers of persons who frequent these meetings stay in the church from one service to another without going home. At the after meetings excitement runs high, and female screams can frequently be heard amid the din of appeals to the Deity from the frantic worshippers on all sides. —Exchange.

Maltine With Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites for Throat and Lung Diseases.

Perfectly well established is the value of cod liver oil in all various diseases of the air passages, and combined with Maltine and hypophosphites, its remedial value is vastly enhanced. In the elegant and palatable preparation, Maltine with Cod Liver Oil, are combined the valuable tissue building oil, and that sustainer of vitality and digestive, maltine. No emulsion can compare in remedial value with this preparation, for in addition to disguising the unpleasant taste of the oil and rendering it more easily digested, the maltine plays a most important part in maintaining adequately the process of nutrition so essential in wasting and pulmonary diseases. This it does by rendering the starchy foods in a form which assures its assimilation, with the result that emaciation gives way speedily to plumpness, the irritated bronchial tubes are soothed, rest grows natural and health becomes an assured fact. Maltine with Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites is a food medicine and digestive.

PETERBOROUGH'S SWEET SINGERS.

The Personnel of the Various Town Choirs

AND THE MUSIC WHICH THEY CAN HANDLE.

Some Work of the Composers Which is Considered Very Difficult—Masterpieces Taken in Hand by Peterborough Choirs—Christmas Music.

Peterborough has every reason to be proud of her choirs, as few, if any, similar organizations in the Province, outside of the large cities, are capable of handling music of such a high grade. There is material in town for the formation of a choral society which in its excellence would be almost unrivalled, yet, strange to say, though recognized as possessing more than ordinary claim to be considered a musical centre, no such organization exists in Peterborough to-day.

At present the majority of the choirs are busily engaged in preparing special music for Christmas week.

ST. PETER'S CHOIR

on Christmas morning will render Farmer's Mass in its entirety and those having even a limited knowledge of music will at once recognize the fact that the production of so impressive a composition entails a great deal of work. Noel's beautiful "Christmas Hymn" will also be given, and before the service begins the "Adeste Fideles" will be given by the full choir. In the evening Mr. Thomas Dunn has consented to sing "The Palms," by Faure. St. Peter's choir is in a position to handle the very highest class of music and the numerous days of religious observance give the members the opportunity of preparing such music as Weber's Mass and similar compositions.

Miss Kate Hurley is the organist and choir director, and the choir is composed as follows: Sopranos, Miss L Hurley, soloist; Mrs. Geo. Ball and Misses K. Simons, M. Hurley, A. O Connell, M. Ball, M. Weir and M. C. Mahoney; Altos, Miss Lizzie Mahoney and Miss B. McAuliffe, soloists; Mrs. J. J. Lynch and Miss Molly Baker; tenors, Mr. A. McPherson, soloist; Mr. Talbot and Mr. Hanrahan; bassos, Mr. T. Mahoney, soloist; Mr. J. Weir and Mr. B. Begley.

ST. JOHNS

choir has also numerous opportunities of preparing high class music and have prepared some of a very special nature for Christmas. In the morning Hopkins' well known Te Deum will be given as well as G. S. Martin's Benedictus. A new departure will be made in the rendition of a number of Christmas carols including "From Far Away," "See Amid the Winter's Snow," and Steele's "Sing the Birth of Christ our King," as well as Best's Beautiful anthem "While Shepherds Watch their Flocks by Night." During communion Tour's complete service in F. will be sung. The choir is composed as follows: Sopranos, Miss Barlee, Miss Clara Clarke, Miss Dawson, Miss Brown, Miss Baker, Miss Graham and Mrs. Seymour: Altos, Mrs. Stapleton, trebles; Willie Bradburn, Harrold Byers, A. Donald, Warren Deane, Thos. Dawson, Bert Cranfield, John Fessenden Edward Kennedy, Richard Rye, Harry Rush, Sydney Rush, Gerald Rackham, C. Staunton, Clarence Stapleton, H. Sawers, Chas. Seymour, Archie Seymour and Alfred Graham. Terors—Alfred Kingscote and Wm. Hayden. Bassos—Messrs. J. McKenzie, Thos. Baker, A. B. Lambe, Lount, Howard Macgachan, Harold Cluxton, George Brown and Harry Varnes.

ST. LUKE'S CHURCH

has at present a strong choir which, for the past several weeks, has been preparing the following special music for Christmas:—Morning Service.—Opening hymn, "O Come all ye Faithful;" Venite. Dr. Nares in A; Te Deum, Dr. Dykes in F; Benedictus, Turle in F; Anthem, "Arise, Shine, for the Light is Come"—Lloyd; Communion Hymn, "Alleulia, Sing to Jesus;" Kyrie, Novello in E; Sanctus, Dr. Camedge in E flat; Gloria in Excelcis, Blackburn in F. Evening Service, Sunday, Dec. 29th.—Opening hymn, "O Come all ye Faithful;" Gloria to Psalms, Robinson in E flat; Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis, Davies in C; Anthem, "O Zion that Bringeth Good Tidings," Sir John Stainer; Hymn, "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing;" Hymn, "Light's Abode, Celestial Salem." The choir is under the painstaking instruction of Mr. Alfred Davies, and is composed as follows: Sopranos—Miss Long, soloist; Miss Packenham, Miss Cora Packenham, Miss Bysh, Miss K. Calcutt, Mrs. Eden, Mrs. Grasett, Miss Armstrong, Miss M. Armstrong, Mrs. J. J. Turner, Mrs. Weir, Miss Kathleen Wilson, Miss Alice Tivey, Miss Louie Scott, Miss Rumming and Miss Alice Turner. Altos—Miss Phillips, Miss L. Butcher, soloists, Miss L. Wilson and Miss Symonds. Tenors—Mr. J. J. Turner, jr., Mr. A. Wilson, Mr. Gerrans and Mr. C. Bell. Bassos—Mr. R. B. Rogers, Mr. A. Geeklus, Mr. Monorieff, Mr. Grasett and Mr. W. Edwards.

ST. PAUL'S.

St. Paul's choir is fully capable of acquitting itself with credit in the production of music of any class whatsoever, but as the church's policy is somewhat conservative on this point the vocalists do not often have the opportunity which many of the other church's have in this line. The Christmas music, however, which is being prepared is all of a most classical standard. Mrs Sanderson and Miss Montgomery will take the soprano and contralto solos respectively in Shelly's "Hark! Hark! My Soul." A full chorus will render "Hark! What mean those Holy Voices?" by Stainer, and Simper's beautiful anthem, "For Us to Us a Child is Born," will also be sung as well as Dudley Buck's "There were Shepherds," and Woodward's "Radiant Morn."

As an instance of the class of composition which this choir can prepare under the instruction of Mr. J. Crane, it might be mentioned that at the last anniversary services in the programme presented were such masterpieces as "How Long Wilt Thou Forget Me"—Schnecker; "There were Shepherds"—Dudley Buck; "Christian, the Morn Breaks Swiftly On'r Thee"—Shelly, and that marvelous work "Creation." In the spring Stainer's great effort "The Crucifixion" will be handled. Recognizing the merits of their choir and its needs the church has agreed to allow the loft to be enlarged. Out of a membership of twenty-five the attendance during the year, including the summer, has averaged twenty. The choir is at present composed of the following members:

Sopranos—Mrs. Sanderson, Mrs. Mein, Mrs. Cameron, Mrs. Johnston, Miss Mary Patterson, soloists; Miss Edith Hall, Miss Ferguson, Miss Ethel Brown, Miss Hattie Courtney, Miss Gillespie, Miss Nethercutt and Miss Simpson. Altos—Miss Montgomery, soloist; Miss Wrighton, Miss Dawson, Miss Lee and Miss Carey. Tenors—Messrs. H. F. McKeown, E. Dawson, R. Mein, D. Shaw and T. Laing. Bassos—Messrs. J. Jones, D. H. Moore, H. O. Fisk, J. Dawson and A. McCallum.

ST. ANDREW'S CHOIR

is one which produces excellent music under the instruction of Mr. G. W. Mulligan. This has been the most successful year which this choir has ever enjoyed, being entirely free from the petty jealousies which so often harass volunteer choirs. Such music is sung as Send out Thy Light—Gounod; The Radiant Morn—Shelly; How Long Wilt Thou Forget Me?—Carl Pefiueger; The King of Love my Shepherd is—Shelly and Hark; Hark! My Soul—Shelly. The choir has a membership of 25, with an average attendance of 20, due of course to proper government. Miss Mary Grant is the efficient organist, and the choir is composed as follows: Sopranos — Mrs. Jones, Miss Green, Miss L. Garrow, Miss Carruthers, Miss A. Fowler, Miss Maude McFarlane, Miss L. McClelland, Miss Huebeck, Miss Mann and Miss Thexton. Altos—Mrs. Mulligan, Mrs. Macfarlane, and Misses V. Goodman, May Macfarlane and Maggie Fowler. Tenors—Messrs. H. Jones, H. King and G. W. Mulligan. Bassos—Messrs. J. Turner, T. Petrie, J. W. Mulligan, J. Pease, T. Waldon. The soloists are Miss Huebeck, Mrs. Jones, Miss M. Fowler, Mr. H. Jones, Mr. H. King and Mr. G. W. Mulligan.

THE GEORGE STREET CHOIR,

under Mr. George Snider, is preparing an excellent programme of Christmas music, which will run over both Sundays. The anthems will be as follows:—"We Have Seen His Star"—Caleb Simper, "Behold I Bring You Glad Tidings"—Simper, "Ye Nations All Be Joyful"—A. Beirly, and "Hark the Glad Sound"—H. P. Danks. Solos have been prepared as follows:—F. E. Weatherly's "Holy Shrine," Mrs. Seward; F. Tyne's "Good Tidings," Mr. J. Brown; G. W. Marston's "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear," Miss Clara Belleghem. Mrs. Seward and Mrs. Kernegan will also sing Brindley Richards' "Christmas Chimes" as a duet. J. M. Dungan's "Peace on Earth" will be given as follows: 1st part, Ladies' Trio, Misses Vina, Clara and Annie Belleghem. II Part—Male quartette—Messrs. James Brown, Wilbur Daly, Albert Turner and Fred Skitch. III Part—Duet—Mr. Daly and Miss Clara Belleghem. A ladies trio, composed of Misses L. Lumsden, B. Butcher and Mrs. Seward, will also take a pretty old English carol. The foregoing list is a sufficient proof of the choir's capabilities and of the class of music which is being handled. Those occupying seats in the choir are:—Sopranos—Mrs. L. Seward, Miss Lumsden, Miss B. Butcher, Miss V. Belleghem, Miss C. Belleghem, soloists, and Misses G. Lumsden, M. Macguire, M. Metherall, Mark, Kindred, Rutherford, Kindred and Mark. Altos—Mrs. Kernegham, Mrs. Macguire, Miss A. Belleghem, soloists; Misses O. Macguire, I. Melrose, L. Ritchie, A. Pascoe and L. Pascoe. Tenors—Messrs. W. H. Manning, Wilbur Daly, James Brown, soloists; S. Johnston and K. Chowen. Bassos—Messrs. Jas. Edgecombe, Albert Turner, R. Chowen, F. Skitch, R. Shelton, D. Allison, Yennie and Moore.

THE CHARLOTTE STREET

choir at one time had the name of being the best in town and by present indications a strong effort is evidently being made to maintain that reputation. Some especially beautiful music is being prepared now for Christmas, amongst it being Belby's "Hail, King Eternal." During the year Vogt's difficult "Christ Our Passover," was handled by the choir in a manner demonstrating their entire capability of mastering music of this class. Vogt's "How Long Wilt Thou Forget Me" has been also rendered. Mr. John Miller has recently been engaged and by devoting a great deal of his time to the choir is bringing it to a high state of perfection. Mrs. Charles McClelland ably assists him at the organ. The choir is composed as follows: Sopranos, Miss Hendren, Miss Florence Hall, Miss E. Stephens, soloists; Mrs. Hall, and Miss Robinson; Altos, Miss M. Stevens, Miss Sherlock, soloists; Miss Deland; tenors, Messrs. John Miller, J. E. Steers, A. L. Davis and W. J. Squires, soloists; bassos, Alf. Miller, soloist, D. Gordon, Ed. Squires and E. Parsons.

THE MURRAY STREET BAPTIST

choir is one which is partially composed of child voices, and therefore the peculiar sweetness which characterizes boy choirs is gained. Mrs. Brodigan presides at the organ and leads the choir as well, and devotes a great deal of her time and attention to the members. The special music which has been prepared for Christmas is as follows:

Morning Service — Anthem, "Hark! What Mean Those Holy Voices?" Dr. Scott taking the solo part. Solo, "Hosanna in Excelsis," St. Quintin, Mr. Charles McKee.

Evening Service—Solo, "Calvary," Mr. Charlie McKee. Anthem, "Abide with Me."

The composition of the choir is as follows: Sopranos—Mrs. Hunter, Mrs. (Dr.) Scott, soloists, Miss Aldridge, Miss Taylor, Miss Perrin, Misses Smith, Mabel Routley and Nellie Stanley. Altos—Miss Hutchinson, soloist Miss Grace Stanley, Miss Bradshaw, Alf Kemp and Harry McKee. Tenors—Mr. M. Kemp, Dr. Scott and Mr. Beale, soloists. Bassos—Mr. G. Matthews, Mr. C. B. Routley, Mr. Stanley, soloists; and Mr. Griffin.

THE PARK STREET BAPTIST church choir is the youngest in town, but it is aspiring, and has in connection with it a full orchestra. During the year the choir has been steadily progressing in strenth, both vocally and numerically, and bids fair to be one of the brightest little choirs in Peterborough. Miss Bertha Hunt presides at the organ, and the choir is composed as follows: Sopranos — Miss Mary Smart, soloist; Misses Muriel and Mattie Mann, Ina Morey, Sarah Pilling and Mrs. Wright. Altos—Mrs. James Doten, soloist, and Miss Harmer. Tenors—Messrs. W. J. Pady, soloist, and Alf Plummer. Bassos—Messrs. Brownlee and Jas. Doten. Orchestra — Mr. Herbert Allen, Mr. Frank Harmer, Mr. Gibson, Mr. Smith, Mr. Wright, Mr. John Irvine and Mr Watt.

Centuries ago, people used to fear what they called the pestilence. "Black Death" was the most terrible thing in the world to them. They feared it as people now fear the Cholera and Yellow Fever. And yet there is a more terrible thing than any of these. There is a thing that causes more misery and more deaths than any of these. It is the commonest trouble that human beings suffer from. It is so common that nine-tenths of all the sickness in the world is traceable to it. It is merely that simple, common thing—constipation. There is no telling what it may lead to, but it is sure to lead to something bad. Its immediate effects are unpleasant in the extreme. It makes people listless, gives them headaches, makes the digestion poor, causes dizziness, loss of appetite, loss of sleep, foul breath and distress after eating. All this merely because Nature has been imposed upon, and has been refused the little help she needed.

This little help is furnished by Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. One pill is a gentle laxative and two a mild cathartic. There are two remarkable things about the "Pellets." One is that they never gripe; the other that they cure permanently. There is no other medicine that does cure permanently. You can take any other medicine you like, as long as you like, and if you stop, your trouble will come back quickly, and the chances are the trouble will be worse than it was before. This isn't true of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. You take them until you get yourself into perfect working order, and then you stop. You don't have to take any more "Pellets" unless after a while you do something that deranges your digestive system again. We are not guessing about these facts, and we don't ask you to take our unsupported word for it. Thousands of people have found that they are true, and have testified to them. Let the druggist who says that something else is "just as good" sell that something else to somebody else. Don't let him trifle with your health for the sake of a little more profit to himself.

The Cantrollers and Their Cabinet Seats.

THE PREMIER'S PECULIAR POSITION

Opposition to Col Prior in Victoria—Report of the Yields of Grain From the Experimental Farm at Indian Head—Another Lobster Lease Wanted

Ottawa, Dec. 19.—Sir Mackenzie Bowell authorized or permitted the Ministerial press to announce that the Controllers would be taken into the Cabinet. Then a statement emanating from the correspondents, who draw their inspirations from the Premier, was published saying that the Controllers would only be sworn of the Privy Council but would not be taken into the Cabinet. Finally the Premier directs his press to announce this morning that the Controllers would be taken into the Cabinet. If so, the Premier must divide the Cabinet into two classes, first and second, for it is plain that Controllers cannot become Cabinet Ministers as that term is understood, namely, on an equality with their fellows. In stating on second thought that it is the intention to take the Controllers into the Cabinet Sir Mackenzie Bowell is evidently making a campaign statement, Mr. Prior being strongly opposed in Victoria, where the election is fixed for Jan. 6.

The grant last year by the Fisheries Department to Capt. "Gat" Howard of a lease of 70 miles of the Labrador coast for lobster canning purposes, has evidently attracted the attention of others. Howard's plan of operations is to work a ten-mile stretch each year, so that at the end of the seventh year the first section will have recuperated. To-day the department received application from a canner at Liverpool, N.S., for lease of a ten-mile strip east of Kegashka, Labrador.

Prof. William Saunders has returned from his visit to western Ontario. He was present at the meeting of the Ontario Fruit Growers' Association at Woodstock, and also at the meeting of the Ontario Experimental Union at Guelph. At both of these meetings addresses were delivered by him in reference to the work of the Dominion Experimental Farms. Subsequently he visited the extensive flax and oil mills of Messrs. J. & J. Livingston at Baden, where much information was gained in reference to this important and growing industry.

Full returns have been received by the director of the Experimental Farms from the branch farm at Indian Head. The yields are found to exceed any previous records. In oats, the Banner again heads the list. A field of this variety, measuring 18 acres, averaging 108 bushels 14 pounds per acre. The largest yields of wheat have been had from some of the new cross bred varieties, produced at the Central Farm. One of these, a beardless sort named Beauty, a cross between red fife and an Indian variety known as Club Bombay, heads the list with a yield of 52 bushels per acre. The next in order is Huron, a cross between Ladoga and White Fife, with 51 bushels 20 pounds per acre. The best yield given by the red fife was 45 bush. 4 lbs. per acre. The six-rowed barley the Odessa has given the heaviest yield, 64 bush., 18 lbs. per acre. Among the two-rowed sorts, the largest yield has been given by the Prize Prolific, 60 bush. 30 lbs. per acre. In the list of potatoes, the American Giant stands at the head with a yield of 352 bush. per acre. Among the many grasses which have been tested at this farm, the most promising sort is that known as the Awnless Brome grass, which has given excellent crops this season. A plot of one acre gave 3 tons 1200 lbs. of cured hay. Another field of 4 acres gave an average of 2 tons 1200 lbs. per acre. This valuable grass, which was first tested in this country by the experimental farms, and which has been under trial ever since these farms were established, is likely to prove a great boon to farmers in the Canadian Northwest, as it stands dry weather well, and produces an early and abundant crop of fodder.

Mr. Seargeant, the retiring manager of the Grand Trunk, paid a farewell visit to the Ministers to-day.

The Graefield railway station on the Gatineau Valley road was destroyed by fire last night.

Capt. C. F. Winter, who has been private secretary to Hon. J. F. Wood during the past three years, will be private secretary to Col. Prior. Mr. J. H. K. Bristol, late private secretary to Mr. Wallace, assuming the duties of secretary to Mr. Wood. By this arrangement the two controllers will each have a private secretary thoroughly conversant with the affairs of their respective departments.

Minister King was to-day drawn to a resolution presented to Congress by Representative Davis of Minnesota, for information relating to the occupation or attempted occupation of United States territory in Alaska by the military authorities of Canada. Mr. King says the United States authorities have only to examine the records of surveys made by their own men to satisfy themselves that Canada has not encroached upon their territory.

Provincial Inspector White reported to the French Committee of the Separate School Board to-night that since the departure of the Christian Brothers and thereorganization of the teaching staff here there has been a marked improvement in the schools.

DROPPED DEAD.

Rev. James Whiting of Forest Suddenly Called Away—An Aged Preacher Dead at Brantford.

Forest, Ont., Dec. 19.—Rev. James Whiting, pastor of the Forest Methodist Church, dropped dead at his home her this morning. He was apparently in the best of health up to the time of death. Heart disease is supposed to have caused his death. Deceased has been for nearly thirty years in the ministry, and was pastor of the Methodist Church here twenty-five years ago. Since that time he has been stationed at many places in the London conference, and was well known all over Western Ontario. He was 65 years of age. Rev. R. Whiting of Kingston is a brother of deceased and Rev. Richard Whiting of Brigden is a son.

A Very Aged Preacher Dead.

Brantford, Dec. 19.—Rev. Mr. Alexander, one of the oldest Presbyterian ministers in Canada, passed away this morning at the advanced age of 89 years. Deceased was born in Aberdeen, Scotland, in August, 1805, and commenced to preach the Gospel Dec. 19, 1830, exactly 65 years ago. He officiated at Ramsay, Gananoque, Grafton, York Mills, Fisherville, Innerville and Percy, from which he was removed to Mount Pleasant in 1872, which place he occupied until 1884, when he resigned the ministry.

A TELEPHONE IN THE STOMACH

Peculiar Phenomena of Human Nature

In an age when that subtle force electricity is presenting wonders to the world almost daily, and the Wizzard of Menlo Park has become the hero of the hour, there seems to be nothing that we may not expect in this direction. But it was not left to an Edison to establish a telephone in the stomach of human beings. The Great Maker of man in the economy of human nature provided such an instrument centuries ago. It is a fact that within the stomach of of every man and woman there is a little instrument that telephones to the nerve centres in the brain as quickly as any food reaches that part. When for any reason this communication is stopped the food is undigested and physical trouble ensues. With word promptly sent from stomach to nerve centres, these supply the necessary juice that aids digestion, and nature successfully does her part, good health is enjoyed and man is able to perform with energy and pleasure his everyday duties. It will happen at times that these nerve centres will become deranged and lose their forces; then it is that a remedy must be supplied, just as the skill of the electrician is necessary when something goes wrong with the office telephone. South American Nervine is the electrician, so far as the human body is concerned. It is a medicine unique and exceptional in this particular that it works directly upon the nerve centres, and when these are out of order it quickly places them in proper repair and completeness. Nearly all diseases, especially indigestion, dyspepsia, nervousness, general debility, sick headache and disordered liver arise through trouble at the nerve centres. You can just as readily count on South American Nervine effecting a proper cure in all such cases as you can depend upon the electrician of the Bell Telephone Co., removing any derangements that has taken place in your telephone. Sold by H. S. McDonald.

A Good Background.

One great difference between men of equal capacity and opportunity is to be found in the background of their lives. One man goes to his work in the morning from a pleasant home, and from the delightful atmosphere of mutual consideration and love. Another's home surroundings and family relationships are not congenial or inspiring. Is it surprising that one man addresses himself to his tasks with a zest and nerve that make work easy, while the other finds that things drag on his hands, and that he is soon worn out? One of the secrets of many a man's success is the background of a happy home life. And many a good man has failed, not because he lacked in ability or energy, but because those who stood in the most intimate relations to him were too stupid or unoncongenial to make his home life winsome. Of course, men have triumphed over this obstacle just as they have over others, but the force they expend in overcoming such drawbacks is just so much subtracted from their efficiency in the work of life.

GIVEN UP TO DIE.

Shop Closed for Two Months—The Patient Takes Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Richmond, (Special) Dec. 9—A correspondent at Ottawa, of a Toronto paper investigating so-called cures by Dodd's Kidney Pills, found himself here among ardent friends of this great kidney treatment. Seeing Mr. McCarthy at work in his shop after being closed for two months in expectation of death from Bright's disease; that gentleman referred him to the man who advised him to use the Pills. This was Wm. McCord, a farmer who had been helpless and bed-ridden for twenty-seven months with what was said to be "Incurable Diabetes." On calling the correspondent found Mr. McCord ploughing in the field. A few boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills had worked the cure. It was a matter of no surprise as they always cure.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL

"Several years ago, I caught a severe cold, attended with a terrible cough that allowed me no rest, either day or night. The doctors, after working over me to the best of their ability, pronounced my case hopeless, and said they could do no more for me. A friend, learning of my trouble, sent me a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which I began to take, and very soon I was greatly relieved. By the time I had used the whole bottle, I was completely cured. I have never had much of a cough since that time, and I firmly believe that Ayer's Cherry Pectoral saved my life."—W. H. CHRISTMAS WHEN I WAS A BOY.

BY ROBERT J. BURDETTE.

Christmas was much farther apart when I was a boy. It came, by the almanac, once a year, which was right and regular. But such long years have never been, since long ago. Possibly one reason why the arrival of Christmas was long deferred each year was, that we lived in the West. It was the West then—that long-departed and of pioneer memories and forgotten adventures—and Christmas came, like the wise men, from distant lands. It came to us from the East. Had it started in the summer time it could have "staged it" over the Alleghenies; and then, if haply there had been some water in the Ohio River, as there sometimes is in the summer time, it would have taken boat for St. Louis, and there, finding an Illinois River packet with two decks and a texas, capacity for one hundred cabin passengers and all the freight that could be piled on without falling off, and drawing about four inches of water, it could have reached Peoria the same year.

But then it wouldn't have been Christmas. It came in the old-fashioned way, on runners, with jingling bells and clatter of reindeer hoofs, up hill and down dale, flying across wide stretches of drifted prairie, lying in the starlight like a frozen sea, skimming over frozen rivers and ice-bound lakes. It took a long time, for the distances were magnificent as the prairies. I could understand it all very clearly at that time.

It was so easy to understand a great many things when I was a boy that have been dark and perplexing problems and inscrutable mysteries since I became a man, and put away the pleasant theories of childish things. Concerning Christmas, have I not heard with my own ears, and those of brothers', the reindeer scampering over the roof above our heads? Did I not one night hear the cheery shout of encouragement from no human voice, and hear the crack of the whip that was plaited by fairy hands in "Christmas-tree Land," as the antlered team of six-in-hand leaped from cornice to the ground? I could have proved it, too, if it hadn't snowed that night and covered all the tracks of reindeer and sleigh. Did I not lie awake one night and hear subdued laughter in the room where hung all our stockings? Indeed I did. And so excited was I that, instead of creeping softly down the hall, I sprang from bed, and ran pad-padding to the door of the sitting-room, and as I pushed it open did I not hear the hurried rustling of robes and scampering of feet? By the Sacred Books of the Sybil and the Great Pocket Book of Rockefeller, I did! I rushed in and looked up the chimney, but he was gone. I peered into the room where slept my parents, but their painfully labored breathing told me, with impressive emphasis, how they slumbered. I had nearly caught Kris Kringle in the act.

I think once, indeed, I did see him. I can't remember when nor where. But I must have seen him, because my conception of him, indeed, my personal knowledge of his appearance, is a memory of my early childhood. It has never changed.

When I was a boy, I knew nothing of Santo Claus. His name was Kris Kringle. Occasionally in some of Kris Kringle's books there was mention of Santa Claus. But we looked upon him with great disfavor, and called him "Sandy Claws." He was generally believed to have come from Boston, whereas Kris Kringle came from heaven, which is, possibly, the reason why he has been superseded in popular favor in these latter days. I always accept the inevitable, and I have long since most loyally transferred my allegiance from Kris Kringle the Was to Santa Claus the Is, but still I feel there is loving power and reminiscent influence "in that strange spell," a, g, n, a, i, g, h, m, e—name.

One thing I do most distinctly remember, with all the tenacity and accuracy of an old settler's reminiscences. Kris Kringle seldom failed to bring a sleveful of snow with him. During his reign the dreaded "green Christmas," marshaling the inevitable "fat graveyard," was the exception. I could prove this, but I don't have to. When I know a thing, that should be satisfactory. And it is often much easier to know a thing than it is to prove it. This happens to be one of the things. But it did snow, in those older days. Sometimes it snowed right on Christmas Day, just as it does in the books which are distributed at Christmas time in Florida and Southern California. The first winter we lived in Illinois we had a Christmas according to the books. My brother and I had new sleds. Not store sleds, gaudily decorated with stencilled trotting horses and a name that no self-respecting boy would give to a stone-drag, let alone a sled, but real hand sleds, made by a regularly ordained carpenter. They were not so good as they would have been had we made them ourselves, of course, but they were far and away better than store sleds. They were ready for the snow about the last week in November. And early in December the snow came down. And stayed down. And kept on coming down. It drifted up to the windows and over the fences. The country roads were turned into embankments. When the first flakes came fluttering down, a double case of whooping-cough trundled itself into our house and took two boys by their respective necks and kept them on the war-path until the springtime brought its healing sunshine and malarial mud. Then it resigned and gave place to "fever 'n' ager." But all that winter was made of gala days to boys who could get out. Every hill was a toboggan chute, and every bob-sled or sleigh that drove past our windows dragged after it a long trail of juvenile humanity that had "hooked on." Think of two boys entertaining the whooping-cough and gazing through the windows at that panorama of boyish joy week after week, and then talk about the martyrs! And the worst of it was, there was no need for our remaining in quarantine. But we hadn't lived out West long enough to know that. The next winter my youngest brother had it. He went to school with it, coasted with it, and one night, while skating, broke through the ice with it. It did him good. He was all through with it by the end of January. We were a tough people out West in those days, and a boy who couldn't help build a snow fort or go a-skating when he had the croup, was considered effeminate.

"EVERY HILL WAS A TOBOGGAN CHUTE."

Hanging up our stockings when I was a boy was not the hollow farce which it now is. There were fireplaces by which stockings could be hung up. To hang a collection of stockings of assorted sizes around a black and cheerless register, smelling of sulphur from a defective heater, is a profanation. And hanging them in front of a cold and clammy steam radiator should be prohibited by law. It tends to make children skeptical and atheistic. In the older days Kris Kringle had a broad chimney to come down, and a fireplace as big as a store box to jump out of. There was a mantelpiece like unto a sideboard, from which the stockings depended. Sometimes, if a long stocking were hung in the middle, insecurely held by a pin, the draft would draw it partly into the fireplace during the night. Then the whole family would be aroused, and we would go shuffling about the house, like so many shivering phantoms, hunting for the fire.

The old-fashioned fireplace had more drawbacks than the back-log. As a rule, the bigger the fireplace the colder the room. All the heat that could be drawn from every room in the house went up the big sitting-room chimney. Eternal summer must have lingered somewhere up in that great stack. Those old fireplaces were splendid things in which to roast apples. And the soles of your bare feet. You could hold your feet out before the glowing fire until they curled up and warped and crinkled with intense heat. And by the time you get them to bed they were cold as blocks of marble. Your feet, that is. Not the apples. You didn't take them to bed. You took long strides and walked on your heels to keep them warm That is, your feet. They filled the room with a grateful flavor when they began to sizzle. The apples did.

The old-fashioned fireplace was no less romantic and interesting in the summer time, when it was enclosed with a light paper screen. When a child, romping about the room, fell up against that pictured screen, and went plunging and screaming right through the Lake of Como, those placid waters never regained their prestine placidity. Even when the artist of the family restored the picture, by pasting its shattered edges together, and coloring them with laundry bluing, the scene of the tragedy was emphasized in a manner too ghastly to contemplate. The tragedy always followed the act of breaking through the lake. The drowning, indeed, was looked upon as a sort of comedy, and was highly enjoyed by the bystanders, until the Life Guard, armed only with her slipper, rescued the survivor of the wreck. Then any person under the age of fifteen, who had any tears on hand that were about ripe enough to shed, could find a ready market for the entire crop as fast as the shedder could turn them out.

Most of the Christmas presents in those days were designed by the manufacturers for the hanging stocking. Anything too big to go into a stocking had to go over to somebody's birthday. In any family where there was more than one child, the old reliable "Noah's Ark" was always looked for. We hailed, with acclamations of astonished recognition, Noah and Mrs. Noah, Messieurs and Mesdames Shem, Ham and Japhet. There was no way of telling the men and women apart; they were exactly alike; but the elephant and giraffe you could distinguish at a glance, on account of the spots on the giraffe. So also the dog and the cow; because the cow was always white and blue, while the dog was invariably plain blue. Within twenty-four hours after the landing on Ararat, the baby would have all the paint sucked off Shem, Ham and the hired man, and the doctor would be sent for. He told us, once a year, returning with the breathless messenger, to keep the candy out of the baby's reach, and let it wean itself on the rest of the antediluvians if it found them to its liking.

The red monkey climbing a red stick was another regular Christmas visitor. He was highly esteemed as a light luncheon by the baby. It never seemed to affect the infant unpleasantly, to himself that is: although the cloudy symphony in red and blue about his innocent mouth was apt to make the beholder shiver. But it made the monkey look sick. Then there was a soldier on a box, with a major-general's uniform, beating a drum. You turned a crank, the general lifted his sticks high in the air, and something in the box made a noise as much like a drum as a peal of thunder is like a piccolo. These things as toys were of no great value, but as practical and useful object lessons they were beyond all price, on the minus side.

It seems to me—and it isn't my fault that the sunset is fairer and lovelier than the sunrise—that there was something more Christmasy about Christmas when I was a boy. Its pleasures were simpler, its gifts were cheaper and heartier. At least, I cannot remember to have read, save in these later years, articles in family journals and magazines bewailing the burden of toil and worry and expense in the planning and making, or purchasing of Christmas presents. "Krismus gifts" we called them when I was a boy. It didn't and doesn't have much refinement of culture in the spelling and the sound thereof. But the people who made them didn't rush into the papers to tell how much it cost them, and how tired to death it made them, and how glad they were that it was all over for another year. But last year and the year before I read such articles in print. So did you. Wherefore it seems to me that we killed Kris Kringle a full century too soon. We have more currants in our Christmas cake under the reign of Santa Claus, it is true. But we have also mere flies in it.

Could not get Insured.

Rejected by Straight Line and Mutual Companies.

But now Insured in both.

"Should I die while I am in a position to pay my insurance premiums, my family will owe their support to Scott's Sarsaparilla. Two years ago I applied to two companies for insurance, $1000 in each. My face was a mass of pimply blotches and my urine did not stand the test. One doctor in examining me said I could not pass, but that my trouble was curable. He advised an alterative medicine, and I commenced taking Scott's Sarsaparilla. Both companies rejected me, but four months later, after I had taken five bottles of your remedy I am thankful to say both accepted me as a risk—one being a stock company, the other a mutual. The examiner who previously examined me, remarked "I never saw such a change in any man." This is indorsed by Mr. J. Todd, the popular druggist, corner Queen and Crawford Streets, Toronto.

Scott's Sarsaparilla builds up debilitated constitutions, imparts strength, vigor and vitality, clears and purifies the blood. It cures skin diseases, rheumatism, gout, indigestion and all complaints arising from poor or poisoned blood. Of all druggists, $1 per bottle.

FORTNIGHTLY CLUB COLUMN.

No. XLIII.

A Christmas Letter From the Fortnightly Club to the Citizens of Peterborough.

The time draws near the birth of Christ:
The moon is hid; the night is still;
The Christmas bells from hill to hill
Answer each other in the mist.

Four voices of four hamlets round,
From far and near, on mead and moor
Swell out and fall as if a door
Were shut between me and the sound:

Each voice four changes on the wind
That now dilate, and now decrease,
Peace and goodwill, goodwill and peace,
Peace and goodwill to all mankind.

—IN MEMORIAM,
STANZA XXVIII.

There is at this season of the year but one subject suitable to the Fortnightly Club column. All our thoughts are directed to Christmas, for the influence of the season extends itself to every department of life. Turkeys, mince pies and plum-puddings absorb no small share of the attention of the good housewife, and if literary persons regard contemptuously such prosaic occupations as marketing, and stoning plums, and chopping up lemon peel, we have observed that they are by no means indifferent to the results, and brandish as good a knife and fork as any of us. We do not pretend that the frequent spectacle of the marketer bearing along George street the horribly naked looking turkey or goose, appeals strongly to our æsthetic sensibilities, but we look none less with a kindly eye upon these presiding geniuses of our tables, and being really endowed with the artist's gift of imagination can summon to our mind's eye the vision of the same naked fowl, clothed in the loveliest brown dress, bursting with the tasty stuffing, and surrounded with the humble but fragrant sausage.

Then there are presents. If Santa Claus in the flesh is but a myth, he is in the spirit a reality. The spirit of St. Nicholas descends upon us all. Every stocking must be filled. Children, friends, relations, all have to be considered. "Ah," cries some cynic, "Christmas is a capital time for shopkeepers, but we poor wretches who have to foot the bills, have long since seen through Christmas." "A word in your ear, my friend. Do you ever get a present? Don't you enjoy cutting the string of that brown parcel, or if you are what I am not, a patient person, eking out the joyful suspense by carefully untying the knot, and then unfolding the wraps come as last upon "just the very thing I've been wanting?" Or have you never heard the little children tumbling out of bed in the dark hours of early morning, and with shrieks of laughter, turning out the contents of the fairy stocking? Surely you would not have any children forego these innocent pleasures, which abide with them through life as happiest of memories. Suppose you do have to smoke one or two cigars a week the less during the next year, or drink one or two glasses—well, no, of course you don't do that,—your pocket will be something the better for it and your health none the worse." But we must not be too hard on the cynic. There is a danger of overdoing the Christmas present. The element of rivalry, not all all bad, has entered into this business of presents. We do not like to send to our friend this year a meaner present than he sent us last year. The feeling is good, but still we ought not to overload ourselves with debt to satisfy it. Perhaps it would be as well for all to aim at simplicity in this matter. It is, after all, the kindly remembrance that gives its true value to the Christmas present.

Mounting a step higher, what social reunions, what universal bonhomie prevails at this season. Herein lies our greatest joy. To see all around us happy, to be conscious that we entertain goodwill towards all men, this is the richest blessing of Christmastide. Let us, fellow citizens, contemplate this fact, and ask ourselves whether of these feelings be good for Christmas, it might not be worth while striving a little harder to make them last throughout the year. What a blessed thing it would be could we lay in on Christmas day such a stock of the spirit of good will as would suffice for the whole year.

And this brings us to the highest point of all. From whence comes this spirit? Where lies the power which, concealed like the steam of the engine, is yet at the back of, and directs all our Christmas energies? It all comes from the cradle of a little Babe. His birth was ushered in with signs and wonders, but we in the 19th century, behold in the perennial power of that Cradle, which was but a manger, the greatest possible sign of the presence, the power and the love of God.

In some great musical pieces there is a frequently recurring strain of melody, which is expressive of the motive of the whole piece. So was it when Christ was born. The motive of His whole life was expressed in the angel's song.

"Glory to God in the highest,
And on earth peace, good will towards men."

Let us notice the double object—glory to God, first; and then peace on earth. We shall not in any enduring form have the second unless we render the first. We must first "lift up our hearts" to the source whence flows the spirit of peace, and then we shall have peace indeed.

Fellow-citizens, will you not all attend your church on Christmas day? How sad to spend the holiday which has been given to us through the condescension of the Christ-child, without giving one thought to Him. Let us, old and young, strong, self-reliant men and gentle women, in spirit and in truth, "Go even unto Bethlehem, and see what great thing the Lord had done for us."

We invite you to your own churches, yet we cannot forget that we address you as CITIZENS. We would that as citizens we had some opportunity of meeting together. All churches, all societies, have their meetings to give expression to their unity and to foster their common aims. Is it not a source of weakness and division in our municipalities that we have as citizens no means of giving expression to the unity which should bind us together, and to exchange those sentiments and opinions, which enable us to understand each other, and understanding, to entertain a more perfect sympathy with each other in our mutual aims, needs, aspirations and efforts as citizens?

We must not dwell on this now, but will conclude by asking our readers to remember that Christmas has a message to the Town no less than to the Family and the Church, and as citizens to fellow-citizens we wish you "A Very Happy Christmas."

TOO WEAK TO WALK.

FRIENDS HAD GIVEN UP HOPE OF RECOVERY.

The Trouble Began With a Cough Which Settled on the Lungs—Subject to Fainting Spells, and at Last Forced to Take to Bed—Restored By Dr. Williams' Pink Pills When All Other Medicines Had Failed.

From L'Impartial, Tignish, P. E. I.

Mr. Dominick P. Chiasson, who lives on the Harper Road, about two miles from the town of Tignish, P. E. I., personally took the trouble to bring before the notice of the editor of the L'Impartial, the particulars of the cure of his daughter-in-law, Mrs. A. D. Chiasson, through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The case is certainly remarkable, and we cannot do better than give it in Mr. Chiasson's own words. "My son's wife," said he, "has been sick for some seven years' past, but previous to that time was a strong healthy person. Just about seven years ago she took a severe cold, which attacked her lungs, and from that time up to the beginning of the past summer her health has been feeble, and at times we despaired of saving her life. It was not her disposition to give up easily, and on some occasions while engaged in household work she would be seized with a fainting spell, which would leave her so weak that she would be confined to her bed for several days in a semi-unconscious state. More than once we thought she was dying. There was a continual feeling of numbness in her limbs, and almost constant severe pains in her chest which were only eased by a stooping position. Added to this she was troubled with a hacking cough, sometimes so severe at night that she did not obtain more than a few hours sleep. About the end of 1894 we had given up all hopes of her recovery, and the neighbours were of the same opinion. She was reduced to almost a skeleton, and could scarcely take any nourishment. She had grown so weak that she could not walk across the bedroom floor without help. We had often heard and read of the great cures effected by Dr. Williams Pink Pills, and at this stage, when all else had failed, I urged that they be given a trial, and procured a half dozen boxes. After using them for about three weeks she could walk across her bedroom floor without aid, and from that time on she continued improving in health from day to day. She continued taking the Pink Pills for about four months, with the result that she is now a healthy woman, and it is now no trouble for her to walk to church, a distance of two miles, and the grateful praises of herself and friends will always be given Dr. William's Pink Pills.

The experience of years has proved that there is absolutely no disease due to a vitiated condition of the blood or shattered nerves, that Dr. William's Pink Pills will not promptly cure, and those who are suffering from such troubles would avoid much misery and save money by promptly resorting to this treatment. Get the genuine Pink Pills every time and do not be persuaded to take an imitation or some other remedy which a dealer, for the sake of the extra profit to himself, may say is "just as good." Dr. William's Pink Pills cure when other medicines fail.

Gough Bros., the Wonderful Cheap Men.

What are you going to give your husband for a Christmas present? What are you going to give your boy for a Christmas present? For your husband what would be nicer than a nice overcoat, ulster, dress suit or fancy vest? For your boy what would be nicer than a suit of clothes or a new pair of boots, an overcoat or collars, cuffs, ties, etc.? At Gough Bros'. large establishment these useful presents can be purchased. These goods are of the best quality and manufacture and are sold at a price which would astonish you. Gough Bros. carry a large stock of boots, shoes, slippers, rubbers, overshoes, felt goods, hats, caps, gloves and mitts, and from their large assortment a suitable gift can be chosen. Presents should be of a practical nature and at this store such goods can be had. For instance, a nice pair of kid gloves are always acceptable. A dozen silk or linen handkerchiefs or a box of collars, of which a large assortment is kept, would make a nice and useful Christmas present. Twenty years' experience in the the gents' furnishing trade has taught Gough Bros. the value of a good display and their two handsome stores are filled to overflowing with fine goods in their line. Parents wishing presents for their sons, young ladies who desire to please—well, say their brothers, can do no better than visit this store; they are sure to find what they want. A special line of neckwear, gloves, silk handkerchiefs and neck scarfs has been placed in stock for the holiday trade.

RIGHT IN OUR MIDST.

Mr. Shipman of the Seldon House All Right Again.

An Interesting Story—Seven Years Acute Suffering—His Disease was Diabetes—Cured by a Few Boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Had this remarkable cure occurred a thousand miles away, few here would have believed it.

But when a jolly fellow like Mr. Shipman, that anyone can talk to about his case, gets cured, and says so, who can doubt it?

Or who that is ailing and wants to learn how to recover wants to?

Mr. Shipman has told his story in the hope that it may benefit others, and we publish what he says:

"Yes, I am willing to talk of my very fortunate escape from a deadly form of kidney disease by using Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"As the result of a tumble which severely injured my back, I have been more or less troubled with weak kidneys ever since I was a boy.

"Especially for the past seven years I have been a great sufferer. In spite of doctoring and medicines, I have been growing worse and worse until about a year ago I was advised by a friendly druggist to use Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"Before commencing I had my urine tested, which disclosed the presence of diabetes, and I fully realized the danger I had to face.

"In all I have used about one dozen boxes, and from time to time while taking the pills I had further tests of my urine made, until one day about two months ago I was assured that I was perfectly cured.

"I had found it difficult at all times, and when tired, utterly impossible to stand erect. There was a dull ache across the loins, and occasional sharp pains that would awaken me from sleep.

"I was also much broken of my rest by frequent necessity to get up.

"I am now perfectly healthy and strong. I eat, sleep and rest like a boy. Have taken no other medicine or treatment than Dodd's Kidney Pills, and I say it truly and thankfully, my recovery is entirely due to their use."—Owen Sound Times.

DOURO.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

On Sunday, Dec. 22nd, inst., the Rev. Wm. Fogarty will be ordained a priest in St. John the Baptist's church, Amherstburg, Ont. The officiating Prelate will be the Most Reverend Dr. O'Connor, Bishop of London, Ont. For some years Mr. Fogarty has been in the habit of passing a portion of his summer vacation in Douro, the guest of a College comrade, now Father O'Leary, of North Bay, Ont. During his visits to Douro the reverend gentleman made for himself hosts of friends by his kind, unassuming manner. His Douro friends will pray fervently on Sunday next that God may grant him a long and happy life as a priest of God's church.

The dyspeptic carries a dreadful load on his back. It seems as if he were really made up of two men. One of them ambitious, brainy and energetic; the other sick, listless, peevish and without force. The weak man weighs the other one down. The dyspeptic may be able to do pretty good work one day, and the next day because of some little indiscretion in eating, he may be able to do nothing at all. Most cases of dyspepsia start with constipation. Constipation is the cause of nine-tenths of all human sickness. Some of its symptoms are sick and bilious headache, dizziness, sour stomach, loss of appetite, foul breath, windy belchings, heart burn, pain and distress after eating. All these are indicative of derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels, and all are caused by constipation. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the quickest, easiest and most certain cure for this condition. They are not violent in action.

Pupils who have not already received their reports for December, will get them when school re-opens on Monday, January 6th, 1896.

As the promotions were made on Friday afternoon, Dec. 20th, and as the pupils have received a list of all the books, etc., which they will require, everything is in readiness for a full day's work at the re-opening on January 6th.

It is earnestly hoped that every pupil will be present then, as absence at the beginning of a term seriously retards the work, not only of the absentees, but also of those who are present.

When at any time it is really necessary for a pupil to be absent, his parent or guardian will please send a note explaining his absence when he returns to school. In this way parents can do much to assist in promoting the welfare of the school.

Hood's Sarsaparilla, taken at this season will make you feel strong and vigorous and keep you from sickness later on.

Twenty years ago Messrs. MASON & RISCH began building Pianos. That they made good Pianos is proved by the magnificent success which their instruments have achieved. They were popular from the very first, and to-day are more in demand than ever before. Other makers claim that their pianos are "just as good as the Mason & Risch." Nobody ever says the Mason & Risch are "just as good" as some other.

CHRISTMAS DAY.

Oh, beautiful Christmas Day,
Begun with the golden morn,
You come, you come to a waiting world,
With the tidings that Christ is born.
You tell it to listening ears,
The story so grand, so true,
Oh, beautiful, beautiful Christmas Day!
The story so old, yet new.

You whisper of joy and hope;
You tell us of Heaven's great plan;
Of peace, sweet peace, and joy on earth,
And of God's good-will to man.
You say to the sad: "Look up!"
To the weary ones: "Now rest!"
Oh, beautiful, beautiful Christmas Day,
Of all bright days the best.

Ring out, ye Christmas bells,
And carry the tidings on,
That we may have a heaven below
Through God's anointed Son!
Let the men and maidens sing;
Let the children all rejoice;
While a ransomed world lifts up
Its universal voice.

Oh, beautiful Christmas Day,
Shining forth like a jeweled crown,
With cheer for each trusting soul,
From the aged patriarch down!
Let us wipe away our tears,
Of sin and sorrow born,
On this beautiful, beautiful Christmas Day,
Begun with the golden morn.

CORAL'S WEDDING-DAY

By Amy Randolph.

It was Coral Hyde's wedding anniversary—her first—and it was Christmas Day as well—a sort of dual festival.

The old housekeepers on the western shores of the Pacific laughed at the assiduity with which she sought wild red-berries and feathery fringes of silk-white clematis to deck her little one-storied cabin in the Redwood Forests.

"It's all nonsense," said one. "The berries lose their color right away, and the clematis seed-pods burst all apart, and make such a litter as never was! Mrs. Hyde'll get sick of all such sort of things before she's been married as long as we have!"

"Besides," added another, "this California country ain't like down East. Not but what it's a good place to settle in, and very sightly among these hills, but one somehow misses the frost and snow. Christmas don't fairly seem like Christmas here!"

"Christmas is Christmas everywhere," said Coral, with the pretty positiveness that belonged to her nature. "And it is my wedding day, too!"

So she gathered wild mosses and branches of black-green mistletoe and the scarlet mountain-berries that glowed as if they were touched with fire, and made her little house beautiful. And she hung up a snow-scene—evergreens all mantled with white and a cabin drifted up, all save the shine of one window across the steely river—on the wall, and worked a in shaded wools to put above the mantel.

"Alexis shall see that the dear old festival is not forgotten," said she. "But it seems so strange to stand here on Christmas Eve and see the roses all in bloom and the manzanita and madrona-trees all clothed in their superb, magnolia-like foliage, and the blue-birds darting in and out of the woods!"

Coral had come all the way from Maine to share the fortune of her sturdy young western lover. It would be scarcely true to say that she did not, at times, pine for her eastern home, and think longingly of the mullein-studded pastures and bilberry swamps along the Androscoggin River. But she had determined to make her home where her heart was, and in a great measure she had succeeded.

And so she decked the house for Christmas and took out all the little presents she had secretly contrived for Alexis, passing them in careful review to make sure that no stitch had been omitted, no finishing-touch left out. And then she looked at the turkey, all stuffed and skewered for the morrow's oven; the bowl of ruby-red cranberry-sauce; the dainty mince-pies, which she herself had chopped and seasoned according to her mother's recipe; the solid "New England" pudding baked in the tin-pan, with plums and citron of oleaginous suet and blanched almonds scattered along its crust.

"Everything is all right," she said to herself; and there she stood, in the glow of the Christmas Eve sunset, waiting for Alexis to come.

But Alexis did not come. He was a baggage-master on the train which ran daily between San Francisco and Santa Cruz. Of course, there were allowances to be made for all possible and impossible detentions; but even taking all these things into consideration, he surely should have been here, Coral thought, before the purple sunlight which was now shrouding the mountains had darkened into such an occidental glow.

"He has stopped in Santa Cruz," said Coral to herself, a sudden tide of jealousy surging up in her heart. "Clytie Vail is visiting her cousin there—Clytie, his old sweetheart, with her blue eyes and red-gold hair! Of all colors red is the most hideous for the human hair; and I don't see how any man alive can fancy one of those washed-out blondes! Oh, I see it all now! She has persuaded him, with her wiles and fascinations, to stop in Santa Cruz; and now he will not be back until after tea, and I am left here alone, just as I was last week! And upon the anniversary of our wedding-day too!"

It is strange upon how slender a foundation a woman can build herself up an edifice of misery. And Coral Hyde became miserable all at once—miserable and vindictive and inexorable. She had always entertained a secret aversion to Clytie Vail: now she was certain that this siren was trying to undermine her wifely happiness; and Alexis, blind, mad, infatuated as all men become in the toils of these sweet-voiced coquettes, was allowing himself to fall into her snares!

And the profound dark grew into a violet blackness, studded here and there with stars, and the madrona thickets waved softly in the air, and the scent from the sweet bay-trees floated up the valley, and the little clock on the mantel, all wreathed around with spiked holly-leaves, struck nine.

"I am to have no Christmas!" said Coral, with a choking sensation in her throat. "Very well. Since he has so chosen, so let it be. And he knew—he knew how much I had counted on this, the first anniversary of our wedded life. But if he thinks more of Clytie Vail than he does of me—"

And, with the quick, passionate impulse of a grieved child, she tore down the silvery fringes of clematis, the clusters of polished redberries, the wreaths of gray moss, and flung them in a heap upon the floor. And then she locked up the house, put the key in her pocket, and, with only a shawl flung over her head, she went up the lonely mountain road, past the great powder magazine, across the bay-tree woods, into Pipeclay Clearing, where lived Mrs. Atwell, her nearest neighbor.

Mrs. Atwell was one of those unmethodical, shiftless housekeepers who are always behind in their calculations. Late as it was, she had only just sent out her freckle-faced little boy to catch the chicken for the morrow's feast.

"I did reckon on havin' a turkey," said Mrs. Atwell, in her spiritless whine. "But our turkeys they're so dreadful wild. They roost up in the trees, and hunt the medders all day, and there ain't no catchin' 'em. So we'll have to put up with chickens. Atwell he was raised in Rhode Island, and he sets store by a reg'lar Christmas-Day dinner. But it's hard on me since my Chinaman went away, and I've had all the work to do."

"I'll help you, Mrs. Atwell," said Coral, rolling up her dress sleeves and looking around for a kitchen apron. "Are these raisins to be stoned?"

"Ain't Mr. Hyde come home?" said Mrs. Atwell, staring at her guest.

"No," said Coral, seating herself by the latticed window to tie the shoe-strings of a neglected little Atwell, who was running about with a very dirty face and a stocking ditto, looking for a nail to hang it on, lest Santa Claus should by any possibility ignore his wants. And I've come to spend Christmas with you, Mrs. Atwell."

"Well, I'm sure I'm glad of it," whined the untidy matron, shuffling across the floor to frighten the cat away from the cream-pot. "I s'pose it is pleasanter in Santa Cruz than out in this wilderness. I don't blame the men-folks for stopping there, although it is trying to wait until midnight for one's groceries and things; and Atwell is always half an hour behind every one else. I wish to goodness they'd shut up them tiresome liquor stores. Not that Atwell ever drinks too much, but it's so handy to set round and read the papers and talk politics. Abel, if you don't bring in that fowl it'll never get picked in this world, and you'll eat pork and fried apples for your Christmas dinner to-morrow!"

So Mrs. Atwell droned on, while Coral sat stoning raisins for the pudding, which was as yet in its chaotic elements on different cupboard shelves, and thinking, with a certain angry satisfaction, how bewildered and probably how vexed Alexis would be when he came home and found the door fastened, the house deserted, no light to greet him, no wifely smiles to welcome him.

"Very well," she kept repeating to herself. "Then he need not have stopped in Santa Cruz with Clytie Vail! Let him spend his Christmas where he pleases! I am no dupe! If he wishes to be free, I shall claim a like privilege."

The chicken was captured at last, and duly decapitated. The pudding had finally been compounded by Coral, and the old clock on the kitchen window-sill struck eleven.

"In another hour it will be Christmas Day," thought Coral, with a little sigh. "Oh, I never—never expected to feel so wicked and sinful on a Christmas Eve as I feel now! Oh, what evil shape am I growing into—what hideous spell is transforming all my life!"

"There comes Atwell now," whined his wife; "and the house is all topsy-turvy—and the children are not abed! What will he say?"

But Mr. Atwell probably was used to this disjointed state of things, for he only nodded good-naturedly to the two women as he came in, while the swarm of children, taking courage, began to question him whether he had met Santa Claus.

"S'pose you've heard of the accident, Mrs. Hyde?" he said to Coral, as soon as there was a little peace.

"Accident?" she gasped.

"We ain't heard nothing. We never do hear nothing!" said Mrs. Atwell, in her injured tone. "There's nobody to tell us."

"On the Broad Gauge Road," said Atwell, "just t'other side of Santa Cruz. Oh, don't look so scared," as Coral grew white and staggered up against the wall, "Mr. Hyde ain't hurt; but one of the rails got warped, somehow, and the train went off the track, and ever so many were hurt. And the passenger-car took afire, and every one would ha' been burned to death if it hadn't been for your husband, Mrs. Hyde. He flung his overcoat over the burnin' panel an' put it out; but he got pretty badly scorched about the face and hands; and when the messenger came away he was helpin' the women-folk and quietin' the scared children and doin' the work of three men at once. He'll get promoted a step up on the line for this night's work, now see if he don't; and— But where be ye gwine?"

"Home!" said Coral, who had caught up her shawl, and was hurriedly wrapping it around her. "Home, of course. Where else should I go?"

"Wal', there ain't no use in bein' in sich a mortal hurry," said Mr. Atwell; "he can't be back afore two o'clock. I tell ye he's stoppin' to have his hands dressed at the drug-store. He—

"But I must be there to meet him when he does come!" cried Coral, breathlessly. "Don't keep me! I tell you I am going home!"

"Well, I never!" said Mrs. Atwell, looking helplessly after the flying figure as it vanished into the purple glow of the California midnight. "And she said she was goin' to spend Christmas with me!"

But Coral Hyde never stayed her footsteps along the dim, madrona-shaded road until she stood once more in her own little house where the holly and clematis and radiant redberries were all heaped on the floor where she had flung them two hours before in the paroxysm of her jealous passion. With frantic heart she lighted up the lamps and drew aside the curtains to make the little house smile its brightest Christmas welcome; and then she put up all the wreaths and festoons just as they had been before, and made all speed to prepare the little supper to do fitting honor to Alexis and to this first anniversary of their wedding-day.

And then she knelt down and prayed a prayer of mingled thankfulness and remorseful petition.

"Because I have been so wicked, so envious, because I have judged so harshly," she whispered.

The distant bells of Santa Cruz were chiming their Christmas sweetness when at last Alexis came home, striding cheerfully up the path and whistling as he advanced.

"A merry Christmas, my darling! A merry wedding-day!" he called out, as she ran, sobbing, into his arms.

But Coral could only answer:

"Oh, Alexis! Oh, my love!"

And he never knew of her fever-fit of jealousy and passion.

"Because," she reasoned to herself, "I would not have him know, my dear husband, that I ever could have been base enough to doubt him!"

MERRY XMAS.

Remember the Poor.

Every man who prepares for Christmas with the knowledge that his own children are fed and clothed and can enjoy the festivity of the season should mark his gratitude for good fortune with a contribution to prevent others from passing that holiday in cold and hunger.

Welcome, Christmas!

O Christmas! Welcome to thy hallowed reign
And all the social virtues in thy train!
Compassion list'ning to the tale of grief,
Who seeks the child of sorrow with relief,
And every muse with animating glee,
Congenial mirth and cordial sympathy.
—Mrs. Hemans.

A NEW SANTA CLAUS.

Without the wind was wailing,
The night was cold and drear;
Within the red logs crackling
Proclaimed the Christmas cheer.

"If Santa Claus would only,"
Said little Bertha, "now
Come down the jet black chimney
With painted doll and cow,

"With elephant and zebra
And scarlet cockatoo,
Rhinoceros and camel
And frog and kangaroo,

"I should be very happy
To see his features sweet."
Her father said, with laughter,
"The logs would burn his feet."

He sent them to the kitchen
And told them that no doubt
Santa'd come down the chimney
When he saw the logs put out.

Then up stairs went the father
A-laughing with delight,
Put on a great fur ulster
And hair and whiskers white.

He brought the toys down with him,
And when they flocked about
He gave them fruit and candies
And laughed to hear them shout.

He gave them toys and kissed them
And sent them up to bed,
That he might join the reindeer
And speed upon the sled.

"The children all are happy,"
Unto his wife said he,
"And we shan't have the bother
Of dressing up that tree.

"Hurrah for all the blessings
That light our cozy keel
Hurrah for Merry Christmas
And peace unto all men!"

THE FAIRIES' CHRISTMAS BELLS.

In days of old, so we are told, before our grandsires' days,
There dwelt with men, upon earth then, a race of fairy fays;
Good angels too they proved to be, and many a mortal man,
They helped in times of trouble dire, as only fairies can.

For years they lived and worked and loved, but strange, they ne'er grew old,
Their lives were always beautiful, their hearts as true as gold;
And when from earth the fairy fays were banished, history tells,
They took up their abode in sweetly chiming Christmas bells.

So now there lies in every bell a smiling fairy fay,
'Way up above the busy world, they dwell from day to day;
Forbidden as of yore, to tread the earth in latter times,
They send their messages to us in sweetest Christmas chimes.

A tiny bell the silence breaks, and joyfully it sings,
The greetings from the little fay whose message kind it brings;
"The time of peace is with you now, good people all and true,
Bring happiness to others, and 'twill surely come to you."

Another bell exclaims in tones a trifle louder still,
"I bring to earth, to all mankind, the message of good-will;
This Christmas time may be for you the happiest ever known,
Seek out some worthy child of God—don't pass the day alone."

Another breathes of charity, and love enduring long,
And tells the story of its fay in bursts of magic song;
And hope and faith and thankfulness and sweet religion, too,
Are chimed in turns by other bells—a message ever new.

Peal after peal, and chime on chime, wake echoes sweet and low,
As o'er the land on Christmas Day the fairy greetings go;
Perfuming all the air and making glad each troubled soul,
As onward, upward through the years, the tuneful chimings roll.

Dear people, when you hear the gentle tones to Heaven rise,
Thank God for His dear Christmas, and the time of glad surprise;
And when you're pouring out your souls in joyous Christmas praise,
Look up to yonder steeple, and bless all the fairy fays!

New Year's Superstitions.

One thing that makes business good for the dealers in crockery is that when a servant breaks a piece of crockery she must immediately and willfully break another piece in order to destroy the spell. When the housewife drops her dishcloth, she will surely have company that day, and the same rule applies if she drops a fork and the tines hold it to the floor, but in this case the visitor will be a gentleman. Should she without premeditation place either two knives, forks or spoons at one plate or give two spoons with one cup or bowl the person receiving them will be married within a year. Place the wishbone of a fowl over a door, and the first one who enters under the bone will be the first in the house to be married.—Exchange.

Merrymaking In Russia.

Russia celebrates New Year's during the "twelve days' festival," which includes Christmas. It is universally observed by visiting, feasting and merrymaking. In the country houses parties prevail, the honor of being the host passing in rotation through the neighborhood. The custom of opening the door at midnight to let the old year out and the new one in is not confined to any one nation. It is sometimes done in this country.—Exchange.

CHRISTMAS IN LIBBY.

MAJOR A. R. CALHOUN RECOUNTS HIS OWN EXPERIENCE.

Christmas of the Awful Battle Year of 1863—A Touching Incident of the War. The Captain's Death at Midnight—Momentous Times Recalled.

[Copyright, 1895, by American Press Association.]

The James river, at the back of the prison, was locked with ice, and the snow, falling steadily outside and swept in by the cutting wind through the iron barred, glassless windows, did not lighten the gloom in the six long, black rooms, where the ragged prisoners tramped to keep warm, and thought as they tramped of the dear ones in homes far beyond the battle lines—dear ones whose Christmas season would be rendered joyless by thoughts of the imprisoned soldier.

"We mustn't give way to despair," said young Lieutenant Watson of the Twenty-third Wisconsin, as he took my arm and led me down the crowded length of the upper. Chickamauga room, so called because most of the prisoners occupying it had been captured in that disastrous battle. "Turner has agreed to let us have the cookroom for a show tonight, and Ed Maas, God bless the brave fellow, is getting up a troop in the Potomac room, and they will sing the old home songs and the war songs, too, and so we'll forget the hunger and the cold. After all, old fellow, happiness is largely a matter of imagination, and if a man can't get his imagination going on Christmas time—why he hasn't any, that's all."

Watson, he is now colonel of the Thirteenth Brooklyn, or New York State guard, was, and still is, one of those brave, cheerful spirits that look ever on the bright side of things and have the power to communicate their feelings to those of more somber cast, like myself.

We had reached the head of the broad damp steps leading to the lower middle room when, instead of going back in the same way, I led my friend across to the other.

"What for?" he asked.

"I want to see Bohannon, captain of the Third Middle Tennessee cavalry. You remember he came in about ten days ago."

"Yes, yes. He's a quiet sort of a chap, but looks like a good soldier. What of him?"

"Well, he's under the weather and in bad shape. He was captured in a cavalry fight near Knoxville and was pretty badly hurt by the fall of his horse. The horse was killed. You can bet on that. Then the captain got a severe cold, but he has a horror of the prison hospital and refuses to report himself on the sick list," I said.

Captain Bohannon was half reclining, with his back against the wall and his legs stretched out on the damp floor.

He was a tall, slender man of five and thirty, with long brown hair and curly beard of the same color. The strong face must have been handsome before the sun had bronzed it to an Indian hue, and care had cut deep lines down the cheeks and between the fearless gray eyes.

Now, there was a flush on the cheeks and a light in the eyes which experience had taught us were due to prison fever instead of to health. This impression was increased as Watson and myself knelt beside the captain and pressed the strong brown hands and felt their abnormal heat.

Before this I had again and again urged the captain to go to the prison hospital. Dr. Sabal, the Confederate surgeon in charge, was one of the best and kindliest men that ever administered to the ailments of friend or foe, but the Tennesseean always shook his head and said:

"I know you're my friend, old pard, and you are dead right, but I've never been in a hospital, and I somehow feel that it would kill me if I went there. No, if I've got to be buried in a blanket, let them carry me away from here. What's the difference?"

The captain had evidently lost his grip on things terrestrial. It was not that he was a prisoner that depressed him; he was too much of a man for that, but there are heart wounds more killing than those made by bullet or saber, and the captain was suffering from one of these.

Bohannon's father had been a well to do planter in middle Tennessee, but mistaken speculations impoverished him and ended in his death a few years before the war. George, the only child, with characteristic

"WE WILL BE MARRIED ON CHRISTMAS DAY."

pluck and energy, started for California to regain the lost fortune, but before doing so he became betrothed to Edna Crawford, the beautiful daughter of a neighbor.

"Win or lose, Edna, I'll be back at the old home, and we'll be married on Christmas-day, 1868." That is what George Bohannon said to his sweetheart when he kissed her goodby in the summer of 1859.

Like the hero that he was, the young Tennesseean went to work in the Golden state, and never a mail passed that the dear girl in the old home did not hear of her lover's brightening prospects. But "man proposes and God disposes."

In the midst of his growing prosperity young Bohannon, in the mines of Calaveras, heard Lincoln's call for men to come to the defense of the Union, and for the time the old spirit of patriotism beat the long roll in his heart. His forefathers had fought in every war for the Union, and, thrilling with these memories, he dropped his pick, abandoned the prospect of certain wealth and hastened back.

Tennessee was in the hands of the enemy, so that it was only by stealth that Bohannon could reach his home near Murfreesboro. He found nearly all his old neighbors on the side of the south. Edna Crawford's father and her two brothers were in the Confederate army, and all the sympathies of his betrothed were on the same side.

But the changed relations did not change their love. "I would not have you fight against your convictions," said Edna. "But go to the side where your heart calls you. It is yet two years, George; the war cannot last till Christmas, 1868. Come back to me then, and whether the Union falls or wins, our union can be staid only by death."

And so they parted again, Edna Crawford helping her lover to escape into Kentucky, where he met Buell's army and secured a commission in the Third Middle Tennessee cavalry.

Then the young captain began to count the Christmas days. That of 1861 was spent on the banks of the Ohio; that of 1862 was passed in the terrific series of battles that ended in Bragg's defeat at Murfreesboro. Before the victorious Union legions, Edna Crawford and her mother, braving the inclemency of that most inclement weather, fled for safety to Chattanooga. They might have remained at home in security, for not only the captain, who at once sought them out, but every Union soldier worthy the uniform he wore, would have protected them, but in those days the invading Yankee was regarded as a cruel monster.

The privation brought on a cold. Consumption followed, and a monster more inexorably cruel than the war god had an irredeemable lien on Edna Crawford's life.

Rosecrans advanced on Chattanooga and Mrs. Crawford took up her dying daughter and fled to Knoxville. Burnside came down through east Tennessee and seized Knoxville, and Bohannon's troop was the first to enter the city with the stars and stripes.

Edna was dying when the captain found her and gave her every care.

"Christmas, 1863, will soon be here, my darling," he whispered at their last meeting. But she did not hear him. The little hand grew colder in his grasp, and with her life gone all life became indifferent to him.

When George Bohannon left Edna Crawford's grave a change came over him. He who had been the life of the camp and the soul of hope became despondent and morose. There was no change in the performance of his duties, but the men, who adored him, noticed that he had become reckless, and those who knew his secret saw that he wanted to die.

"It's here at last, boys! Tomorrow will be Christmas day, 1863. It was a blamed long time to wait in the mines and in the war, but knowing she'd be true has cheered me up. You'll all come to the wedding." That is what the captain said as we knelt beside him holding his hands.

My companion and I exchanged glances. The fever was in the brain as well as in the hands. He had no idea of his position. He was a free man and not a prisoner of war. Men were talking about Christmas on all sides, and it was this that brought the controlling impulse of his life into such prominence that it dominated all his thoughts. Christmas day, 1863, was at hand, and the yearning of years was to be consummated in his union to Edna Crawford.

I saw the danger and rose to my feet. "Don't leave me, old pard," said the captain, clinging to my hand. "Remember you are to be my best man."

"You can depend on me, captain," I said soothingly.

"I've often dreamed about this wedding," he went on, "and for awhile I did not think we could have music and flowers and lots of folks present. You can smell the clover and the magnolia blossoms. There! Hark! to the music! They're rehearsing!" And he raised a hot hand to command attention, while from the Potomac room beyond the wall there came the refrain of an old plantation melody:

"In de mawnin, in de mawnin by de bright light—
De Christmas bells'll toll out in de mawnin!"

We left him with a rapt expression on his face, while he swayed his head as if beating time to the singing in the next room.

"I'm afraid the captain's called," sighed Watson.

"Called" was a term used when we felt sure a comrade was about to die.

"But we must save him if we can. Come, let us get word to Dr. Sabal and have the captain taken to the hospital," I urged, and my heart was in my throat, for I loved Bohannon like a brother.

It was nearly dark when, after some trouble, we succeeded in getting word to Dr. Sabal. He came, and after examining the captain shook his head. I had explained to him the case, so that he was not surprised when the captain invited him to the wedding which was set for midnight, "when Christmas eve," as the expectant man expressed it, "gives place to Christmas day."

"Yes. It is to prepare for the wedding," I said, when, holding Bohannon's hand, I led him to the head of the stairs.

He insisted that I should go with him, and the kindly doctor consented.

The hospital on the ground floor and on the eastern side of the prison was dimly lit with swinging lamps, but the light was dazzling compared with the gloom in the regular rooms. The captain was prevailed on to lie down on one of the cots. The doctor left some medicine, but there was that in his handsome face as he turned to go that convinced me he had no faith in the power of his drugs to help this case.

"A marriage is a trying matter. Yes, I'll feel the better for a rest," spoke the captain, while I sat beside him with my cold fingers pressed to his hot leaping pulse. "There's a great crowd gathered and the lights—I was always fond of light."

And so he wandered on. To him the imprisonment and the death of Edna Crawford had become as a torturing dream, and the joyous hallucination was a glowing reality.

Ragged men on crutches, ghastly faced men with the fever marks on their cracked lips and in their hollow eyes were about the cot, but if the captain saw them his wild fancy transformed them into wedding guests, and their whisperings of pity for one more wretched than themselves were to him congratulations on the great event that was to unite him to Edna Crawford.

It was a bitterly cold night, and the voices of the guards calling out the passing half hours about the prison were muffled and hoarse. The approaching Christmas day had no pleasures in reserve for them.

A thin brick wall separated the hospital from the cookroom to the west, where Maas and his minstrels began to sing about 8 o'clock.

The music was in honor of the approaching wedding. All the pain lines melted from the bronzed face.

Once he tried to join in the chorus when "My Old Kentucky Home, Good Night!" was sung, but the effort died out in a rattle in his throat.

At length the concert was over, and the lights in the dreary hospital were turned down. But the captain still heard music that was not for our ears, and lights burned before his closed eyes that were not for our vision.

From Carey street on the west a hoarse voice shouted at length, "Twelve o'clock! Post No. 1, and all's well!" "Twelve o'clock! Post No. 2, and all's well!" and so from post to post about the prison went up the same cry, the last man adding, "And a merry Christmas to all!"

The captain had been so still and his hands so cold for the past hour that I thought him dead, but like an echo he whispered, "All's well!"

From the Richmond churches the bells clanged out their salutation to the Christmas day just born, but the captain heard them not. True to his pledge he had joined Edna.

"Christmas, 1863."

Christmas Church Decorations In Italy.

More attention is paid to Christmas decoration of the churches in Italy perhaps than in any other country. On Christmas eve the young men and women assemble at the churches and spend hours in making them beautiful. At midnight a mass is said, and after this a toothsome collation is served to the youthful workers and there are singing and playing upon musical instruments.

THE SWING OF THE PENDULUM

is rapidly measuring off the minutes that intervene between now and Christmas, reminding us of that season of delight—of "good will to men," women and children—the Annual Anniversary that appeals most strongly to the heart, and whets the appetite with a desire to make our "kin-folk" and our friends happy with

STILL TALKING WAR.

The President Signs the Venezuela Commission Bill.

PEOPLE COMING TO THEIR SENSES

Leading Public Men and Newspapers Beginning to Consider What War Would Involve—Strong Feeling Setting in Against the President's Action.

Washington, Dec. 21.—The Vice-President has announced his signature to the Venezuelan Commission Bill. It now goes to the President for his approval.

The President this afternoon approved the bill appropriating $100,000 for the expenses of the commission to inquire into the Venezuela boundary matter.

In the Senate, Mr. Squire's Fortification Bill, appropriating $87,000,000, was re-introduced by him with what he called an "emergency clause," making the amount "immediately available," and was referred. And then the Senate proceeded to the consideration of executive business.

Spouting and Gong-Beating Should Cease

Buffalo, Dec. 21.—The Commercial (Rep.) says this evening: It might have been for the interests and the good repute of the United States had the Senate postponed action on the President's message and recommendations until the country has recovered its breath, had time to look into the grounds for the war mania into which has been suddenly plunged, and mustered courage to speak its honest mind about it. There are unmistakable signs of the rising of a tide of public opinion—the opinion of thinking men and of the great commercial bodies—with which the Government of this country is bound to reckon. It is well that the spouting and gong-beating should cease for a time, and that the voice of reason and conscience should be heard.

"MARCHING TO WAR."

Mr. G. W. Smalley Reviews the Affair with Much Force

New York, Dec. 22.—Mr. G. W. Smalley in The Herald to-day reviews the situation. "We are drifting into war, or it might be truer to say we are marching to war. If we are doing it consciously, deliberately, with a clear view of the goal before us and a clear purpose to promote hostilities, there is not much to be said. The American people have their destinies in their own hands. The majority will decide. If they choose war, it will be war. If they choose to act from impulse or passion, no power, no earthly power, can stop them."

"If war breaks, we are no longer majority and minority—we are Americans. But till it breaks we are bound to ask whether the appeal is really to patriotism, or whether it is to national pride or national vanity, or even to national antipathies, prejudices or jealousies. Don't let us mix things. The country is one thing, Mr. Cleveland is another. To support Mr. Cleveland is not necessarily to support the true interests of the country. It might be possible that we should have to choose between Mr. Cleveland and the country. Which should we choose? There is a lesson for us in the opinion of the rest of the civilized world. All Europe is against the President's contention and policy.

"The fact is a significant one Mr. Carter said the other day that a policy which had against it the sympathies of the world was doomed from the start. We may say we don't care, but we do, and must. Alliances are very solid things. If Europe says to us that we can hope for no alliance with any European power, is that nothing? Russia alone seems thus far neutral. The press of every other country in Europe sides with England against the United States. That does not prove we are wrong, but it may lead us to reflect a little.

"We are fond of talking about France as if she were our friend. She once was, for reasons sufficient to her, our friend, and a good friend; but her friendship for three generations has been but a memory. The French do not like us, and do not mind saying so. They have, moreover, interests on this side the Atlantic which prevent them from accepting the Olney-Cleveland version of the Monroe doctrine. So has Spain, Germany is against us, and Austria. The three most powerful journals of these two great powers not only condemn the President's policy, but it is to them a subject of derision. Italy is against us. No voice is heard anywhere in Europe for us, or if there be voices, they are those of individuals, not of nations. Public opinion is the most potent of all forces. If we plunge into a war in defiance of it, we are not fighting England only, we are contending against all European powers. Are we strong enough for that? We have to think of the honor and reputation of our beloved country, and to remember that the verdict of history is foreshadowed in the censure of Christendom."

FEELING AT CARACAS.

The Venezuelans Shout "Down with the English" Situation Grave.

New York, Dec. 22.—A special from Caracas, Venezuela, to The World says:

The anti-English feeling is increasing here. Fresh flowers are placed daily upon the statue of Washington, and the American and Venezuelan flags are everywhere to be seen, either displayed side by side or entwined in significant embrace with the portraits of Washington and Monroe between.

Another mass meeting was held on the Plaza Bolivar this morning, at which were heard the cries: "Abajo Los Engleses" (Down with the English.) "Vive Cleveland y Los Estados Unidos (long live Cleveland and the United States.)"

The patriotic society for the defence of Venezuelan territory issues a protest against the pretensions and the past and proposed aggressions of England. It also requested the Minister of Foreign Affairs to revoke the exequaturs of Venezuelan citizens who are acting as British Consuls in this country unless they resign immediately.

The Cabinet meets this afternoon to discuss the situation. It is believed that its action will be energetic.

Guiana battalions are being formed. The situation appears grave.

A cable despatch from London says that at a public meeting yesterday, the Government was petitioned to declare war upon Venezuela and the United States and resolutions were adopted declaring that England would never recede from the position she has assumed.

Venezuela is sending diplomatic missions to every foreign country.

The country applauds the action of the Government and the nation is united.

THE NEW YORK HERALD

Is Down on the Jingoes Tells Congress and the People to Go Slow and Rebukes Cleveland Generally.

The New York Herald of Saturday, Dec. 21, in discussing the proposed U.S. loan says to make it popular but "to go slowly in the Venezuela matter." The Herald admits that "the financial disturbance of last week, the decline in American securities, advance in money rates, outflow of gold, etc., which culminated in a panic on Friday and menaced a depletion of the gold reserve in the U.S. Treasury. * * * was "the natural and inevitable consequence of the war scare by the bellicose tone of Congress and the precipitancy of both Houses in authorizing a commission to determine the boundary line between Venezuela and British Guiana. As Senator Sherman and other Senators urged on the floor of the Senate, there is no earthly need of hurry and every reason why Congress should go slowly."

The Herald then appeals to Congress to declare that its object in appointing a commission "is not war, but peace," and calls on "the country to go slowly and the people to reflect soberly."

The Herald points out that England buys $500,000,000 worth of United States produce yearly, is "our best customer," that Great Britain "buys three or four times as much as she sells us," and concludes: "A war with England will mean lower prices for all our farm-products and a general prostration of all kinds of business and commerce, to say nothing of other immeasurable ills."

The Herald scores the American jingoes in unmeasured terms and says that it looks as if "every country in Europe will condemn President Cleveland's message."

THE AGONY WOULD SOON BE OVER.

Canada Would be Speedily Annexed—The Toronto Mail's Old Ally Speaks Out.

From The New York Sun.

The Canadian papers foresee that in the event of a war between America and England, the Dominion might be the first sufferer in the conflict of arms, but, as one of them puts it, Canada would feel "a certain amount of grim satisfaction" in preparing "for the worst." "The Yankees might be able to make the Canadians smart," it proceeds, "but until the bottomless pit is frozen over they cannot make us yield."

An emergency compelling us to take forcible possession of Canada would bring about the settlement of the annexation question in a way that is no more desired here than there. In the nature of things and inevitably, the Dominion will seek and crave admission into the American Union if such a nemergency does not occur, and it would be better for both the independent republic and the dependent colony that the annexation should be thus peaceful and amicable. At most, our absorption of Canada by immediate conquest would only anticipate by a comparatively short time an acquisition which will come to us anyway.

The pluck which the Canadians are now displaying in the face of certain subjugation if war between England and the United States should occur makes us all the more ready to welcome them to be sharers in the glory of the unconquerable Stars and Stripes. They are exhibiting a spirit of manliness which is inconsistent with their present colonial dependence, and are humiliated by it. We have no doubt that they would fight bravely in their somewhat pathetic allegiance to a power three thousand miles away, which would be powerless to save them from speedy subjugation. They would yield before "the bottomless pit is frozen over" but they would not give in without courageous resistance.

In the lamentable and, we hope, impossible event of war with England, almost the sole employment we should have for our army of half a million men, outside of manning the coast defences, would be in the conquest of Canada, at least in the beginning. It would not be difficult for us to overrun Canada within a few months after the declaration of hostilities. If necessary, we could send thither several army corps as numerous as is the native population of the Dominion. It would be no disgrace to the Canadians to be beaten. That would be a foregone conclusion. They would be overwhelmed; and undoubtedly it would be the military policy of this country to make a short job of the conquest, and get rid of the pestilent annoyance of the Canadian fire in the rear. Afterward a comparatively small army of occupation could hold the Dominion. The consequences to Canada would be far less bitter, therefore, than the newspapers seem to imagine. The agony would be soon over. The worst for which the Canadians would have to prepare with grim satisfaction, to use the words of the Toronto journal, would be almost wholly the loss of their colonial dependence on Great Britain, and really that would be a blessing forced on them, and not a calamity because of which they would receive or deserve sympathy. The campaign would be so short and decisive that the Dominion would be neither devastated nor exhausted by it. The very weakness of Canada would save it from the awful physical suffering expected by the Toronto newspaper. Its anguish would be sentimental chiefly.

Let us hope, however, that Canada will never be brought to either physical or sentimental suffering by the United States. When the Star-Spangled Banner is raised there, may it be run up over the Government buildings at Ottawa by the exulting Canadians themselves, and not as a symbol of conquest and subjugation by victorious soldiers of the great American Republic!

THE NEW YORK TIMES,

A Democratic Paper, Wants Cleveland to Explain Himself.

The New York Times of Saturday, Dec. 21, sustains President Cleveland, but calls upon him to make it perfectly clear to the American nation and the world "the unreserved determination of the United States to respect the rights of Great Britain as those of Venezuela" in connection with the commission that Mr. Cleveland is to appoint. Such a declaration, The Times says, is necessary to "prevent misunderstanding and allay undue excitement."

The Times in another portion of its editorial columns makes the following defence of Mr. Cleveland's conduct, which at first blush would appear to be a reasonable one:

"Mr. Cleveland seeks for his country not the slightest advantage at the expense of any other. He is not trying to extend our territorial limits. He does not claim to encroach upon the rights of any other nation. He does not pretend to decide what are the rights of either Great Britain or Venezuela. He simply asserts the duty of the United States to see that no essential wrong is done to any independent nation on this continent, and invites Great Britain to consent to the only possible adequate method of determining what the rights of the two parties to the controversy are."

(Where The Times is weak and where Mr. Cleveland is weak, if The Times speaks for him, is that while he is not trying to extend the territorial limits of the United States, he has dictated to another and a greater power how it shall settle a dispute with the South American Republic.)

FEELING IN ENGLAND.

The New York Tribune Correspondent Writes Interestingly.

New York, Dec. 22.—Mr. Isaac N. Ford cables from London to The Tribune:

Whatever else may be said, President Cleveland has come to the rescue of the unspeakable Turk. The Eastern question has dropped out of sight. The President of the American Commonwealth has been transformed before English eyes into an unspeakable jingo—the same President who has been the rising hope of the stern, unbending free-trader, and recognized here for 11 years as the consummate flower of American statesmanship.

For four days Mr. Cleveland's message has been one of the supreme topics in England. The papers have been filled with it; little else has been talked about. It is doubtful if England has been more profoundly stirred by any other public event since the Trent affair. From every European capital has come loud echoes of English astonishment.

If Lord Salisbury had known as much about American feeling a few months ago as he does now, the demand for arbitration might have been rejected, but the Monroe doctrine would have been treated with more respect, and greater pains would have been taken to avoid arousing national resentment. While Mr. Cleveland has commanded the attention of Europe by his undiplomatic language and defiant recommendation for the appointment of a commission to ascertain the rightful boundary of Venezuela he has united England in inflexible opposition to the Monroe doctrine as he proposes to apply it. The English people know little about either the Venezuela case or the Monroe doctrine, but when they read a deliberate proposal in the message that an American Commission should find out where one of the boundaries of the British Empire really was, and then take measures to keep British subjects on the right side of it, they were filled with wrathful indignation. The issue for them was simple and easily understood. With one voice they declared that no self-respecting nation could have its frontiers arbitrarily dictated by another power under threat of war. Europe, through the press of the great capitals, has also proclaimed that this method of applying the Monroe doctrine is impracticable.

The force of the message was at first broken in England and Europe by the accepted explanation that Mr. Cleveland wanted a new political issue for the Presidential canvass, and that Republican leaders and journals could not afford to allow him a monopoly of American principles. This theory sufficed to reconcile the English to the situation when they had recovered from their fierce anger on the first day; but they have been astonished by the evidence that there is in America a widespread feeling of resentment against and hostility to England. They may find it difficult to believe that it is merely a game of jingo politicians, with the leader of the demoralized Democracy at their head pulling the wires for a presidential canvass.

Nervous Prostration

It is now a well established fact in medical science that nervousness is due to impure blood. Therefore the true way to cure nervousness is by purifying and enriching the blood. The great blood purifier is Hood's Sarsaparilla. Read this letter:

"For the last two years I have been a great sufferer with nervous prostration and palpitation of the heart. I was weak in my limbs and had smothered sensations. At last my physician advised me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla which I did, and I am happy to say that I am now strong and well. I am still using Hood's Sarsaparilla and would not be without it. I recommend it to all who are suffering with nervous prostration and palpitation of the heart." MRS. DALTON, 56 Alice St., Toronto, Ontario. Get Hood's, because

THE CHEESE INDUSTRY OF PETERBOROUGH COUNTY.

THE BACKBONE OF PROFITABLE FARMING.

Annual Reports of Cheese Factories—Interesting Incidents of the Season's Operations.

Below are the reports of several cheese factories as supplied by the secretaries of the respective factories :

North Smith.

Annual Report of the business of the North Smith Dairy Co :

BUTTER FACTORY, 1894 and 1895.

There was received 146,594 lbs. milk, in which was 6,376.47 lbs. of butter fat.
There was manufactured 6,817.5 lbs. of butter.
The total value of the butter, $1,287.97.
The cost of manufacturing 6,817.5 lbs. butter at 3½c per lb. $238 60.
The value of the butter fat was 16.46 cents per pound.
The number of lbs. of milk to 1 lb. butter for Nov. was 22.014.
The number of lbs. of milk to 1 lb. butter for Dec. was 20,668.

CHEESE FACTORY, 1895.

	Lbs. Milk.	Lbs. Butter fat.	Lbs. Cheese.	Value.	Sales.
April	17,238	423,717	1,522	$ 103.51	7
May	277,713	8,990,294	25,323	1,772.76	1st 6 5-8 2nd 7 3-8

Totals	1,730,716	58,660,561	162,035	12,280.11

The average pounds of milk to pound of cheese was :

April	11 33
May	10.96
June	11.025
July	11 46
August	10.55
September	10.35
Oct. and Nov	9.38
For season	10.68

After deducting 1 9-10 cents per pound of cheese for all expenses of manufacture, etc, the value of butter fat was for

April	17.7 cents per lb.
May	14.9 "
June	13.06 "
July	13.85 "
August	13.4 "
September	17.97 "
Oct. and Nov	15.73 "

Considering that there was a new cheese factory started at Young's Point, which took the milk from that section which came to North Smith in former years, and although the butter factory was not the financial success that was hoped for either to the patrons or the company, on the whole the company has had one of the most prosperous year's business since its organization. At the request of the patrons the company adopted the system of paying for milk coming to their cheese factory according to the quality, as determined by the Babcock test, and although a few preferred the old plan of pooling and dividing equally without any regard to quality, the patrons and company were strongly in favour of continuing to pay by the tester, with the slight change of adding one per cent. to the reading of butter fat, a practice which eminent dairy authorities claim gives a fairer division of profits to patrons generally.

Fleetwood Factory.

Summary of Fleetwood Cheese Factory :—We shipped from this station (Franklin) for the season, 96,000 lbs cheese ; cash receipts for the same $7,008. ; average about 8c per lb. Mr. Gillespie, the maker, did fine work, turning out first-class cheese.

Manchester Factory.

Statement of Manchester Cheese Factory :—During the season of 1895 patrons supplied 635,747 lbs milk, which produced 58,569 lbs cheese, was sold at an average price of 7½c per lb, realizing $4,513 in cash.

Fraserville Cheese Factory.

The patrons of Fraserville Cheese Factory held their annual meeting on Monday to wind up the business of the season of 1895, and the election of officers for the year 1896. Mr. John Mounsey occupied the chair, and, after a few brief remarks, called on the secretary to read his report. Mr. Madill gave a detailed report of the season's business which showed that the 59 patrons had sent 935,766 lbs of milk, which had been manufactured into 84,084 lbs of cheese. The average number of lbs of milk for a lb of cheese was 11.10. The average price obtained for the season was 7 15-16c, the amount of interest, $2.30.

The auditors' report was next presented and read. The report showed a careful examination of the books of the respective officers and that, although a few errors had been found, still there had been much improvements on past seasons. The patrons and Mr. Pue were congratulated by the auditors for the high quality of cheese that the cheese-maker, Mr. Kline, had been so successful in producing during the entire season, the cheese at all times being sold for the highest obtainable price and always passing inspection without any being rejected, and also for taking Gladd's special prize against the province at the Peterborough Central Exhibition. After some discussion of the report in which the President was requested to furnish the auditors in the future with vouchers for all expenditures, the report was adopted.

The officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows :—

President—W. J. Fisher.
Secretary—J. Madill.
Directors—D. McIlmoyle, T. Donaldson, J. Lightfoot, G. Howson, T. Brown, J. Greer.
Auditors—T. M. Hunter, Robert Waterman.

The whey for next season was auctioned to the highest bidder. Mr. Donaldson acted in the capacity of auctioneer, wielding the hammer, and the whole of the output of the factory for next year was knocked down to Mr. Robert Stewart, Fraserville's popular stock buyer, at 90c per standard.

Trewern Cheese Factory.

The following is a statement from Trewern cheese factory of the milk received and cheese manufactured for the season of 1895, which is quite a gratifying increase over last year :

	Milk.	Cheese lbs.	Cash.
April and May	129,749	11,457	$ 807 37
June	163,274	14,544	1,195 68
July	146,331	12,608	973 80
August	143,178	13,007	1,002 89
September	124,926	11,720	946 50
October	96 513	10,205	936 92
	802,038	73,601	$5,853 07

Season's average, 10.89 lbs of milk for one of cheese. Average price, 7 95 100c per lb. cheese. Many thanks are due Mr. Waram, salesman, and Mr. G. W. Fitzgerald, sec.-retary-treasurer, for their untiring efforts to make the business a success.—JOHN L. CRITTICK, Proprietor.

Lakefield Dairy Co.

The annual meeting of the Lakefield Dairy Company was held on Wednesday, Dec. 11th, when the auditors presented the following report :

"In presenting the auditors' report, we are pleased to report progress ; although a very considerable increase in milk was reported last year, you have a large increase this year over last.

But we have also to report that the net receipts in cash to the patrons has been materially affected by the very low price of cheese this year, the month of May giving as low as six cents and a fraction per lb. Yet taking other products of the farm into consideration, such as beef, for instance, at 2½ or 3c per lb., the milk comes out ahead. We have gone through the monthly receipts of milk, the monthly production of cheese, the shipments of cheese, the local sales, etc. The monthly totals are as follows :

	lbs. Milk.	lbs. Cheese.	ave. Milk.	Price.
May		20,495		$1,425 22
June		22,190		1,824 77
July		19,170		1,844 60
August		19 440		1,500 52
September		18,224		1,480 72
October		19,124		1,751 11
Totals	1,274,807	118,653	10.74	$9,326 97

Last year average, 10.89.
No. of standards manufactured for season, 425, nearly.
No. of standards last year, 356 2-3.
Total value per standard, $21.94.
Total value per standard last year, $26.71.
As compared with last year there is an increase of milk by 204,009 lbs. and a deficit of cash by $200.98.

We have to report that we found the secretary's books very satisfactory, with the exception of one mistake of $2; he was willing to give all necessary information.

You will notice the average number of pounds of milk to pound of cheese is somewhat lower this year than last.

The manufacturer asserts he has given every patron their exact and just weight of milk during the season. Your cheese has been amongst the first selections on the Board, and the price secured one of the highest in the county, which shows business tact in your salesman, and reflects high commendation on your manufacturer.

All of which is respectfully submitted.
W. A. HUNTER, A. FAIRBAIRN, } Auditors.

Total amount paid patrons, $7,557.07.
Average price per 100 lbs milk, 0.62,96c.
Average price per standard, $16 29.6.
Average price per lb cheese, .07,83c.
Amount of milk per lb cheese, 10.68 lbs.

Star Factory.

Returns of Star Cheese Factory for the season of 1895 :—

Total amount of milk, 706,585 lbs.
Total amount of cheese, 65,482 lbs.
Total amount of money, $3,126.61.
Total amount of expenses, $780.53.
Total amount paid patrons, $4,337.08.

Average price per standard, $18.41.4.
Average price per lb cheese, 0.07,83c.

Weak Lungs.

Emaciation, weakness, and that fatal disposition to take cold easily, thus adding little by little to the strain upon the already overburdened body. How many afflicted are trusting to cough mixtures, mustard and poultices for safety? Fatal error. Not by these, but by adding to the nutritive power of the body and the increased strength and vitality which increased nutrition affords, can you hope to obtain relief. Maltine with Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites combines the excellencies of a medicine, a food, and a digestive agency of unexampled power. The full remedial value of the cod liver oil, rendered palatable and of easy digestion, is combined with the nutritive values of wheat, oats and barley. This in itself would render Maltine and Cod Liver Oil of greater value than any emulsion. But it possesses a further quality of inestimable value in its property of increasing the solubility of fat-forming, heat-producing, starchy foods, just the elements required for the upbuilding of the emaciated. This you may demonstrate by a short trial of this unrivalled preparation.

Weak and Tired.

DEAR SIRS,—I can heartily recommend Milburn's Cod Liver Oil Emulsion. For a long time I felt so weak I could hardly keep up, every little thing tiring me out. I took two bottles and the fatigue and tired feeling left me and have never returned.

LIVE LAKEFIELD.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Miss Ray spent a few days in Peterborough last week.

Miss Reynolds of Bethany is visiting friends here.

Mr. J. C. Brown, P.S I., was in the village last week.

Mrs. J. C. Sherin has returned from Morrisburg, where she was visiting her daughter.

Mr. Geo. Hendren and Capt. Halifax were in Peterborough last week as jurors.

Mr. and Mrs. Capt. Eden of Peterborough are visiting friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Wilson of Young's Point are visiting friends in the village.

School closes on Friday next and the children are anticipating a fine time at the closing concert in Miss Duff's room on Friday afternoon.

The Christmas promotion examinations are now going on in the schools.

The organ in St. John's church has been tuned by Mr. A. Sutton of Bowmanville.

R. Graham & Son are selling 4 lbs. new Valencia raisins for 25c., 3 lbs. loose Muscatel raisins for 25c., 3 lbs. Vostizza currants, nicely cleaned, 25c.; lemon peel, 20c. per lb. All other goods equally low.

Court Lakefield, No. 43, C. O. F., will meet this Thursday evening for the election of of officers.

The council met on Monday evening according to statute, a report of which will appear next week.

In future the key of the town hall for the use of the public, will be kept at the town hall. The Chief has made a neat little box for its safe-keeping and has had it nailed to the wall in front of the town hall. The box has been made with a glass front, and the key can only be procured in case of a fire, as when such an emergency occurs the glass in the box has to be broken and the key taken out, a new glass being then put in. This is a good plan and has been worked in other places with success.

A number of Italians have arrived in the village and are located in the house formerly occupied by Mr. Ben Robinson. They are here to work on the river section of the Trent Valley Canal.

Blasting is going on now in the river, the coffer dam having been strengthened and additional pumps put on so that the water is now kept pumped entirely out so that the work of deepening the river here can be gone on with satisfactorily.

The Christmas number of the EXAMINER has arrived and is drawing forth very favourable comments, every one being delighted with its neat and handsome appearance. Lakefield is well represented in the advertising columns.

R. Graham & Son have opened out a large stock of china and aluminum goods, table and banquet lamps, suitable for Christmas presents. Have you seen them?

HUSTLING HAVELOCK.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Rev. Mr. McGuiness conducted services in St. John's church on Sunday and administered the communion.

On Monday the Rev. Mr. McGuiness administered Holy Communion to Miss Jane Barlow at her fatner's residence. We are pleased to learn that her condition is on the mend.

It was with pleasure we noticed Henry Waymark on the streets on Monday after his long illness.

W. B. Burnett and wife returned from New York on Sunday morning, where they were present at the marriage of Miss Burnett.

Billy Anderson's horse made a flying trip into Havelock from the north on Monday evening, leaving Mr. Anderson flying along the road after him, somewhat shaken up from being dragged a considerable distance by the lines after he was thrown from the cutter and the horse became unmanageable. Billy says the roads are rough especially when one goes a 3 minute gate head first. The cutter was a wreck and the driver may congratulate himself he is not the same.

Dangerous.

We often see this sign on roads or streets.

Any kidney ailment is dangerous. Because you never know where it will end.

Suppose you feel languid, suppose you have feverish symptoms, there must be poison in the blood, for these are the certain signs.

To the fact that poisons get past the kidneys may be traced every sickness to which you are liable.

Treat the kidneys forthwith and first of all.

It isthe safe and proper thing every time; therefore do it promptly and well. We are tryingto teach people to turn to Dodd's Kidney Pills as the simplest and greatest treatmnt of kidney diseases on earth.

Can you see the point? Every serious disease results from the kidneys being ou of order. Dodd's Kidney Pills keeps on curing these diseases

The best cough cure is Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. It heals the lungs and cures coughs and colds,

RAILWAY NOTES.

Sparks From the Wheels—Cinders for the Eye.

Complaints having been made to the Grand Trunk authorities of the annoyance caused passengers by cabbies and hotel porters shouting patronage immediately on their alighting from the trains, orders have been received from the General Superintendent, Mr. Jas. Stephenson, calling upon the agents to deal summarily with offenders in future. Passengers must come to those men and not the men to the passengers. Another stringent rule that will be enforced is that cabbies and porters will not be allowed from their stand to procure baggage, etc., until after the train has taken its departure.

If you have a troublesome cough, don't keep nibbling sweets, and so ruin your appetite. A dose or two of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral will do you more good than pounds of candy, and assist rather than impair your digestion. Always keep this medicine in your house.

Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam cures coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis, sore throat and all diseases of the throat, lungs and chest.

Burdock Blood Bitters

Purifies, renovates regulates the entire system, thus curing Dyspepsia, Constipation, Sick Headache, Biliousness, Rheumatism, Dropsy, and all diseases of the stomach, liver, kidney and bowels. It also removes all impurities from the system, from a common pimple to the worse scrofulous sore.

Just spend his Four Quarters for a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters as all sensible people do; because it cures Dyspepsia, Constipation, Biliousness, Sick Headache, Bad Blood, and all Diseases of the Stomach, Liver, Kidneys, Bowels and Blood from a common Pimple to the worst Scrofulous Sore.

New Year's Tea and Concert.

A New Year's tea and concert will be held in the Springville Presbyterian church on New Year's Day, Jan. 1st, 1896. Addresses will be delivered by Rev. Mr. McWilliams, of Peterborough, and Rev. Mr. Tanner, of Omemee, and others. Choice music will be supplied. Tea will be served from four to seven o'clock.—Tickets, 25c.

Rapid Work.

Mr. J. J. Hartley is a "hustler" as a building contractor. Two weeks ago today he began work on the Oriental hotel extension. He took out the excavation, completed the stone work, laid the brick and to-day the roof joist are being placed on the 6 story building, 36x00 feet, with an extension of 14x40 feet. The work was done in a substantial manner, according to Mr. Hartley's unvarying practice. He evidently possesses an unusual share of the enterprise and push, characteristic of Peterborough citizens.

Too Much Pudding.

The day after Christmas may be an off day with you. Possibly your liver is kicking. The after effects of too much plum pudding and Christmas cake has had a depressing effect upon your spirits, or the spirits on the plum pudding. At any rate the fun is all clean knocked out of you. Here's your prescription:—Take in Max O'Rell that night—Thursday, 26th Dec. He appears in the Opera House, for the first and last time. Best rouser you ever took for your trouble. Max. O'Rell is humourous, keen, comical, sensible and wonderfully clever. Besides the ladies will have their innings that evening. Take your lady, too. 2d

Here We Are Again.

Right in the nick of time to catch the holiday trade, with a brimful store of groceries, teas, sugars, fruits, canned goods, candied peels, essences, pickles, relishes, spices, cheese, butter, eggs, provisions, poultry, etc., etc. Bankrupt prices, as usual, will prevail. No regular prices in the whole stock, but everything goes as it was bought—away below regular market value. You are lucky if you are late in buying your Christmas supplies for you will be right in time to share in the snaps now waiting you at this store. HIS LEGS BADLY SCALDED.

One of Gilmour's Lumbermen Meets with a Nasty Accident.

On Saturday last a young man named Kellar passed through Peterborough on his way home to Belleville from the Gilmour lumber shanties in Haliburton. He was suffering intensely through having met with an accident, whereby his legs had been badly scalded, and as he had no money he was indeed deserving of sympathy.

As the Gilmour Company has decided to erect a mill at its limits, and so avoid the expense of rafting the logs, a large number of men have been therefore dismissed, and about twenty of them were on their way to their homes on Friday, and spent the night at a hotel in Minden. During some horseplay the stove in the sitting room was knocked over, and a huge can of boiling water emptied its scalding contents over Kellar's legs as he lay sleeping on the floor. After having his injuries attended to by a physician, he made his way through Bobcaygeon to Peterborough, and was fortunate enough to recognise the face of Mr. Wm. Johnston on the train. Upon making himself known to him, Mr. Johnston very kindly purchased the poor fellow a ticket to his home.

TWO FALLEN WOMEN.

They Make Things Very Lively in the Police Court This Morning.

The police court was crowded as it never was crowded before this morning, and the magistrate before he cleared the room uttered a few words of scathing sarcasm respecting the motive which could bring so many men together to witness the shame of two fallen women. He characterized the men present as being fully as bad, in his opinion, as the women.

The pair were charged with being common prostitutes and vagrants and both entered a plea of "not guilty." The girls were so brazened through crime as not to appear to fail their shameful position in the least and when the first witness entered the box against them such a flood of vituperation and filthy abuse broke from their lips as never was heard in the court room before. The echoes of curses and blasphemy even floated out into the street as the elder of the two girls worked herself into a fearful paroxysm of rage, as the evidence accumulated against her, until finally she declared that unless she was shut up for life she would blow out the witness' brains as soon as she was released, and in her mad frenzy tore off her spectacles and hurled them across the court at the man who was giving evidence against her.

Through all the trial both girls appeared quite confident that no sentence would be imposed, and when the Magistrate found the elder one guilty and she heard the words "two years in the Mercer Reformatory" her wrath broke forth once more, and her former expressions were mild to the ones which now issued from her lips. No term of blasphemy was too rank or foul for her to use. Stooping suddenly, she slipped off her shoes and in another moment's time they would have been flying through the air but for the fact that Constable Stewart grappled with her and deprived her of the missiles. The two women then set upon Stewart, and before the Chief and others could interfere they scratched his face and bit him severely. With the aid of some of the witnesses the prisoners were conveyed back to the cells, fighting and struggling every inch of the way.

While the fracas was in progress, the Magistrate hastily imposed a sentence of two years on the younger sister as well.

The trouble was only begun by the time each was locked in a separate cell, as, infuriated to a degree almost approaching madness they proceeded to smash everything that was breakable in the cells. The police had to again enter the cells and handcuff them. Even then they could not be quieted and prevented from doing themselves harm until their arms were fastened behind their backs, when they lay on their backs thoroughly exhausted, but pouring out curses and imprecations with every breath.

The pair are sisters and hail from Orillia. The elder is Lizzie Payne. She has been married for three years, though only 20 years of age now. Her younger sister has been married since April last, and is known as Jane Lennox. Both state that there will be trouble before they will allow themselves to be taken to the Mercer Reformatory, and by present indications the officer who undertakes the job will have no sinecure.

HINTS FOR SANTA CLAUS.

Gough Bros., the Wonderful Cheap Men.

What are you going to give your husband for a Christmas present? What are you going to give your boy for a Christmas present? For your husband what would be nicer than a nice overcoat, ulster, dress suit or fancy vest? For your boy what would be nicer than a suit of clothes or a new pair of boots, an overcoat or collars, cuffs, ties, etc.? At Gough Bros'. large establishment these useful presents can be purchased. These goods are of the best quality and manufacture and are sold at a price which would astonish you. Gough Bros. carry a large stock of boots, shoes, slippers, rubbers, overshoes, felt goods, hats, caps, gloves and mitts, and from their large assortment a suitable gift can be chosen. Presents should be of a practical nature and at this store such goods can be had. For instance, a nice pair of kid gloves are always acceptable. A dozen silk or linen handkerchiefs or a box of collars, of which a large assortment is kept, would make a nice and useful Christmas present. Twenty years' experience in the the gents' furnishing trade has taught Gough Bros. the value of a good display and their two handsome stores are filled to overflowing with fine goods in their line. Parents wishing presents for their sons, young ladies who desire to please—well, say their brothers, can do no better than visit this store; they are sure to find what they want. A special line of neckwear, gloves, silk handkerchiefs and neck scarfs has been placed in stock for the holiday trade.

What She Said.

Mrs. R. Peck, E. 15th street, New York city, visited Canada last year, and had the good fortune to pick up something which not only suited her, but her neighbors also. Writing the manufacturer of Nervilline she says:—"I bought three bottles of Nerviline while in Canada and treated my neighbors to some of it, and all think it the best medicine for internal or external pain they have ever used." Nerviline deserves such a commendation, for it is the most powerful, penetrating, and certain remedy for pain of all kinds. Take no substitute.

The Air is Full of Christmas.

If you want to go where it fairly bubbles with good cheer, look down the long length of the Peterborough Bookstore. See the throngs of delighted people. Crowds at the doll show—crowds at the book show—crowds at the Xmas card show—crowds at the game show—crowds at the plush goods show—crowds at the leather goods show—crowds at the silver show—crowds at the fancy novelties show—crowds at the picture book show. Choice for the educated—choice for the refined—choice for the children—choice for the masses. Everyone waited on, none being neglected.

Lost One Billion Dollars.

Cleveland's message, declaring the United States' position on the Venezuelan question, has caused a panic in the States and its citizens are reported to have lost a cool $1,000,000,000. But this does not affect the people of Peterborough in buying their Christmas presents, although money is scarce enough here. Here are a few of the hard-time prices LeGros is offering in pipes, cigars, etc. Fine imported cigars of the following brands: Por Larranaga, Diaz y'Garcia, Manuel Garcia, and Jose Morales, from $3.50 per box upwards. The celebrated B. B. B. pipes will be sold at cost and we have the best stock in Canada. In smokers' sundries we have some lines that will open your eyes and the prices will astonish you. Our stock of domestic cigars we will sell to day and to-morrow below cost. Don't forget to look at our window when you are passing up George street. The quality of goods is the best in town. Remember the number, 329 George street. ALIVE C. LEGROS.

Suitable.

Nothing more suitable for a Christmas present than a dinner or tea set or a lovely lamp. China Hall has the assortment and prices to suit the times. Buy early.

Save You Thinking Time

WHAT THE PEOPLE ARE SAYING.

That Sam Hughes should be drummed out of the Orange Order.—C. W. Sawers.

That this is not like Christmas weather.—Everybody.

That two weeks from to-day will decide who will be Mayor.—The Ballots.

That the Mayoralty is a bother, anyway.—James Kendry.

That we are of very great importance—to the candidates—at present.—The Electors.

That the discussion on that Orange meeting should be dropped.—C. W. Sawers.

That this weather will be good for us.—The Doctors and Druggists.

That the annual C. W. A. big bicycle meet will be held in Peterborough next year.—All Ontario.

That life isn't worth the living.—The Curlers and Hockeyists.

That he wouldn't occupy a seat at the Council Board again if he was paid for it.—Councillor Cobb.

That he would like to have the yeas and nays taken on the question.—Councillor Sawers.

That it will be no fun grappling with the sewerage and permanent pavements questions next year.—The Councillors.

That the bad roads have made the Christmas trade not as brisk as usual.—The merchants.

That there should be more crossing sweepers placed on duty—The pedestrians.

That they won't run if they are not entitled to be returned by acclamation.—Councillors Brady and Mason.

That there will be trouble when those two wayward girls get out of the Mercer—The Magistrate.

That if England and the Yankees went to war on the Venezuela boundary question the former "wouldn't do a thing" to New York, Brooklyn, Baltimore, Boston and a few other of those seaport towns—Everybody.

CHURCH CHIMES.

The Decoration Chapter of St. Luke's Guild is busily engaged in the work of Christmas decoration.

Novello's "Like as the Heart Desireth the Water Brooks" was sung in St. Luke's church last night, Miss Long taking the solo.

The Christmas anthem in St. Luke's church will be Lloyd's "Arise Shine, for thy Light is Come," and the Te Deum will be by Dykes.

There will be two celebrations of the Holy Communion in St. Luke's on Christmas Day, at 8 a.m., and at the close of the 11 o'clock service.

Rev. J. C. Davidson assisted in St. Luke's church last night.

There will be a children's service in St. Luke's church next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Parents and friends are invited to attend.

Rev. Edward Cragg conducted the morning service in the George street church, yesterday, the pastor being absent in Keene, where he delivered the anniversary sermon.

The George street Methodist church had the largest attendance, last evening, that it has had in some time, the body of the church and the galleries being crowded. The music was especially worthy of mention.

A quartette composed of Mr. and Mrs. Jones, Miss M. Fowler and Mr. G. W. Mulligan sang "Nearer My God to Thee" in perfect harmony, yesterday, in St. Andrew's church.

The regular weekly meeting of the Charlotte street Epworth League will be held on Tuesday (to-morrow) evening, at the usual hour, 8 o'clock, on account of the Sunday school anniversary which is to be held in the lecture room of the church to-night.

Last evening Mr. Jas. Brown sang a tenor solo in the George street Methodist church with good effect. Mr. Brown is just beginning his career as a soloist, and his work is greatly appreciated by the congregation.

"Peace, Peace, on Earth," was sung by a septette in the George street Methodist church last evening. Misses Vina, Clara and Annie Belleghem took the trio part, Messrs. Brown, Daly, Turner and Stitch sang the quartette, and the duet was taken by Miss Clara Belleghem and Mr. W. Daly.

Mr. Charles McKee sang "Hosannah in Excelcis" as a solo in the Murray street Baptist church, yesterday, and the rendition was greatly appreciated. Mr. McKee is the possessor of a very fine tenor voice, which has been carefully trained by Mr. W. H. Webster, choirmaster of St. Peter's, Toronto, for the past two years, and his solo of yesterday was the first opportunity which his friends have had of hearing him in public. He acquitted himself with great credit.

The morning anthem in the George Street Methodist Church was the well-known "Hark! the Herald Angels Sing." The soprano solo was taken by Miss Lumsden and the alto solo by Miss Macguire. During the offertory Miss Kernighan and Mrs. Seward sang a duet. In the evening the anthem "We have Seen His Star" was splendidly rendered. The bass solo part was taken by the basses in unision with great effect. Mr. James Brown took the tenor solo parts.

One Honest Man.

Dear Editor:—Please inform your readers, that if written to confidentially I will mail in a sealed letter, particulars of a genuine, honest home cure, by which I was permanently restored to health and manly vigor, after years of suffering from nervous debility, sexual weakness, night losses and weak shrunken parts. I was robbed and swindled by the quacks until I nearly lost faith in mankind, but thank heaven, I am now well, vigorous and strong, and wish to make this certain means of cure known to all sufferers. I have nothing to sell, and want no money, but being a firm believer in the universal brotherhood of man, I am desirous of helping the unfortunate to regain their health and happiness. Perfect secrecy assured. Address with stamp:—Mr. Edward Lambert. P. O Box 55, Jarvis, Ont.

THE MAYORALTY CONTEST.

Since the present incumbent of the office of Mayor announced his intention of retiring at the close of the present term, it was generally thought, when the question of of his successor was mentioned, that the oldest member of the Council, Mr. Cahill, was likely to succeed to the position without opposition. But the last few days have developed energetic attempts to induce various persons to take upon them the duties of a candidate for the Mayor's chair. The leaders of this movement were chiefly Conservatives, and it would not appear that their action had any party significance. The following gentlemen, it is understood, were approached one after the other and urged to become candidates for Mayor: Messrs. John Carnegie, W. H. Moore, F. Mason, J. J. Hartley, and Wm. Yelland. These all declined, Mr. Yelland's refusal, however, as it has since turned out, being subject to the failure to find another gentlemen willing to take the position. Dr. Bell was also approached with a requisition and he, too, declined. Finally, Mr. Yelland was again asked to become a candidate and, as announced in Saturday's EXAMINER, consented, and has declared himself in the field. Mr. Cahill's declaration was also made the same day; so we have before us the certainty of a fight for the honour of filling the chair of the Chief Magistrate of Peterborough for 1896.

Mr. Cahill's term as a member of the council is as long, with the exception of one year as Sir Oliver Mowat's unbroken term as Premier of Ontario—he has been in the council twenty-two years consecutively. During that time his services must have been pretty fully recognized by his constituents to insure his repeated selection as councillor; and necessarily he must in that time have gained a thorough knowledge of our municipal affairs. He has always held a leading position in the council and has filled the chairmanship of the most important committees, the last being that of chairman of the Finance Committee. He has been thoroughly identified with the material progress of the town, and has been prominent in the several movements which have resulted in a decided increase of the industrial importance of Peterborough. On occasions when it was necessary for deputations, representing the council and the town, to appear before both Provincial and Federal Governments, he has been one of the most effective advocates in presenting our claims with clearness and force. He has also been successful in interviewing representatives of manufacturing concerns asking favours from the town and has lent his best efforts in that direction. In the past twenty-two years Mr. Cahill must have, in his representative capacity, devoted a large portion of his time and energy to the promotion of the town's interests, and to such an extent as to justify his feeling that before retiring from municipal life he has a good claim upon the honour of occupying the position of Mayor. No doubt during his term Mr. Cahill may have felt it his duty to take positions that failed to command the endorsation of every citizen, but it must be admitted that his course, upon the whole, has been influenced by a sincere desire to advance the best interests of the town. It cannot be for a moment doubted that the opposition to Mr. Cahill is due to persons influenced by a desire to exclude a Roman Catholic from the position of Mayor and to have a pronounced temperance man elected to the office. With the former of these motives we, on principle, have no sympathy. No man's honest religious convictions should be a bar to his serving either the state or the municipality. His qualifications for the performance of the duties of the position he seeks should be the only criterion. With regard to the latter, it is an open question, a much debated question, upon which the electors of Peterborough have on different occasions been about equally divided—as to how far a man may be expected to carry his zeal for prohibition and temperance, and as to the wisdom of making such qualifications the sole test of fitness for office.

Mr. Yelland in deciding to become a candidate has exercised the undoubted right of every citizen to aspire to the highest municipal office in the gift of the people. He has been a resident of Peterborough for a great many years, and has been unusually successful in both building up a substantial business and in winning the general high esteem of his fellow citizens for his many commendable qualities of character. He is a man of strong convictions, resolute in carrying out what he conceives to be right, and of undoubted integrity. He has also had a large experience of municipal affairs, having represented No. 3 ward in the council for thirteen years, and while in the council gave good service to the citizens in his representative capacity. There can be no doubt that Mr. Yelland has the courage of his convictions—he states without reserve that he had taken the stand, that if no person else could be found to oppose Mr. Cahill he would be the man to do so. He has had a life-long and inveterate hostility to the liquor traffic in every form, and has been prominently identified with every movement in the direction of not only restricting the traffic, but absolutely prohibiting it, and gained many friends and made many enemies while in the council on the strength of the fearless persistence of his endeavours to restrict the traffic in strong drink and to mitigate its evil effects. On other civic questions demanding his attention as a representative during his long term of office, he took such a position as won for him the confidence of the ward for which he sat, and from the representation of which he retired of his own free will. He was always solicitous for the economical expenditure of the people's money, and at the same time anxious that the interests of the town should be advanced, and unflinchingly carried out the policy that commended itself to his good business judgment. Though several years retired from active business pursuits, Mr. Yelland's large material stake in the town, has kept alive his interest in its material advancement, and the moral courage that is a distinguishing feature of his character is shown by his accepting a candidature which other citizens, whose chances under ordinary circumstances might be considered good, did not feel justified in accepting. Evidently Mr. Yelland has entered the fight with a determination to win, and his indomitable perseverance, in the event of his friends who have placed him in the field seconding his efforts faithfully, will make the contest, brief though it must necessarily be, a sharp one.

The two candidates are before the people and every ratepayer has a full knowledge of the career of each, and a full knowledge of the fitness of each to occupy the important position to which he aspires. No elector need have any difficulty, arising from lack of knowledge of the merits of the respective candidates, in deciding how to cast his or her ballot. It is to be hoped that the contest will be carried on in a spirit which should mark the action of intelligent citizens in their endeavour to decide which has the best claim upon the suffrages of the citizens—which will best manage the affairs of the town for the coming year.

DIABETES CURABLE.

Given up to Die—Uses Dodd's Kidney Pills and is Cured by Eight Boxes.

KIRKFIELD (Special), Dec. 23.—Mr. Duncan McKenzie, miller and lumberman of this place, had returned from Kansas lately. Had failed in health and strength, had lost fifty pounds in weight. Was given up by his physician as well as by specialists in Toronto and by himself and friends. Now comes a change—he says in a letter to Dodd's Medicine Co.: "After commencing with your Dodd's Kidney Pills I got help inside of two weeks. I took eight boxes in eight weeks, am completely cured, not a symptom left, general health good. Have regained my old health and weight. Had been bothered with heart and liver, both have vanished with the diabetes. I can walk briskly for miles instead of crawling as before. Am a brother of the President of the Toronto Street Railway Co., and well known here." Diabetes is set down as "incurable—but Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure.

DRUG STORE.

A man's health carries him through the world. He depends on it for enjoyment, for happiness, for success, for the achievement of anything he has in hand. Americans take big chances. They risk everything in business. They have confidence in their brains and their ability. The American business man is active, flexible, elastic. Knock him down with failure and he is up again in a minute. As long as he keeps his health, failure doesn't mean anything to him. He has lost a little time, but that is all. If he can keep his health, he will go on to success. He feels sure of that, and yet his health is the very thing he neglects more than anything else. His health is the rope by which he climbs to success. It behooves him to keep the rope in good condition, and not to neglect broken strands. When the rope of health breaks even a little bit, it should be mended at once. It is easier to keep health than it is to regain it. When a man feels himself running down, when he realizes a loss of vitality and energy, he must call a halt. He is on a down grade. The strands of his rope are parting rapidly.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has helped thousands of men in just this condition. It makes health, it makes pure, rich blood, it forces out impurities and kills germs. It doesn't make any difference what name you call your trouble by—dyspepsia—kidney disease—rheumatism—consumption—skin disease, the "Golden Medical Discovery" will cure it absolutely. None of these diseases can retain hold on the body when it is full of rich, pure blood.

Every man who cares to keep his health should have Dr. Pierce's "Common Sense Medical Adviser"—a finely illustrated book of 1008 pages, sent to any address on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to cover customs and mailing only.

NEAR THE FINISH.

Closing Days of the Cardwell Campaign.

A REVIEW OF THE SITUATION.

Mr. Willoughby's Joke—His Explanation of the Remarkable Letter—High Price and Great Demand for Straw — The Election Fund Evidently Recuperated.

Orangeville, Dec. 21.—Cabinet Ministers may roll through Cardwell in their luxurious private car and make eloquent speeches in defence of Federal coercion and commercial restriction, but the real power of the Conservative campaign is centred in the person of Mr. Robert Birmingham, who, in this contest, occupies a position somewhat analogous to that of the Tammany "boss." He is the director of the gang of workers who swarmed into the riding after the completion of their labors in North Ontario, reinforced by accessions from different parts of the country and by a replenished election fund. The charge of bribery in elections is so frequently made that it attracts little attention from those who are disposed to regard it merely as a piece of political hyperbole resulting from the over-excitement of the struggle, but in the present instance it is no exaggeration to say that a more shamelessly corrupt election never was fought in any constituency in Canada. An army of operators, many of them experienced and unscrupulous, has been imported into the riding for the purpose of securing votes, no matter how, for the Ministerial candidate. The townships are overrun with these persons, who are working the concessions and sidelines with an industry born of a determination to win the fight, let the cost be what it may..

The opponents of the Government are relying upon their own resources, and they are making a gallant fight of it, but they have to reckon not only with those Conservtaives who from motives of party loyalty, or, it may be, a conception of patriotic duty, are taking a legitimate part in the contest, but with the efforts of a great crowd of operators who have been set to work to try and persuade the undecided and to corrupt the venal portion of the electorate. It is a fact that in some instances pressure has been brought to bear upon civil servants to compel them against their own inclination to enter the constituency and take part in the campaign. Mr. Birmingham, assisted by Mr. R. S. White, ex-M.P., directs the operations of the workers from the Conservative headquarters in this town, and two more industrious men that these it would be hard to find. Here speakers, sideline men and mesengers are dispatched to all parts of the riding, and here the councils of the party take place. All day and far into the night men from the country districts are ascending the stairway to the headquarters and descending it again. They lounge about the doors awaiting their turn, and when it comes they are taken charge of by the Lookout Committee and ushered into the presence at the head of the stairs. The veil of secrecy is drawn upon what transpires at each successive interview, but the complacent expression which adorns the faces of the men upon retiring indicates that the audiences have not been other than agreeable. No farmer in Cardwell can remember that the price of straw was ever as high as it is during this campaign, or that the demand for that commodity was greater. The extreme anxiety of the Government to win the seat is evidenced in more ways than by the lavish and corrupt expenditure of money. The Ministers have overcome their dignity sufficiently to permit them to write letters to influential men in the riding whose support they have alienated, pitifully appealing to them in the name of the old chieftain, Sir John Macdonald, not to desert them at a time when a defeat may mean party disaster. In public the Conservatives are loudly boasting that the seat is theirs, and that they are assured of a handsome majority, but in the caucus they do not disguise the fact that even with their splendid organization, their money bags and their workers, public sentiment may be too strong to be smothered.

The Ministers are making an effort to possess themselves of the Roman Catholic vote of Adjala, which is largely Liberal, but the electors of that faith have little confidence in their school policy, and less in the gentleman who has pledged himself on all sides of the question. While it is undeniable that the McCarthyite candidate will secure some Liberal votes here and there, the probability is that the Conservatives will suffer more than the Liberals from the inroads of the third party. Mr. Henry is making a plucky fight, and he has been ably assisted by Sir Richard Cartwright, Mr. J. D. Edgar, M.P., Mr. James Mo-Mullen, M.P., Dr. Landerkin, M.P., Mr. Frank Pedley, Mr. Frank Denton, and others Mr. Thomas Bain, M.P., Hon. John O'Donohue, Mr. F. J. Gillespie, who fought a gallant, but a losing fight in North Ontario. Mr. J. E. Day and Mr. J. C. Walsh of the Toronto Young Men's Liberal Club will also take the field for the Liberal candidate. Mr. McCarthy is conducting a personal canvass on behalf of his candidate.

A JOKE.

Mr. Willoughby's Explanation Touching on the Remarkable Document Given Out a Few Days Ago.

The publication of the Willoughby-Nesbitt draft agreement is the sensation of the day. Besides its appearance in Toronto papers, which are being widely distributed throughout the riding, the local McCarthy organ issued an extra for the benefit of the farmers attending the market. Mr. Willoughby dismisses the whole thing as a huge joke turned to blackmail purposes. He was out in the country last night and could not be found. This morning he returned and was asked by a Globe reporter for his explanation of the document. He could not at first say whether he would give his reply from the platform at his meeting here this afternoon or give it privately.

At the afternoon meeting Mr. Willoughby made the folowing statement: "I did not intend to allude to a personal matter, a roorbach which has got into the morning papers. But I will say now that it is all a huge joke. Everything which is in the papers was known to men in the high places of my party a year ago. It is nothing more than a joke played upon the fatuous and gullible Dr. Nesbitt. I need not tell you that on no condition would I have retired from the election in Cardwell. The electors of Cardwell know that I have fought the battles of Conservatives in this county for the past 10 years. It is not vanity, I think, to say that I have been fighting with more or less success. It has been my ambition since a young man, as many of my friends know, to carry the Conservative standard in my native county. You did select me, and I was regularly nominated, and I told you, as I tell you now, that I have no intention to withdraw, and whether we succeed in the election or go down in the fight, I will never retreat from my position. It is a proud moment for me, as I said at Mr. Foster's meeting here the other night, to have been chosen to bear the standard which has been borne in the past by so many illustrious men. I hope I will never tarnish that standard by anything which I may do. After being through the country I am ready to say I will carry it to victory.

"Don't be carried away by the cheap campaign lies resorted to by my opponents in the last moments of a hard contest. Don't be deluded. Think what the results will be. It is not a personal matter with me altogether. It is not my fight. It is yours, and even if what they say were true, and I were as unworthy as these men say, I am still true to Conservatives principles as I always have been. I hope you will not be carried away, but that you will cast your ballots for me in this election."

Col. O'Brien, who was allowed half an hour, was received with enthusiasm enough to show that there was a goodly number of McCarthyites in the meeting. He pressed Mr. Willoughby on the subject of the letter until that gentleman rose and told the electors they would find a full explanation in Monday's papers.

Sir Charles H. Tupper followed. He said the whole matter was that Mr. Willoughby was the victim of an old election dodge.

A TELEPHONE IN THE STOMACH

Peculiar Phenomena of Human Nature

In an age when that subtle force electricity is presenting wonders to the world almost daily, and the Wizzard of Menlo Park has become the hero of the hour, there seems to be nothing that we may not expect in this direction. But it was not left to an Edison to establish a telephone in the stomach of human beings. The Great Maker of man in the economy of human nature provided such an instrument centuries ago. It is a fact that within the stomach of every man and woman there is a little instrument that telephones to the nerve centres in the brain as quickly as any food reaches that part. When for any reason this communication is stopped the food is undigested and physical trouble ensues. With word promptly sent from stomach to nerve centres, these supply the necessary juice that aids digestion, and nature successfully does her part, good health is enjoyed and man is able to perform with energy and pleasure his everyday duties. It will happen at times that these nerve centres will become deranged and lose their forces; then it is that a remedy must be supplied, just as the skill of the electrician is necessary when something goes wrong with the office telephone. South American Nervine is the electrician, so far as the human body is concerned. It is a medicine unique and exceptional in this particular that it works directly upon the nerve centres, and when these are out of order it quickly places them in proper repair and completeness. Nearly all diseases, especially indigestion, dyspepsia, nervousness, general debility, sick headache and disordered liver arise through trouble at the nerve centres. You can just as readily count on South American Nervine effecting a proper cure in all such cases as you can depend upon the electrician of the Bell Telephone Co., removing any derangements that has taken place in your telephone. THE VEXED SCHOOL QUESTION.

Greenway Government "Sat" on It Four Hours Yesterday—What Archbishop Langevin Wants

Winnipeg, Dec. 20.—The Provincial Cabinet had a four hours' session today preparing the reply to the Ottawa Government's communication on the school question. The task was not completed, but the Ministers will resume consideration of the question tomorrow morning and hope to have the documents mailed at 12.40 so it will reach Ottawa on Monday.

Edmonton, Dec. 20.—Replying to an address from Roman Catholic citizens, Archbishop Langevin referred to the school question in the following words: "Roman Catholics desire that their children should receive a religious education, not the meagre half-hour spoken of in the address, but every hour and all day long, to make their children first good, then learned."

He ridiculed the idea of appointing a commission on the school question. The question had been before the courts and the country for five years and he honored the men now in power in Ottawa who were prepared to give them this simple act of justice, the right to educate their children according to their convictions.

NANCY MALONE'S DEATH.

Evidence at the Inquest Showed That the Woman Was Intoxicated.

Markham, Dec. 20.—Coroner Doherty held an inquest last evening on the body of Nancy Malone, who was burned to death in her house on Wednesday evening.

Evidence was given showing that the deceased had been intoxicated that afternoon.

After viewing the premises the jury returned a verdict that Nancy Malone came to her death by suffocation by fire and smoke, and that the fire was accidental, and had evidently been caused by the explosion of a lamp.

Snaps From Collingwood.

Collingwood, Dec. 20.—Twenty steamers are laid up in this port for the winter.

Eighteen men are employed in the Georgian Bay fish freezing establishment.

Mr. Gedley and a staff of men have gone to Lake Manitoba, where they are to build two steamers this winter for the Reid Fish Company. One of their steamers will be fitted up with an immense ammonia freezing apparatus, the first ever put on a steamer plying in fresh water. It is to freeze fresh fish. She will also be fitted up for a passenger steamer. The other steamer is to be used for a fishing tug and for towing.

"Several years ago, I caught a severe cold, attended with a terrible cough that allowed me no rest, either day or night. The doctors, after working over me to the best of their ability, pronounced my case hopeless, and said they could do no more for me. A friend, learning of my trouble, sent me a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which I began to take, and very soon I was greatly relieved. By the time I had used the whole bottle, I was completely cured. I have never had much of a cough since that time, and I firmly believe that Ayer's Cherry Pectoral saved my life."—W. H. ABOUT VENEZUELA.

Some Information Regarding the Country.

HISTORY OF THE PRESENT DISPUTE

Mr. Barnet Laurance, the Only Venezuelan Consul in Canada, Tells the Story of the Trouble—Englishmen More Respected Than United States People.

Toronto, Dec. 21.

In view of the prominent position which Venezuela occupies in the news of the day, it may be interesting to note that the only accredited representative of that noisy little republic in Canada is at present a resident of Toronto. A World reporter having ascertained the fact, called upon the gentleman at his home, 297 Sherbourne-street yesterday afternoon, and had an interesting conversation with him on the question which is now exciting so much interest both in Europe and America. Mr. B. Laurance, for such is the name of the only Venezuelan consul in Canada, has been the Canadian representative of the republic for about eight years, only a portion of which time, however, he has resided in Toronto. He is not a native Venezuelan, but has paid several visits to that country, and is thoroughly conversant with its history, its Government and its people. He has enjoyed the confidence of the Government to such an extent that after the five years of service he was decorated with the Order of Bolivar—Bolivar being the name of the leader to whom Venezuela owes its independence. This order and that of the Legion of Honor are the only decorations conferred by the republic.

"For a history of the dispute," he said in answer to a question; "it will be necessary to go back to European history, to go back, in fact, to the war of independence between Spain and Holland. On achieving her independence, Holland was granted certain territory in South America, and with this grant the trouble began. The debatable ground in those days was between the possessions of Holland and Spain. In 1814, when Jerome was king of Westphalia, England and Holland engaged in war, and the end of it was that England took possession of all the Dutch territory in South America. Afterwards, when the war was over, England re-ceded to Holland certain defined territory, now known as Dutch Guiana. The defining of this territory has left Holland out of the present entanglement. When, in 1821, Venezuela succeeded in obtaining her independence, she and England occupied the same position as neighbors that Spain and Holland formerly occupied, and the dispute as to the boundary line was transferred from Spain and Holland to England and Venezuela.

"In 1873 Sir Philip Schomburk was commissioned to ascertain the boundary line and the limits which he fixed, it was considered at that time, practically settled the question. But the Venezuelan Government had been in existence for only a short time and was not sufficiently strong to be capable of ratifying the Schomburk settlement and it was never so ratified as to make it binding."

"What do you think of the proposal of the United States to appoint a commission to ascertain the boundary line?" asked the reporter.

"There is only one way," replied Mr. Laurance, "in which the real frontier can possibly be found, and that is by searching the archives of Madrid and The Hague. There is nothing in Venezuela that will throw any light upon the subject. They have nothing down there but a few antiquated maps, which may be interesting enough as relics, but which, as helps in ascertaining boundary lines, would be almost valueless. If President Cleveland really wants to get at the facts of the case a friendly request to the Government at Madrid for permission to search the archives would do more towards getting at the information required than anything else he can possibly do."

"What do you think will be the outcome of the present entanglement?" asked the reporter.

"One thing is very certain. The interference of the United States Government will not result in any good to Venezuela. The Venezuelans will never rely on the Americans. They look upon them as a people who would maintain the bluff until they (the Venezuelans) got into the lurch and would then desert them and leave them more defenceless than ever. The people themselves have no quarrel with England. They like the English people, and the word of an Englishman, is the most solemn asseveration you will hear, even among the natives. They have no very exalted idea of the hospitality of the people of the United States and have not much confidence in their promises. There is a very large trade between Venezuela and Great Britain, particularly in hides and coffee, and while most of the merchants you see down there are Germans, most of the goods are English. The fact is that the people of Venezuela themselves would pay little attention to the boundary question were it not for the efforts of President Crespo to create some political advantage for himself out of the situation and to direct attention from local dissensions by intensifying the importance of the international question. President Crespo and President Cleveland are playing the same game and with the same motives."

"What about Venezuela's fighting powers in case of war?"

"The soldiers are a brave and wiry lot of fellows. They would go into a jungle in their bare feet and fight like wildcats, and even an English army, fighting against them in their own country, would have enough to do to hold their own. But their whole boundary line is defenceless, and their chief towns and cities are at the mercy of any fleet that might direct its guns against them. Caracas, the capital city, is only 5 1-2 miles from the sea, and the island of Trinidad, at the mouth of the Orinoco River, is a convenient British possession. The town of La Guayra is a small town situated behind the breakwater, and is practicaly defenceless. Maracaibo is also defenceless, and Puerto Capello, the only other town of any importance, except Valencia, which is in the interior, has an old fort that one shot from a modern gun would blow to pieces.

"Venezuela has a population of about three million inhabitants, and not more than one hundred families of these are pure-blooded. The rest are a mixture of Spanish, negro and Indian, the proportion of Spanish blood being about one-sixteenth. President Crespo is a full-blooded Indian. The city of Caraccas has a population of from 60,000 to 70,000 people. It has its street cars, its electric lights and its palatial hotels, and is almost European in appearance. It was nearly swallowed up by an earthquake in 1812, when 12,000 of its people were destroyed."

The disputed territory, lying between Venezuela and British Guiana, is about 25,000 square miles in extent. Mr. Laurance says that it contains some of the richest gold mines in the world. South Africa, he says, would pale into insignificance beside it in the matter of gold production. The Callao, one of the principal mines, has yielded its shareholders millions of pounds sterling in a few years.

British Guiana is itself comparatively powerless. It has a small force of constabulary, and in addition a detachment of the West India Regiment. The principal towns are many days' journey from the disputed territory.

Mr. Laurance is convinced that Venezuelan control of the disputed territory would be disastrous to the interests of capitalists interested in mining. The officials, he says, would simply bleed them to death. He gives an incident to illustrate the insatiable greed of these officials. Augustura Bitters, known to everybody, in the habit of taking a "dash in his tipple," was called after the town of Augustura (since changed to Cuidad Bolivar), where it was first manufactured by Dr. Seigert, a celebrated chemist. So relentlessly did the Venezuelan officials prey upon him that he put his recipe in his pocket, closed up his factory and betook himself to the Island of Trinidad, where the bitters have since been produced.

"I am convinced," said Mr. Laurance in concluding his talk with the reporter, "that the present Government of Venezuela wouldn't last for a month were it not for the President's success in directing attention from the local issues that threaten to involve him in disaster."

Mr. Laurance has had no official communication from the Venezuelan Government since diplomatic relations were suspended about twelve months ago: but his commission as consul has never been withdrawn.

The dyspeptic carries a dreadful load on his back. It seems as if he were really made up of two men. One of them ambitious, brainy and energetic; the other sick, listless, peevish and without force. The weak man weighs the other one down. The dyspeptic may be able to do pretty good work one day, and the next day because of some little indiscretion in eating, he may be able to do nothing at all. Most cases of dyspepsia start with constipation. Constipation is the cause of nine-tenths of all human sickness. Some of its symptoms are sick and bilious headache, dizziness, sour stomach, loss of appetite, foul breath, windy belchings, heart burn, pain and distress after eating. All these are indicative of derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels, and all are caused by constipation. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the quickest, easiest and most certain cure for this condition. They are not violent in action.

MR. JOHN McKEE,
Druggist, Peterboro:

Dear Sir—I have been troubled with Neuralgia more or less for 25 years. For the past 10 years my sufferings have been intense, until last winter, when you advised me to try a box of "Templeton's Pink Powders." After taking three or four powders all pain left. I continued them, however, until three boxes were taken, and have had no recurrence of the pain for about nine or ten months, and would strongly advise anyone suffering from that most painful of troubles to try "Templeton's Pink Powders." Yours truly,

G. J. JOPLING,
Bridgenorth, Ont.

Shrewdness of a wellknown City Merchant.

HE KNEW WHAT WAS GOOD FOR HIM.

In winter when Canadians spend a large portion of their time indoors and cannot have the same variety of fresh food as in summer and fall, indigestion and dyspepsia afflict a majority. "If anybody will tell me that dyspepsia in its advanced stages is perfectly curable," said a Toronto merchant, "I will take his word. Personally I run no risks. As soon as I feel a sense of weight in the stomach, after a meal, I know that my blood is sluggish in circulation. In my business I cannot take much exercise, and I fight the first sign of stomach troubles with Scott's Sarsaparilla. It has never failed me, and has saved me many a doctor's bill."

Scott's Sarsaparilla possesses medicinal properties superior to all other so-called sarsaparillas made. As a remedy for indigestion, rheumatism, pimples, scrofula and all blood diseases, physicians state that its equal was never known. Sold at $1 per bottle, of all dealers.

Sold by J. D. Tully, Peterborough.

CHARLOTTE STREET METHODIST CHURCH.

Sunday School Anniversary Sunday—Address to the Children by Rev. S. J. Shorey.

The anniversary of the Charlotte street Methodist church was celebrated on Sunday by special services. At the morning service there was a large attendance, the children of the Sunday school being well represented, the attendance nearly filling the middle range of seats which were set apart for their occupancy. The orchestra of the Sunday school occupied the organ loft, and with Mrs. McClelland at the organ, furnished effective accompaniments for the hearty singing which was led by the Sunday school pupils. The hymns and anthems sung were appropriate to the occasion, and the spirit with which they were rendered gave evidence that the hearts of the children were in this department of public worship.

The services were conducted by Rev. S. J. Shorey of Lindsay, who read as the Scripture lesson the first part of the third chapter of the Book of Proverbs, recounting the excellence and the benefits of wisdom, with a cursory comment which served to forcibly impress its teaching. The reverend gentleman chose as the text of his special sermon Psalm cxliii, v. 10—"Teach me to do Thy will for Thou art my God."

The speaker in familiar language, adapted to the capacity of the children, pointed out that the obligation to do God's will implied more than the mere act of obedience—that it involved both pleasing God and benefitting him or her who does God's will. The necessity of a willingness to learn were cleverly pointed out. Thousands were willing to receive all that God sent but were unwilling to learn what God wished them to do. It was impossible for even God to teach us if we were unwilling to learn. God was giving us all that he could now, all our capacity would permit. By teaching our capacities for receiving would expand, and God would give up to the measure of that capacity. In simple language the preacher clearly showed that God was our friend and was freely disposed to do us good. He showed this by creating man in his own image, and when he fell he redeemed him, not with corruptible things like silver and gold—but God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son. Besides God had gone to to prepare a place for us and has provided, means to lead us to the mansions thus prepared. All these things God had done for us, and thus had shown his love to us. Amongst the many things that God wished us to learn, the first and most difficult was self-denial. Self-denial in youth paved the way for the realization of higher joys and higher duties in after life. The bitterest thought that could come into a man's life was the thought that foolishly indulgent parents had not taught him self-denial, and had thus deprived him of the consequent benefits. A Christian bearing his cross only meant a relinquishment of temporary pleasures, in order to fit us for the enjoyment of higher pleasures and enjoyments. He had to give up, perhaps, a good thing for something better, and something better for the best. Special emphasis was laid upon the duty and beauty of loving others, especially those who did not love us. The great lesson for the world to learn was the conquering power of love. We could not measure the lasting and enduring power of love and forbearance shown to our neighbours. It was our duty to love all men, even those who did not love us. This course might seem to yield little fruit, but our duty was to do God's will and He would take care of the results. The world was in a terribly deplorable condition, from lacking the application of the mighty power of love. The holy and unselfish lives of Christian men and women were the means of uplifting the world—God spoke through them. The truth was strongly impressed that God was our best friend, our everlasting friend in all troubles and perplexities.

In the afternoon there was a splendid rally of the Sunday school pupils—an open session which was favoured with another very timely and effective address by Mr. Shorey. The orchestra was present and the singing by the pupils was of an unusually bright and hearty character.

In the evening Rev. Mr. Shorey preached another stirring and timely sermon to a very large congregation.

To-night the anniversary entertainment of the school will be given in the school room of the church.

Look out for colds at this season. Keep yourself well and strong by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great tonic and blood purifier.

SCHOOL PRESENTATIONS.

Teachers Remembered by Pupils.

At the close of the school of section No. 4, Smith, the following address was presented:

To Mr. H. C. Mann, Teacher S. S. No. 4, Smith:

TEACHER,—At the close of this another year of our school, we feel we should not let the opportunity pass without expressing to you the feelings of respect and affection we entertain towards you for the many acts of kindness you have shown us, and for the trouble you have always taken with us in advancing our interests in your position as teacher. We know that in many cases we were not deserving of that kind consideration you have at all times extended to us, overlooking our many faults and thoughtless annoyances.

As an expression of good-will, we beg you to accept these gauntlets as a slight token of the es eem in which you are held by your scholars, who e earnest desire is that you may be long spared to preside over this school and promote the welfare of those entrusted to your charge.

In conclusion, we desire to offer you our earnest hopes that the approaching holiday season may be one of real pleasure to you, and that you may enjoy to the fullest extent all the compliments of the season—A Merry Christmas and A Happy New Year.

On behalf of the school,

ALLEN PARKER,
MARY ELLIOTT,
LOTTIE DAVIDSON,
MAGGIE HALL,
MABEL DAVIDSON.

DOURO.

The following address accompanied by the gift of an elegant morocco-bound travelling companion, was presented to the teacher of School Section, No. —, Douro, Mr. T. J. Wallace, on the occasion of his leaving the school to continue his studies to a higher grade in Peterborough:

To Mr. T. J. Wallace,

DEAR TEACHER,—It is with feelings of regret that we assemble this evening to bid you farewell on the eve of your departure from amongst us.

During the last two years we have met every day in our respective positions; as teacher and pupils the relations that have existed between us have been the most pleasing. Your untiring energy and perseverance for our welfare never failed to secure our warmest admiration, and, at times, though our waywardness may have called for patience, your wise and kind government always succeeded in making the work of our school a marked success, which was plainly told by the creditable number of successful candidates at the Entrance and Public School Leaving Examinations.

In the social circle you will be greatly missed, as your presence always contributed to the general harmony of every sport and entertainment.

Please accept this small gift as a slight token of friendship, for the kind relations that existed between us.

And that your future may be blessed by the brightest success, we conclude by wishing you the compliments of the season.

[Signed]

JOS. O'CONNOR, LENA WALSH,
ROBT. J. BARRY, TERESA TOWNS,
THOS. O'BRIEN, MARY O'BRIEN.

Douro, Dec. 20th, 1895.

Health and strength carry us through dangers and make us safe in the presence of perils. A perfectly strong man with rich, pure blood, has nothing to fear from germs. He may breathe in the bacilli of consumption with impunity. If there is a weak spot where the germs may find an entrance to the tissues, then the trouble begins. Disease germs propagate with lightning-like rapidity. Once in the blood, the only way to get rid of them is to kill them. This is what Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is for. It purifies the blood. That means that it kills the germs, but that is only part of what it does. It assists digestion by stimulating the secretion of digestive fluids, so promoting assimilation and nutrition; purifies and enriches the blood and so supplies the tissues with the food they need. It builds up strong, healthy flesh and puts the whole body into a disease-resisting state.

—FOR THE—

CHRISTMAS, 1895

Finds us at the close of another year, and we are glad to wish our patrons the Compliments of the Season, and prosperity for another twelve months. We appreciate the confidence in us, expressed by those who have favoured the Golden Lion with their trade, as in the past, for the fifty two weeks gone by. To those who have come to us to try the merits of our goods and learn of the cordial and excellent ways of our store, we give much thanks, saying most heartily that nothing will be let undone to please and to inculcate the knowledge that ours is a perfectly comfortable store to trade at.

Wishing you all the Compliments of the Season.

THE JINGO POLICY

And What It Would Cost the United States.

LITTLE REPUBLICS OUT GUNNING.

Gen. Miles Reports on the Coast Defences —They are Utterly Useless—Poet Watson's Plea for Peace—Comments of London Papers on the [illegible]

New York, Dec. [illegible] Evening Post to-night prints the following editorial on the message of President Cleveland regarding the Venezuelan dispute :

"As was to have been expected, the President's conversion to the jingo view of the Monroe doctrine has had an electrifying effect upon all the South American republics. They are all "out gunning" for wars and revolutions, marching through the streets of their capital, cheering and shouting and declaring their determination to fight all creation, and especially all European powers, with which they may be at odds, because now they feel sure that the United States will take their side in every such shindy. What a prospect this opens for us. A movement is said to be on foot for a conference of all the South American republics on the subject of the Monroe doctrine, with a view to bringing them into line under it, with the United States as the champion and protector of all of them. We would need a standing army of 500,000 men, a navy of 500 ships and a war expenditure of $1,000,000,000 a year to sustain this role, and we should also have to give up all other business and devote ourselves exclusively to war."

The Post makes editorial comment on letters received by the editor concerning the Venezuelan war dispute. The Post says : "We wish we could print the names of all the writers. If we could, it would show that no better expression of American morality, religion, learning and distinction in every field has ever seen the light in one spot on any subject. But why—we cannot help asking why—thousands will ask why—should the heathen have been allowed to rage so long and so furiously, when all this real patriotism, solid sense and high morality was kept dammed up, when a daily drop would have extinguished them long ago? Why have they been allowed to train up a whole generation of young barbarians, when a monthly sign of the cross would have broken up their infernal gatherings and hushed their diabolical music in the twinkling of an eye, and long ago?"

Further, The Post says : "We doubt if the voice of the clery has been so emphatic as it was yesterday since the firing of Sumter. It spoke in a tone of as pure and ardent patriotism, too, as it did in 1861—as faithfully expressing now the horror in which the moral sense recoils from the wicked war talk of President and Congress, as it did on the general alarm at threatened disunion. And the sermons were remarkably outspoken. Few of them were content with mere platitudes about peace. The directness and force with which the ablest clergymen in this city and throughout the country, as far as reported, addressed themselves to Mr. Cleveland's betrayal of the nation, were refreshing. Nor were the congregations behind the preachers in reprobating the President's mad appeal to the basest passions of the mob. He got his full of the bray of the mob on Wednesday and Thursday; on Friday and Saturday he was overwhelmed with the execrations of business men; on Sunday he received the most unanimous and crushing rebuke that the pulpit of this country ever addressed to a President. He made his appeal to the conscience of the mob: he has now heard from the conscience of the God-fearing people, and their judgment upon him leaves him morally impeached of high crimes and misdemeanors."

Continuing, the paper says : "It is extraordinary how some people mix up a plain question of morality and humanity with shadowy notions that the Monroe doctrine may somehow furnish justification for international villainy. 'We are reading everything we can get hold of about the Monroe doctrine,' say some moralists, in doubt. Such men, if they saw a brute beating his wife, would devote days and nights to a study of the Salic law to see if that covered the case. Now it is the decision of those who know most about the real Monroe doctrine that it has nothing whatever to do with this dispute, got up for he basest purposes; but if it were not so, and if the Monroe doctrine meant that a nation might act like a bloodthirsty wretch, might outrage all international rights and decencies, and rush madly into the vast calamity of a needless war, then a Christian and civilized community ought to speedily repudiate the Monroe doctrine with all the other works of the devil. Neither Monroe nor Cleveland neither doctrine nor sound and fury, can abrogate the first principles of private and public morality."

A POETIC APPEAL.

Mr. Watson, Talked of as the Laureate, Sings a song of Peace.

London, Dec. 23.—Mr. William Watson, who many persons imagine will be appointed Poet Laureate, has published the following poetic appeal to the United States :

"O, towering daughter, Titian of the West, behind a thousand leagues of foam secure;
Thou toward whom our inmost heart is pure of all intent:
Although thou threatenest with most unfilial hand thy mother's breast;
Not for one breathing space may earth endure the thought of war's intolerable cure for such vague pains as today they rest;
But if thou hast more strength than thou canst spend in tasks of peace and findst her yoke too tame,
Help us to smite the cruel, to befriend the succorless, and put the false to shame:
So shall the ages laud thee and thy name be lovely among nations to the end."

The Westminster Gazette says it fears the poet's appeal to America comes too late. There was a time, says The Gazette, when Cobden's dream of America's effective help for the Armenians might have been fulfilled, but now President Cleveland has created just that diversion upon which the Sultan has been counting all along.

Mr. Moncure D. Conway, the well-known author and journalist, in a lecture last evening, said he had no belief in the likelihood of war arising between Great Britain and the United States as a result of the Venezuelan dispute, still he felt it to be his duty to suggest that England appeal to the civilisation of mankind by inviting the powers of Europe to arbitrate the question whether or not the United States had a right to intervene in the British Venezuelan dispute.

The Pall Mall Gazette to-day prints an article in reference to the relations between Great Britain and the United States, in which it says : "We are still friends of the American, and as the excitement ebbs, the tide of sense returns. It is for every English influence to spread calmer thoughts and build a golden bridge by which the former kindness may return."

The Westminster Gazette, under the caption "Thank Goodness for the Holidays," protests against the inflammatory opinions published by the press, which, it says, "are breeding bad blood between England and America, and making thoughts of war familiar to the most peaceably inclined. "There is plenty of room," declares The Gazette, "for common sense to be exerted in England, as well as in the United States. It ought to be recognized that Americans have a warm attachment for the Monroe doctrine, and that there is a good deal of reason on their side."

He did it with his little hatchet.

UNCLE SAM'S DEFENCES.

General Miles Describes Them as in a Deplorable Condition.

Washington, D.C., Dec. 23.—Gen. Miles, commanding the army, has given out a statement by request in regard to the ability of the United States to defend itself in case of war. He said :

"I have just returned from an inspection of the harbors of the southern coast, and, like those of other sections of the country, I found them in an entirely defenceless condition. If war should break out at the present time, all we have in the south, or, in fact, anywhere else, with a few exceptions, would be a lot of obsolete guns on rotten carriages, which would fall over before they could be of any service. The country is in a deplorable condition for defence. There are only three modern high-powered guns in position in this country. Two of these are at the entrance to New York harbor and the third is at San Francisco.

"If Congress would make liberal appropriations, the coasts can be placed in condition for defence in two years' time. The work would cost in the neighborhood of $50,000,000.

"There are four ways by which the coast cities could be protected. The first is by floating batteries; that is, by battleships and monitors. These are expensive, costing $2,000,000 or $3,000,000 each, and are not so good for defensive purposes as other means. The second way is by land batteries, which could be built more quickly and would be more effective. The third way is by torpedoes and mining casemates.

"Without high-powered guns, however, it would be possible for an enemy to land a force, and explode the mining casemates, thus obviating this danger for its fleet. In the case of torpedoes, they would have to be placed so low as not to be visible at low tide. Otherwise they could be destroyed by means of rapid-fire guns. At high tides it would be possible for the light-draft vessels to pass over them. The Japanese at Wei-Hai-Wei passed over the torpedoes, and Farragut pursued a similar method. An enemy could do the same in our harbors.

"Regarding the land forces, no difficulty could be experienced in getting a million men in a month. The small army we have could be in the nature of a nucleus for other troops. What we need, however, is not men, but coast fortifications. After we get the fortifications we could get the men to operate the guns."

"Could the United States be invaded?"

"No, nor would an enemy care to invade it. All that would be necessary would be for him to place his ships off our coast and fire shell into our cities. This fire would drive millions of people from their homes and cause untold distress.

"But wouldn't we make an invasion of Canada? you ask. What would Canada be in exchange for New York? New York is worth a hundred Canadas. It is true that we would invade and capture Canada if we wanted to, but there would be no special advantage gained as a result. The wealth of 300 years is stored in Boston, New York and other great cities, and their loss would be very severe. We could not afford to lose them. They should be protected. In order to properly protect New York, 93 guns and 177 mortars are needed.

"On the Pacific Coast the same defenceless condition exists. Not a shovelful of dirt has been thrown up around Puget Sound for the protection of the cities lying on its shores. The British have a naval station at Esquimalt, and it could be used as a base against this country. While I was at Port Townsend I could hear every morning and evening the sunrise and sunset gun fired at that station."

The National Honor Smirched.

Boston, Dec. 23.—The Stadard, in an editorial says :

"With the aid of Senator Morgan and some of his clique, the proposal of the United States to submit any claim whatsoever to arbitration has all the elements of insincerity and humbug. The Behring Sea arbitration left a plain duty on the United States which even the President admits, but which has been ignored. Until we carry out the plain terms of an arbitration whose decision we have accepted, it is very much like hypocrisy to press the duty of arbitration on any one. Thanks to Senator Morgan and his brother jingoes, the national honor has been smirched."

COMMON SENSE RETURNING.

Sober Second Thought Getting In Its Work —Money Markets Better

New York, Dec. 23.—Wall-street breathed freer to-day, and there was in consequence a decided gain in prices. The market received the first impulse from London, where American securities opened with gains extending from two per cent. in some instances. This market followed quickly, and in the initial trading sharp rises were recorded in the entire list. Buying orders on a large scale then made their appearance in the market and a steady appreciation in values followed.

The buying was stimulated by the action of the New York Clearing House Association, which decided at a meeting held at noon to issue certificates of loans if required. This means that no brokerage concern with anything like marketable collateral need pay fancy rates for money, and is of the greatest importance to the street.

Almost simultaneously with the official announcement of the clearing house action, there were heavy offerings of money by J. P. Morgan & Co., Flower & Co. and other prominent firms, and call loans, which had commanded as high as 75 per cent. on pledge of fancy stocks as collateral, dropped quickly to six per cent. on the regular dividend payers and finally fell to three per cent. A feature of the day's business was the picking up of stocks for cash. The fact that the settlement at the stock exchange clearing house passed through successfully and a belief that President Cleveland will act promptly in the matter of replenishing the gold reserve in case Congress should delay both acted as a sustaining influence. Late in the day, the failure of H. L. Langhaar was announced, but this had no effect, as it is generally believed that the liabilities of the concern are small. The improvement in prices ranged from one to nine per cent., and at the close the gain was well maintained.

More Favorable in London

London, Dec. 23.—The operators on the exchange were inclined to-day to take a more favorable view of the situation than has prevailed since President Cleveland sent to Congress his message in regard to Venezuela. The movements generally were slightly upwards, but the dealings were chiefly in the nature of re-buying by the bears. Despatches from New York reporting that the market there opened firmer assisted to strengthen the market for American railroad securities.

London, Dec. 23, 5 p.m.—American securities were less panicky here to-day, perhaps, but with no material change. The fluctuations were violent. At the close they were at their lowest. The rush to sell bonds is still very great.

The fact that the slump in prices is no political manoeuvre on this side cannot be too strongly emphasized, but the result of a genuine scare on the part of the English nation over the revelation of the heights reached by jingoism in America. Representatives of the financial houses here, both English and American, were interviewed to-day. All take the most serious view of the situation. It is feared that the appointment of the Venezuelan commission means that the matters must drag on for months, to the detriment of international trade. American

Weak, Tired, Nervous

Women, who seem to be all worn out, will find in purified blood, made rich and healthy by Hood's Sarsaparilla, permanent relief and strength. The following is from a well known nurse:

"I have suffered for years with female complaints and kidney troubles and I have had a great deal of medical advice during that time, but have received little or no benefit. A friend advised me to take Hood's Sarsaparilla and I began to use it, together with Hood's Pills. I have realized more benefit from these medicines than from anything else I have ever taken. From my personal experience I believe Hood's Sarsaparilla to be a most complete blood purifier." MRS. C. CROMPTON, 71 Cumberland St., Toronto, Ontario.

CHRISTMAS.

In this hard-headed, matter-of-fact-age, in this business harried world, sentiment is not generally regarded as a negotiable commodity; but that heart must be very thickly crusted with the callous of care and cold practicality that does not thaw and soften a little in the sunshine of sentiment which the Christmas season, no matter how "the stormy winds do blow," brings with the dying days of December. How deep a thrill of happiness—never so transient but the memory of it lingers in grateful hearts from Christmas-tide to Christmas-tide—the Christ-established custom of gift-giving brings; and hearts that beat with no thought of the divine impulse that prompts their gifts, little think that these acts of kindness, commemmorate, though heedlessly and blindly, the wonderful gift of the Son of God to a world, bankrupt otherwise even in hope. When one considers the divine origin of Christmas, and the marvellous significance of the festival, it is no surprise that the season exercises a softening influence on humanity. And this gentle influence comes very appositely to the season when the earth—as it always should be at Christmas—is in the vigorous bonds of frost, when the snow—as it may do before morning—lies deep over all the land—when the fierce wind finds it way through the crazy dwellings and rent and worn rags of the poor. When these most need practical pity, the merciful God fills the human heart with the kindliest impulses, and it is given to us all to experience the divinely-guaranteed blessedness of giving to relieve the wants of the heirs to poverty and suffering. Our Divine Master made the poor His special wards, and His servants can do no more acceptable worship than render the sublime service of mercy and benefaction to that Master, though "the least of these my little ones." Though it may be not generally known, there are many cases of great destitution in town, yet only a suggestion is needed to move many Christian hearts to deeds of Christian kindness. We should indeed be happy if a word of injunction could make any citizen enjoy his Christmas dinner better by sharing it with some destitute and almost, literally, starving person whom a little inquiry might probably bring to his knowledge.

They who joy would win
Must share it; happiness was born a-twain.

And if we wish for genuine Christmas appiness, we must practically share that happiness and plenty which divine goodness has crowned us with. Selfish happiness that fences round the Christmas fireside from all the outside world is very nearly allied to mere animal enjoyment. If we would have a Merry Christmas, which THE EXAMINER very heartily wishes to all its readers and the world besides, we shall make it all the merrier by throwing upon it the reflected happiness that shines back into our hearts from deeds of mercy and kindness.

THE Globe quotes with evident endorsation, which we heartily endorse, the following from the Hamilton Times:—"And this Grover Cleveland who so recklessly plays with the sword and torch of bloody war in the shameful bidding for votes, is the same Grover Cleveland who a few days ago issued a sententiously sanctimonious proclamation of thanksgiving in which he mouthed phrases of Christianity! Could he withdraw his gaze long enough from the smoke of probable battles which he lightly talks of,

"To wring more blood and tears than e'er were wrung
By all the culprits justice ever hung," and see the consequences which may ensue from his criminal folly and hear the curses which myriads of bereaved wives, mothers and sisters would invoke upon him as the wanton authour of their misery, it might lead him to think. Why, beside such a character as he would make in history, Nero, Caligula and Torquemada would appear saintly.

DUMMER.

From Our Own Correspondent.

The annual entertainment in connection with the school in S. S. No. 1, Dummer, was held in Carmel church on Friday, the 6th inst., and was a decided success in every way. The first part of the programme consisted of a miscellaneous programme of readings, recitations and music, and was rendered by the pupils in a very creditable manner, considering the short time they had for preparation. The second part was the cantata entitled "The Coming of Christmas" which was performed by the children, assisted by other talent, and proved a very interesting number. The children carried out the various parts assigned to them in a satisfactory manner. At the conclusion of the programme Santa Claus assisted by three pretty little fairies ground out of the wind mill a large number of presents which were distributed among the audience. A very enjoyable evening was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

On the evening of the 17th instant the young people of this section met at the house of John A. Robb to spend the evening with the teacher before he left and they presented him with an address and a scarf box and writing case. The following is the address and his reply:—

Mr. Heaning:—

DEAR FRIEND,—Having learned with much regret that you are about to leave us we felt that we could not allow you to do so without expressing in some way the esteem in which we have always held you. During your stay of three years among us you have made many friends, especially among the young people. In addition to our high sense of your good qualities as a teacher, it is the opinion we entertain of your personal qualities, the friendly feeling existing between you and us and your ceaseless labours to promote our best interests that have called forth this expression of our feelings. We now now ask you to accept this scarf box and writing case; and let not their value, but the spirit in which they were given constitute their chief merit as a token of the esteem and respect we entertain for you. We all unite in wishing you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year and hope that you may be successful in all your future undertakings and that God may guide and direct you all through life.

Signed in behalf of the young people,

KATE E. HOBB,
THOMAS H. CROWE.

REPLY.

Dear friends, I thank you very much for the present. It is an entire surprise to me, as I never heard of or expected anything of the kind. However, it is a very pleasant surprise. In the three years I have been with you I have tried to perform my duties to the best of my abilities. Anything I have done it was only my duty and pleasure to do. I certainly never looked for anything like this. I will hold it as a token from my friends here.

Weak Lungs.

Emaciation, weakness, and that fatal disposition to take cold easily, thus adding little by little to the strain upon the already overburdened body. How many afflicted are trusting to cough mixtures, mustard and poultices for safety? Fatal error. Not by these, but by adding to the nutritive power of the body and the increased strength and vitality which increased nutrition affords, can you hope to obtain relief. Maltine with Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites combines the excellencies of a medicine, a food, and a digestive agency of unexampled power. The full remedial value of the cod liver oil, rendered palatable and of easy digestion, is combined with the nutritive values of wheat, oats and barley. This in itself would render Maltine and Cod Liver Oil of greater value than any emulsion. But it possesses a further quality of inestimable value in its property of increasing the solubility of fat-forming, heat-producing, starchy foods, just the elements required for the upbuilding of the emaciated. This you may demonstrate by a short trial of this unrivalled preparation.

STEWARTS—OTONABEE.

Rev. W. C. Beer has been conducting revival services here for the past three weeks. The meetings were fairly well attended, and quite a number have manifested a desire to lead Christian lives. We hope to see the meetings continued.

At the close of the exercises on Friday, Miss Kerr, who has so efficiently performed the duties of teacher for the past year in this school, and who has resigned her position, was made the recipient of a handsome piano lamp and mirror, accompanied by the following address, which was read by Miss Lizzie Thorne:

DEAR TEACHER,—As you are severing your connection with the school, we beg you will accept this small token of our love and well wishes to you, and to show that we appreciated your kindness to us.

Yours in behalf of the school,
BERTHA STEWART,
LIZZIE THORNE,
MARY MULCAHEY,
EMILY DEVELL,
EDNA RUTH.

Miss Kerr who was taken completely by surprise, replied in feeling terms and thanked the scholars for their kindness.

When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Weak and Tired.

DEAR SIRS,—I can heartily recommend Milburn's Cod Liver Oil Emulsion. For a long time I felt so weak I could hardly keep up, every little thing tiring me out. I took two bottles and the fatigue and tired feeling left me and have never returned.

NOTE THE ADDRESS

408 George St.

NORTH MONAGHAN.

From our own Correspondent.

The council met at the town hall on Monday, 16th December, at one o'clock. All the members present. The reeve, Mr. Jos. Foster, in the chair.

The minutes of the meeting of Sept. 16th were read and confirmed.

The following communications were received:

From Geo. W. Hatton, asking rebate in taxes of 1895, owing to loss by fire.—Received but no action taken.

From Dennis Hurley asking to be allowed the sum of $5 for statute labour erroneously returned as unpreformed in 1895.—Received.

From the county clerk of the county of Peterborough, showing statement of balance of interest due by the township since the year 1878.—Received.

From Geo. Lockie, asking for a refund of dog tax, 1895, he having filed the necessary declaration of not having a dog on or after June 15, 1895.—Received.

From T. Bradburn, treasurer of the township, enclosing detailed statement of receipts and expenditures from January 1 to Dec. 15, 1895, also statement of assets and liabilities, and statement from the collector's roll up to Dec. 15th, 1895.—Received.

From West Riding Farmers' Institute asking for use of town hall to hold meeting.—Granted.

From Wm. and John Stevens asking for remission of taxes for 1895.—Referred to the Court of Revision.

The following accounts were presented: James Lang, 32 cords of gravel per R. Waterman, $2 24; James M. Davidson, replanking bridge west of Riverdale, $1; James M. Davidson account as sanitary inspector, $4; Foster Moncrief, repairing crib work and drawing stone at Stevens' corner, and erecting railing on bridge at Park street junction with boundary road, $4; Review Printing and Publishing Co., yearly contract for printing, $28; Peterborough Review Printing and Publishing Co., extra blanks and stationery, $1.90; D. M. Roberts, filling in Greer's gravel pit, 75c; G. H. Gibson, damage to crop drawing gravel, $1; Alex. Davidson, plow broken on road while performing statute labour, $2 50.

The Reeve, Mr. Foster, reported on accounts received and orders issued as follows:—Since the last regular session of this Council I have received the following accounts, and in conjunction with the Clerk and a special committee, called at various times, have investigated them and having inspected and found satisfactory, the work performed by each, I have authorized the issuing of orders in payment thereof. I would ask you to confirm the same:—R. Dobbin, 22 loads of gravel, got by T. Brown, $2 20; Geo. Steer, account so referred at last meeting, $2 50; W. J. Hall, 50 loads of stone, delivered at bridge on 7th concession, $25; W. J. Hall, equivalent to work performed on quarter line, between 7th and 8th concessions, in accordance with resolution of meeting of May 27, 1895, $28; B. Welch, opening drain on 8th concession, $9. I have also arranged with John Armstrong and Geo. Argue to have guard railings erected on culverts on 9th and 12th concessions, respectively, in accordance with resolution of meeting of Sept. 16, 1895, and also issued an order for the sum of $258.75, to meet note, with interest, in the Ontario Bank. All of which is respectfully submitted.

Moved by Mr. McIntosh, seconded by Mr. Johnston, that the report of the reeve be received, and the action confirmed, and that the reeve and clerk are hereby authorized to issue their order in payment of Jno. Armstrong's and Geo. Argue's account when satisfactorily presented—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Hunter, seconded by Mr. McIntosh, that the accounts as presented be passed and orders issued in payment thereof.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. McIntosh, seconded by Mr. Hunter, that the application of Wm. and John Stevens for remission of taxes be affirmed to the Court of Revision with power to act—Carried.

Moved by Mr. McIntosh, seconded by Mr. Waterman, that the treasurer's financial statement be approved, and the clerk be hereby instructed to have the same published according to law—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Johnston, seconded by Mr. Hunter, that the sum of $1 be paid to Geo. Lackie, as refund of dog tax, 1895—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Johnston, seconded by Mr. Waterman, that Dennis Hurley be allowed a rebate of the sum of $5, wrongfully charged as commutation of statute labour, 1895. The pathmaster, Mr. A. Saunders, having given certificate of the work having been performed upon his division, and that the collector be hereby instructed not to collect the same—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Hunter, seconded by Mr. Waterman, that the reeve and clerk are hereby authorized to issue an order to pay account for repair of stove and pipes in the town hall when the same is satisfactorily presented—Carried.

Moved by Messrs. Johnston and Hunter that this council memoralize the Railway Committee of the Privy Council of Canada to direct the Grand Trunk Railway to remove fences and open crossing on their track on con. 11, in township, lots 11 and 12.—Carried.

Moved by Messrs. McIntosh and Johnston that the clerk be paid the sum of $38 as half year's salary and disbursements, 1895, and also W. Bell the sum of $5, salary as caretaker, and T. Bradburn the sum of $25, salary as treasurer, 1895, and that the clerk be paid the sum of $4 for publishing minutes.—Carried.

The accounts of the reeve and councillors for the half year were presented and passed as follows:—J. Foster, 5 meetings in council and 5 meetings in committee, $10.00; R. Waterman, 5 meetings in council and 5 meetings in committee, $10; W. J. Johnston, 4 meetings in council and 5 meetings in committee, $9; T. M. Hunter, 5 meetings in council and 5 meetings in committee, $10; Jno. McIntosh, 4 meetings in council and 4 meetings in committee, $9.

Bylaw No. 420 to appoint place of nominations, polling places and deputy returning officers was introduced, given its necessary readings and passed. The council then adjourned.

MILLBROOK.

From our own Correspondent.

The East Durham Liberal Association met here on Monday afternoon for the purpose of discussing the advisability of placing a candidate in the field at the coming Dominion elections. After two hours of spirited discussion it was decided to not put a Reform candidate in the field but to support the candidate whose platform was nearest in accordance with the Liberal platform.

It was about half past two o'clock when Mr. H. H. Burnham, of Port Hope, president of the Association took the chair and called the meeting to order, there being a fair representation of the Liberal element present. Among those who were there were Messrs. B. P. Ross, Geo. Wilson, J. H. Helm, of Port Hope; W. H. McCallum and Asa Choate, of Hope; A. Wood, W. S. Pickup and J. Crocker, of Millbrook; Jas. Brock, W. H. Wood, David Armstrong and William Shaw, of Cavan, and W. T. McGuire, of Manvers.

The chairman in a brief speech explained the object of the meeting and said that as it was nearly a year since the present officers were elected he thought it advisable to elect a new set of officers at this meeting. The following officers were elected:

President—H. H. Burnham, Port Hope.

Vice-Presidents—J. H. Helm, Port Hope; W. H. McCallum, of Hope; A. Wood, of Millbrook; W. H. Wood, of Cavan, and W. G. McGuire, of Manvers.

Sec.-Treas—B. P. Ross, Port Hope.

Mr. T. W. McGuire of Manvers then came forward and moved a resolution of confidence in the leadership of Hon. Wilfrd Laurier. In moving the resolution the speaker gave an excellent address in which he exposed the extravagance at Ottawa and the failure of the N. P. The resolution was carried amidst great applause.

The next and by far the most important matter that came up was whether the Liberals should put a man in the field.

Reeve W. H. McCallum of Hope mounted the platform and made a stirring speech on the political situation in East Durham. He claimed that there was no stronger Grit in East Durham than he, and that if the meeting decided to put a man in the field he would be found doing the best work he could. Some might think that it would not be wise to put a man in the field, but to let the two already in the field fight it out, as one of the candidates' platforms was almost identical with the Liberals. He thought it better not to divide the forces.

Messrs. J. H. Helm and Jas. Brock of Cavan wanted to run a straight out and out Liberal. Messrs. A. Wood, E. A. Powers, B. P. Ross and others did not want a man brought out, as they considered as it would be unwise under the circumstances

Finally a resolution was moved by Mr. A. Choate, seconded by Mr. W. Shaw, "That we do not bring out a man but support the candidate whose views are nearest in accordance with the Liberal platform." This was carried and the meeting broke up, everyone seeling satisfied that the matter was finally settled from the Liberal standpoint.

DIABETES CURABLE

Given up to Die—Uses Dodd's Kidney Pills and is Cured by Eight Boxes.

KIRKFIELD (Special), Dec. 23.—Mr. Duncan McKenzie, miller and lumberman of this place, has returned from Kansas lately. Had failed in health and strength, had lost fifty pounds in weight. Was given up by his physician as well as by specialists in Toronto and by himself and friends. Now comes a change—he says in a letter to Dodd's Medicine Co.: "After commencing with your Dodd's Kidney Pills I got help inside of two weeks. I took eight boxes in eight weeks, am completely cured, not a symptom left, general health good. Have regained my old health and weight. Had been bothered with heart and liver, both have vanished with the diabetes. I can walk briskly for miles instead of crawling as before. Am a brother of the President of the Toronto Street Railway Co., and well known here." Diabetes is set down as incurable—but Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure.

RAISED AN ORDER.

And Now Young Winchester Finds Himself in an Ugly Position.

Marmora, Dec. 23.—A young man named Winchester, aged about 25, raised a Gilmour order from eight to eighteen dollars. The bank clerk did not notice it, nor was it discovered until at Trenton the stub was compared with the order. The manager of the bank swore out a warrant, and Winchester was arrested at Bancroft. He has been committed for trial at Belleville. Winchester admits having changed the order, but says he did it at the instigation of another person, whose name he has given.

THE CLYDE SHIPBUILDERS.

Admiralty Making Strong Efforts to Get the Troubles Settled.

London, Dec. 21.—The Admiralty, with a view to possible American contingencies, has made strong representations to the Clyde master shipbuilders for the purpose of bringing the disputes between themselves and their employes to an end. It is understood that an agreement between the masters and the men will be reached early in January. Then the building of warships will be accelerated. Japan is negotiating with the builders for the construction of a number of cruisers and torpedo boats.

Called on for Their Double Liability.

Winnipeg, Dec. 20.—The court has ordered a call on the shareholders of the defunct Commercial Bank for their double liability. The order was issued by the court to-day for the final winding up of the Northwestern Publishing Company. A liquidator will be appointed on January 13.

Another Canadian Woman Dead in Buffalo.

Buffalo, Dec. 20.—A woman about forty years of age who was known as Mrs. Davis died of heart disease last night in furnished rooms at No. 995 Fillmore-avenue. Mrs. Davis was born in Canada. She had no friends or relatives in this city so the body was taken to the morgue.

A Good Thing for London.

London, Ont., Dec. 20.—Mayor Little this afternoon affixed his signature to the Grand Trunk car shops agreement, and a few minutes later the city seal was attached, finally completing the deal which guarantees to London for the next forty years at least the western car construction and repair shops of the Grand Trunk system.

If you have a troublesome cough, don't keep nibbling sweets, and so ruin your appetite. A dose or two of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral will do you more good than pounds of candy, and assist rather than impair your digestion. Always keep this medicine in your house.

A MERRY CHRISTMAS

TO ALL THE READERS OF

"THE EXAMINER."

And the wore in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night. And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them; and they were sore afraid. And the angel said unto them, Fear not; for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day, in the city of David, a Saviour, which is Christ, the Lord. And this shall be a sign unto you, ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger. And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will to men."—St. Luke II.

Christmas at St. John's.

To-morrow at St. John's there will be Holy Communion at 8.30; Morning Prayer and Sermon at 11 a.m., followed by Holy Communion service at 12.15. The clergy will also conduct special services to-morrow at the Protestant Home, Nicholls Hospital, Barnardo Home and at the jail. After Christmas Rev. J. C. Davidson will spend a few days in Toronto.

Artistically Decorated.

It would be difficult to find a more beautifully decorated bar than that at the Pullman Restaurant. Mr. E. J. Hartley has outlined upon the large plate mirror the fac-simile of his famous sample of penmanship which won first prize at the Toronto exhibition in 1881. The effect of the piece of work has been brightened by the grouping of palms and ferns along the base of the mirror and by an artistic arrangement of a number of rich cut glass tumblers, decanters, etc.

SNEAK THIEVES GETTING IN THEIR DESPICABLE WORK.

Various Sheds have been Entered and Articles Removed Therefrom Recently.

The work of sneak thieves is becoming a great nuisance to the citizens, and as it is something with which the police find it very difficult to grapple, the only remedy is to see that all doors and windows are kept securely fastened, and nothing of value left outside.

The other morning when Mr. Ed. Welsh, the Hunter street caterer, came down to open up his store he found the rear door of the shed forced open, and three chickens, as well as a gallon of fresh oysters, missing. No clue of any kind had been left, and nothing of greater value had been removed.

On Saturday night some scoundrel entered the shed attached to the residence of Mr. John Menzies, No. 228 Stewart street, and carried away a couple of hams which had been laid in for winter use.

A charge of shot in the legs of this miscreant would do much to abate the nuisance, and the citizen who gets an opportunity of getting within range will confer a benefit on the community.

A LIVELY DEBATE.

The Catholic Literary Association's Interesting Meeting.

The entertainments given fortnightly by the Catholic Literary Association are becoming very popular amongst the young people of the Cathedral, and last evening when the third of the series took place the hall was so crowded that seating room for all could not be provided.

The chair was occupied by Mr. J. Daly, president, and the following excellent programme was presented:—

Piano Solo	Miss McCabe
Vocal Solo	Mr. James Browne
Instrumental Solo	Mr. Will Roadhouse
Recitation	Mr. Albert Field
Instrumental Solo	Mr. Will Roadhose

The debate which took place during the evening was one of even more than ordinary interest, being: "Resolved—that Wellington was a better statesman and general than Napoleon." The affirmative was taken by Messrs. Thomas Begley and J. Bogan, and the negative by Messrs. O. LePlante and Jos. Dwyer. The judges were Messrs. T. Kelly, R. Begley and W. Thorn, and they gave their decision in favor of the negative. Contrary to the usual rules of procedure in debates, the negative had an opportunity of taking the floor for the last five minutes. The affirmative are anxious to challenge the negative to another debate on Resolved—"That Napoleon was a greater statesman and general than Wellington." The affirmative would then take the negative, and having this privilege of the last five minutes, think they could bring Wellington out on top.

St Peter's Cathedral 'Xmas Services'

Services will be held in St. Peter's Cathedral to-morrow as follows: High Mass at 5.30 a.m. and 10.30 a.m.; low mass at 8 and 9 a.m.; Vespers, with sermon, at 7 p.m. Special and appropriate music at the several services.

Ready.

China Hall is now ready for the rush with the largest and most beautiful stock ever shown. Dinner Sets, Tea Sets, Toilet Sets, Silverware, Cutlery, Fancy Goods, &c., in endless variety. Buy early to avoid the rush.

Beats Santa Claus.

Oak Hall's latest wrinkle is a green tag sale. Men's Overcoats that formerly sold from $6.50 to $12, are now all ticketed with green tags and sold for $5.95 and $7.95. Your tag is ready waiting for you, but don't wait too long.

Presence of Mind.

Mr. W. H. Bradburn by his presence of mind this morning averted what might have been a particularly sad accident. A lady had left her baby in its carriage at the door of Messrs. Ormond & Walsh's drug store. Some sudden movement of the little one started the carriage moving, and in another second "baby and all" would have been over the edge of the high sidewalk into the ditch if Mr. Bradburn had not sprung forward in the nick of time and stopped the carriage.

Broke Through the Ice.

On Monday last Wm. Sheppard and Jas. Warnes, accompanied by a team and a half cord of wood, crossed the lake. This was the first attempt to cross with horses, and of course it is always a little dangerous. Near the shore one of the horses broke through, and the other not being shod sharp enough could not pull his mate out. With the assistance of Messrs. Wm. Falls and Hunter they succeeded in getting the animal out. They left the load on the ice and came to town to do their shopping.—Bobcaygeon Independent.

Too Much Puddin'.

The day after Christmas may be an off day with you. Possibly your liver is kicking. The after effects of too much plum pudding and Christmas cake has had a depressing effect upon your spirits, or the spirits on the plum pudding. At any rate the fun is all clean knocked out of you. Here's your prescription:—Take in Max O'Reil that night—Thursday 26th Dec. He appears in the Opera House, for the first and last time. Best rouser you ever took for your trouble. Max. O'Reil is humourous, keen, comical, sensible and wonderfully clever. Besides the ladies will have their innings that evening. Take your lady, too. 21

Quite a Scheme.

Jailor Cameron, of Woodstock, has devised a scheme—though rather a costly one—to get rid of the tramp nuisance. "Put them in quod for the summer as well," says he, "and then see whether they stay in Canada." He contends that the law should be changed so as to permit of tramps being convicted for two years instead of six months as at present. "They are convicted in the fall, lie around jail all winter and come out as fresh as an oyster in the spring. But make their sentence to cover two seasons and I am inclined to think that the tramp's occupation would be less attractive and gradually diminish. They would leave the country altogether."

The dyspeptic carries a dreadful load on his back. It seems as if it were really made up of two men. One of them ambitious, brainy and energetic; the other sick, listless, peevish and without force. The weak man weighs the other man down. The dyspeptic may be able to do pretty good work one day, and the next day because of some little indiscretion in eating, he may be able to do nothing at all. Most cases of dyspepsia start with constipation. Constipation is the cause of nine-tenths of all human sickness. Some of its symptoms are sick and bilious headache, dizziness, sour stomach, loss of appetite, foul breath, windy belching, heartburn, pain and distress after eating. All these are indicative of derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels, and are caused by constipation. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the quickest, easiest and most certain cure for this condition. They are not violent in action.

THE CHARLOTTE STREET SUNDAY SCHOOL ENTERTAINMENT.

The Annual Treat for the Scholars Proved a Great Success Last Evening.

The Sunday school pupils of the Charlotte street church enjoyed their annual Christmas treat last evening in the shape of a Christmas tree and entertainment.

The tree was loaded with presents for the little ones and the Sunday school was crowded to the doors by the parents and friends of the scholars.

The chair was occupied during the evening by Mr. R. J. Kidd, and the following programme was rendered:

Chorus	School
Instrumental duet	Misses Timmins and Carson
Recitation	Daisy Shaw
Dialogue	E Morton and J Goodwin
Vocal duet	Misses Moore
Recitation	Miss Lola Ostrom
Chorus	School
Recitation	Hazel Huffman
Recitation	Eddie Williams
Dialogue	H Kent and J Squires
Christmas song	by nine girls
Recitation	Harry Huffman
Solo	Louis Haskel
Chorus	School
Recitation	Myra Moore
Solo	Marion Lyle
Instrumental selection	Misses Timmons and Carson
Recitation	Hasel Huffman
Chorus	School

The distribution of presents from the tree then took place and a most pleasurable evening was spent, the children all being highly delighted with the treat provided for them.

ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION.

Miss Ella White the Recipient of a Beautiful Gift.

Last evening, at St. Andrew's church, the Junior Endeavourers presented their superintendent, Miss Ella White, with a beautiful fruit basket as a token of their love and esteem. Miss Aggie Patterson read the address, as follows:—

Miss Ella White:

DEAR SUPERINTENDENT,—We the members of the Junior Christian Endeavour Society, at this season, wish to extend to you our hearty greetings and express our gratitude to you for your untiring efforts as our superintendent.

We believe that much of the activity of our society is due to your earnestness and desire to help us in our work for "Christ and the church." We ask you to accept this small gift as an expression of our love and esteem, and hope and pray that you may long be spared to guide us in our work for the Master.

With best wishes for a happy Christmas and a bright new year,

We are sincerely,
THE JUNIORS.

Peterborough, Dec. 23, 1895.

Miss Winnie Macfarlane made the presentation, after which Miss White, though taken greatly by surprise, made a suitable acknowledgement.

PERSONAL.

Mr. Thos. Blesard, M.P.P., is in town to-day.

Mr. W. R. Beatty, M.P.P., Parry Sound, is in town to-day.

Mr. J. H. Carnegie, M.P.P., West Victoria, is in town to-day.

Miss Dot Hackett is home from Montreal for the holidays.

Mr. Jas. Wright, Stewart street, Ashburnham, is home for Xmas.

Mr. Thos. Fraser, Division Court Clerk, Norwood, is spending the day in town.

Mr. R. B. Rogers, superintendent of the Trent Valley Canal, was in town on Saturday.—Lindsay Post.

Miss Wray, of the public school teaching staff will spend her vacation in Peterborough.—Lindsay Post.

Mr. E. R. Wood and wife, Toronto, will spend Christmas with Mr. Wood's father, Mark street, Ashburnham.

Miss Lillie Thexton, of St. Thomas, North Dakota, is spending the winter with Mrs. Best, Donegal street.

Rev. B. C. H. Andrews and Mrs. Andrews, of Toronto, are spending Christmas with the family of the latter on Brock street.

Miss Lola Ostrom, Peterborough's popular baby elocutionist, has four engagements in the near future booked in Kingston and vicinity.

The Port Hope Guide says:—Mrs. George Walton and son, Peterborough, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Rich, Newtonville.

The Lindsay Post says:—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Matthews, of Peterborough, are in town to attend the annual Christmas gathering at the old homestead.

Mr. T. W. McLean, Mount Pleasant, one of the literary staff of the Ontario Institution for the Blind, is home for the holidays, and was in town to-day.

A large number of college students and school pupils and citizens temporarily residing abroad are home for the Christmas holidays—specific mention of them would fill a column. Few, except those with whom it is impossible, fail to respond to the attraction of the great home magnet, the Christmas holiday season.

Rev. J. J. Rae of Peterborough, occupied the pulpit of the Cambridge street Methodist church Sunday and preached two excellent addresses, and will always be welcomed by Lindsay audiences. The pastor, Rev. S. J. Shorey, occupied Rev. Mr. Rae's pulpit, and preached the annual Sunday school anniversary sermons.—Lindsay Post.

DAILY MOTTO.

Tuesday, Dec. 24th.

"Glory to God in the Highest, and on Earth Peace, Good-will towards Men."

I will honour Christmas in my heart. I will in the Past, the Present and the Future The spirits of all three shall strive within me. I will not shut out the lessons which they teach.

Then peeled the bells more loud and deep;
God is not dead, nor doth He sleep!
The wrong shall fail, the Right prevail,
With "Peace on Earth, Good-will to Men!"

The Star that shone in Bethlehem
Shines still and shall not cease;
And we listen still for the tidings
Of Glory and of Peace.

Ivorine Makes Discolored Teeth White.

Ivorine, the new, dentifrice, displaces all other preparations from use, because it does good work. Discoloration and roughness are speedily removed and the teeth rendered white and highly polished. Ivorine is fragrant and refreshing, preservative to sound teeth and decay retarding. Ivorine removes tartar and discolorations and makes the teeth look beautifully white.

The Air is Full of Christmas.

If you want to go where it fairly bubbles with good cheer, look down the long length of the Peterborough Bookstore. See the throngs of delighted people. Crowds at the doll show—crowds at the book show—crowds at the Xmas card show—crowds at the game show—crowds at the plush goods show—crowds at the leather goods show—crowds at the silver show—crowds at the fancy novelties show—crowds at the picture book show. Choice for the educated—choice for the refined—choice for the children—choice for the masses. Everyone waited on, none being neglected.

Mete out Punishment at Home.

In speaking of the conduct of school children, and the duties of teachers, Inspector Kidd of Kingston, says that in every case where parents co-operate with the school teachers no trouble is experienced with the pupils. Some parents, however, expected too much from the teachers, and are ever ready to blame them for faults of which they themselves are guilty. Regarding punishment for truancy, the inspector maintains that it should be administered at home by the parent or parents—the driving force should be behind. By punishing children at school for this offence, it leads them to detest attending classes, but the home punishment will have a tendency to drive them to school.

The old Story Every Time.

Nothing succeeds like success, but permanent success means merit, in an age of enlightment The success achieved by Pinemalt is due to merit. Remedies injurious to the nervous system, and nauseating to the stomach are displaced by a remedy at once more rational and scientific. John L. Simpson, a prominent merchant, Chatham, Ont., writes in Feb. 1895: "La Grippe left me with a chronic throat and bronchial trouble, attended with a cough which defied all remedies until I struck the new medicine, PINEMALT, that gave me immediate relief. I here testify to the great merits of the new medicine. Other persons in Chatham bear the testimony." In chronic cases and incipient consumption, ask druggists for Pinemalt and Hypophosphites instead of plain Pinemalt.

MR. C. W. SAWERS, MR. J. GRAHAM WEIR AND THEIR STATEMENTS REFUTED.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—I notice in your issue of the 17th inst. a letter over the signature of C. W. Sawers, endeavouring to dispute certain statements made by me at the Lady True Blue Social held on the evening of Dec. 3rd, namely, that he was not an invited speaker at the celebration held under the auspices of L.O.L. No. 321, at Downers' Corners on Nov. 5th, and that he himself asked to be allowed to speak for three minutes to make some historical references; that he was hissed to such an extent that little or nothing could be gathered from what he said, and that the officers of the lodge surmising that he wished to create the impression that they endorsed his action on the Manitoba School question, sent a letter to the Orange Sentinel setting forth the conditions under which he was permitted to speak.

In attempting to refute my statements, he quotes from a letter written by himself and signed by his chief "dupe," J. Graham Weir, to the effect that some person was ejected from the hall for hissing him during the delivery of his "historical" address. I enclose you, sir, for your perusal a declaration signed by 48 ladies and gentlemen who were present to the effect that no person whatever were ejected from the hall on that occasion and further that they heard me called upon by the chairman to address the meeting and heard me say in the presence of J. G. Weir and C. W. Sawers that he was not invited to be present and had no business there and this statement was not contradicted by any person present. They also declare that instead of being disgusted with what Mr. Weir calls my few insulting remarks they were received with prolonged cheers by all present.

Mr. Weir is quoted as having said that he hoped at their future entertainments the hissers would absent themselves. My reply to that is that if all that hissed absent themselves there will only be himself and a few of his relatives present. A statement appears in the letter in which Mr. J. Graham Weir denies having subscribed his name as a member of a special committee to a report condemning Mr. Sawers for his slanderous misstatements regarding myself, and further saying that no such report or resolution condemnatory of Mr. Sawers was ever passed by L. O. L. 321. He also accuses someone of adding his name to this report without his authority. I enclose the original report, so that you can see the name of J. G. attached in his own handwriting, Mr. Editor, and the names of seven persons who witnessed him affix his signature to it.

Mr. Sawers winds up his letter by making the statement that none of my four or five friends were re elected to office at the meeting of L. O. L. No. 321 held on the 10th inst. There has been no election of officers yet in Lodge 321. The election will take place on Tuesday, the 31st of this month. Mr. Sawers, as agent for Dr. Wilfred Hall's "patent medicine," must be doing a very poor business, and his practice as a lawyer must have gone completely to the dogs, when he can afford to devote so much of his time in company with "Detective" Weir, combining and concocting such mammoth and notorious falsehoods.

It is not my intention to take any more notice of the falsely slanderous statements of these political wirepullers and place hunters who expect to gain a Government office in return for their advocacy of Separate schools for Manitoba. Thanking you for your valuable space, I remain, sir,

Yours truly,
W. H. G. ARMSTRONG.

Peterborough, Dec. 21st, 1895.

[The documents referred to in the above letter, in evidence of the truth of its statements accompanied the communication and are signed as represented, one bearing the seal of L. O. L. 321. These documents confirm in all indicated particulars the statements made in the above letter—EDITOR THE EXAMINER.]

SPORTS AND PASTIMES.

THE TRIGGER.

Arrangements have been fully completed for holding a turkey shoot on a grand scale at the Curtis brick yards on Christmas morning at nine o'clock. The matches will be a series of open-sighted off shoulder ones for the rifleman, and targets will also be in readiness for shot guns.

THE WHEEL.

At the annual meeting of the Peterborough Bicycle Club last evening in the rink parlors, the following officers were elected in order that everything might be in readiness for a thorough organization before the question of the meet is decided in Toronto:—

Honorary President—Mr. R. M. Dennistoun.
President—Mr. Robt. Neill.
Vice-president—Mr. R. D. Hamilton.
2nd Vice-president—Mr. T. E. Bradburn.
Treasurer—Mr. Robert Fair.
Secretary—Mr. S. B. Ewing.
Captain—Mr. W. L. Aden.
1st Lieutenant—Mr. Will Lytle.
2nd Lieutenant—Mr. Miles Henry.
Executive Committee—Messrs. A. J. Gough, H. S. McDonald, F. H. Dobbin, R. H. Kells, Andrew Mercer.
Auditors—Messrs. C. B. McAllister and T. E. Bradburn.

Peterborough's chances for the meet are beginning to look roseate and the club is meeting with encouragement from every quarter. The Toronto Sporting News has the following to say about it:

"Though rather early in the year to expatiate on the chances of Peterborough or Quebec, the only cities that have given any sign of being desirous of securing the annual meet of the C.W.A., still there is no time like the present, and as the supporters of the city nearest to Toronto are already in the field seeking whom they can devour, in a voting sense, no great harm can be done by dealing with the topic. A great amount of interest is attached to this feature of the Wheelmen's Association, as in many cases it is the only outing taken by the wheelmen during the year, and they want to compress as much fun and frolic into the two or three days around the 1st of July as is possible. Where the meet will be held as a result is a matter that interests them to a great degree. Peterborough has two great advantages over the city in the far east, and they are its track and the accessibility of the town from all parts of Ontario. There are more wheelmen in the premier province than in all the rest of the provinces put together, and their interests should be considered before those of any other Province. The wheelmen of Quebec and of the extreme east of Ontario would naturally favour the capital city as the location of the big meet, being, as it is, much nearer to them than Peterborough, but as they are only a small proportion of the cycling population, their interests should be considered subordinate to that of the larger body. That Peterborough will get the meet is almost a foregone conclusion, that is, if only the cities mentioned are in the fight; but even if any other claimant appears, I think that the northern town will carry of the plum. Peterborough's track, as is well known, is one of the fastest in Canada—the best mile ever ridden in this country was accomplished there at the Grand Circuit meeting last fall, and that fact alone is enough to substantiate its claims as a track conducive to extreme speed. The wheelmen and citizens of Peterborough are a whole-souled lot, as the boys who were down there essaying to break records can testify, and the members of the C. W. A. will find that nothing is too good for them in a literal sense, if they have occasion to go there on the first of July.

"The fight for the meet, if it is good for nothing else, is a great boomer of the C. W. A. and every year swarms of wheelmen are brought into the fold by those interested who would otherwise live a joyless life out in the cold world. There will be very few wheelmen in Eastern Ontario who can be got out by Hoskins and his cohorts that will not be members of the C. W. A. before Dominion Day if that gentlemen's statements are to be relied upon, and as a result cycling generally ought to receive a great impetus in that portion of the country at least next year. There are seven or eight large towns near Peterborough where a large number of wheelmen are to be found, and where no organization exists, and it is in those places that it is intended that most of the work will be done, and the benighted cyclists shown the error of their ways. Every wheelmen noosed means a supporter of Peterborough for the meet, and it is with that principle ever before them that the Peterboroughians will work."

HOCKEY.

It is said that there is a probability of the Peterboroughs losing their star player, Lionel King, as he may possibly leave town after Christmas. Such an occurrence would be a catastrophe indeed, as without him Peterborough would not by any means have as firm a hold on that championship cup as might be desired. The loss of Davidson, Wonham and Dixon was bad enough, but the absence of King from the rush line would be very demoralising.

Loss One Billion Dollars.

Cleveland's message, declaring the United States' position on the Venezuelan question, has caused a panic in the States and its citizens are reported to have lost a cool $1,000,000,000. But this does not affect the people of Peterborough in buying their Christmas presents, although money is scarce enough here. Here are a few of the hard-time prices LeGros is offering in pipes, cigars, etc. Fine imported cigars of the following brands: Por Larranaga, Dias y'Garcia, Manuel Garcia, and Jose Morales, from $3.50 per box upwards. The celebrated B. B. B. pipes will be sold at cost and we have the best stock in Canada. In smokers' sundries we have some lines that will open your eyes and the prices will astonish you. Our stock of domestic cigars we will sell to day and tomorrow below cost. Don't forget to look at our window when you are passing up George street. The quality of goods is the best in town. Remember the number, 329 George street. ALIVE C. LEGROS.

BELMONT'S DEPUTY REEVE RESIGNS.

Mr. J. L. Aunger Retires from Municipal Life.

Mr. J. L. Aunger, the respected and efficient deputy reeve of the Township of Belmont, addresses the following card to the electors:

To the Electors of the United Townships of Belmont and Methuen:

GENTLEMEN,—I must sincerely thank you for the great favors you have conferred on me in the last five years past. You have elected me to the office of deputy reeve twice by ballot and thrice by acclamation. And now, with a feeling of gratitude and good wishes towards all, I wish to say to you that I do not desire at present re-election to any office or position in the council, and therefore resign.

I am, most respectfully,
Yours obediently,
J. L. AUNGER.

Blairton, Dec. 23, 1895.

Mr. Aunger during his term of office has made an excellent representative of the township and has watched over the interests of his constituents, both in the township and county council with intelligent zeal and assiduity. He was very highly thought of by his fellow members in the latter body and his familiar face and quiet candid presence will be greatly missed at the January session. We understand that the demands of Mr. Aunger's business prevent him from continuing to give the township the efficient and valued services he has rendered for the past four years, and though earnestly solicited by large numbers of the electors to allow himself to be placed in nomination for the office of Reeve, Mr. Aunger has, to their general regret, been compelled to decline.—ED. The man with a weight on his leg can't hope to win in the race. A man with a weight on his health can't expect to compete in life and business with those who are not handicapped. A man who spends two-thirds of his time in business, and one-third of his time being sick, cannot be expected to accomplish more than two-thirds as much as the man who attends to business all the time. If his brain is heavy, and his blood sluggish, because of constipation, he will not succeed in doing anything very well. Constipation is the cause of nine-tenths of all sickness. It isn't considered sickness by most people, but it is just the same. It is serious sickness, because it causes almost all of the ill-health of mankind. Symptoms of it are sallowness, listlessness, poor appetite, bad taste in the mouth, dizziness, biliousness, and lassitude. Constipation can be cured easily and certainly by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They are perfectly simple—perfectly safe. They are not at all violent in their action, and yet they are more certain than many medicines which are so strong that they put the system all out of order. The great advantage of the "Pleasant Pellets" is that they cure permanently. You don't have to keep on taking them. You don't acquire a "pellet habit." Take them regularly for a while, and you are cured permanently. After that, take them only when you find yourself suffering from indigestion. There are many medicines offered for the same purpose on which druggists make a bigger profit. For this reason, some druggists would rather sell the other things. If your own health is of more importance to you than the druggist's prosperity, you will insist on having what you ask for.

IN MONTREAL.

Maritime Province Liberals Address the Electors.

HON. MR. LAURIER ALSO SPEAKS

Mr. Emerson Shows How the National Policy Has Not Benefited His Province—Mr. Fielding on the School Question—The Liberal Trade Policy.

Montreal, Dec. 23.—The Liberals of Montreal Centre had a magnificent demonstration in Windsor Hall to-night. Although there was a drizzling rain and several important counter atractions, the hall, which seats about 1500, was filled at 8 o'clock, and shortly afterwards the Chairman had to interrupt one of the speakers to ask the people standing near the doors to come forward, as there were many outside unable to get in. It was a great contrast to the army of empty seats (one-fourth of the seating accommodation) which greeted the five Ottawa Ministers most of the time on Saturday night. Although the meting lasted until 11.30 o'clock, few or none left until the end. The speakers from the Maritime Provinces—Hon. W. S. Fielding, Premier of Nova Scotia; Hon. H. R. Emerson, Minister of Public Works, New Brunswick, and Hon. D. C. Fraser, M.P., Guysboro—naturally excited keen interest. Their addresses were worthy of the expectations formed. Premier Fielding particularly impressed the audience by his incisive argument and ready retort to one or two interruptions. Owing to the presence of presence of these gentlemen, and partly to a cold, Mr. Laurir did not speak at length.

Hon. James McShane referred briefly to the effects of the National Policy on the Working classes of St. Anne's, with whom he daily came in contact.

Hon. H. R. Emerson, Commissioner of Public Works for New Brunswick, was most enthusiastically received. After referring to the visit of Mr. Laurier to the Maritime Provinces he turned to the address which the Hon. G. E. Foster, his fellow-countryman, had made on the same platform Saturday evening. Down by the sea they believed that the more trade they had the more wealth would follow. But Hon. Mr. Foster did not represent feeling in his own county, much less that of the whole province. Mr. Foster did not say that his own county of King's had lost 2500 of its population during the decade ending 1891. There was a decrease in almost every county, and in the whole province there were only 30 more souls than ten years previously. Mr. Emerson then showed that the decline in shipbuilding had been due almost entirely to the National Policy, and pointed out the lesson in connection with the present crisis in the United States. We have been scared—no, not scared, but amused—(applause)—by threats of war. In 1812 the United States had a large, flourishing merchant marine from which to get her warships. To-day she has no merchant marine and would have to teach her sailors how to man the vessels she would be compelled to build. Dorchester, which fifteen years ago had a fleet known in every port, to-day has now scarcely a vessel. It is the same with other ports of New Brunswick. In the city and county of St. John there were in 1878 8388 hands earning $3,334,000 wages; in 1884 8062 hands, earning $3,322,000; in 1891 7613 hands, earning $2,362,000. The average year's wages of artisans declined from $390 to $350 during the decade. These figures refute the statement that the National Policy helps mechanics. They show that high tariff is not conducive to the welfare of artisans. The cry has gone forth that there must be a reform of the tariff. (Applause.)

Premier Fielding was cheered again and again as he advanced to speak. He was frequently interrupted by applause, and although his address was long, it was thoroughly appreciated. He said that he rejoiced to be able to assist in developing the policy which he had helped to create. The Liberal policy was not the result of a caucus, nor did it come from the council room. It was the product of the grand convention of the Liberal democracy in Ottawa. Such a gathering there never was before. Such a gathering the Conservatives dare not brave. (Applause.) He was rather surprised at the warm reception he met with. The Gazette had condemned him as an anti-confederate. It was a bad thing to be an anti-confederate unless one was a Tory. Joseph Howe was an anti-confederate. He almost raised rebellion, but when the Conservatives wanted to use him they took him into the Government. To-day the people are raising a monument to his memory. Sir John Thompson was an anti-confederate, but the Conservatives were glad to take him in to recruit the intellectual poverty of the Government. He himself was a member of the Liberal party, as he had been a humble member of the anti-confederate party. Humble though he was, he believed that if he offered his services to the Conservative party at Ottawa they would accept him.

Referring to the trade policy, he declared that the policy of freer trade, as advocated by the Liberal party, and as understood by every man who wanted to understand it, would be a benefit to genuine manufacturers. Tariff reform could not be accomplished in a day. The Liberals advocated tariff reform, but not revolution. Taking the conditions of Canada as they are, he believed that it would be necessary to maintain a considerable tariff for revenue purposes. If there was insidental protection it ought to satisfy any reasonable man. He did not believe in protection; he denounced it as the Liberal party did, but the revenue tariff, which was necessary for the purposes of Government, would be high enough to afford all the protection necessary for any legitimate business.

Regarding the Manitoba school question, he agreed with Sir Wm. Hingston that it should never have been made a party issue; but who made it a party issue? The Conservatives themselves did so in Antigonish and Vercheres for the purpose of arousing religious passion. Mr. Laurier has labored to prevent it being made a party question. He protested against the action of the Conservatives in going about declaring that they were compelled to impose Separate schools on Manitoba. Neither the constitution nor the Privy Council nor anything else compelled the imposition of Separate schools in Manitoba. But the Conservatives go to Roman Catholics and say, "Vote for us because we are going to restore Separate schools in Manitoba." Then they go to Protestants and say, "My dear fellow, we don't like Separate schools, but we are bound by the constitution to impose them on Manitoba—stand by the constitution and vote for us." He protested against such double dealing.

Mr. Laurier followed Mr. Fielding, but did not speak at length.

Mr. D. C. Fraser of Guysbon, spoke for half an hour, and in concluding, paid a warm tribute to Mr. Laurier.

Evening Meeting at Tottenham.

Tottenham, Dec. 23.—If the meeting at this place to-night gives any indications of how the election is going to-morrow in this constituency, then Mr. Henry, the Liberal candidate, will be lected by a substantial majority. Enthusiasm equal to what was displayed by the two hundred substantial farmers who listened to the addresses or Senator O'Donohoe, Mr. Peter Ryan and the other speakers has not been witnessed since the opening of the campaign. The vigorous and closely reasoning address of Mr. Peter Ryan roused his hearers to a full realization of the issues at stake and the comparative merits of the candidates. He reviewed the whole situation, and at the close of his address a resolution was adopted without a dissenting voice, and carried with cheers, that those present would pledge themselves to vote for Mr. Henry.

Mr. Pattullo and The Montreal Herald

Mr. Andrew Pattullo, proprietor of The Woodstock Sentinel-Review, has declined the invitation extended to him by the owners of The Montreal Herald, to assume control of that paper. The directors of The Herald offered Mr. Pattullo tempting inducements, but while his health is pretty well restored since his trip to Italy, he does not like to risk the severe strain which the management of a big city daily would necessitate. His friends in western Ontario are gratified at his decision.

A TELEPHONE IN THE STOMACH

Peculiar Phenomena of Human Nature

In an age when that subtle force electricity is presenting wonders to the world almost daily, and the Wizzard of Menlo Park has become the hero of the hour, there seems to be nothing that we may not expect in this direction. But it was not left to an Edison to establish a telephone in the stomach of human beings. The Great Maker of man in the economy of human nature provided such an instrument centuries ago. It is a fact that within the stomach of of every man and woman there is a little instrument that telephones to the nerve centres in the brain as quickly as any food reaches that part. When for any reason this communication is stopped the food is undigested and physical trouble ensues. With word promptly sent from stomach to nerve centres, these supply the necessary juice that aids digestion, and nature successfully does her part, good health is enjoyed and man is able to perform with energy and pleasure his everyday duties. It will happen at times that these nerve centres will become deranged and lose their forces; then it is that a remedy must be supplied, just as the skill of the electrician is necessary when something goes wrong with the office telephone. South American Nervine is the electrician, so far as the human body is concerned. It is a medicine unique and exceptional in this particular that it works directly upon the nerve centres, and when these are out of order it quickly places them in proper repair and completeness. Nearly all diseases, especially indigestion, dyspepsia, nervousness, general debility, sick headache and disordered liver arise through trouble at the nerve centres. You can just as readily count on South American Nervine effecting a proper cure in all such cases as you can depend upon the electrician of the Bell Telephone Co., removing any derangements that has taken place in your telephone. A YOUNG HERO.

Willie Colclough, Aged 16, Rescued One Lad, But Another Lad was Drowned.

Bridgeburg, Ont., Dec. 22.—A sad drowning and a brave rescue took place here about 2.30 o'clock this afternoon. Two boys, 10 years of age, one the son of William Ray of the Michigan Central Railway, the other a son of the late George Dennahower, were playing in a clinker boat without oars around the Baxter grain elevator dock. The current of the river being strong, they drifted away from the dock, and were being carried out into the Niagara River. The boys became frightened, jumped out of the boat, and tried to swim ashore, but unfortunately neither of them could swim, and the water being very cold, young Ray was drowned. Young Dennahower was grabbed by the hair and brought ashore by Willie Colcleugh, 16 years of age, who showed great bravery. The half-drowned boy was brought to life after much effort. The body of young Ray was recovered.

AYER'S Hair VIGOR

Restores natural color to the hair, and also prevents it falling out. Mrs. H. W. Fenwick, of Digby, N. S., says:

"A little more than two years ago my hair began to turn gray and fall out. After the use of one bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor my hair was restored to its original color and ceased falling out. An occasional application has since kept the hair in good condition."—Mrs. H. F. Fenwick, Digby, N. S.

Growth of Hair.

"Eight years ago, I had the varioloid, and lost my hair, which previously was quite abundant. I tried a variety of preparations, but without beneficial result, till I began to fear I should be permanently bald. About six months ago, my husband brought home a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and I began at once to use it. In a short time, new hair began to appear, and there is now every prospect of as thick a growth of hair as before my illness."—Mrs. A. Wer[illegible] Polymnia St., New Orleans, La.

More Rumors of Changes in the Cabinet.

MR. OUIMET LIKELY TO RETIRE

Trade Statistics Show a Large Falling Off in Exports—Poor Harvests in Australia Likely to Make a Demand There for Canadian Wheat.

Ottawa, Dec. 22.—Changes in the Cabinet have been decided upon and the Quebec Minister to fill the vacant portfolio chosen, but nothing further can be ascertained to-night. It would not be surprising if Mr. Ouimet were to retire. He has proved a flat failure as a Minister. Mr. Foster and Mr. Dickey went to the Montreal campaign yesterday, and Dr. Montague will lift up his voice for Dr. Hingston and the Remedial Order on the eve of battle, Thursday, the 26th inst. Mr. Haggart is the only member of the Cabinet who has not lent a hand in the bye-elections. That the whole Government should be engaged in four bye-elections shows how desperately they consider the situation. It is unprecedented in the history of Confederation. Mr. Haggart's extraordinary abstention is also unprecedented, in view of the general order calling out the whole force. Mr. Haggart disregards Premier Bowell's orders, however.

A very prominent Ontario politician, indeed, said to-day that the Willoughby-Nesbitt document has killed Mr. Willoughby forever in public life. Privately the Government expected Warden Henry's election. Mr. Foster and Dr. Montague went into Cardwell to stay until Tuesday, but they left there suddenly on Friday under the impression that it is a hopeless task to try and elect Mr. Willoughby. Warden Henry is regarded here as safe by a good majority.

The trade returns in yesterday's official Gazette show the total trade for November to amount to $23,577,017 compared with $22,250,728 last year, an increase of half a million dollars. The increase is in imports. In exports there is a decline of a million and a quarter, largely in agricultural products. The imports show that the duty collected on rice was 50 per cent., on sparkling wines 28 per cent., on coal 31 per cent., on coal oil 54 per cent., on many classes of agricultural implements 35 per cent., on earthen and china ware 30 per cent., on cotton clothing 35 per cent., on hardware and tools used by workingmen 30 per cent., on paper and envelopes over 30 per cent., and on sugar 23 per cent. In the face of this campaign orators tell the people that the tariff taxes the luxuries chiefly. The duty collected on silks was not half that on coal oil and little less than on rice, the light and the food of the poor. The average duty on all dutiable articles was 31 1-5 per cent. The duty collected on manufactures of gold and silver was smaller than the duty collected on the necessaries of life.

Advices received at the Department of Trade and Commerce by the last Australian mail indicate a possibility of a demand for Manitoba wheat in Australia. Drought has prevailed to a considerable extent in New South Wales and Victoria, and to a lesser extent in South Australia, the consequence being a prospective shortage in the wheat harvest. The anticipated falling off in the crop has led to a considerable increase in the price of wheat in the Sydney market. From July to Oct. 20, wheat was worth about 3s 6d per bushel, but when the mail left it ranged from 4s 6d to 4s 8d. Melbourne papers say that the forthcoming harvest will be the lightest ever reaped in Victoria, and in many cases farmers will have difficulty in getting their seed back. City people in Australia have been painfully reminded of the manner in which the drought affects them by an increase in the price of bread to 6c for a 2lb loaf.

The Dominion and Ontario Governments, through the Fisheries and Crown Lands Departments respectively, have recently completed the stocking of several of the lakes in the Lake of the Woods District with black bass and other valuable fish. Many of these lakes abound in fine trout and maskinonge, but it was thought that it would popularize the district as a sporting resort if they were stocked with black bass and speckled trout. Among the lakes which have been treated in this way are Rossland, Austersound, Flint, Otter, Cameron, Sturgeon and White Fish Lakes. Parent fish were put in in each case.

At the coming session extensions of time will be asked by the Sault Ste. Marie and Hudson Bay Railway Company; the Kingston, Napanee and Western Railway Company; the Thousand Island Railway Company, and the Bay of Quinte Railway and Navigation Company.

The Ontario Peat Fuel Company will ask permission to build a line from its works in the township of Wainfleet to the Grand Trunk and Canada Southern Railways.

Application will be made for incorporation of the Fraternal Sick Benefit and Accident Association, with headquarters at London.

An Order-in-Council has been passed permitting Revs. D. P. Benoit, A. M. Mowrey and A. H. Calumeth of Notre Dame de Lourdes and St. Claude, Manitoba, to acquire homesteads at a dollar an acre on account of their services in promoting immigration. They have substantially complied with all the conditions of the homestead law, except as to residence, which the nature of their duties and the rules of their order will not permit to be made upon their respective homesteads, as they are required to live in the community. At the initiation of the settlement in 1893, there were 120 settlers in Notre Dame de Lourdes, and 55 in St. Claude, and the population meantime has greatly increased, not only by natural causes, but also by immigration from France, due to the efforts of these priests.

The new station of the Canada Atlantic and Ottawa, Arnprior and Parry Sound Railway was opened yesterday by Mayor Borthwick in the presence of a large number of citizens. Trains will run into the depot to-morrow, when the civic bonus of $50,000 will be paid.

Prof. Prince, Commissioner of Fisheries, has been elected an honorary member of the Glasgow Natural History Society. When a resident of Glasgow Prof. Prince was vice-president of this influential organization.

The proprietors of the Silver Creek trout ponds at Toronto have made application for permission to import free of customs duty a large quantity of fry and ova of speckled trout.

Depoelts in the postoffice savings banks for November totalled $723,779 and the withdrawals $577,037.

Official inspection of the line of the Canada Atlantic Railway to the new station at the Canal Basin has been made and all trains over the Canada Atlantic and Parry Sound Railway will run into the new station on and after Monday.

Dangerous.

We often see this sign on roads or streets.

Any kidney ailment is dangerous. Because you never know where it will end.

Suppose you feel languid, suppose you have feverish symptoms, there must be poison in the blood, for these are the certain signs.

To the fact that poisons get past the kidneys may be traced every sickness to which you are liable.

Treat the kidneys forthwith and first of all.

It is the safe and proper thing every time; therefore do it promptly and well. We are trying to teach people to turn to Dodd's Kidney Pills as the simplest and greatest treatment of kidney diseases on earth.

Can you see the point? Every serious disease results from the kidneys being on of order. Dodd's Kidney Pills keeps on curing these diseases

CANADA'S FIGHTING ABILITY.

General Laurie Tells Englishmen About Our Military Strength

London, Dec. 22.—In an interview on the defense of Canada John W. Laurie, M.P., who was appointed a Lieut.-General in the Canadian militia in 1862, said that Canada could in the event of war immediately place in the field 100,000 men, each of them filled with the highest loyalty to the Motherland and fired with the utmost enthusiasm. Speaking of the disparity of the people of Canada and the United States he said that it was not a question of 66,000,000 against 5,000,000 because Canada's people were mostly within striking distance of the frontier, while although the frontier on the American side was more thickly populated, the main population was some distance away. It would take the United States longer to bring up some of its forces than to send troops to England. There was no question of the Canadians being unanimous in their resolution to defend their country and remain a part of the British Empire. Canada would be perfectly friendly with the United States, provided the latter minded its own business, but if it once attempted to interfere in Canadian affairs there was not a man in the Dominion who would not cry, "Hands off." The French-Canadians were equally solid against Canada's absorption by the United States. He had the highest opinion of the French-Canadians.

Cleveland's Sedan.

Berlin, Dec. 22.—The Vossische Zeitung in an article referring to the financial panic in New York says: "The outcome is likely to prove to be President Cleveland's Sedan. The economic position of America is bad now, but what will happen in the event of war?

The North German Gazette expresses fear that it will take at least a decade for America to recover the confidence of the politicians and financiers of Germany.

One Honest Man.

Dear Editor:—Please inform your readers, that if written to confidentially I will mail in a sealed letter, particulars of a genuine, honest home cure, by which I was permanently restored to health and manly vigor, after years of suffering from nervous debility, sexual weakness, night losses and weak shrunken parts. I was robbed and swindled by the quacks until I nearly lost faith in mankind, but thank heaven, I am now well, vigorous and strong, and wish to make this certain means of cure known to all sufferers. I have nothing to sell, and want no money, but being a firm believer in the universal brotherhood of man, I am desirous of helping the unfortunate to regain their health and happiness. Perfect secrecy assured. Address with stamp:—Mr. Edward Lambert. P. O Box 55, Jarvis, Ont.

MR. GREENWAY'S REPLY.

The Document on the Way to Ottawa—An Appeal to the Electors to be Made on It.

Ottawa, Dec. 22.—A despatch received by a member of the Government to-night states that the reply of the Manitoba Government to the second Order-in-Council on the school question left that city for Ottawa to-day. It is understood that Mr. Greenway will now immediately dissolve the Legislature and appeal for a new lease of power on the platform of his school policy. The elections will take place in February.

One result of the present war scare will be a unanimous demand on the Government for the arming of the militia with Lee-Metford rifles. It will cost the country half a million dollars but the money will be well spent. The Ottawa Journal has been doing good work during the past few days in dinging into the Government the necessity of taking prompt measures in this direction, not by any means with the thought of war in prospect, but as a matter of police efficiency. Military men are a unit in the matter of a new arm. It is also pointed out that another cartridge factory is imperatively needed in Canada and Ontario members ought to press for the speedy establishment of one in this province. It is said that Parliament will be asked to vote an appropriation to make a thorough test of smokeless powder.

Society circles are all agog over what promises to be one of the greatest social functions that have ever taken place in Canada, it being understood that their Excellencies the Governor-General and Lady Aberdeen contemplate giving a fancy dress ball towards the latter end of January. Of course, the gentlemen will wear court dress, and it is said the ladies invited will form themselves into groups with a view to appearing in dresses fashioned after the court costumes in vogue at certain periods in English history.

The two sons of His Excellency the Governor-General are expected here to-day from England to spend the holidays with their parents.

Health and strength carry us through dangers and make us safe in the presence of perils. A perfectly strong man with rich, pure blood, has nothing to fear from germs. He may breathe in the bacilli of consumption with impunity. If there is a weak spot where the germs may find an entrance to the tissues, then the trouble begins. Disease germs propagate with lightning-like rapidity. Once in the blood, the only way to get rid of them is to kill them. This is what Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is for. It purifies the blood. That means that it kills the germs, but that is only part of what it does. It assists digestion by stimulating the secretion of digestive fluids, so promoting assimilation and nutrition; purifies and enriches the blood and so supplies the tissues with the food they need. It builds up strong, healthy flesh and puts the whole body into a disease-resisting state.

in a surprisingly short time. It's a scientific certainty, tried and true, soothing and healing in its effects.

W. C. McCombee & Son, Bouchette, Que., report in a letter that Pyny-Pectoral cured Mrs. C. Garneau of chronic cold in chest and bronchial tubes, and also cured W. C. McCombee of a long-standing cold.

Mr. J. H. Hutty, Chemist, 528 Yonge St., Toronto, writes: "As a general cough and lung syrup Pyny-Pectoral is a most invaluable preparation. It has given the utmost satisfaction to all who have tried it, many having spoken to me of the benefits derived from its use in their families. It is suitable for old or young, being pleasant to the taste. Its sale with me has been wonderful, and I can always recommend it as a safe and reliable cough medicine."

Scott's Sarsaparilla the kind that cures.

Indigestion or dyspepsia is the bane of thousands, and is one of the most depressing of afflictions. It arises from an impure or impoverished condition of the blood, which weakens the digestive and assimilative organs, rendering them incapable of performing their natural functions, and if neglected, the sufferer loses flesh, complains of exhaustion after slight exertion, and becomes rapidly debilitated.

Mr. Wm. W. Thompson, a prominent resident of Zephyr, Ont., in a letter dated Aug 12th, 1895, says: "It gives me great pleasure to testify to the fact that Scott's Sarsaparilla has caused a most remarkable change in my condition. I was so much run down I had to give up work and felt as if life were not worth living. Mr. Dafoe induced me to try Scott's Sarsaparilla, and after taking four bottles I am now feeling as I formerly did years ago, and I want to say for the benefit of those suffering from indigestion and feeling, to use slang phrase, 'completely knocked out,' don't despair until you give Scott's Sarsaparilla a fair trial."

Scott's Sarsaparilla is a blood food, it stimulates all vital organs to healthy normal action, enabling them to throw off all poisonous and debilitating humors. Sold by druggists at $1, but there is only one Scott's. The kind that cures.

Sold by J. D. Tully, Peterborough.

HUSTLING HAVELOCK.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

On Monday, 23rd inst., Thos. Milne took up the award of the arbitrators in the case of Milne vs. Corporation, and found the following facts contained therein:—Damages for Milne $65.00, and the entire costs of the proceedings to be borne by the corporation, which amount in round figures to $800. Now the council are talking of appealing, with a view of quashing the conviction, if are they again elected.

This claim has already cost the corporation $800 and could have been settled for $35 at the beginning.

Wm. Coulter, of Toronto, was in the village for one day last week selling a quantity of lumber.

Last Thursday a very enjoyable evening was passed at the residence of Wm. Matheson by the young people of the village.

The well at the skating rink has caved in by the condition of the weather.

A. R. Anderson, of Norwood, was in the village last Friday transacting business.

The children of the school held a concert in the various rooms last Friday and presented their teachers with very nice presents upon their retiring from the school here.

On Friday evening a company of young people, intimate friends of Miss Pengelly, drove up to Norwood, where they passed a very pleasant evening at Miss Pengelly's, and returned home in time for breakfast.

The members of the Bible class of the Presbyterian church were invited to spend the evening at the manse. All enjoyed themselves.

The council are now busily continuing the drain at Dr. Jeff's crossing, which will be a great benefit when completed.

Miss Marsh, of Kingston, is visiting her sister, Mrs. James Black.

Mrs. Webb, of Toronto, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Graham.

It is with the deepest regret we mention the death of Miss Jane Barlow, who passed away last Sunday morning after an illness of some ten weeks. The funeral which took place from the parents' residence on Tuesday, proceeded to the English church where services were conducted in the presence of a very large congregation. The church was draped in a very becoming manner for the occasion, and the casket covered with flowers. A very handsome pillow of flowers was placed there by the sympathising gentlemen of the village. The Sunday school children followed the remains in a body, with a large number of sympathizing friends, for among and by all the deceased was held in the highest esteem, her pleasing manners and cheerful disposition caused all with whom she was acquainted to find it a pleasure to be in her company, and it is to the deepest regret of all her acquaintances that she has been taken away from us. The greatest sympathy is expressed by all for the bereaved family in the loss of one who always cheered and made the home bright. They have the consolation of knowing that, although taken from them here, she has gone to the arms of her dear Saviour to await the coming of her many sorrowing friends who are left to mourn her absence.

WESTWOOD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

A Merry Christmas to all!

The foot ball concert on Friday night was a decided success in every way. Although the sleighing was gone, and the roads were bad, and the night dark, the people turned out well to encourage the boys in their first concert—the boys who never lost a goal this season although they played six matches and scored ten goals. The following is the programme:

Chairman's address....Mr Thos Blesard M.P.P., honorary President of the F B club
Song...Football team in uniform and position
Address....Mr W J McMillen, president F B C
Instrumental.....organ, Miss Katie Walsh, violin, Mr Frank Comstock
Duet....Misses Mina Slade and Laura Cardwell
Mouthorgan.....Seven football boys
Song.....Miss Maggie Tudhope
Instrumental....organ, Miss Maggie Comstock violins, Messrs Fred and Lou Comstock Song.....Professor G W Mulligan
Intermission, 10 minutes.
Pantomime.....Foot ball team
Instrumental..Organ, Miss Maggie Comstock; Violin, Miss Susie Comstock
Recitation.....Mr. Thos. Lancaster
Instrumental.....Organ, Miss Katie Walsh; violin, Mr. Frank Comstock
Sword Exercise.....Lieut. F. Elmhirst
Instrumental..Organ, Miss Maggie Comstock; violin, Mr. Fred. Comstock; autoharp, Master Lou Comstock.
Mouth Organ.....Seven Football Boys
Votes of Thanks.....
God Save the Queen.....

Misses Katie Walsh, Maggie Comstock and Lettie Blesard presided at the organ and did their parts well. It would scarcely be fair to those who took part to particularise, suffice it to say that all did their parts well, and everything went merry as wedding bells. The football boys were much indebted to Mrs. Wm. Slade for the use of her fine organ for their concert. The boys were complimented on all hands by the audience, and all went home delighted with their "night off."

The sheds in connection with the Methodist church here are nearing completion, and will soon be ready for use. Mr. G. A. L. Humphries is superintending the job.

For about the first time in the history of Asphodel there is talk of no municipal election this year.

The football team and their officers went to Peterborough last Saturday to have their photo taken, in their new uniform.

What She Said.

Mrs R. Peck, E. 15th street, New York city, visited Canada last year, and had the good fortune to pick up something which not only suited her, but her neighbors also. Writing the manufacturer of Nerviline she says:—"I bought three bottles of Nerviline while in Canada and treated my neighbors to some of it, and all think it the best medicine for internal or external pain they have ever used." Nerviline deserves such a commendation, for it is the most powerful, penetrating, and certain remedy for pain of all kinds. Take no substitute.

RESOLUTION OF PROTEST.

But Chicago Workingmen Decline to Pass a Peace Proposal.

Chicago, Dec. 23.—A sensation was caused at the meeting of the Chicago Labor Congress yesterday by the introduction of a resolution condemning President Cleveland's Venezuela message and the Monroe doctrine.

The resolution was as follows: "Resolved, that as we have no quarrel, no desire for the alleged glory of a bloody war, but instead, we recognize the ties of brotherhood and the hope for a common uplifting of the wage workers of all countries, we do, as members and representatives of the wage classes, most emphatically protest against the murderous designs of those who would thus destroy our fellow-workers, and we earnestly appeal to the workingmen everywhere to make their condemnation heard."

After a heated discussion the resolution was tabled by a two-thirds majority.

Was Miller After Insurance Money?

London, Ont., Dec. 23.—The mystery surrounding the alleged robbery of John W. Miller of $780 and a gold watch remains unsolved, unless an explanation of it is accepted which may possible do the man an injustice. The explanation is that Miller deliberately allowed his left hand to be smashed in the manner that necessitated its amputation shortly afterwards at the City Hospital, for the purpose of getting insurance money.

Five Fishermen Drowned.

London, Dec. 23.—A despatch from Ostend says as the mail boat from England was entering that harbor this morning it came into collision with and sank a fishing boat. Five of the fisherman's crew were drowned.

HINTS FOR SANTA CLAUS.

Gough Bros., the Wonderful Cheap Men.

What are you going to give your husband for a Christmas present? What are you going to give your boy for a Christmas present? For your husband what would be nicer than a nice overcoat, ulster, dress suit or fancy vest? For your boy what would be nicer than a suit of clothes or a new pair of boots, an overcoat or collars, cuffs, ties, etc.? At Gough Bros'. large establishment these useful presents can be purchased. These goods are of the best quality and manufacture and are sold at a price which would astonish you. Gough Bros. carry a large stock of boots, shoes, slippers, rubbers, overshoes, felt goods, hats, caps, gloves and mitts, and from their large assortment a suitable gift can be chosen. Presents should be of a practical nature and at this store such goods can be had. For instance, a nice pair of kid gloves are always acceptable. A dozen silk or linen handkerchiefs or a box of collars, of which a large assortment is kept, would make a nice and useful Christmas present. Twenty years' experience in the the gents' furnishing trade has taught Gough Bros. the value of a good display and their two handsome stores are filled to overflowing with fine goods in their line. Parents wishing presents for their sons, young ladies who desire to please—well, say their brothers, can do no better than visit this store; they are sure to find what they want. A special line of neckwear, gloves, silk handkerchiefs and neck scarfs has been placed in stock for the holiday trade.

THE LATE REV. DR. SHAW.

In connection with the lamented death of the late Rev. Dr. Shaw, the following resolution was unanimously adopted at a meeting of the Executive Committee of the General Board of Missions of the Methodist church on Friday last:—Moved by the Rev. Dr. Potts, and seconded by the Rev. A. Langford, and "Resolved, that the Executive Committee hereby place on record its estimate of the godly character and useful life of the late assistant secretary of our Missionary Society, the Rev. John Shaw, D.D., and its sense of the loss it has sustained in his lamented death. As a follower of the Lord Jesus Christ, he won the confidence and esteem of all who became acquainted with him by the unfeigned modesty of his whole deportment, and at the same time his unfailing fidelity to Christian principle and righteousness in all the affairs of life. As a minister of the Gospel in important stations, he made himself noteworthy for his ministerial efficiency and success, and for the long period of forty-four years maintained a perfectly unsullied reputation, and carried a record unsurpassed in ministerial blamelessness down to the close of his life. He lived in the hearts of his brethren, and commended himself to them as worthy to bear honours and responsibilities. For many years he presided over the districts in which he was stationed, and by the wisdom of his administration attracted to himself in no common degree, the brethren who were associated with him. During the period of eleven years in the offices of the Missionary Society he served the cause of missions by his able advocacy in the pulpit and on the platform, and attended to the duties of his office to the entire satisfaction of the society. While the committee mourns the loss of a beloved brother and fellow-laborer, it ascribes praise to Almighty God for the triumph of divine grace manifested in him, and offers sincere sympathy to the members of his bereaved household, and commends them in prayer to Him who is able to comfort and keep them unto the great day of reunion beyond the bounds of time."

CARDWELL RESULT.

The Third Party Candidate Secures the Seat.

PLURALITY 207 OVER WILLOUGHBY.

An Interview With Mr. McCarthy After the Figures Became Known—Comments of the Montreal Gazette—The Globe on the Unblushing Bribery Practiced.

Orangeville, Dec. 25.—The election for Cardwell yesterday resulted in the success of Mr. Stubbs, the McCarthyite candidate. The weather was bad and nothing like the full vote was got out.

The failure of Mr. Willoughby as largely attributed to the efforts of Mr. N. Clarke Wallace, who is known to have been prominent among the supporters of Mr. Stubbs, particularly in Orange circles, and there is no question but that the desertion of the Conservative candidate by Conservative Orangemen of long years standing in this community alone afforded the opportunity to Mr. McCarthy to gain another seat in the Dominion Parliament.

M'CARTHY ON CARDWELL.

The Clever Sponsor of the Successful Cardwell Candidate Tells His Story.

From an interview published in The Globe of yesterday.

Mr. McCarthy looked tired but well pleased when seen late last night by a representative of The Globe. Asked as to what comment he had to make upon the result of the election, he replied that the majority for Mr. Stubbs, so far as he had heard, was 231. "Although that is somewhat less than what I expected," he went on, "still the difference is accounted for by the fact that owing to the condition of the roads the full vote seems not to have been polled. I need hardly say that I can scarcely exaggerate my sense of the importance of the victory that has been achieved against the most unfair odds in defence of the Manitoba Public school law. When it is remembered that my candidate had to fight against five Ministers of the Crown who among them addressed sixteen meetings, from seven to ten members of parliament, and other platform speakers of more or less note, and an organization which was simply perfect, supported by means practically unlimited and bolstered up by corruption that was an outrage upon a free election, the majority in favor of Mr. Stubbs can only be fittingly characterized as magnificent. In a fair field the vote in this strongly Conservative constituency would certainly have been two to one against interfering with Manitoba.

"It is too early yet to attempt an analysis of the vote, nor have I at my disposal at the moment returns with a sufficient exactitude to enable me to draw any very correct conclusions, but the small vote recorded in favor of Mr. Henry, the Liberal candidate, makes it abundantly plain that the Liberal party in this province are as determined as the free section of the Conservative party are to stand up for the rights of the Prairie Province. As an instance of that, I may mention that in the Liberal stronghold of Caledon, when Mr. A. T. Hunter and Captain Smith first appeared there, they were told that there was not a McCarthyite in the division, but after three meetings were held, at one of which Captain Smith and Mr. A. T. Hunter delivered excellent addresses, followed by Sir Richard Cartwright, and one on Saturday night at which I appeared myself, the result, according to the figures that I now have, appeared to be that Mr. Stubbs polled 53 votes against Mr. Henry's 62, and in Inglewood he polled 46 to Mr. Henry's 42. Also, that the Roman Catholics of Adjala, although they did not support Mr. Stubbs, were by no means enthusiastic in voting for the coercion of Manitoba, for it is evident that a full Roman Catholic vote was not polled, although most of them went in favor of the Liberal candidate, Mr. Henry.

"I have gladly to admit," Mr. McCarthy continued, "that I had in Mr. Stubbs a very strong candidate where he was known, although in some parts of the riding, especially in the lower part of Caledon and the upper portion of Mono, the vote recorded for him was given not so much for him as for the cause he represented. I perhaps may not be the best man to estimate the probable results of the victory, but I said in my last speech at Rosemount on Tuesday night that I thought a defeat in Cardwell might possibly warn the Government that persistence in the course of interfering with the Manitoba school system, would bring about the downfall of the Government and the destruction of the party which supports it."

"What effect do you suppose this result will have upon the present Manitoba situation?" Mr. McCarthy was asked.

"I can only say that it must go far to strengthen the policy of Mr. Greenway's Government in opposing Dominion interference. It cannot be denied that the result in Haldimand, although not difficult to account for, and in North Ontario has been disheartening to the people of Manitoba, who are practically a unit in support of their Public school system, and it will be encouraging to them that the conscience of Ontario seems at last to have been aroused.

"It must be remembered," Mr. McCarthy went on, "so far as Cardwell is concerned, that over two years ago I threw down the gauntlet to the Government, and dared them to open Cardwell, a Conservative constituency, which has been long held by Government supporters, which once had been represented by me, and which offered a fair field on which conclusions might be tried between the Government and myself on the questions, fiscal and relating to their Manitoba and Northwest Territories policy, on which we differed. In the end Mr. White, in his anxiety to escape the awkward position in which he was placed by reason of the pledges he had given to his constituents respecting the Manitoba school question, brought about the opportunity which I sought and which the Government, as now seems, with good reason, appeared to dread. Had the Liberals, as I think, I not unreasonably asked them, allowed the Government and myself to fight the question out, the victory would possibly have been still more complete. I may be allowed to add that I think it an abuse of the power of the Government which ought to be resented by every independent elector in Canada, no matter to what party he belongs, so to control the time of the holding of the bye-elections as to enable the Government to bring to bear in its favor the whole power of the state against the opposing candidate. It cannot be doubted that in a fair contest Mr. Stubbs' majority in Cardwell would have been treble what it is. Here, for instance, in this case was Mr. Stubbs, a poor man, aided by such little assistance as I could give him, fighting not merely the whole Cabinet, but also all their gang of expert electioneers and boodlers, which hitherto had been successful in carrying every bye-election in which the same forces have been utilized. If Parliamentary elections are to be free in fact, as they are supposed to be in theory, this abuse of Governmental power should be prohibited."

The Bribing Brigade.

Under the above caption The Globe comments as follows:

That the Government failed to place its candidate at the head of the poll in Cardwell by unblushing coruption is due more to the substratum of unbribable electors there than to the sense of decency on the part of the managers of the Conservative campaign. The testimony from Cardwell is identical with that from North Ontario, namely, that the Government was bound to win at any cost, that there was nothing to fear from the election courts, as the session would in all probability be over before any trial could take place, and that accordingly no inconvenient questions of conscience were to be allowed to interfere with the carnival of corruption which has been planned for all these bye-elections. The matter has become so open and shameless that the workers do not even pretend to be coducting a fair campaign. When the contest was over in North Ontario, Mr Birminghom's circus, forming a motley collection of Ministers of the Crown, expectant receivers of Government largess, stumpers, side line workers and "plungers," moved into Cardwell, and there they have been busily employed endeavoring to debauch the electorate of a constituency which hitherto has, we believe, been almost free from that species of moral degradation.

There are constituencies in his country which have become so bedevilled with the arts of the "political manager" that the idea of a candidate becoming the representative by any other means than by buying the dubious honor would strike the practical politicians as preposterous. Before these bye-elections are over several constituencies will have the germs of this idea pretty surely planted in their political code. It is difficult to conceive of more dangerous or more insidious enemies of their country than the men who thus undertake in a wholesale way the degradation of the electoral conscience of the people.

Montreal Gazette's Comments.

Speaking of the result in Cardwell, The Montreal Gazette (Mr. R. S. White's paper) says: "It was a constituency in which Mr. Wallace's resignation of his position in the Government would naturally have a considerable effect, even though the ex-controller did not actively exert himself in the contest. Mr. Stubbs had formerly been a candidate, and was a local man. Mr. Willoughby lost very much by the publication of the draft of a letter which indicated that he had, at least, considered a proposal to sell out his nomination in return for an appointment to a public office. All this, however, while it may explain, does not mitigate the fact that the Conservatives have lost a constituency they have held since Confederation. It can hardly be doubted that the main cause of the defeat was the attitude of the Government on the Manitoba school question. That the outcome will have an effect on Parliament is certain. It will tend to make some seats, now held by Government supporters, insecure, and it will encourage the Manitoba Premier in his policy of resisting any attempt to restore to the Catholics of that province the privileges his legislation took from them. It will tend to make an uncertain issue more uncertain, and the coming session of Parliament more interesting. It may be added, also, that it shows that the electors have definite views on the school matter."

MR. FOSTER'S FINANCES.

The Liabilities of the Dominion Ten Million Dollars More Than a Year Ago.

Ottawa, Dec. 25.—The annual report of the Minister of Finance, known as the public accounts for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1895, is published. The operations of the year resulted in an increase of $6,891,897 in the net public debt, which on June 30 stood at $253,074,297. The receipts from ordinary sources failed to meet the ordinary expenditure by $4,153,875. This showing is even worse than appeared by the statement of the year's finances published in The Canadian Gazette in October, both the net debt and the deficit being larger than the [illegible] contained in that statement. The withdrawals from the savings banks amounted to $11,280,000 and the deposits to $11,224,000. There was thus $55,845 more withdrawals during the year than was deposited. The accrued interest on the various accounts amounted to $1,470,332. The actual debt is even larger than $253,000,000 because no account is taken of the $3,000,000 to which the Dominion is indebted to the Province of Quebec, and for which we became liable under a statute passed recently. It is a direct liability, which the Minister of Finance apparently repudiates. The total expenditure on account of consolidated fund was $38,132,006, and the total receipts $33,978,128, showing a deficit of $4,153,875.

The deficits since Mr. Mackenzie left office have been as follows:

1880	1,543,227
1885	2,240,058
1887	5,834,571
1888	810,031
1894	1,210,332
1895	4,153,875

The deficits during Sir Richard Cartwright's administration of the finances amounted in three years to $4,489,000, or less than Mr. Foster's deficits during the last two years.

The collection of customs cost $917,632 and excise $171,864. The expenditure on militia was $300,000 in excess of the previous year, and the expenditure on railways and canals, on account of income, was increased by nearly 100 per cent., and the expenditure on public works, on account of income, was increased by $300,000. Administration of justice was increased by $10,000 and Civil government $20,000. The expenditure on immigration decreased by $7,000. The expenditure on capital account amounted to $3,031,000 distributed chiefly among four items, as follows:—St. Lawrence River and canals, $1,737,592; Sault Ste. Marie Canal, $166,151; Intercolonial Railway, $327,034; Lachine Canal, $189,944. In addition the railway subsidies charged to capital account and paid during the year aggregated $1,310,549.

The liabilities of the Dominion, which were a year ago $308,000,000 are set down now at $318,000,000. Since last year Mr. Foster has realized $10,950,000 on account of the loan of 1894. In other words, Mr. Foster is borrowing money to pay his running expenses.

Among the miscellaneous expenditure for 1895 appear the following items: Expenses of Alaska Boundary Commission, $44,565; contribution to the Lady Thompson fund, $25,000; addition al payment for Colonial Conference, $4,505; funeral expenses of the late Sir John Thompson, $23,831; plant for Printing Bureau, $4,929; preparation of returns to parliament, $1243; further payment to Royal Commission on the liquor traffic, $12,857.

The revenue of the Postoffice Department amounted to $2,792,789, and the expenditure to $3,593,647, a deficit of $329,000, which is very much in excess of the average deficit. The postoffice revenue was $17,000 less than the year before, and the expenditure $76,000 more. The expenditure of the postoffice was larger than in any previous year since confederation. The same is true in the Militia Department. The same is also true as applied to the government of the Northwest and the penitentiaries.

A statement is appended to the reports showing by departments the number of officials employed in the inside and outside service coming under the superannuation act, and their salaries. The total number is 4202, whose salaries aggregate $3,609,113. The number credited to the Customs Department is 954, to the Postoffice Department 1597.

THE RESULT IN CARDWELL.

The Government, through its candidate, was defeated in the Cardwell bye-election, of Tuesday, Mr Stubbs, the McCarthyite candidate, having been elected by a majority of over 200.

The electors evidently took to heart the lesson of the North Ontario bye-election, when, though the Government was virtually defeated, owing to the adverse vote being divided between two candidates of practically the same platform, the Government candidate had a majority over either taken separately.

The Government policy, in respect to Manitoba, of coercion instead of fair investigation, has been explicitly condemned in Cardwell, and its trade policy, which was an equally prominent issue, was also strongly condemned. This condemnation is all the more emphatic when it is remembered what desperate efforts were made by the Government to stave off defeat. The riding was invaded by no less than five Ministers of the Crown, seven or eight members of Parliament, besides several other able platform speakers on the Government side of the House. The boodle brigade was out in full force, and a practically unlimited amount of money was made available for the Government party for the exercise of a corruption which Mr. McCarthy pronounces an "outrage upon free election." Many persons, taking the pessimistic view, seem to have come to the conclusion that the electorate is very largely amenable to the influence of bribery, but the result of the Cardwell election showed that large numbers would not yield to such a sordid argument and preferred the assertion of principle through their ballots to the temporary profit of a substantial bribe, which was offered in so many and in such insidious forms. The government fought with the energy of desperation, and that they were signally defeated in a bye-election in a Conservative stronghold like Cardwell, is an ominous circumstance. In a general election they would not have the unfair advantage which they enjoyed by having the bye-elections at different times, so that the whole influence of the Government, moral and immoral, could be concentrated on the devoted constituency. With a fair field and with a fair square fight the Government's hold on power will, if not broken, be severely shaken, and in spite of the reverse in North Ontario, there is every reason to believe that the general elections will tell a far different tale.

DOURO COUNCIL.

From our own Correspondent.

The Douro Council met at the town hall, Douro, on Dec. 16th, as the statutes provided. Members all present. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. Communications and accounts were received from Richard Cavanagh, John Gilroy, John Moore, Michael Burke, J. R. Stratton and Dr. J. R. Fraser, medical health officer. Orders on treasurer: Balance of Councillors' sessional allowance $10. The treasurer presented the financial statement which was adopted and the clerk instructed to get 200 copies printed and distributed according to law. Joseph Butler was refunded the sum of $1 dog tax, having made the statutory declaration according to resolution of Court of Revision. Mr. William Leeson, $1.50, amount paid by him to the Nicholls Hospital, for keep of Fred. Dixon; Richard Cavanagh $4, for conveying Marshall Sager, a destitute person, to the County gaol and committing him; John Gilroy, $4, for cleaning room occupied by Marshall Sager, after removal. On motion the Council adjourned sine die.

The statutory meeting of the town council was held in the town hall of Monday evening of last week.

Those present were Reeve Casement in the chair, and Councillors Lillicrap, Hilliard, Hull and Dr. Burgess.

The minutes of the last regular meeting were read and confirmed.

FINANCE REPORT.

Lakefield, Dec. 16th, 1895.

To the Reeve and Council of the village Lakefield:

Gentlemen,—Your Finance Committee having examined the following accounts, recommend payment of the same:

Dr Bell, stamps, etc	$2 75
Dr Bell, supplies	7 14
S Sherin, postage, etc	1 00
E Young, charity wood	1 00
David Smith, fire dept	4 95
	$17 34

All of which is respectfully submitted.

JOHN HULL,
Chairman.

Moved by Coun. Hull, seconded by Coun. Burgess, that the report be received and adopted.—Carried.

A committee from the Band asked the Council as to what hour the town hall should be closed, as they had been locked out on a certain night. A discussion ensued but no definite action was taken.

Moved by Coun. Hull, seconded by Coun. Lillicrap, that the treasurer's statement be received and printed according to law.—Carried.

The matter of taking gravel from the hill near Mr. Jackman's residence, to be used in the canal, by which the hill would be cut down, was left in the hands of the Road and Sidewalk Committee, with power to act as they saw fit.

Moved by Coun. Hull, seconded by Coun. Hilliard, that the Reeve and Councillor Lillicrap be a committee to draft and forward to the Minister of Railways and Canals a memorial protesting against the high bridge on Bridge street, and asking that the route of the canal be changed to be east side of the river.—Carried.

The council then adjourned.

An open meeting of the Junior Y. P. S. C. E. of the Presbyterian church was held on Sunday afternoon.

On Friday evening a concert was held in Miss Duff's room by the children, which was very creditable, during the course of which Miss Duff was presented with an address by the girls and a handsome picture and easel and also an address by the boys, accompanied by a handsome rocking chair. Miss Duff made a suitable reply.

THE NOMINATIONS.

A meeting of the electors of the village of Lakefield and that portion of the school section situate in the Township of Douro will be held in the town hall on Monday, Dec. 30th, at twelve o'clock noon for the purpose of nominating fit and proper persons to serve as reeve, councillors and school trustees for the year 1896. In case more than the required number of candidates are duly nominated and seconded, the proceedings will be adjourned until Monday, the 6th day of January, when a vote will be taken according to law. All persons interested will please take notice and govern themselves accordingly. Polling places—in Ward No. 1, at the town hall; Ward No. 2, Salvation Army barracks.

R. Graham & Son have a lot of handsome New Year's gifts. Call and see them.

Weak Lungs.

Emaciation, weakness, and that fatal disposition to take cold easily, thus adding little by little to the strain upon the already overburdened body. How many afflicted are trusting to cough mixtures, mustard and poultices for safety? Fatal error. Not by these, but by adding to the nutritive power of the body and the increased strength and vitality which increased nutrition affords, can you hope to obtain relief. Maltine with Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites combines the excellencies of a medicine, a food, and a digestive agency of unexampled power. The full remedial value of the cod liver oil, rendered palatable and of easy digestion, is combined with the nutritive values of wheat, oats and barley. This in itself would render Maltine and Cod Liver Oil of greater value than any emulsion. But it possesses a further quality of inestimable value in its property of increasing the solubility of fat-forming, heat-producing, starchy foods, just the elements required for the upbuilding of the emaciated. This you may demonstrate by a short trial of this unrivalled preparation.

MR. OLNEY SHOWN TO BE WRONG

Expressions of Many Leading Men Who do Not Believe in War - Lord Playfair Writes to the London Times—Old Army Officers Rebuked.

Baltimore, Dec. 25.—Ex-Congressman Isidor Raynor, who is recognized as a warm personal and political friend of President Cleveland, and who served for six years upon the Committee of Foreign Affairs in Congress, and had charge of the Hawaiian debate upon the floor of the House of Representatives as the representative of the Administration, thus expressed himself to-day in reference to the Venezuelan complications:

"There will be no war, and if I were a member of the Foreign Committee I would not vote for war or for any of the steps leading to it. This is a novel proposition, and I regret exceedingly the shape it has taken. We have hitherto as a party maintained a conservative policy upon foreign affairs, but now we have branched into a field that is covered with complications. I have had some occasion to investigate these questions, especially the progress of the Monroe doctrine, but the most extreme advocate of that doctrine has never contended that it applied to a case of the settlement of a controversy regarding lines on which controversy each party is alleging a bona fide claim of title. Mr. Olney's argument on this branch of the discussion is not at all convincing to the legal mind. Great Britain for over a century has had virtual possession of a great portion of the disputed territory, and she is willing now to go into arbitration upon the title of the remainder, but we step in and say to her, 'Unless you arbitrate as to the whole, we will appoint a commission to settle your boundary lines for you and compel you to obey its decree at the point of the bayonet.' I do not think President Monroe ever conceived such an application of the message that he sent into Congress in 1823.

"I am a firm believer in what is known as the American doctrine upon this subject, and I do not believe in standing idly by and permitting any foreign despot to seize the reins of republican government upon this continent, but I cannot, nor can any other man who understands the history or geography of his country, agree with Secretary Olney in his assertion that we are 'the sovereign of this continent.'"

JOHN WON'T RETREAT.

Mr. Bull: I don't look like a hindividual as was contemplating a blooming foot race, do I?

Army Officers Called Down.

Washington, Dec. 25.—Certain army officers who have appeared in recent interviews in the newspapers in discussion of the possibilities of war and outlining their ideas of what should be done in such an event have received personal letters from Secretary of War Lamont, severely deprecating such talk. Expressions from such sources, he says, are not only given undue significance, but they are also injurious to the good reputation of the discipline of the army and harmful to the country in contributing to an unwarranted apprehension.

They Want War.

The Washington correspondent of The Chicago Times-Herald gives a glimpse of the barbarians that still live among us. "The night after President Cleveland's Monroe doctrine message was sent to Congress," he says, "there was revelry and wassail in the Army and Navy Club. The admirals, commodores, lieutenant-generals, colonels and captains, even the ensigns and majors, drank to the god of war, and refused to go home until morning."

Russia Tickled With the War Prospects.

Moscow, Dec. 25.—The entire Russian press is discussing the Anglo-American crisis with an ardor approaching enthusiasm. The papers daily calculate hopefully the chances of a conflict. They wholly sympathize with the United States, and are frankly hostile to Great Britain. They do not conceal their delight that Great Britain may possibly be paralyzed in the East by her troubles in the West.

Lord Playfair's Sensible Statements.

London, Dec. 25.—The Times will to-morrow print a letter written by Lord Playfair, recalling instances of mutual expressions of brotherly sympathy by Great Britain and the United States. He reproduces President Cleveland's words in reply to him when he introduced the arbitration deputation to the President in 1887. Lord Playfair dwells upon the celebration of the Centenary of American independence in Philadelphia, and the enthusiasm displayed at a banquet there to the toast "The Mother Country," to which he had the privilege of replying. He says he refuses, after what he has witnessed, to believe that the heart of the best people in the United States does not entertain an equal affection for Englishmen as the latter do for them. He refers to his spending 18 successive autumns in the United States, thereby gaining knowledge of many of the leading men there. He adds that the late James G. Blaine once assured him that nothing would induce the United States to war with England, and authorized him to express this opinion to Lord Salisbury, who was then, as now, Prime Minister, which he did.

Lord Playfair concludes by urging the adoption of Mr. Gladstone's "commonsense" advice and declaring that the two nations admire and love each other. All the papers will to-morrow publish editorials which are virtually long sermons from the text "Peace on earth, good-will toward men," with special reference to the United States and Great Britain. They reaffirm their belief that peace will not be broken.

The Steel King's Views.

New York, Dec. 25.—The following despatch from Andrew Carnegie was printed in The London Times to-day as a letter to the editor of that paper: "A very great power has declined arbitration in a boundary dispute with a very weak power, because part of the boundary in dispute has been settled by its citizens, whom it is bound in honor to protect. But the great power might have agreed to accept arbitration of the whole dispute provided a value was first agreed upon, or that arbitrators should fix upon the settled territory, continued possession of which was held to be necessary; thus the principle of arbitration would have been upheld and honor doubly protected, title perfected by honorable payment if it should have been unexpectedly found defective, and all the citizens of the disputed territory securely guarded.

"There should be little difficulty in securing arbitration in this form through your able ambassador at Washington, aided by the good offices of your kindred nation whose services in your recent dispute with Nicaragua had so happy an issue."

THERE WILL BE NO WAR.

Congressman Cobb Thinks England Will Meet the U. S. Half Way.

St. Louis, Dec. 25.—There will be no war, according to Congressman Seth W. Cobb, England will recede from her position, he says, and meet the United States half way, because in the event of war too many European guns would be pointed at her. Congressman Cobb arrived from Washington this morning, and will return to-morrow. Discussing the Venezuelan controversy this evening, he said:

"There is no danger of war, in my opinion. England realizes that she has much to lose by war. I have no doubt she will appoint a commission to confer with that to be appointed by President Cleveland, thus meeting us half way. She is of the same blood as we, and too many European guns would be pointed at her in the event of war to make it comfortable for her. Besides, the English are friendly with the people of the United States."

"Do you believe that were war declared other European powers would attack England?"

"I do, Russia especially, would want to get a slice of her territory and would close in on Turkey."

Could Not Hope to Cope With England.

Peoria, Ill., Dec. 25.—Rev. Caspar Wistar Hiatt, pastor of the First Congregational Church, preached a sermon Sunday night on the Venezuelan question, in which he criticized the President's message, and said that America could not hope to cope with England. One of his wealthiest parishioners, an old soldier, contradicted him during the sermon. An angry crowd surrounded the pastor after the service and disapproved his sentiments, and the feeling against his position in his church is very strong to-day.

DIABETES CURABLE

Given up to Die—Uses Dodd's Kidney Pills and is Cured by Eight Boxes.

KIRKFIELD (Special), Dec. 23.—Mr. Duncan McKenzie, miller and lumberman of this place, had returned from Kansas lately. Had failed in health and strength, had lost fifty pounds in weight. Was given up by his physician as well as by specialists in Toronto and by himself and friends. Now comes a change—he says in a letter to Dodd's Medicine Co.: "After commencing with your Dodd's Kidney Pills I got help inside of two weeks. I took eight boxes in eight weeks, am completely cured, not a symptom left, general health good. Have regained my old health and weight. Had been bothered with heart and liver, both have vanished with the diabetes. I can walk briskly for miles instead of crawling as before. Am a brother of the President of the Toronto Street Railway Co., and well known here." Diabetes is set down as incurable—but Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure.

When the Lights Went out.

All the gas lights in town went out before 10 p. m. on Tuesday night much to the inconvenience of those merchants who had no other source of light. We learn from the gas company's office that they are in the midst of installing new apparatus and that on Tuesday the demand exceeded their ability to meet it.

St. John's South Ward Mission Choir.

This choir under the leadership of Mrs. Carl. S. Smith, is making very great progress and giving much satisfaction to the congregation. The choir consists of the following members:—The Misses Taylor, Sabin, Green, Hall, Akey, Barlow and Bullin, and Messrs. Shepherd, Taylor and Cranfield. At the morning service the organist is Miss Edith Barlow, and in the evening Mr. Fred Bell, who is well known at St. Johns, having played the organ there on more than one occasion. At the service last Sunday evening Mrs. Smith sang very sweetly, the sacred solo "Come unto me."

Railway Men's Thanks.

Railway employees don't have very much enjoyment out of Christmas—indeed they have extra work in contributing to the enjoyment of others. But they are not forgotten. The employees of the C. P. R. here and the train men have to thank Mrs. Paton, president of the W.C.T.U. for the present of a splendid and toothsome Christmas cake, contributed by the Union for the delectation of the employees. The timely and thoughtful present which is accompanied with cordial Christmas greetings is the more heartily recognized and appreciated because it is the following out of an annual custom of the Union in recognizing railway men at Christmas time.

Comedy-Lecture

The Transatlantic Tourist's Return.

The coterie of six adventurous Peterborough young men who recently "worked their way" on a visit to Great Britain, as supercargoes of a shipment of cattle, all returned home in time to spend Christmas with their friends. They report having had a very enjoyable time, though the return voyage on the Dominion was mixed up with a good deal of rough weather. Most of their time in the old country was spent in London sight seeing, though one or two made excursions into Scotland. They were delighted with the sights seen among their Cockney cousins, even the ordinary sights of the London streets being a source of infinite entertainment. Some of them also had the good fortune to see the Queen on the occasion of a visit to Windsor Castle. The party consisted of Messrs. Frank Hall, Jack Fairbairn, Geo. Munro, Albert Warren and Wm. Cumming.

Her Royal Highness, "Woman."

A New Canadian Industry.

Toronto Junction, Dec. 24.

H. A. Lozier & Co., have completed their Canadian Bicycle factory, and have commenced the manufacture of the Cleveland cycles. In conversation with a representative of this paper, Mr. E. R. Thomas, the manager of the company, stated that in point of equipment and capacity their Canadian factory is excelled by none, not only on this continent, but in Europe. A feature in connection with this enterprise, which is particularly gratifying, is the fact that every part of the machinery, some of which is peculiarly intricate, used in the construction of their cycles is of the product of Canadian manufacturers. Their capacity is 15,000 yearly, and will employ between 400 and 500 workmen. Canadians in future will not be dependent on the surplus product of other countries, which has been limited, but will be in a position to secure a Canadian wheel, unexcelled in workmanship and durability at a reasonable figure.

Prices 50c and 75c.

OBITUARY.

The Late Andrew Douglas.

At 12:15 to-day Mr. Andrew Douglas, one of Peterborough's most respected citizen died at the family residence, 52 Gilmour street. The cause of death was malignant tumor of the parotid gland, from which he has been suffering acutely for several weeks. The deceased gentleman was a native of Perthshire, where he was born in March, 1827. He came to Canada in 1854 and took up residence in Peterborough where he has since resided. He followed the business of contractor and builder, and he was a master of his craft. He was concerned as contractor or superintendent of construction of several of the most important buildings in Peterborough. He built the first St. Paul's Presbyterian church, and was superintendent of its restoration as well as of the rebuilding of St. Andrew's. He was superintendent of the rebuilding of the Nicholls block, Simcoe street now occupied by Hall, Gilchrist & Co. He also superintended the rebuilding of the South Ward school some years ago, and the building of the North Ward School. In private life Mr. Douglas was a generous, obliging friend and neighbour, and was a citizen of good principles and undoubted integrity, which were applied in all his dealings with the world. About 36 years ago he was united in marriage to Miss Jessie Robertson, daughter of the late John Robertson of Perthshire, Scotland. To this union were born three children, of whom only two survive. Mr. Douglass never sought any office, though his ripe judgment and experience were often called into requisition in matters connected with his craft. He was a Liberal in politics and a Presbyterian in religion. He enjoyed to a high degree the respect of those who knew him best, as well as of the community generally. The funeral takes place from the family residence, Gilmour street, on Sunday at 2 o'clock p.m.

DEATH OF MRS. WILLIAM TOOLE.

A Former Well-known Peterborough Resident.

The following from a Manitoba paper refers to Mrs. Toole, wife of Mr. William Toole, a former resident of Peterborough, who at one time carried on a planing mill business on the site of the Rathbun Company's premises, Bethune street, and who several years ago removed to Manitoba, where he secured a position in connection with the Stony Mountain Penitentary:—

"It will be with the most profound feelings of regret that the many friends will learn of the death of Margaret Thornton, wife of William Toole, Esq., of Grassmere, which sad event occurred on Tuesday, Dec. 3rd, at 4 o'clock p.m., after scarcely twenty-four hours illness. She was attacked with paralysis on Monday evening and remained unconscious up to the time of her death. She passed away quietly, surrounded by the members of her family. The deceased lady was in her 68th year, and was a devoted wife and mother. A husband, five sons and one daughter survive her, and the sorrowing relatives have the sympathy of the entire community in this their hour of sorrow. Mrs. Mitchell, sister of the deceased lady, and Mr. Toole, Jr., arrived from Winnipeg on Tuesday's train about fifteen minutes after the death of Mrs. Toole.

The funeral will take place Friday from the family residence to the Grassmere cemetery."

Mrs. Toole was well-known and respected in Peterborough and her friends here will learn with deep regret of her death.

SPORTS AND PASTIMES.

THE RING.

There was a lively set-to last evening in a saloon in Ashburnham, between a heavy weight from Montreal and a "Banty" from Lindsay. The banty had the best of it from the start, drawing the claret in the second bout. The scrap lasted for nearly an hour and was witnessed by a crowd of sports. If the police had made a drop in on them, it would have resulted in a V or ten days, but however, it wound up with a "booster' all around and a general shake hands.

HOW CHRISTMAS DAY WAS SPENT IN TOWN.

AT THE NICHOLLS AND JOSEPH'S HOSPITALS, THE BARNARDO HOME, THE P. P. H., AND THE GOAL.

The Inmates of All These Public Institutions Were Furnished with Capital Dinners for Christmas and Every Effort was Made to Make the Day a Pleasant One for Them—Carol Singing Greatly Enjoyed at the Nicholls' Hospital and the Barnardo Home.

The drizzling rain of yesterday made it hard to realise that the joyous Christmas tide was being celebrated. The day seems inseparably connected in Canada with snow and sleighbells, and therefore the dampness of the atmosphere yesterday seemed to lend an air of unreality to things in general. In the evening, however, with blinds drawn and lights ablaze, the many merry family circles almost forgot the absence of the snow.

The churches in which services were held were all well attended in the morning, and during the afternoon the streets were filled, although the frequent showers kept many indoors.

AT THE NICHOLLS' HOSPITAL,

the patients were all awakened at six o'clock in the morning by the sweet voices of the nurses, who had gathered in the corridors and sang a number of carols to the great delight of the listeners. At ten o'clock Rev. E. V. Stephenson held a short service and in the afternoon came out again, accompanied by a number of the boy members of St. John's choir. Several very pretty carols were sung in the different wards and helped greatly to make the day pleasant for the patients. The lower hall was decorated for Christmas with evergreens and bunting and several appropriate mottoes were suspended from the walls. Those of the patients, who were sufficiently well to come down stairs were provided with a bountiful Christmas dinner.

The decorations at

and House of Providence were very beautiful and were greatly admired by the visitors who called during the day. Father Fitzpatrick, of the Cathedral, conducted devotions at the Hospital at seven o'clock in the morning and at five in the afternoon when all who were sufficiently convalescent were in attendance. In the House of Providence department of the hospital a grand dinner had been prepared for the old people, who to the number of fifty-nine partook of the repast. Turkey, roast beef and plum pudding were all at hand in abundance and consequently all were well served and enjoyed a most hearty meal. Many gifts were received consisting of poultry, etc.

The fifty little girls at the

spent a far brighter Christmas than they could possibly have done in the old homes. Miss Woodgate and her staff of assistants laboured indefatigably in an effort to provide such amusements as to make the children enjoy themselves and the excited faces and flashing eyes of the little ones were a proof of their success. The girls who ranged in age probably from six to twelve years, were brought into the dining room in the afternoon, and seated on a raised tier of benches when Santa Clause came in and presented each with a large bag of goodies and an orange. Then came the stripping of the Christmas Tree, and the distribution of dolls, etc., to the huge delight of the little one. A number of visitors were present and were greatly pleased by the carols which the children sang so gayly. A pleasant variation took place in the programmme when Rev. E. V. Stephenson, and his choir boys flied into the room and sang several of their pretty carols.

Miss Londerville spared no pains to make the Christmas tide a pleasant one for the old people in the and through her efforts the interior of the institution was so brightened up as to transform it into quite a bower of evergreens. Long wreaths were draped over the doorways and windows, and hung upon the walls, and the effect was most pretty. Rev. Carl Smith conducted services in which the old people joined most heartily. At ten o'clock in the morning and in the afternoon Messrs. Readhouse and Corbin visited the Home and there sang and played a number of selections. The dinner provided was a bountiful one, and few better were enjoyed in even the private homes of the town; turkey, roast beef and plum pudding were the staples.

AT THE GAOL

of course the decorations were few, but a special service was conducted for the prisoners by Rev. J. C. Davidson during the afternoon. It would be difficult to conjure up a more unpleasant place in which to spend a Christmas than a gaol. The prisoners are not compelled to work and being confined to their cells during the greater part of the day, meditation on the peace and joyousness of former anniversaries of the birth of Christ, would not be pleasant to say the least. Gaoler Nesbitt supplied all with a splendid dinner.

They do not Despair.

An utter loss of hope is not characteristic of Consumptives, though no other form of disease is so fatal, unless its progress is arrested by use of Scott's Emulsion, which is Cod Liver Oil as palatable as cream.

Suitable

Nothing more suitable for a Christmas present than a dinner or tea set or a lovely lamp. China Hall has the assortment and prices to suit the times. Buy early.

—The Josephine Kid Glove Cleaner is unlike any other—that's the good of it. Ladies will not do without it at twice the cost once they use it. Sold by Robt. Fair, sign of the Golden Lion, headquarters for Perrin Freres' celebrated Kid Gloves in newest styles for all occasions.

Same to You

And Many of Them!

We tender our most grateful acknowledgment to the the Ladies, and to the Gentlemen, as well, for the very large volume of business extended to this store during the year now nearly closed, but especially during our very busy season of holiday shopping. It is very gratifying to us, coming as it does in what is known as "dull times," and denotes a confidence and a preference which we shall always strive to merit.

SPECIAL ATTRACTIONS will prevail during the continuance of the Holiday season all over the store. There are still many choice Bargains left, for particulars of which see to-morrow Evening's "Examiner."

DAILY MOTTO.

Wednesday, Dec. 25th.

Find your niche and fill it. If it be ever so little, if it is only to be a hewer of wood and drawer of water, do something in this great battle for God and truth.

Catarrh can be successfully treated only by purifying the blood, and the one true blood purifier is Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Cut Carolling.

The members of the Sons of England band were out carolling on Christmas eve, and their renditions were greatly enjoyed.

Notice.

All parties indebted to Mrs. Ward (Miss E. Delaney), are hereby notified that unless their accounts are paid by the 4th of January, they will be handed over for collection. Mrs. Ward will be in town for a few days to arrange a settlement of all outstanding amounts due her.

An Alphabetical Character.

John James Carson Fletcher Peacock McDonough was this morning sent up for trial by the magistrate, on the charge of the theft of a picture frame, from a lady, which he had left with her, as security for a debt owed to her by him. McDonough is said to qe well known to the hotelmen of the province as an "informer" of the most despicable character.

Ivorine Makes Discolored Teeth White.

Ivorine, the new dentifrice, displaces all other preparations from use, because it does good work. Discoloration and roughness are speedily removed and the teeth rendered white and highly polished. Ivorine is fragrant and refreshing, preservative to sound teeth and decay retarding. Ivorine removes tartar and discolorations and makes the teeth look beautifully white.

A Generous Offer.

(Published by request.)

Dear Mr. Editor.—Will you kindly inform the readers of your valuable paper that I will gladly send FREE to any sufferer from Lost Manhood, Nervous Debility, Night Losses, Varicocele, Impotency and the results of youthful folly, particulars of a simple and inexpensive means of self-cure which after being humbugged and imposed upon for years by quacks and patent medicine sharks, cured me in a few weeks. I have nothing to sell or give away, nor am I advertising any patent medicine business, but will be pleased to hear from any sufferer anxious to find a cure for his complaint, to whom I will explain confidentially how and by what means I was cured. Address confidentially and enclose stamp if convenient.—D. G. OWEN, P. O. box 264, Picton, Ont.

What She Said.

Mrs. R. Peck, E. 15th street, New York city, visited Canada last year, and had the good fortune to pick up something which not only suited her, but her neighbors also. Writing the manufacturer of Nerviline she says:—"I bought three bottles of Nerviline while in Canada and treated my neighbors to some of it, and all think it the best medicine for internal or external pain they have ever used." Nerviline deserves such a commendation, for it is the most powerful, penetrating, and certain remedy for pain of all kinds. Take no substitute.

Mrs. T. S. Hawkins, Chattanooga, Tenn., says, "Shiloh's Vitalizer 'saved my life,' I consider it the best remedy for a debilitated system I ever used. For dyspepsia, liver or kidney trouble it excells. Price 75 cts. Sold by John Nugent, 389 George street.

IN MEMORIAM

OF THE LATE MARY HOURAN, RELICT OF THE LATE FRANCIS J. YOUNG, WHO DIED DECEMBER 19th, 1895.

"In lieto quies."

The long, long journey now is o'er,
The zealous pilgrim reaches home;
Across the arid sands of life
No more her wearied feet shall roam.

No phantom mirage led her on;
No spark that fades, her beacon light;
True faith burned ever in her soul.
And guided well her steps aright.

To younger travellers on the road,
Who might have lost the "narrow way";
Her pious life did much to guard
From treacherous sin, their feet to stay.

She rests where ills of life find balm,
And virtue swallowed up to bliss,
Looks down with pitying eyes to think
That mortals fix their minds on this.

Tempestuous world of fleeting breath,
Where all must fade as time rolls on,
And by the passage we call death
Seek out where this dear soul has gone.

Let us, then, strict her foot-prints follow,
And serve our God as just and true;
That parting now that gives us sorrow
Will lead us then to life anew.

But why mourn we for her that's gone—
Her happy rest well has she earned—
As maiden, mother, wife or friend
Her heart for heaven ever yearned.

But Nature's founts are sure to flow
From children's eyes who loved her well;
May we who mourn her meet again
In Father's mansion, there to dwell.

Requiescat in pace. —C. T. W.

400 Acre Farm
FOR SALE.
IN SNOWDEN.

I WILL SELL AT A BARGAIN A 400 acre Farm in the Township of Snowden—very convenient—about half a lot from the Village of Gelert and Gelert Station. The property consists of lots 16, 17, 18, 19, in the 11th Con less a strip of Lots 17, 18 and 19, through which runs the Victoria branch, of the Grand Trunk Railway. There are cleared on lot 16, 20 acres; on lot 17, 60 acres; on lot 18, 20 acres, and on lot 19, 25 acres, balance good hardwood bush and well timbered. Log House. Log Barn. The property is well watered by a branch of the Burnt River and would make an excellent farm for stock and grain and the Timber being convenient to the station can be sold at a good price or shipped as purchaser desires, and in the most profitable manner. It is close to school and church.

At a recent examination it is estimated that there are upon the four lots the following quantities of wood, etc.:—300 cords maple wood; 300 cords birch wood; 300 cords hemlock, balsam and soft wood; 3000 cedar ties; 3000 cedar posts; about 300 acres good farming land; 100 acres good pasture land. It is one of the best farms in the country for stock raising, pasture being always good.

Will sell to a good man on reasonable terms. Apply to

DR. SIMPSON'S "ADROIT PESSARY"

"Better than a pound of cure" for weakness and leucorrhea. When not obtainable at Drug Stores, order by mail, one box, $1. 6 for $5. Circular free. The Simpson Company, Toronto.

Sold in Peterborough by John Nugent, Druggist.

THE old man who looks out at the world with clear and healthy eyes cannot help feeling great gratification at the thought that his children and his children's children have inherited from him no weakness nor tendency to disease. The healthy old man is the man who has throughout his life kept his digestion good and his blood pure. Once in a while you find such a man who has never taken any medicine. That man has lived a perfectly natural life. Not one in a thousand does do it. Sometimes very slight indiscretions or carelessness pave the way for serious sickness. The germ theory of disease is well authenticated, and germs are everywhere. This need make no difference to the perfectly healthy man. Germs go through the healthy body without effect. They are hurried along rapidly and thrown off before they have time to develop or increase. Let them once find lodgment or let them find a weak spot, they will develop by the million and the blood will be full of them. Instead of rich, life-giving properties, the blood will be a sluggish, putrid tide of impurity. Instead of giving strength to the tissues, it will force upon them unwholesome and innutritious matter, and the man will lose flesh. The more flesh he loses and the weaker he becomes, the more susceptible he is to disease. His trouble will become complicated and serious consequences will follow. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the only medicine that absolutely and infallibly cures all blood diseases, and almost all diseases are blood diseases. It isn't a medicine for some one particular so-called disease. It is a medicine for the whole body. It forces out all the germs of disease, replaces impurities with rich, red blood, feeds the tissues and makes strong, healthy flesh.

DISCUSSES POSSIBILITIES.

Warship Builder sees No Occasion for American Mealiancy.

San Francisco Dec. 25.—Irving M. Scott, president of the Union Iron Company, who built the Olympia and several other of the best American war ships, says that in the event of war between England and America this country would come out on top.

"There is no question of England's great strength on the water," said Mr. Scott, "but it is not always the strongest navy that gets away with a battle. A lucky shot will turn the tide of the fight when the danger seems the greatest. England might give us a dash at first, but in the end we would whip her. We have the advantage of her, that she would have to come over to fight us. By the time her battle ships crossed the Atlantic they would be short of fuel and it would be necessary to reload. The English war ships would make for Halifax, and our efforts would be to intercept them. The first great naval battle would take place off the mouth of the St. Lawrence River. Our people would cross into Canada and force the British to send reinforcements there. The English would no doubt attempt to lay siege to Buffalo, Milwaukee, Chicago and the other lake cities. They would send their small ships into the lakes and attack our cities, their object being to keep up their frontier by compelling us to stay at home. Then our objective point would be the Welland Canal. With the canal destroyed, connection with the lakes would be closed and the British fleet would be shut out."

FIVE HUNDRED MILLIONS

Is the Amount Wall-Street Has Lost by Mr. Cleveland's Action.

Boston, Dec. 25.—Congressman Morse is home from Washington on a flying trip of a few hours' duration. When asked what he thought of the situation in Washington he said:

"The situation is simple. President Cleveland has played two cards for political purposes. The first was his Venezuela message, which got up a war scare and caused a loss in securities in New York city alone of more than $500,000,000. Then he takes advantage of the threatened panic to send a message to Congress, in which he says a crisis is impending, and though he himself has just got back from a two weeks' duck shooting expedition, he asks Congress not to adjourn on account of the crisis. The House of Representatives has taken him at his word, and will meet the crisis day on Thursday by the passage of a tariff bill substantially on the lines of the bill I introduced at the opening of Congress.

"If Congress should fail to pass it or the President veto it, I should favor an adjournment of Congress and going before the people on that issue. The last Republican landslide would not be even a sephyr to what would occur at the Presidential election on that issue. We would carry more than half of the Southern states, Louisiana, Kentucky, Maryland, Tenessee, West Virginia and North Carolina would surely go Republican.

"The House will undoubtedly pass a bond bill on the lines of Mr. Reed's bill presented at the last session, but there is no prospect of such a bill passing the Senate."

As to the prospects of war, Mr. Morse declared most emphatically that there would certainly be none.

If you have a troublesome cough, don't keep nibbling sweets, and so ruin your appetite. A dose or two of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral will do you more good than pounds of candy, and assist rather than impair your digestion. Always keep this medicine in your house.

Just spend his Four Quarters for a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters as all sensible people do; because it cures Dyspepsia, Constipation, Biliousness, Sick Headache, Bad Blood, and all Diseases of the Stomach, Liver, Kidneys, Bowels and Blood from a common Pimple to the worst Scrofulous Sore.

A DOG'S LONG JOURNEY.

"Owney" Has Traveled Almost Around the World Since Last August.

New York, Dec. 23.—"Owney," the postal clerk's dog, arrived from China this afternoon on the steamer Port Phillip, having completed the circuit of the globe since he last visited New York. He left Tacoma August 19, and visited ten places: Shanghai, Woo-Sung, Foo Chow, Hong-Kong, Singapore, Perim, Suez, Port Said, Algiers and St. Michael's (Azores). Capt. Grey of the Port Phillip will take the dog to the post-office and start him on his journey to Tacoma at once.

The Norwich Fire Loss.

Norwich, Dec. 23.—Loss on Allen bonded vinegar works, which were destroyed by fire, was $16,000, insured for $1800 in Gore District, $1300 in British America, $1500 in National Assurance, $1500 in Phenix of Brooklyn, $1000 in Norwich Union, $1000 in Economical and $1200 in Waterloo Mutual. The cider mill and large storehouse filled with vinegar and cider were saved. The works will be immediately rebuilt.

New Governor for British Guiana.

London, Dec. 22.—Sir Augustus William Lawson Hemming has been appointed Governor of British Guiana, to succeed Sir Charles C. Lees, K.C. M.G., who has retired from the post.

Sir Augustus was sent in 1879 and again in 1881 and 1889 on special missions to Paris and to Berlin in 1887 and 1888. He also served as British delegate to the West African conference at Berlin in 1884. Since 1878 he has been principal clerk in the Colonial Office.

British Barque Sunk.

Southampton, Dec. 23.—The American Line steamer Berlin, bound from Antwerp, Saturday, for New York, which was before reported to have collided with and sunk the British barque Willowbank, has arrived here. She reports that she collided with the Willowbank 12 miles to the westward of Portland. The barque quickly settled down and soon disappeared. The Berlin's boats were at once lowered and succeeded in taking off the crew of the Willowbank and the captain's wife.

A TELEPHONE IN THE STOMACH

Peculiar Phenomena of Human Nature

In an age when that subtle force electricity is presenting wonders to the world almost daily, and the Wizzard of Menlo Park has become the hero of the hour, there seems to be nothing that we may not expect in this direction. But it was not left to an Edison to establish a telephone in the stomach of human beings. The Great Maker of man in the economy of human nature provided such an instrument centuries ago. It is a fact that within the stomach of every man and woman there is a little instrument that telephones to the nerve centres in the brain as quickly as any fool reaches that part. When for any reason this communication is stopped the food is undigested and physical trouble ensues. With word promptly sent from stomach to nerve centres, these supply the necessary juice that aids digestion, and nature successfully does her part, good health is enjoyed and man is able to perform with energy and pleasure his everyday duties. It will happen at times that these nerve centres will become deranged and lose their forces; then it is that a remedy must be supplied, just as the skill of the electrician is necessary when something goes wrong with the office telephone. South American Nervine is the electrician, so far as the human body is concerned. It is a medicine unique and exceptional in this particular that it works directly upon the nerve centres, and when these are out of order it quickly places them in proper repair and completeness. Nearly all diseases, especially indigestion, dyspepsia, nervousness, general debility, sick headache and disordered liver arise through trouble at the nerve centres. You can just as readily count on South American Nervine effecting a proper cure in all such cases as you can depend upon the electrician of the Bell Telephone Co., removing any derangements that has taken place in your telephone. Sold by H. S. McDonald.

The Conversashyony.

The maynoo that wuz spread that night wuz mighty hard to beat,
Though somewhat awkward to pernounce, it wuz not so to eat;
There wuz puddins', pies an' sandwidges, an' forty kinds uv sass,
An' floatin' Irelands, custards, tarts an' patty dee for grass;
An' millions uv Cove oysters wuz a-settin' round in pans,
'Nd other native fruit an' things that grew out west in cans.
But I wuz all kufflummuxed when Hoover said he'd choose
"Oon peety morso, see voo play, de la celte Charlotte Rooze!"
I'd knowed Three-fingered Hoover for fifteen years or more
'Nd I'd never heern him speak so light uv wimmin folks before!
Bill Goslin heern him say it, 'nd uv course he spread the news
Uv how Three-fingered Hoover had insulted Charlotte Rooze
At the conversazshony down at Sorry Tom's that night,
An' when they asked me, I allowed that Bill for once wuz right;
Although it broke my heart to see my friend go up the fluke,
We all opined his treatment of the girl deserved rebuke.
It warn't no use for Sorry Tom to nail it for a lie—
When it come to sassin' wimmin, there wuz blood in every eye;
The boom for Charlotte Rooze swep' on an' took the polls by storm,
An' so Three-fingered Hoover fell a martyr to reform;
Three-fingered Hoover said it wuz a terrible mistake,
An' when the votes wuz in he cried ez if his heart would break.
We never knew who Charlotte wuz, but Goslin's brother Dick Allowed she wuz the teacher from the camp on Roarin' Crick,
That had come to pass some foreign tongue with them uv our alite
Ez wuz at the high-toned party down at Sorry Tom's that night.
We let it drop—this matter uv the lady—there an' then,
An' we never heerd, nor wanted to, of Charlotte Rooze again,
An' the Colorado wimmin-folks, ez like ez not, don't know
How we vindicated all their sex a twenty year ago.

"The Commen People."

As Abraham Lincoln called them, do not care to argue about their ailments. What they want is a medicine that will cure them. The simple, honest statement, "I know that Hood's Sarsaparilla cured me," is the best argument in favor of this medicine, and this is what many thousands voluntarily say.

Hood's Pills are the best after-dinner pills, assist digestion, cure headache. 25c.

A HEAVY MORTGAGE.

How a prominent farmer quickly lifted it.

A mortgage has been described as an incentive to industry, a heavy mortgage, as a sure sign of ruin. The last is particularly true, for if a mortgage is allowed to run it will eat up the farm. In this connection Mr. Henry Fowler, of Huron writes: "From my boyhood scrofula had marked me for a victim and it seemed as if it had a life mortgage on my blood. I suffered fearfully with sores, and knowing my condition I have remained a single man. Doctor after doctor prescribed for me, and finally a Toronto specialist told me bluntly that my complaint was a deep-seated, incurable, blood disease. Sarsaparilla I knew was a good blood medicine, and I sent for a bottle of the best. Mr. Todd, the druggist, sent me Scott's Sarsaparilla, and I have stuck to it. It has lifted my mortgage, for to-day I am free from those horrible sores, my eyesight is not blurred, my tongue is not furry, and I have no irritation. I look upon Scott's Sarsaparilla as a marvellous medicine when it will cure a life long disease in so short a time."

Scrofula, pimples, running sores, rheumatism and all diseases generated by poisonous humors in the blood are cured by Scott's Sarsaparilla. The kind that cures. Sold only in concentrated form at $1 per bottle by your druggist. Dose from half to one teaspoonful.

AYER'S Hair VIGOR

Restores natural color to the hair, and also prevents it falling out. Mrs. H. W. Fenwick, of Digby, N. S., says:

"A little more than two years ago my hair began to turn gray and fall out. After the use of one bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor my hair was restored to its original color and ceased falling out. An occasional application has since kept the hair in good condition."—Mrs. H. F. Fenwick, Digby, N. S.

Growth of Hair.

"Eight years ago, I had the variola, and lost my hair, which previously was quite abundant. I tried a variety of preparations, but without beneficial result, till I began to fear I should be permanently bald. About six months ago, my husband brought home a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and I began at once to use it. In a short time, new hair began to appear, and there is now every prospect of as thick a growth of hair as before my illness."—Mrs. A. Wer— ——lymnia St., New Orleans, La.

The Manitoba Legislature Has Been Dissolved.

THE POLLING IN THREE WEEKS

January 15 the Date Fixed—Reasons for Dissolution—A Verdict Wanted on the School Question—Address of the Premier to His Constituents.

Winnipeg, Dec .23.—The Manitoba Legislature has dissolved, and Lieutenant-Governor Patterson has signed the writs for a new election. By these writs the nominations are to take place on Jan. 8 and polling on Jan. 15. The writs are returnable on Jan. 23, and the House is called for Jan. 24. This decision on the part of the Government was arrived at only after the Dominion Government had reiterated its statement that on January 2 the Federal House would be called together to pass legislation overruling the Manitoba school act of 1890. It was hoped that the Dominion Government would not persist in this course, but when it was seen that they actually proposed to go on to coerce Manitoba no other course seemed open for the Provincial Government than to take the sense of the electors. This was therefore decided upon, and the reply to the remedial rejoinder drafted. The latter document, it was understood, was mailed to Ottawa yesterday or to-day, and will not be given out until it reaches its destination. As to its attitude nothing further has been given out by the Ministers, but the address of Hon. Thos. Greenway leaves little room for doubt as to its essential points. Following is the Premier's address to his constituents in Mountain:

Gentlemen,—For the seventh time during a period extending over little more than sixteen years, I have the honor of soliciting your suffrages. During these years I have been honored with your confidence, and I now appeal to you with greater confidence than before. The meaneing attitude assumed by the Dominion Government with reference to the educational legislation of the province has made it necessary to take the sense of the electors upon the question thus forced upon them. On the 21st of March last, the Dominion Privy Council hastily issued a remedial order which commanded the Legislature of Manitoba to restore the Separate School system as it existed prior to 1890. To this the Legislature declined to assent. On the 8th day of July last the Honorable Mr. Foster, speaking for the Dominion Government in the House of Commons, stated that a communication would be sent to the Manitoba Government to ascertain whether a settlement of the school question could be made, and that in the event of refusal, a session of the Dominion Parliament would be called to meet not later that the 1st Thursday of January next, when the Dominion Government would introduce and press to a conclusion such legislation as would afford an adequate measure of relief, based upon the lines of the judgment of the Imperial Privy Council and the remedial order on the 23st of March, 1896.

A similar statement was made about the same time in the Senate by Sir Mackenzie Bowell, Premier of the Dominion. From the utterances of the members of the Dominion Cabinet and from facts known to all who have watched the controversy it is clear that nothing short of a separate denominational system of schools will be accepted as an adequate measure of relief. To the communication forwarded in pursuance of the above announcement by the Dominion Government on the 27th of July last, inviting the Manitoba Government to take such action as would remedy the alleged grievances of the minority we have replied definitely and positively rejecting the proposal to re-establish Separate Schools in any form, and expressing our intention to uphold the present uniform non-sectarian system.

As the Federal Parliament is about to be asked to legislate upon this subject, it is of the utmost importance that the views of the electors of the province should be clearly and unmistakably expressed. I assert that our people are perfectly competent to deal with their own educational concerns, and I resent the imputation that they have treated any portion of the community with injustice, or in a spirit of intolerance. I protest against the proposed action of the Dominion Government in inviting Parliament to destroy our national school system without investigation, and in ignorance of the circumstances.

If your votes are overwhelmingly in favor of the stand taken by my Government, there is no doubt that the views of members of the Dominion Parliament will be materially affected thereby, and coercive legislation may be altogether averted. In comparison with this momentous issue, other questions which have hitherto been much discussed have for the present taken a secondary position in the public mind.

After referring to the prohibition question, Mr. Greenway touches on the subject of freight rates, and concludes:

"I ask you, in conclusion, to remember that the main issue upon which you are to pronounce is a most important one.

"Shall the people of Manitoba submit without protest to unjust and overbearing treatment?

"Shall provincial autonomy be practically abandoned?

"Shall our national school system be destroyed?

"These are questions, gentlemen, which you are required to answer by the exercise of your franchise."

WARRANT OUT FOR BOUSQUET.

But the Ex-Cashier of the Banque du Peuple is Said to Have Left Montreal.

Montreal, Dec. 23.—The affairs of the Banque du Peuple are again occupying public attention, and it was stated in the city to-day that Mr. Bousquet, the ex-cashier of the bank, had left the city. The president of the bank said to-day that Mr. Bousquet had gone, although the latter's son says he is sick in bed with brain fever. It is certain, however, that several trunks left on Saturday for Denver, Colo., yet the directors do not think their cashier went in that direction. Be this as it may, a warrant was issued this afternoon charging Bousquet with conspiracy to defraud, but it is not supposed the same will ever be executed in this city. "Bousquet has certainly left the city," was the remark made this evening by the president.

ITALY AND ABYSSINIA.

Proposition to Make Peace on Condition of an Italian Protectorate.

London, Dec. 23.—A despatch from Rome to the Central News says Gen. Baratieri, the commander of the Italian troops operating against the Abyssinians, has been authorized to conclude peace with King Menelek II. of Abyssinia, on condition that the treaty of Uccialli, which virtually places Abyssinia under protection of Italy, is recognized. The conditions also provide that King Menelek II. must admit the validity of the Italian possession of the country to the Mareb River, and that the Tigre country shall be an Italian dependency.

Repulsed by Italian Troops.

Rome, Dec. 23.—A despatch from Massowah, under date of Dec. 22, says that the force under command of the rebel, Ras Mangascia, attacked Makalle on the 20th inst., but were repulsed by the Italian troops forming the garrison of that place.

Dangerous.

We often see this sign on roads or streets.

Any kidney ailment is dangerous. Because you never know where it will end.

Suppose you feel languid, suppose you have feverish symptoms, there must be poison in the blood, for these are the certain signs.

To the fact that poisons get past the kidneys may be traced every sickness to which you are liable.

Treat the kidneys forthwith and first of all.

It is the safe and proper thing every time; therefore do it promptly and well. We are trying to teach people to turn to Dodd's Kidney Pills as the simplest and greatest treatment of kidney diseases on earth.

Can you see the point? Every serious disease results from the kidneys being out of order. Dodd's Kidney Pills keeps on curing these diseases

One Honest Man.

Dear Editor:—Please inform your readers, that if written to confidentially I will mail in a sealed letter, particulars of a genuine, honest home cure, by which I was permanently restored to health and manly vigor, after years of suffering from nervous debility, sexual weakness, night losses and weak shrunken parts. I was robbed and swindled by the quacks until I nearly lost faith in mankind, but thank heaven, I am now well, vigorous and strong, and wish to make this certain means of cure known to all sufferers. I have nothing to sell, and want no money, but being a firm believer in the universal brotherhood of man, I am desirous of helping the unfortunate to regain their health and happiness. Perfect secrecy assured. Address with stamp:—Mr. Edward Lambert. P. O Box 55, Jarvis, Ont.

COAL WILL MOVE.

Rise in the River at Pittsburg Will Start Things Booming.

Pittsburg, Pa., Dec. 23.—The river is rising rapidly and by to-morrow the knowing ones say there will be between eight and ten feet of water. In consequence, another large consignment of coal will be started down the Ohio for southern ports. All the returning boats from the last shipment, tied up within 50 or 100 miles below this city, were enabled yesterday to start for this port, and it is expected that, with these boats and those already here, 1,000,000 bushels of coal will get away on this rise.

Health and strength carry us through dangers and make us safe in the presence of perils. A perfectly strong man with rich, pure blood, has nothing to fear from germs. He may breathe in the bacilli of consumption with impunity. If there is a weak spot where the germs may find an entrance to the tissues, then the trouble begins. Disease germs propagate with lightning-like rapidity. Once in the blood, the only way to get rid of them is to kill them. This is what Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is for. It purifies the blood. That means that it kills the germs, but that is only part of what it does. It assists digestion by stimulating the secretion of digestive fluids, so promoting assimilation and nutrition; purifies and enriches the blood and so supplies the tissues with the food they need. It builds up strong, healthy flesh and puts the whole body into a disease-resisting state.

IN THE CHURCHES.

Services Held in Town Yesterday Morning Well Attended.

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL.

The sanctuary of St. Peter's Cathedral was a blaze of light yesterday and the floral decorations were of the most exquisite character. The special altar cloths and other sanctuary paraphernalia of the richest design were all displayed and elicited much comment. The services began at half-past five in the morning, when the entire membership of the Cathedral clergy were in attendance. The sermon at the celebration of high mass at 10.30 was delivered by Very Rev. Archdeacon Casey. Farmer's beautiful mass was sung by the choir, the soprano solos being taken by Mrs. George Ball, Miss Kate Simons, Miss M. L. Mahoney and Miss M. Hurley. The alto parts were rendered by Miss Lizzie Mahoney and Miss B. McAuliffe. Mr. Talbot was assigned the tenor solos and Mr. Mahoney took the bass. The mass was sung in its entirety in a manner reflecting great credit on Miss Kitty Hurley, the organist and director. Mrs. George Ball rendered "Noel" with great effect. At the evening service the sermon was again taken by Very Rev. Archdeacon Casey. The choir sang Rossi's Magnificat in chorus. Miss M. Hurley took the solo in Adeste Fidelis in a most praiseworthy manner and Miss Lillie Hurley's solo, O Salutaris' Hostia, was also rendered in splendid voice. Lamhillote's well known Tantum Ergo was well taken by the full choir. Unfortunately on account of being seriously indisposed Mr. Thomas Dunn was unable to be present to render "The Palms," as promised.

ST JOHN'S CHURCH.

A great deal of time and labor has evidently been spent on the beautification of St. John's church for Christmas and that much artistic taste was possessed by the workers is evident from the success which attended their efforts. It is doubtful if the church was ever so profusely or so prettily decorated before. On entering the door the eye of the spectator is at once caught by the glow of a beautiful star of huge proportions which is arranged just over the altar. It is a transparency, illuminated by electric light and shining forth gloriously from a background of evergreens. The effect is beautiful. Across the chancel, suspended in mid-air, is the motto, "Glory to the New-born King," in letters two feet in height. Under the star are the words, "Prince of Peace," and on either side are large crosses with appropriate mottos entwined about them. The wainscotting of the chancel is all draped with wreaths of evergreens, as are the railings of the sanctuary and choir. The pulpit is decorated with a pretty combination of holly and smilax on a background of white. The handsome brass electric light fixtures are also prettily garnished with holly sprigs. The window sills are all bedded with evergreen and mottoes in white stand out very pretty on them. The pillars are all wound with wreathings of evergreens and the walls decorated with such mottos as "Good Tidings of Great Joy," "King of Kings," "God of God's," "Emanuel," and Arise Shine, Thy Light Has Come." In the morning Hopkins' well known Te Deum was given as well as G. S. Martin's Benedictus. A new departure was made in the rendition of a number of Christmas carols, including "From Far Away," "See Amid the Winter's Snow," and Steele's "Sing the Birth of Christ our King," as well as Best's beautiful anthem "While Shepherds Watch Their Flocks by Night." During communion Tour's complete service in F. was sung.

AT CHARLOTTE STREET.

Rev. W. R. Young, B.A., of the George street church, delivered the Christmas sermon at the Union Methodist service in the Charlotte street church yesterday morning to a large congregation, amongst which was numbered a large number of the girls from the Barnardo Home, who with those in charge, occupied seats in the front of the church. A quartette composed of Misses Florence Hall and Martha Stevens and Messrs. A. L. Davis and John Miller sang "Flowerland" in perfect harmony. The phrasing and shading of the rendition was particularly noticeable and favourably commented upon. No other Christmas music had been prepared, as a number of the members of the choir were spending Christmas out of town.

AT THE SOUTH WARD MISSION.

A very effective Christmas service of Morning Prayer and Holy Communion was celebrated at the South Ward Mission. There was a large attendance and a large number of communicants. The building was beautifully and tastefully decorated for the occasion and presented a more charming appearance than it has ever done before. The special music was much enjoyed.

CHRISTMAS AT ST. LUKE'S.

The congregations at St. Luke's were considerably larger than usual both at the eight and eleven o'clock services. At eight o'clock there were one hundred communicants. Two hymns were sung and the rector gave a brief address. At the eleven o'clock service Rev. B. C. H. Andrews preached an interesting sermon from St. Luke ii. 18, 19, 20. The total number of communicants was 161, the largest on Christmas Day since Rev. H. Symonds has been rector, and, with one exception, in the history of the church. The music was hearty, the congregation joining in the familiar hymns, whilst the choir, which was unusually large, rendered Dyke's Te Deum, and Lloyd's "Arise, Shine for thy Light is Come." The decorations were as usual very elaborate, effective and in good taste, and were material reflections of the spirit of Christmas.

St. Luke's was visited by two companies of "waits," on Christmas eve just as the decorations were being completed, and being invited inside sang "While Shepherds," etc.

At six o'clock a band of adults aroused the Rectory with "Christians Awake, Salute the Happy Morn." The depressing influences of the weather were thus entirely overcome, and one more was added to the number of happy Christmases at St. Luke's.

The Christmas music will be repeated on Sunday evening at St. Luke's, and the Rector will preach the last of the course of sermons on "The Law of Love."

Statutory meeting of the township council; all the members present. The Treasurer presented the annual Statutory Statement of receipts and expenditure which was signed by the Reeve and Treasurer, and 100 copies ordered to be printed for distribution to the electors. On motion the Clerk was instructed to notify John Barbidge that after this date, he will not be allowed any more charity, and in the future no application for charity will be received unless the applicant present a certificate, signed by five reliable ratepayers, living in applicant's vicinity, that they are worthy and in need of charity. James Rennie and James Douglas made application for charity; not entertained until they comply with the above resolution. A by-law was passed to appoint deputy-returning officers and fix polling places as follows:—No. 1 Wm. Harris' house; No. 2 John Anderson; No. 3 School House; No. 4, Wm. McFarlane town hall; No. 5, Wm. Givens' house; No. 6, J. M. Drummond, Union Hall, Mather's Corners; No. 7, George Robertson, Stewart's House near cheese factory; and to confirm certain payments made by treasurer. The following accounts were ordered to be paid: B. Read, filling in holes and removing stones off north Peterboro road, $1.00; R. A. Deyell, cedar for three culverts, $7.81; S. Thorn, gravel, $4.48; John Anderson, gravel, $1.20; R. English, provisions for James Metcalf, $24.00; nails and plank for Keene Sidewalks, $2.56; J. W. Cooney, cedar, $1.38; Wm. Anderson, sessional allowance, $22.00; road commissioner, $12.00; attending a committee meeting in Peterboro on sewerage, arbitration and mileage, $2.70; T. J. Johnson, sessional allowance, $22.00; road commissioner, $12.00; sewerage committee milage, $2.70; John Lancaster, sessional allowance, $22.00; road commissioner, $12.00; sewerage committee and mileage, $3.60; J. Deyell, sessional allowance, $22.00; road commissioner, $12.00; sewerage committee and mileage, $2.70; A. Weir, sessional allowance, $22.00; road commissioner, $12.00; sewerage committee and mileage, $3.40; J. M. Drummond, sewerage committee and mileage, $2.90; Dr. Shaw's expenses to Toronto procuring witnesses for sewerage arbitration and attending arbitration, $50.00; Edmison and Dixon, expenses sewerage arbitration, $550.00. On account of the high rates charged for insurance, there is considerable agitation in the township for municipal Insurance. Alex Wood who has a friend living in a township in western Ontario where it has been in existence for some time, is procuring a statement of how it is working. John Lancaster was requested to see Mr. Wood and read up the matter and present it at the nomination and invite discussion on it. The Reeve will give his impressions on his tour through Hastings county on the advisability of keeping up our roads by taxation instead of Statute Labour and would also request the electors to come to the nominations prepared to discuss it.

Council adjourned to the third Monday in January 1896.

EAST CHANDOS.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The snow has left us all in the mud.

There is some danger of the ice in Loon Lake breaking up, as there are several large holes in it now. A heavy wind would break it up.

Miss Hattie Graham, late teacher in S.S. No. 5, Chandos, has returned to her home in Bethany. She will be sadly missed throughout the neighbourhood as she was well liked. She has taught in that school for two years and a half.

The most of the men that went to the woods for the St. Anthony Co have returned.

Arthur Woodbeck had the misfortune to cut his foot which caused him to return home from the vicinity of Beaver Creek, where he was working for the Rathbun Co.

Mr. John Baskins has a fine lot of logs at his mill, the largest quantity that was ever delivered at this time of year. He intends to start sawing as soon as snow comes, so that he can ship to Coe Hill.

Mr. Norman Woodbec has moved from the Shaw farm, where he has been for the last three years, to the Parcels farm, which he has rented. He will be missed by his near neighbors, as he was a very obliging man.

We understand that Mr. Thomas Lowry is to be our cheesemaker for another year.

Those young men who went for the Howry Company from this part have returned. They look as though they had seen hard work and plenty of it.

The thaw has made lumbering dull in this part at present.

The roads are about as bad as they ever are in spring; the frost is leaving the ground.

This is bad weather for our winter harvest, which is generally the best one.

Do You Like a Good Dinner?

See that the celebrated Windsor Table Salt is on the table. Every crystal alive with preservative and purifying power. Never cakes. Ask your grocer for it.

The Dinner

Is always the centre of attraction. Housekeepers plan to have the bill of fare extra nice; but the surest way to have it pass off right is to draw on John J. Howden's meat market for your beef and other meats. 'Phone 39.

Ready.

China Hall is now ready for the rush with the largest and most beautiful stock ever shown. Dinner Sets, Tea Sets, Toilet Sets, Silverware, Cutlery, Fancy Goods, &c., in endless variety. Buy early to avoid the rush.

Presents For Gentlemen.

What do you say about a good pipe, a box of cigars, a nice cigar case or a latest style walking stick? These are very acceptable presents for gentlemen and easily selected. Call at Clegg's and see his stock, all first quality and best value.—E. B. CLEGG, one door south of Stratton's Book Store.

Plain Facts.

Burdock Blood Bitters purifies, renovates and regulates the entire system, thus curing Dyspepsia, Constipation, Sick Headache, Biliousness, Rheumatism, Dropsy, and all diseases of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. It also removes all impurities from the system, from a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sore.

The Wabash Railway Trains

running every day in the year between Detroit, Chicago, St. Louis and Kansas City are the finest known to the railway service; they are complete and solid vestibuled from end to end, the entire train being a moving palace of connected apartments, all furnished with the most luxurious elegance and perfection of accommodation known to car builder's art. They include free reclining, palace, sleeping, and dining cars of the latest and best paterns. Call on or write any railway agent for tickets and all information, or address J. A. CHRISTMAS, 1895

Finds us at the close of another year and we are glad to wish our patrons the Compliments of the Season, and prosperity for another twelve months. We appreciate the confidence in us, expressed by those who have favoured the Golden Lion with their trade, as in the past, for the fifty two weeks gone by. To those who have come to us to try the merits of our goods and learn of the cordial and excellent ways of our store, we give much thanks, saying most heartily that nothing will be let undone to please and to inculcate the knowledge that ours is a perfectly comfortable store to trade at.

Wishing you all the Compliments of the Season.

A SUMMER-LIKE CHRISTMAS-TIDE

We heartily wish our customers, both in town and country, the compliments of this festive season.

Although our Christmas weather has been snowless and a dull, muggy atmosphere has prevaded, it has not had the effect of restraining the generous gift-giving of our citizens.

Our business for the week just passed—in fact, of the whole year—has been calculated to evoke our kindest gratitude, and we sincerely thank our friends for their generous patronage.

Perhaps you received an Xmas Gift from an unexpected quarter. It won't cost much to make a return by a New Year's Gift if you purchase it here.

THE WAR SCARE OVER

Newspaper Men Becoming More Reflective.

FIGHTING CAPACITY CONSIDERED.

Prof. Goldwin Smith Furnishes an Anti-English Contribution on the Subject - Discovery Made that the United States Could Do Little in Defense.

New York, Dec. 26.—A Washington special to The Herald says: The Naval Bureau of Ordinance will to-day conclude large contracts for supplying the navy projectiles.

The authorities declare these orders have nothing whatever to do with the Venezuelan question.

Defences Deplorably Weak

New York, Dec. 26.—A Washington special to The Sun says: Officials of the War and Navy Departments concede that the events of the past week have accomplished more toward impressing upon Congress and the country the evil results of a niggardly policy with regard to defences on shore and sea than all the appeals that have been made in ten years. In one week it becomes apparent that the country would be practically at the mercy of a strong force for at least a year, and perhaps longer, before the resources at hand would yield a defence sufficient to eventually defeat an enemy.

The unanimity with which bills have been presented in Congress by members of both parties for an increase of the naval establishments, an enlargement of the standing army, and provisions for powerful coast defences, the purchase of millions of small arms and large ordnance for the national forces and state guards, is accepted as proof of a determination to make more liberal appropriations for the services this winter than in any similar period since the war. The national guard of the country is said, on the whole, to have been found energetic and industrious, but, except in a few states, such as New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois and Ohio, the equipment is wretchedly bad and the organizations not on a sound basis. The first thing that should be done, it is claimed by the leading army officers in Washington, is to determine the best small arm yet presented, and then to issue them to all state troops. It is asserted that there should be only one design of small arm for all military purposes, in order to avoid the possibility of the navy getting cartridges intended for the army or state troops, and vice versa.

But what all experts regard as necessary for the country's protection are powerful fortifications at the principal seat coast cities.

Advantage will be taken this session of the war scare to also provide more battleships and torpedo boats for the navy.

QUADRUPLE ALLIANCE.

Britain, France, Spain and Holland Against the Monro Doctrine.

London, Dec. 26.—The Daily News will to-morrow publish a despatch from Vienna stating that Lord Salisbury, the British Prime Minister, is negotiating with France and Holland with a view to adopting common action against the policy of President Cleveland. Spain, the despatch adds, has already assured Great Britain of her agreement with the latter on the question. It is believed that Great Britain, France, Holland and Spain will form a quadruple alliance to protect their American possessions against the United States.

The Daily News to-morrow, commenting on the report that Secretary of State Olney has forwarded a private despatch to Lord Salisbury, will say: "There is nothing increditable or surprising in such an announcement. On the contrary, it would be highly honorable to him. There is no reason to believe that in pushing the Monroe doctrine, Secretary Olney has any design of insulting or annoying England."

The paper discredits the far-fetched explanations of President Cleveland's policy and says he meant no harm by his message to Congress. Whatever mischief he did he has since conscientiously and laboriously endeavored to undo.

PHELPS AND LINCOLN

Named by the President for the Venezuelan Commission.

New York, Dec. 26.—A morning paper has the following special from Washington: The President has tendered places on the Venezuela High Commission to Edward J. Phelps of Vermont, ex-Minister to England, and Robert T. Lincoln, also ex-Minister to England. Their acceptances have not been received, and the third place on the High Commission will not be filled until Mr. Phelps and Mr. Lincoln accept.

Mr. Lincoln was Secretary Olney's own selection and it is said that Chief Justice Fuller of Illinois, strongly recommended him, on the ground that a report signed by two former American Ministers to England, both of whom have been warmly praised by the British press for many years, will have much weight in Great Britain. It is urged that public opinion in England cannot ascribe to such men as Phelps and Lincoln any prejudice against England, where they are both very popular.

The third member of the commission is likely to be one of the associate justices of the United States Supreme Court, probably either Justice Brewer or Justice Brown. Mr. Harlan whose selection was strongly urged by several senators, is not considered by the President.

PROF. GOLDWIN SMITH.

He Beats the Americans Themselves in Defending the Monroe Doctrine.

From The Philadelphia Record.

The Record has probably the largest circulation of any daily in the Eastern States, outside of the city of New York. The following article appeared on the 25th inst.:

If Englishmen generally had hearkened to the voice of public opinion in the United States as carefully as has their compatriot, Dr. Goldwin Smith, they would have been less surprised by the tremendous stir of feeling aroused in this country over the Anglo-Venezuelan imbroglio; Lord Salisbury would probably have avoided an academic discussion of the Monroe doctrine, and the English press, together with its Continental European contemporaries, would not have wasted time and breath in an effort to prove that the policy of the United States concerning the sisterhood of American Republics had not been adopted into the law of nations. By keeping in intimate touch with Americans, and through his acute observation during his thirty years' sojourn in the United States of the progressive development of American political ideals, Dr. Smith has obtained a clear perception of the trend of the "Monroe sentiment," as he calls it; and it would be impossible to find a more succinct and yet comprehensive presentation of the subject than is contained in his recent article in The Saturday Review.

Whether the "tutelary powers" 'claimed by the United States to prevent any interference by European Governments in the political self-development of American communities have or have not been incorporated into the law of nations does not seem to be "a very practical question," says Dr. Smith. And he continues:

International law is a law without a legislature, without a policeman, and without a judge. Its highest Court of Appeal is the cannon. The Monroe doctrine will be law if America is strong enough to enforce it. Louis Napoleon did not regard it as law, but he nevertheless had to accept it, and retire from Mexico. In this respect it seems to stand on much the same footing as the European protectorate of Turkey, the guaranteed independence of Belgium and other understandings respected in diplomacy, which rest, not on universal law, but on the readiness of the parties interested to fight for their enforcement.

Upon another point, which British and European publicists do not seem able to comprehend, Dr. Smith has also thrown the clear light of his reasoning. It seems difficult for European statesmen to understand that the interest of the United States in the destiny of Latin America should not have a motive in the desire of territorial aggrandizement. The determination of the United States to guard the inviolability of the Latin-American Commonwealths, unaccompanied by the claim on the part of the great Republic of a protectorate over her weaker sisters, is so widely separated in character from the entirely selfish foreign policies of Europe that the Monroe sentiment apparently strikes transatlantic diplomats as being rather Quixotic. Now, nothing is more certain than that territorial expansion is not desired by the American people; on the contrary, there is a very powerful sentiment among them opposed to any new incorporation of land into the national domain. The American people have rejected San Domingo and St. Thomas, and would, perhaps, have rejected Alaska if they could have done so without offending Russia at a time when that power had just manifested in a practical manner her friendliness toward the Republic. Mexico is quite secure against any danger of absorption into the northern Republic; and if the Dominion of Canada should renounce its connection with Great Britain, and desire to remain an independent state, her people could depend with absolute assurance upon non-interference with their preference in this respect from their powerful southern neighbor.

If Canada be the object of any hostile feeling on the part of Americans it is not as an independent territory, but as an outpost and an entering wedge of European interference upon the American continent. The British strongholds at Halifax, Bermuda and Esquimalt are regarded as menaces to the seaboard cities of the United States, whether or not the military works at those places have been constructed with that end in view; and in this connection Dr. Smith presents another aspect of American foreign policy which has the merit of novelty added to its unquestionable soundness. He considers it certain that "any attempt on the part of Great Britain to use the American continent as a base or highway of war against a nation with which the United States should be at peace would be apt to call the Monroe sentiment into active play." This may seem an extremely advanced view; but the policy thus outlined would be entirely in harmony with the principle adopted with respect to the neutrality of the Isthmus, and of existing or prospective canals and railways across the same, as well as with the fundamental proposition that the conflicts and policies of Europe shall not be projected upon the American continent.

If the passing flurry over the Venezuela-Guiana boundary dispute shall induce out British cousins to take counsel with those among them who, like Dr. Goldwin Smith, have taken the trouble to inform themselves upon the subject, they will never again need to reveal their self-sufficiency and ignorance by wishing to know "what is the Monroe doctrine, anyhow?" They will find that the United States are prepared to compel an acknowledgment from the whole world of the force of the "Monroe sentiment," and to make it as valid an article of international law as are the principles of the inviolability of the Dardanelles or the neutrality of the Seuz canal.

Timely Words From the Pulpit.

New York, Dec. 26.—Dr. Morgan Dix spoke timely words of wisdom in Trinity Church yesterday when he said:

Let us hope that with the dawning of this great feast shall also come the end to the darkness of the past ten days, to the rumors of wars, to the agitation of an excited people, to the temporary madness which seems to have possessed large numbers of our citizens.

Protest Against Jingoism Toward Canada

To the Editor of The New York World:

In the carnival of callousness called out by the jingo message I know of nothing more revolting than the indecent cruelty of the suggestions of an invasion of Canada.

The Canadians are our neighbors and friends, bound to us by countless ties. They are a singularly peaceful and law-abiding people. They attend to their own business, and have always shown a willingness to allow us to attend ours. They have not wronged Venezuela. They certainly have never suggested such a possibility as a war between themselves and us.

And yet our military commanders have spoken of an invasion of Canada, with all the bloodshed, suffering, cruelty and loss of life, it would involve, as cooly as if no moral responsibility was involved. They have discussed it with as much unconcern as if Canadian lives had no value, as if our humanity stopped at the boundary line.

This is not the true American sentiment, spirit, expression or feeling. It is sheer barbarism of which we should be ashamed—barbarism which is only the more odious for being displayed in high station. S. G. O.

Olive Branch From Edinburgh.

New York, Dec. 26.—The following cable despatch was received to-day by the Chamber of Commerce:

"Edinburgh, Dec. 26, 1895, Chamber of Commerce, New York;

The Edinburgh Chamber of Commerce expresses earnest desire that the present difficulty may end in continuance of peaceful relations between both countries so closely allied by kindren language and mutual interests.

NEWS FROM OTTAWA.

Parliament Will Assemble on Jan. 2 and Then Adjourn Till the Following Monday.

Ottawa, Dec. 26.—Parliament will meet next Thursday, but the business of the session will not be commenced until the following week. It is announced that after the formal opening on Thursday both Houses will adjourn till Tuesday, January 7.

Charles Locke, son of W. B. Scarth, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, died here to-day. He had been ill some time. Much sympathy is felt for Mr. Scarth.

The Order-in-Council appointing Col. Prior a member of the Privy Council and Controller of Inland Revenue has been signed by His Excellency. Were it not for the close proximity of the opening of Parliament, the Deputy-Governor would have gone to Victoria to swear in the new Minister. Inasmuch, however, as Col. Prior will be here it is hoped that within the next two weeks he will be sworn in by the Governor-General immediately on his arrival.

The Department of Customs has refused the application of the proprietors of the Silver Creek trout ponds, Toronto, for free admission of speckled trout ova from the United States.

Mr. W. F. King, Canadian boundary commissioner, is to meet General Duffield, his United States co-commissioner, at Albany, on Tuesday, when the final draft of their report on the Alaska boundary survey will be approved and a copy handed to each of the Governments interested, according to treaty, on New Year's day.

Mr. Hayter Reed, deputy superintendent-general of Indian affairs, has returned to the capital, after a fortnight's absence in the Northwest. Reports from the west seem to indicate that the Indians have partaken to some extent in the prosperity of the present year and are everywhere reported to be peaceful and quiet. It is thought probable that the departmental control will before long be extended to cover some of the northern tribes, who are not at present included in any of the treaties, but who, nevertheless, receive a certain amount of benefit from the Government.

GRAIN AND CORDWOOD.

The Canadian Pacific Issues a Couple of Important Circulars.

Toronto, Dec. 27.—The Canadian Pacific Railway has just issued a circular to the grain trade embodying regulations governing the shipments of grain ex Manitoba consigned to North Bay for orders. The same rules will also be applicable as regards oats from Manitoba shipped to Sudbury for orders. Among other things the circular states that cars remaining on hand at North Bay beyond 24 hours, waiting furtherance orders, will be charged demurrage at the rate of $2 per car per day. The company reserves the right to refuse shipments from any shipper consigned to North Bay for orders who persistently delays cars at that point.

There is also to be a change in the tariff on cordwood, as the following circular will show:

"All rates, tariff or special, now in effect between stations in Canada on cordwood, slabs, and mill refuse, for fuel, will expire with the close of business on Dec. 31 inst. On and after Jan. 1, prox., these commodities will be carried on a weight instead of measurement basis: that is, by the 100 pounds, instead of by the cord. A new tariff will be issued to take effect Jan. 1."

Catarrh in the Head

Is a dangerous disease because it is liable to result in loss of hearing or smell, or develop into consumption. Read the following:

"My wife has been a sufferer from catarrh for the past four years and the disease had gone so far that her eyesight was affected so that for nearly a year she was unable to read for more than five minutes at a time. She suffered severe pains in the head and at times was almost distracted. About Christmas, she commenced taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and since that time has steadily improved. She has taken six bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla and is on the road to a complete cure. I cannot speak too highly of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I cheerfully recommend it." W. H. FURSIKE, Newmarket, Ontario.

DIABETES CURABLE

Given up to Die—Uses Dodd's Kidney Pills and is Cured by Eight Boxes.

KIRKFIELD (Special), Dec. 23.—Mr. Duncan McKenzie, miller and lumberman of this place, had returned from Kansas lately. Had failed in health and strength, had lost fifty pounds in weight. Was given up by his physician as well as by specialists in Toronto and by himself and friends. Now comes a change—he says in a letter to Dodd's Medicine Co.: "After commencing with your Dodd's Kidney Pills I got help inside of two weeks. I took eight boxes in eight weeks, am completely cured, not a symptom left, general health good. Have regained my old health and weight. Had been bothered with heart and liver, both have vanished with the diabetes. I can walk briskly for miles instead of crawling as before. Am a brother of the President of the Toronto Street Railway Co., and well known here." Diabetes is set down as incurable—but Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure.

MEDAL FROM LORD ABERDEEN.

The Governor-General of Canada Rewards a Member of the Brooklyn Boys' Brigade

New York, Dec. 26.—About a year ago, the Earl of Aberdeen, Governor-General of Canada, visited the Mayflower Mission of Plymouth Church, Brooklyn. The Boys' Brigade had just been organized and the Earl reviewed it. He is commander-in-chief of the Boys' Brigade all over the world. In an address at the Mayflower he offered to give a medal to the boy who should have the best record for the ensuing year.

True to his word, the Governor-General sent the medal after his return from the western coast, where he spent most of the summer and fall. It is a beautiful one, about the size of a half dollar, with an appropriate inscription. A week from next Sunday it will be presented to the winner by Dr. Abbott. The boy will probably be Bertie Bicknell, although another boy has so nearly perfect a record that another medal of equal value may be presented to him at the same time.

The Earl wishes to present such a medal each successive year, and it is likely that his offer will be accepted and the Aberdeen medal become an annual institution at Plymouth Church.

THE RAILROAD COMPLETED.

Regular Trains Next Week Over the Welland Branch of the T., H. & B.

Hamilton, Dec. 26.—The T., H. & B. Railway is just about completed from Welland to Hamilton, and on Monday next there will be a regular train service. At Welland the T., H. & B. line connects with the Michigan Central, and thus, in a few days, Hamilton will have a competitive railway, connecting this city with Buffalo and New York.

To-morrow the Government engineer will inspect the road, which is finished with the exception of a few miles which have not been ballasted. To-day the company advertised for 500 men to rush the work through.

The line to Welland is a first-class road in every particular. The grade is easy, and there are comparatively few curves. The rails are 80 pounds, steel, and the ties are principally Georgia pine. The bridges are chiefly steel, and all work on the road is remarkably substantial, and in accordance with the specifications by the New York Central, Michigan Central and C.P.R. When the company extends this line to Toronto, it is expected there will be a great amount of traffic between the latter city, Buffalo and New York. The tunnel will not be completed for some weeks, but it is the intention of the company to have a train run through it next Monday.

Weak Lungs.

Emaciation, weakness, and that fatal disposition to take cold easily, thus adding little by little to the strain upon the already overburdened body. How many afflicted are trusting to cough mixtures, mustard and poultices for safety? Fatal error. Not by these, but by adding to the nutritive power of the body and the increased strength and vitality which increased nutrition affords, can you hope to obtain relief. Maltine with Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites combines the excellencies of a medicine, a food, and a digestive agency of unexampled power. The full remedial value of the cod liver oil, rendered palatable and of easy digestion, is combined with the nutritive values of wheat, oats and barley. This in itself would render Maltine and Cod Liver Oil of greater value than any emulsion. But it possesses a further quality of inestimable value in its property of increasing the solubility of fat-forming, heat-producing, starchy foods, just the elements required for the upbuilding of the emaciated. This you may demonstrate by a short trial of this unrivalled preparation.

The best cough cure is Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. It heals the lungs and cures coughs and colds.

Weak and Tired.

DEAR SIRS,—I can heartily recommend Milburn's Cod Liver Oil Emulsion. For a long time I felt so weak I could hardly keep up, every little thing tiring me out. I took two bottles and the fatigue and tired feeling left me and have never returned.

THE REPLY.

Manitoba's Argument for an Inquiry Repeated.

NO MORAL OR POLITICAL WRONG

A Question of Policy and a Matter of Statesmanship—Coercion the Worst Policy for the Minority—Ready to Remedy Every Real Grievance

Winnipeg, Dec. 26.—The reply of the Manitoba Government to the remedial order of 27th July is published here to-day

The apparent intention of the said document, among other things, is to invite action on the part of the authorities of the province to remedy alleged grievances of the Roman Catholic population in relation to the education bill. The exact nature of the action which is invited is not specially stated and must be gathered from certain expressions found with the Order-in-Council in connection with the well known facts of the case. Attention may be drawn to the following extracts:

"It is believed by the sub-committee that the religious opinions and rights which have been recognized in the judgment of the Judicial Committee of the Imperial Privy Council could be sufficiently met by the Local Legislature without impairing the efficiency or proper conduct, management and regulation of the Public schools."

It has been held by the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council that the present educational statutes of Manitoba are constitutionally valid. The more recent decision of the same court in no way weakens or impairs the force of the former decision, which stands as an authoritative declaration that the said statutes which abolished Separate schools are constitutional, and therefore that such Separate schools are not guaranteed to the minority by the constitution. The Legislative Assembly of the province has repeatedly declared itself to be resolute in its determination to maintain the principle of the present educational law. The people of the province in the general election held during the year 1892 were expressly asked to pronounce upon the same principle, with the result that all parties joined in declarations of their determination to uphold it.

The Governor-General-in-council was in no way bound by the constitution to make a remedial order, granting the prayer of the appellants in whole or in part, nor is Parliament now bound by the constitution to make a remedial order granting the prayer of the appellants in whole or in part, nor is Parliament now bound by the constitution, expressly or impliedly, to give effect to the remedial order in whole or in part. This fact being clear, it is submitted with confidence that no sufficient ground was established for interference in our educational affairs by the Government or Parliament of the Dominion.

The remedy sought to be applied is fraught with great danger to the principle of provincial autonomy. An independent consideration of the subject as well as the recognized constitutional practice in analagous cases clearly indicates that it should only be made use of as a last resort and after the clearest possible case has been made out.

It is obvious that so drastic a proceeding as the coercion of a province, in order to impose upon it a policy repugnant to the declared wish of its people, can only be justified by clear and unmistakable proof of flagrant wrong-doing on the part of provincial authorities. In the present case there has been no wrong committed by the provincial authorities. It is justly maintained by the Legislature that the law complained of is founded upon the principle of equal justice to every section of the community, and so confident was that body of the fairness, the justice of its position, that in its reply to the Remedial Order it challenged an impartial enquiry into the facts of the case. The judgment of the court that the minority have a grievance does not in any way indicate that a moral or political wrong has been done. The legal grievance referred to in the judgment consists in the abolition of a privilege theretofore enjoyed irrespective of whether the privilege was founded on reason and justice. There is no inference to be derived therefrom that the privilege ought to be restored. Whether such privilege shall be restored or not is a question of public policy. The reasons which have impelled the advisers of His Excellency to decide without investigation upon the establishment of Separate schools for the Roman Catholic minority in Manitoba have not been made known to the Government or Legislature of the province, and it is respectfully affirmed that a full and careful consideration of the whole subject fails to disclose any sufficient reason for the adoption of such a policy.

It is therefore recommended that, so far as the Government of Manitoba is concerned, the proposal to establish a system of Separate schools in any form be positively and definitely rejected, and that the principle of a uniform non-sectarian Public school system be adhered to. It is further recommended that the Order-in-Council of July 27, 1895, with the reply to Your Honor's Government thereto be laid before the Legislative Assembly of the province with all convenient despatch at the next ensuing session thereof.

It may be pointed out that the legal position in regard to the proposed remedial legislation is far from clear. It has repeatedly been declared, according to reported utterances, that remedial legislation does not necessarily mean that the remedial order will be literally followed or that the system of Separate schools which existed prior to 1890 will be restored. It would appear reasonable to conclude that no one could seriously contemplate the restoration of that system. Yet, if remedial legislation in any other form than literal confirmation of the remedial order be introduced, a grave doubt arises as to the competency of Parliament to pass such legislation without the same being first submitted to the Legislature of the province. On the other hand, any proposed measure would require to be in accord with the order of the Governor-General-in-Council, so that the first step required might be to amend the remedial order. Whether any power exists to amend or rescind the remedial order is also a subject of some doubt.

It is a matter of regret that the invitation extended by the Legislative Assembly to make a proper enquiry into the facts of the case has not been accepted, but that, as above stated, the advisers of His Excellency have declared their policy without investigation. It is equally a matter of regret that Parliament is apparently about to be asked to legislate without investigation. It is with all deference submitted that such a course seems to be quite incapable of reasonable justification and must create the conviction that the educational interests of the Province of Manitoba are being dealt with in a hostile and peremptory way, by a tribunal whose members have not approached the subject in a judicial spirit or taken the proceedings necessary to enable them to form a proper opinion upon the merits of the question.

The enquiry asked for by the reply of the Legislature to the remedial order should in the opinion of the undersigned be again earnestly invited, and in the event of the invitation being accepted, the scope of the enquiry should be sufficiently wide to embrace all available facts relating to the past or present school system. The desire of the Legislature and Government of the province throughout the whole course of the proceedings beginning with the enactment of the statutes of 1890 has been to provide the best possible means of education for the children of our citizens.

To that end every possible effort has been put forth and every possible pecuniary sacrifice made in order that there might be established a school system based upon sound principles and equipped and administered in accordance with approved modern educational methods. Though very much remains to be accomplished, it may be fairly asserted that a reasonable measure of success has attended the efforts which have thus been put forth.

It seems, therefore, most reasonable to conclude that by leaving the question to be so dealt with the truest interests of the minority will be better served than by an attempt to establish a system of Separate schools by coercive legislation.

Such a system, discredited as it is, will be from the outset crippled by reason of insufficient pecuniary support and ineffective educational equipment, and will be an injury rather than a benefit to those whom it is intended to serve.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Dated at the Council Chamber, Winnipeg, this 20th day of December, A.D. 1895.

MONTREAL CENTRE.

Sir Chas. Hibbert Tupper Says the Remedial Bill Will be Introduced.

Montreal, Dec 26.—The campaign in Montreal Centre closed to-night with two meetings, one in Griffintown for Hon. James McShane and one in Windsor Hall for Sir William Hingston. Both sides are confident, but a common opinion is that the Liberal candidate has more reason for hope, and will probably be elected. At the Windsor Hall meeting the principal speaker was Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper. In view of Manitoba's answer to the remedial order his remarks on the school question are interesting. He declared that though a Catholic Minister and a Protestant member had left the Government its policy had always remained the same down to the present. If they could not stand by the constitution then Confederation was a myth and should be broken up. He stated emphatically that the Government intended to carry out the decision of the Privy Council. In reply to the statement that Parliament could not coerce Manitoba, he said he believed that Parliament could work its will in any province of the Dominion. They had tried to induce Manitoba of its own volition to carry out the terms of the judgment of the Privy Council, but now face to face with a refusal no member of the Cabinet would shirk his duty. They would carry out their pledge.

A Talking People.

As Judge Luston, of Tennessee, was once going through Texas he met an old Texan who described at length the people that had settled in his neighborhood, a large number of them having come from Kentucky. "And there's them Kaintuckians," said he. "They're the speakin'est people I ever see in my life, for a fact. Why, whenever we hev a shootin' match, a camp-meetin,' a weddin' or a fun'ral, you can jest bet that them Kaintuckians will be thar, and afore you knows it they'll be offerin' resolutions and a-makin' speeches till you cain't rest. To tell the truth, Judge, they cain't cut a watermelon without a speech."—Century.

Weak, Nervous Women.

One to whom a night's rest was unknown.

Strength and good health restored.

I was subject to frequent attacks of nervousness that seemed to sap all my vitality and left me in a state of weakness and misery. I could not relish food and such a thing as a good night's rest was unknown. Incapable of any exertion and with an ever present tired and despondent feeling. Medicines that I took did not do any good; it was a case of gradually becoming weaker and weaker. Hearing of Scott's Sarsaparilla and its success with similar cases to mine, I used it, and from the first few doses began to get better, appetite returned, got natural and refreshing sleep. I grew stronger, in fact life seemed to be fanned into activity.—Lottie Graham, 174 Crawford Street, Toronto.

For any weakness of the nerves, pale and sallow complexion, loss of appetite use the best blood and nerve remedy extant, Scott's Sarsaparilla. Insist on getting Scott's—imitations do not cure.

Festival and Social.

On Wednesday (New Year's) night, Jan. 1st, 1896, a grand festival and social will be held in the George street Methodist church, under the auspices of the ladies, for the benefit of the building fund of Grace church. Refreshments will be served and a choice programme of music presented. 2d

Meeting of the Bishops.

The Archbishop of Ontario has called a meeting of the house of bishops for Jan. 8th, to be held in St. John's church Sunday school hall, Ottawa. The object of the meeting is for the consideration of certain suggestions presented by the Archbishop of Canterbury regarding the meeting of the pan-Anglican synod, to be held in Lambeth, England, next year.

Max O'Rell's Lecture.

Mr. Paul Blouet, or as he is better known, "Max O'Rell," lectured to a large audience at the Opera house last night. For some reason the subject of the lecture was changed to that of "John Bull, Sandy and Pat," and those present who were acquainted with Mr. Blouet's literary works were a trifle disappointed, as nearly all his points were taken from one or other of his books. To those, however, who knew him not as an author, the lecture was most interesting and amusing.

Last Night's Fire.

At about half past eight o'clock last night an unoccupied rough cast dwelling house on Downie street, belonging to Mr. Patrick Kelly, son of Mr. Thos. Kelly, was badly gutted by fire. The flames had acquired too great a headway before the alarm was sounded for the fireman to have much chance to save the building, which was almost completely destroyed. The premises were valued at about $400 and were uninsured, the policy having been allowed to lapse. Incendiarism is strongly suspected.

A Farmers' Institute.

The committee appointed to arrange the programme for the winter meetings of the East Peterborough Farmers' Institute have completed their work, and posters, programmes, etc., will be issued in a few days. The meetings will be held at Norwood on Jan. 21st and Keene on Jan. 24th. Supplementary meetings will also be held at Westwood and Warsaw on Feb. 23nd and 24th. The speakers will be Messrs. L. Patton, of Oxford Mills; A. W. Peart, B.A., of Burlington; and Herbert J. Page, of St. Mary.

Christmas Decorations at St. Luke's.

Yesterday The EXAMINER had not space to refer in detail to the beautiful decorations of St. Luke's which were never surpassed in the history of the parish. In the east window, above the communion table, is a banner bearing the word "Emmanuel" in white letters on red ground. On either side on the east wall is a framework of gothic design covered with green boughs. The screen across the chancel bears the motto, "Glory to God in the Highest." The pulpit has the text, "Unto us a Child is born, unto us a Son is given." The window sills are lined with red stuff, each bearing an ecclesiastical emblem in white. The decorations will remain in place over Sunday and the Christmas music will be repeated.

THE LINES WERE CUT.

Three Boats Drift Out Into the Little Lake, But Are Recovered.

Commodore Calcutt very nearly was the victim of a severe financial loss yesterday, through the fact that a number of young men cut the lines attaching the steamer North Star and two barges to the shore in order to utilize the ropes for swings in the big icehouse at the Ashburnham wharf.

As the ice surrounding the boats had disappeared, the rising of the water so affected the craft that the three drifted out into the Little Lake and would undoubtedly have been injured at the locks dam had they not been espied and brought to shore again by means of lines attached to a windlass.

Hereafter the Peterborough Navigation Company will be more strict with lotterers at the shipyard, and trespassers will be dealt with summarily.

JUBILEE POINT IMPROVEMENTS.

An Asphalt Bicycle Track Will Probably be Laid.

Mr. H. Calcutt is already making his plans in regard to still further improving Jubilee Point as a summer resort next year.

Early in the season surveyors will be sent down to lay out a 1 3 mile bicycle track and as Mr. Calcutt is inquiring into the prices of asphalt it is in the field of probabilities that the track will be composed of this material. The completion of such a track should prove a great magnet for wheelmen, and in the event of the big C.W.A. meet being held here in July next, a big crowd of visiting bicyclists would, without doubt take the trip down the river and afterwards serve as grand advertising mediums.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT.

Graceful Gratitude of Grand Trunk Railway Employees.

PETERBOROUGH, Dec. 26th, 1895.

To the Secretary of the W. C. T. U.:

MY DEAR MADAM,—Once again on behalf of the employees I have to return you their grateful acknowledgments for the delicious Christmas cake, accompanied by a number of beautiful Christmas cards. I can assure you they were most thankfully appreciated by the boys. Will you kindly convey to your estimable co-workers in the noblest of causes (Temperance) our sincere gratitude for their kind and thoughtful courtesy.

Wishing you many happy returns of this blessed season and a sincere wish for your future success,

I am Dear Madam,
Gratefully yours,
W. HAYDEN.

A DEBATER'S CHALLENGE.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—On Tuesday last I noticed in your paper a challenge from Messrs. Bogan and Begley to re debate the question, "Resolved, that Wellington was a greater general and statesman than Napoleon." I beg to say that, on behalf of myself and my colleague, I gladly accept the challenge.

Yours truly,
OZIAS DE LAPLANTE.

What more suitable for a Christmas present than a handsome lamp. China Hall has them in endless variety, at special prices. No such value anywhere as at China Hall.

Here We Are Again.

Right in the nick of time to catch the holiday trade, with a brimful store of groceries, teas, sugars, fruits, canned goods, candied peels, essences, pickles, relishes, spices, cheese, butter, eggs, provisions, poultry, etc., etc. Bankrupt prices, as usual, will prevail. No regular prices in the whole stock, but everything goes as it was bought—away below regular market value. You are lucky if you are late in buying your Christmas supplies for you will be right in time to share in the snaps now waiting you at this store. John Cameron's old stand, remodelled and refitted anew, 392 George street. W. J. HALL, dealer in bankrupt stocks, etc.

The Star Almanac.

The Star Almanac is more of a constellation than a star. Its title of almanac, according to the popular idea, is a misnomer—it is more properly an encyclopædia, so comprehensive and complete are its contents. It consists of nearly 500 closely printed pages, every one of which is replete with interesting information, arranged concisely and compactly. Any attempt to even refer to the multitude of departments would transgress the limits of a column. Every national, governmental, naval, military, provincial, fiscal, financial, social, and statistical interest is touched upon, and concise, crisp facts presented. As a work of reference it is invaluable, and no more complete and comprehensive annual of its kind has been issued in Canada or on the continent than the Star Almanac for 1896. For sale at the Peterborough Bookstore.

Yesterday's Storm.

Yesterday's storm originated in Eastern Texas, and in the morning was central over Kentucky. It moved in a northeasterly direction, gradually increasing in energy, and last night was centered over Oswego. To-day it will be in the Maritime Provinces, where it will occasion heavy gales, but as storm signals were posted at the stations there yesterday morning, vesselmen have had ample warning. In the southern parts of Ontario rain was prevalent, while in the northern districts snow fell to the depth of four or five feet. In Manitoba the weather was quite temperate during the day, but early in the morning the thermometer registered 28 degrees below zero. It was fair and milder in the Territories, the temperature being 34 degrees above at Calgary and 36 degrees above at Medicine Hat. On the Pacific slope the weather was mild, accompanied by light snowfalls. At Victoria the thermometer was 44 degrees above zero.

Rounding-up Clearing Sale.

These are winding-up days. The splendid record of holiday sales is going to be supplemented with exceptional bargains for another month to be offered by the pushing dry goods firm of R. H. Kells & Co., 369 George street. This firm will commemorate the winding up of the old year and the ushering in of the new by a bargain-giving, rounding-up sale, previous to stock-taking, which occurs in February. The bold and emphatic announcement of this firm in another column leaves no room for doubt that a bona fide general reduction of stock must be made before that date. To accomplish that object prices are to be lowered to a degree that will meet a host of pressing family needs at this season of the year on all lines of winter goods. Some people's words are half battles. Every syllable means so much. What Kells & Co. have to say about this sale is said in earnest, and the particular purpose which has influenced them in making such sweeping reductions in prices appears to be—not profit, but to free themselves of the goods. Read what they say on the fifth page.

BROOKS HAS A VERY BAD RECORD IN LINDSAY.

The Magistrate Sends Him to the Central for Six Months.

Aaron Brooks, who early in the week pleaded guilty to a charge of the the theft of a watch from his cousin in Ashburnham, and who was also charged with vagrancy, was this morning sentenced to spend six months in the Central on each charge, by the magistrate. The sentences will run concurrently.

As Brooks announced that he would never go to gaol he was handcuffed while the trial was in progress, and was closely watched as it was thought he would attempt to escape, but he made no move of this nature.

Brooks had a very bad record over in Lindsay, having been convicted of the larceny of a watch on July 12th, 1899, and fined $4 and costs, amounting to $6, for assaulting the constable when being arrested on the charge. On March 30th, 1893, he was fined $5 and $2.25 costs for being disorderly. On February 8th, 1895, a fine of $2.50 and $1.50 costs, and another of $8.50 was levied on him for assault. He was given time in which to pay the fines and skipped out. Two warrants of commitment, therefore, now stand against him in Lindsay. The community is well rid of such a character as this.

Successful Christmas Entertainment.

From Our Own Correspondent.

On Monday, Dec. 23rd, Coldsprings Union S. S. held their annual Christmas entertainment, and it was pronounced by all to be the best yet held. In spite of the very bad weather there was a good turnout.

The programme, a good one, was well rendered in every number. We were particularly favored in having Miss Hendren, of Lakefield, with us. This talented soloist delighted her audience with her sweet voice and was more than once recalled.

The following is the programme as given:—

Opening Chorus
Recitation ..... Willie Husten
Dialogue—"The Happy Family"
Kindergarten Song ..... The Primary Class
Reading—"The Bachelor's Dream" ..... Miss D. Kennedy
Solo ..... Miss Hendren

THE GREATEST HOLIDAY HIT OF ALL!

ROUNDING-UP CLEARING SALE

For the Closing-Up of the Old Year and the Ushering in of the New at

R. H. KELLS & CO'S

Commencing Saturday, December 28th, 1895, and Continuing until January 31st, 1896. A HARVEST FOR BARGAIN SEEKERS!—PRIZES AND SURPRIZES FOR EVERYBODY.

The pre-inventory tide is sweeping through this store. At this season of the year, with stock-taking ahead, we are willing to lose money to reduce stock and realize on goods. Profit time is over and any price now for winter goods is better than carrying over into the February balance sheet.

ON SATURDAY MORNING, DEC. 28th, we shall launch the most Extraordinary Sale of the many that have carried our Firm name from one end of the County to the other.

This Rounding-up Sale is not to be an ordinary happening—not a reduction of a few leading articles—but an emphatic bid for the trade of the people of Peterborough and surrounding district, in every line of goods we deal in.

The reductions that we have made will constitute a harvest for Bargain seekers, and afford a paying investment to lay in goods for next season's wear.

Prices Will Never be Lower Than Ours Anywhere.

January is a money-losing month but with eleven of the opposite kind to our credit we can afford, on the home stretch, to mark down our goods to prices that will influence quick sales and secure the required Reduction of Stocks.

On several lines we place prices absolutely without regard to cost or value. Especially will this Grand Rounding-up Sale be of importance to every one requiring DRESS GOODS, JACKETS, CAPES AND MILLINERY. But this is not all—the Underwear—the Blankets—the Flannels—the Hosiery—the Gloves—the Frillings—the Curtains—the Corsets—the Laces—the Ribbons—the Dress Trimmings—the Linens—the Toweling the Handkerchiefs—the Umbrellas—the Waterproofs—one and all will be pruned by the same knife, and the result will be seen on Saturday in the greatest values ever offered to the Peterborough public.

Style, Merit, High-Class Quality and Low Prices are all combined in this Grand Rounding-up Sale. We propose to top off all previous good records.

In Our Dress Making Department.

During January we will, in order to keep all our hands employed throughout the dull season, make up Dress Goods BOUGHT ON THE PREMISES for $3.00. To insure promptness leave your order in early.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 27, 1895.

DAILY MOTTO.

Friday, Dec. 27th.

Our present difficulties and hard questions will soon be solved and passed by. Even the world itself, so difficult to penetrate, will become a transparency to us, through which God's light will pour as the sun through the open sky.

The body must be well nourished now, to prevent sickness. If your appetite is poor take Hoood's Sarsaparilla.

Three Prize Pictures with Grafton & Co's Clothing.

Separate School Trustees.

All the Separate School Trustees have been returned this year by acclamation, but as Dr. Brennan is retiring on account of leaving town there will be a contest for his seat at the Board. Dr. McGrath and Mr. Harry Carveth have been nominated.

Notice.

All parties indebted to Mrs. Ward (Miss E. Delaney), are hereby notified that unless their accounts are paid by the 4th of January, they will be handed over for collection. Mrs. Ward will be in town for a few days to arrange a settlement of all outstanding amounts due her.

Ashburnham Elections.

It is hardly likely that there will be any election contest in Ashburnham this year. The Council of 1895 was composed of a level-headed lot of representatives and the villagers, recognising this, will, in all probability, return them by acclamation for another term. There is no opposition so far.

Compliments of the Season.

To one and all—to our patrons and the public generally—we extend the congratulations of the season. Our magnificent exhibition of holiday goods are not all exhausted yet. New Years cards and calendars, especially, are worthy of inspection, as well as many other novelties especially seasonable. Regular stocks are not neglected, nor will they be. No trouble to show goods. A. H. STRATTON & Co., Peterborough Bookstore.

AN EXCELLENT AND SUCCESSFUL ENTERTAINMENT.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Morrow's Music Appreciated in Missouri.

The Seneca, Mo., Dispatch, in speaking of a concert recently held in that city, says:

The grand pianoforte recital and concert given by Mrs. Morrow on Monday evening last, was without doubt the grandest entertainment ever given in Seneca. The programme furnished, and the manner of its presentation, fully realized the highest expectations formed.

The front of the stage was beautifully ornamented with flowers, and a beautiful Cabinet Grand piano, kindly loaned by Miss E. Tobien, gave promise of the musical treat to follow.

The programme opened with a beautiful instrumental duet by Mrs. Morrow and Miss McGannon, "The Bugle Call," and was heartily received, as it took the audience totally by surprise, few realizing the rapid progress made by Miss Maud in the past few months.

In the second part, the vocal duet by Mr. and Mrs. Morrow, "I Live and Love Thee," gave the audience an idea of how a grand duet should be rendered, showing how fully each voice was controlled.

But in the next part the climax was reached when the three little "tots," Masters Vincent, Joseph and Cyril appeared, singing "What Will You Take For Me, Papa?" As they are aged respectively 6, 5 and 3 years they were looked upon as children, but when their beautiful little voices brought forth the grand notes you would think you were listening to children of years. They made themselves great little favourites and responded to encores by singing "The Bogey Man," and "Won't you be my Sweetheart?"

In the instrumental solo Miss Maude McGannon made an excellent impression with a finished and brilliant execution and expression only to be found in an artist, showing Rossini's "Tancredi" in the light in which it should be shown.

Perhaps one of the most beautiful numbers on the programme was the vocal solo by Mrs. Morrow, "The Daisy," by Arditi. Her song seemed to thrill the audience, her soft pleasant and elastic voice of great compass, sparkling in runs and thrills of the most classic composition that denoted great ability. She was loudly applauded, and responded by singing "The Stile." One thing very noticeable was the beautiful accompaniments of Mrs. Morrow to her own songs, which is seldom seen.

But in the "Grand March from Tannhauser," arranged by Liszt, Mrs. Morrow brought out every charm of that lovely music in which beauty and tasteful fancy are so richly blended. She certainly surpassed her previous efforts in breadth, warmth and brilliancy with which she invested this great work.

Mr. Morrow next appeared in that grand solo, "The Gay Hussar," a baritone of rare merit. Mr. Morrow was quite at home and so pleased the audience that he had to respond to a hearty encore, and we may safely say surpassed himself by singing "Love's Sorrows," a rare solo full of expression and sentiment.

The first part of the programme concluded with a beautiful little speech by Dr. Campbell, in which we think the doctor excelled himself, as he fully portrayed the benefits of a musical education and gave the parents a few hints as to what they should do in the way of instructing their children.

The second part of the programme was as successful as the first. The grand instrumental duet, "William Tell," Rossini, by Miss McGannon and Mrs. Morrow, showed months of hard study, and was rendered faultlessly.

"School Bell," by Masters Vincent and Joseph, with triangle accompaniment, was very nice.

"O Heart of Mine," sung by Mr. Morrow, was well received. It is a very catchy piece by Mrs. Morrow.

"The Polish Dance," "Rory Darling," "I Feel Thy Angel Spirit," and "The Jolly Blacksmith," the latter with Master Vincent's triangle accompaniment, closed the programme, concluding with a beautiful tableaux.

The children were called on to sing by request, but owing to the density of the smoke after the tableaux, they were unable, which was fully explained by Mr. Morrow coming before the footlights. Miss Maude, Mrs. Morrow, and the children were the recipients of some beautiful flowers. We might say that the costumes were simply grand.

What She Said.

Mrs R. Peck, E. 15th street, New York city, visited Canada last year, and had the good fortune to pick up something which not only suited her, but her neighbors also. Writing the manufacturer of Nerviline she says:—"I bought three bottles of Nerviline while in Canada and treated my neighbors to some of it, and all think it the best medicine for internal or external pain they have ever used." Nerviline deserves such a commendation, for it is the most powerful, penetrating, and certain remedy for pain of all kinds. Take no substitute.

CURLIANA.

Mr. J. S. Knapman is in receipt of a letter to-day from Mr. J. S. Russell, secretary of the Ontario Curling Association, in which Mr. Russell states that a large number of the principal officials of the O. C. A, will be present at the grand curling bonspiel which takes place next month. Mr. Russell, himself, will be down, as will President McGaw, Vice-President Dartnell and ex-President Davidson, of Toronto, and W. H. Biggar, of Belleville. The affair promises to be one of great interest and doubtless hundreds of curlers will spend the week in town.

THE WHEEL.

Sam Gibbons, the crack handicap rider of this year's Brantford team, who it was announced some time ago, had accepted a position with a Buffalo firm, has decided to remain in the city and will represent a local firm on the road and on the track the coming season.—Toronto Globe.

The last heard of Harley Davidson was that he was at Hot Springs, training to go for records, but prior to that he was going to compete in a race meet on Christmas Day. According to the Chicago Times-Herald of Wednesday he was in that city spending a day or so before he wended his way to St. Paul for the skating season. Davidson's great ambition is to carry off the Canadian skating championships, and he will be the fittest man on the ice when the day comes around for these events to be competed for on the ice.

It can be taken as an assured fact that future improvements to the bicycle will not be in the direction of the frame, but in the development of easier running qualities. In all particulars outside of that the apex of perfection has practically been attained, and the manufacturers are now concentrating their attention on the running gear of their creations, which is in the opinion of experts in the primary stages of evolution. In that respect there will be a marked change for the better in the machines for next year, which will be capable of being propelled with higher gears and less exertion than those in use this season. To road wheels gears as high as 86 will be fitted, and racing machines geared to 100 inches and more will be in common use.

"T. & B."

I have travelled all o'er this wide world,
I have wandered through every zone,
With my pipe and my pouch in my pocket,
For I'm fond of my baccy I own.
I have smoked every kind of tobacco,
But the brand that is dearest to me,
Is the plug that is stamped "T. and B."

I have smoked in my own native island,
Every kind that the Britisher puffs,
'Cut Cavendish,' 'Golden Leaf,' 'Shag,
'Virginia,' 'Birdseye,' and 'Returns,'
But something I yet have to see
Is a brand that will fill every longing
Like the plug that is stamped "T. & B."

I have smoked the West India Havanas,
The Hindoo Cheroots and Burmese,
I have smoked 'Hubble-bubbles' and 'Hookahs,'
Lying stretched on divans at my ease,
But I never yet found a tobacco,
In my journeys by land or by sea,
To compare with that best of all baccys,
The pure golden leaf "T. & B."

They say tobacco will shorten
One's life, and I know that is true,
For once when I ran short of baccy
Each awful day lengthened to two;
But I mean to take heed for the future,
That no such mishap befalls me,
And in'end to have t my spare dollars
In a caddy of choice "T. & B."

Why is one woman attractive and another not? It isn't entirely a question of age or features or intellect. The most admirable and attractive thing about an attractive woman is her womanliness. Everybody admires a womanly woman. Everybody doesn't realise just what it is that makes her womanly. She must have health, of course, because without it she would lose the brightness of her eyes, the fullness of her cheeks and her vivacity. Health brings all these things but health means more than most people think of. Real health must mean that a woman is really a woman. That she is strong and perfect in a sexual way, as well as in every other. That she is capable of performing perfectly the duties of maternity. Upon her strength in this way depends to a large extent her general health, her good looks and her attractiveness. Some women are born stronger than others. Some are born with what is called "constitutional weakness." It is easier for some women to retain health and strength than it is for others. Some seem able to do anything they like, whenever they like, without serious results. Still, there is no reason why women should not enjoy perfect health. Those who do not, need only take the proper precautions and the proper remedy to become perfectly well and strong. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will cure any derangement of the distinctly feminine organism. It is absolutely certain. There are some who have neglected themselves so long that a complete cure is next to impossible, but even these will find comfort and improved health in the use of the "Favorite Prescription." It has cured hundreds of women who have received no relief whatever from years of treatment with good physicians. It is absolutely unique in the history of medicine. Such a remedy can be discovered only once. There is nothing in the world like it, nor has there ever been. Hundreds of things that every woman ought to know, are contained in Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser, which will be sent absolutely free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to cover customs and mailing only. HIGHER DUTIES.

Report of the Ways and Means Committee.

AN INSUFFICIENCY OF REVENUE.

The Enormous Deficits Must be Met—Short Term, Low Rate Bonds—Revenue Bill Passed by the House—Republican Tariff Bill to Come.

Washington, Dec. 26.—In the House of Representatives to-day, the full program of the Committee of Ways and Means, so far as it referred to an early presentation of measures for revenue relief and for the issuance of bonds in aid of the treasury, was carried out by Mr. Dingley, chairman of the committee, presenting both the tariff and bond bills, as they have been agreed upon by the majority of the committee. The bills were accompanied by the following report:

Your committee report that the chronic deficiency of revenues for the past two years and a half has been a most potent cause for the difficulties that the treasury has encountered and an important factor in the promotion of that serious distrust which has paralyzed business and dangerously shaken confidence even in the financial operations of the Government.

The serious fact which we are called upon to confront is that in the two and a half years that have elapsed since July 1, 1893, this Government has had an insufficiency of revenue to meet current expenses, amounting in the aggregate to about $133,000,000. Even in the first half of the present fiscal year, the deficiency will reach about $20,000,000, and about $3,000,000 in this present month. And up to the present time there is no sufficient ground for belief that a deficiency of revenue will not continue during the remainder of the fiscal year; and how much longer no one can safely predict.

Insufficiency of revenue has made it necessary to use the redeemed legal tender notes to pay current expenditures, and thus to supply additional means to draw gold from the greenback redemption fund. In short, to create "the endless chain," of which the Secretary of the Treasury complains and which has made it necessary to sell issue after issue of bonds to replenish the reserve.

Your committee believe that it is the duty of the House of Representatives, to which body the constitution commits the inauguration of revenue bills, to frame and pass a measure that will yield not far from $40,000,000, sufficient to put an end to the deficiency—and to do this without delay, too—leaving to others whose co-operation is required to finally place legislation on the statute books to meet the responsibility in their own way. And the President's special message, setting forth so pointedly the seriousness of the situation and the necessity for the promptest action only emphasizes the duty of the House.

In response to the urgent call of the President, your committee have felt impelled to act with all possible despatch. Two facts have led your committee to look to an increase of custom duties as the most appropriate source of additional revenue. They are, first, the fact that we are already raising a disproportionate maount from internal revenue, which has always been regarded as a war resort—indeed, Jefferson took the ground that excise taxes should not be resorted to by the Federal Government as sources of revenue in time of peace, and the Democratic National Convention maintained the same doctrine in 1884. And secondly, the fact that while by increasing customs duties on imported articles which we can and ought to produce or make at home, for revenue purposes, we can at the same time incidentally encourage stricken industries and materially aid in turning in our favor the balance of trade which has been so heavily against us all through this calendar year, and which has caused a demand for gold for export, which our Treasury has been called upon to supply. For so long as the balance of trade is against us on account of excessive imports, we must export gold or (what is the same thing) promise to pay gold for the excess of imports over the exports.

Your committee have not undertaken a general revision of the tariff on protection lines, as a majority hope can be done in 1897-98, not only because they know that such tariff legislation would stand no chance of becoming law, but also because general tariff revision would require many months; and the need is more revenue at once.

In framing the bill submitted for your consideration, it has been necessary, if action was to be taken promptly, to resort to a considerable extent to a horizontal rise of duties, for the reason that it would have required months to deal with each article separately.

But while we have presented in the brief measure reported a horizontal increase of 15 per cent. of existing duties on all the schedules but two, which is an addition of less than 8 per cent. to the average ad valorem, giving about $15,000,000 revenue from that source, yet more than $25,000,000 of the $40,000,000 which it is estimated this bill would add to our annual revenue will come mainly from wool, which is taken from the free list and given a moderate duty, and from manufactures of wool, which are given a compensatory duty equivalent to the duty on wool (which is always necessary when a duty is placed on wool), in order to give the wool grower the benefit, and make it possible to manufacture woolens at home.

The bill reported by your committee proposes to make the duty on imported clothing wool 60 per cent. of the duty imposed by the act of 1890, which would give an equivalent of 6 6-10 of a cent. per pound on unwashed wool, or about 40 per cent. ad valorem. This reduction from the duty of the act of 1890 has been made as the restoration of the full duty in that act might seem to be too great a change from the present law to those whose co-operation it is necessary to secure in order to have any legislation, and not as a measure of what might be done when all branches of the Government are in harmony with the majority of the House on protection lines. The duty on manufactures of wool is increased by a specific duty equivalent to the duty on wool.

The duty on carpet wools is left at the 32 per cent. ad valorem, where it was placed in 1890.

This is a purely revenue duty, as we raise very few carpet wools.

Such lumber as was placed on the free list by the Act of 1890, without the slightest justification, is restored to the dutiable list, but with a duty of only 60 per cent. of the duties provided by the Act of 1890, giving an equivalent of only about 15 per cent. Such a reduction from the low rates of 1890 is justified only on the ground that the object of your committee has been to frame a bill mainly on revenue grounds, in the hope that it would secure the approval of those in official place whose co-operation is essential to legislation, and who may be supposed to feel that in such an exigency as now exists the public necessity must control.

Believing that such an increase of revenue as is proposed is essential as a first step in the restoration of confidence and the restoration of the treasury to a sound condition, and that other legislation to be proposed to this end cannot be effective without adequate revenue to meet the expenditures of the Government, your committee recommend the passage of the accompanying bill: "To temporarily increase the revenue to meet the expenses of the Government and provide against a deficiency."

In granting this authority, however, we have included in the bill a provision that the proceeds of bonds sold under the Act of 1875, and under the bill which is propsed, shall be exclusively for redemption purposes, our object being to secure such a separation of the redemption fund from the ordinary cash in the treasury as will maintain and protect the reserve. We also provide that such bonds shall be offered for sale in such a manner as to invite investment among the masses of the people.

The second section of the Act reported authorizes the issue of certificates of indebtedness of small denominations, payable in three years and bearing 3 per cent. interest, not to exceed $50,000,000 in the aggregate, to meet temporary deficiencies in the treasury and to be used for no other purpose.

Your committee, therefore, recommend the passage of the accompanying bill: "To maintain and protect the coin redemption fund, and to authorize the issue of certificates of indebtedness to meet temporary deficiencies of revenues."

The debate on the revenue bill was closed by Mr. Turner (D., Ga.) in opposition, and by Mr. Dolliver (R., Ia.) in support of the measure.

At 5 o'clock the question of the passage of the bill was put and the yeas and nays called. The vote resulted: Yeas, 205; nays, 81.

Dangerous.

We often see this sign on roads or streets.

Any kidney ailment is dangerous. Because you never know where it will end.

Suppose you feel languid, suppose you have feverish symptoms, there must be poison in the blood, for these are the certain signs.

To the fact that poisons get past the kidneys may be traced every sickness to which you are liable.

Treat the kidneys forthwith and first of all.

It is the safe and proper thing every time; therefore do it promptly and well. We are trying to teach people to turn to Dodd's Kidney Pills as the simplest and greatest treatment of kidney diseases on earth.

Can you see the point? Every serious disease results from the kidneys being out of order. Dodd's Kidney Pills keeps on curing these diseases

Death Entered the Family and the Christmas Festivities Were Turned to Sadness.

Orangeville, Dec. 25.—To-day was to have been one of joy and happiness at the residence of Mrs. McGuire, sr., on East Broadway. Her son, William McGuire of The Tilsonburg Liberal, J. S. McGuire, manager of Mr. Marter's store at Meaford, and B. McGuire of The Banner here, with their wives and families, were all at home to spend Christmas. Ernest, the youngest son, was to be home from Ottawa to join the family. A few days ago he was laid low with inflammation. His mother left on Saturday evening to attend his bedside, and this morning the family here received a message acquainting them of his death. Ernest was 23 years old and was a prominent young man in town and a player in the Dufferin Lacrosse Club.

AYER'S Hair VIGOR

Restores natural color to the hair, and also prevents it falling out. Mrs. H. W. Fenwick, of Digby, N. S., says:

"A little more than two years ago my hair began to turn gray and fall out. After the use of one bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor my hair was restored to its original color and ceased falling out. An occasional application has since kept the hair in good condition."—Mrs. H. F. FENWICK, Digby, N. S.

Growth of Hair.

"Eight years ago, I had the variola, and lost my hair, which previously was quite abundant. I tried a variety of preparations, but without beneficial result, till I began to fear I should be permanently bald. About six months ago, my husband brought home a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and I began at once to use it. In a short time, new hair began to appear, and there is now every prospect of as thick a growth of hair as before my illness."—Mrs. A. WE— Polymnia St., New Orleans, La.

REPUBLICANS PUSHING THE WORK.

Both the Revenue and Bond Bills Ordered to be Reported—The Democratic Members of the Committee Entered a General Protest to Both Measures.

Washington, Dec. 25.—Despite democratic appeals for delay and Democratic assertions that such legislation was unnecessary, the tariff and bond bills prepared by the Republican members of the Ways and Means Committee were ordered to be favorably reported to the full meeting of the committee this morning by a strictly party vote. The Democrats made a general protest against both measures. Chairman Dingley has been authorized by his Republican associates to prepare the report of the majority, which he will present to the house to-morrow.

There is no indication that a report will be presented by the minority, inasmuch as they have not yet been furnished with copies of the bill as amended in committtee this morning.

It may be stated in explanation that tariff schedules A, B, C, D, F, G, H, I, J, L, M and N of the act of 1894, specifically mentioned in section four of the new tariff bill, on which a duty equivalent to 15 per cent. in addition to that imposed by the present law shall be added, are the schedules pertaining to chemicals, earthenware and glassware, metals, manufactures of woods, tobacco, agricultural products, spirits and wines, cotton manufactures and flax, hemp and jute, silks, pulp, papers and books and lastly sundries.

The following is the full text of the revenue bill which the Ways and Means Committee will report to the house to-morrow:

"A bill to temporarily increase revenue, to meet the expenses of the Government and provide against a deficiency. Be it enacted, etc.

"That from and after the passage of this act, and until Aug. 1, 1898, there shall be levied, collected and paid on all imported wools of classes one and two as defined in the act hereinafter cited, approved Oct. 1, 1890, and subject to all the conditions and limitations thereof, and on all hair of the camel, goat, alpaca and other like animals, except as hereinafter provided, and on all noils, shoddy, garnetted waste, top waste, slubbing waste, ring waste, yarn waste and other wastes composed wholly or in part of wool, and on woolen rags, mungo and flocks, a duty equivalent to 60 per centum of the duty imposed on each of such articles by an act entitled 'An Act to reduce the revenue and equalize duties on imports and for other purposes' approved Oct. 1, 1890 and subject to all the conditions and limitations of said act, and on all wools and Russian camel's hair of class three, as defined in said act, approved Oct. 1, 1890, and subject to all the conditions and limitations thereof, there shall be levied, collected and paid the several duties provided by such act, approved Oct. 1, 1890, and paragraph 279 of schedule K, and also paragraph 635 in the free list of an act entitled 'An Act to reduce taxation to provide revenue for the Government and for other purposes,' which became law Aug. 27, 1894, are hereby suspended until Aug. 1, 1898.

"Section 2. That from and after the passage of this act and until Aug. 1, 1898, there shall be levied, collected and paid on all imported articles made in whole or in part of wool, worsted or other materials described in section one of this act, except as hereinafter provided, 60 per cent. of the specific pound or square yard duty imposed on each of such articles by an act entitled 'An Act to reduce the revenue and equalize duties on imports and for other purposes,' approved Oct. 1, 1890, and subject to all the conditions and limitations thereof, in addition to the ad valorem duty now imposed on each of such articles by an act entitled 'An Act to reduce taxation to provide revenue for the Government and for other purposes,' which became a law Aug. 27, 1894; and on carpets, druggets, bockings, mats, rugs, screens, covers, hassocks, bed sides, art squares and other portions of carpets or carpetings made in whole or in part of wool the specific square yard duty imposed on each of such articles by said act, approved Oct. 1, 1890, and subject to all the conditions and limitations thereof, in addition to the ad valorem duty imposed on such articles by said act, which became law Aug. 27, 1894.

"Section 3. That from and after the passage of this act and until Aug. 1, 1898, there shall be levied, collected and paid on all imported lumber and other articles designated in paragraphs 674 to 683, inclusive, of an act entitled 'An Act to reduce taxation to provide revenue for the Government and for other purposes,' which became law Aug. 27, 1894, a duty equivalent to 60 per cent. of the duty imposed on each of such articles by an act entitled, 'An Act to reduce the revenue and equalize duties on imports and for other purposes,' approved Oct. 1, 1890, and subject to all the conditions and limitations of said last named act; but pulp wood shall be classed as round, unmanufactured timber, exempt from duty, provided that in case any foreign country shall impose an export duty upon pine, spruce, elm or other logs, or upon stave bolts, shingle wood, pulp wood or heading blocks exported to the United States from such country, then the duty upon the lumber and other articles mentioned in said paragraphs 674 to 683, inclusive, when imported from such country, shall be the same as fixed by the law in force prior to Oct. 1, 1890.

"Section 4. That on and after the passage of this act and until Aug. 1, 1898, there shall be levied, collected and paid on all the imported articles mentioned in schedules A, B, C, D, F, G, H, I, J, L, M and N of an act entitled, 'An Act to reduce taxation to provide revenue for the Government and for other purposes,' which became law Aug. 27, 1894, a duty equivalent to 15 per centum of the duty imposed on each of said articles by the existing law, in addition to the duty provided by said act of Aug. 27, 1894, provided that the additional duties imposed by this section shall not in any case increase the rate of duty an any article beyond the rate imposed thereon by the said act of Oct. 1, 1890, but in such case the duty shall be the same as was imposed by said act, and provided further that where the present rate of duty on any article is higher than was fixed by said last named act, the rate of duty thereon shall not be further increased by this section, but shall remain as provided by existing laws."

The full text of the Financial bill is as follows:

"A bill to maintain and protect the coin redemption fund and to authorize the issue of certificates of indebtedness to meet temporary deficiencies of revenue.

"Be it enacted, etc.

"That, in addition to the authority given to the Secretary of the treasury by the act approved January 14th, 1875, entitled 'An Act to provide for the resumption of specie payments, he is authorized from time to time at his discretion to issue, sell and dispose of at not less than par, coin, coupon or registered bonds of the United States to an amount sufficient for the object stated in this section, bearings not to exceed 3 per cent. interest per annum, payable semi-annually and redeemable at the pleasure of the United States in coin after five years from their date, with like qualities, privileges and exemptions provided in the said act for the bonds therein authorized. And the Secretary of the Treasury shall use the proceeds thereof for the redemption of the United States legal tender notes and for no other purpose. Whenever the Secretary of the Treasury shall offer any of the bonds authorized for sale by this act or by the resumption act of 1875, he shall advertise the same and authorize subscriptions therefor to be made at the Treasury department and at th Sub-Treasuries and designate depositories of the United States.

"Section 2—That to provide for any temporary deficiency now existing, or which may hereafter occur, the Secretary of the Treasury is hereby authorized at his discretion to issue certificates of indebtedness of the United States to an amount not exceeding fifty million dollars, payable in three years after their date to the bearer in lawful money of the United States of the denomination of $20, or multiples thereof, with annual coupons for interest at the rate of 3 per cent. per annum, and to sell and dispose of the same for not less than an equal amount of lawful money of the United States, at the Treasury Department and at the sub-treasuries and designated depositories of the United States, and at such post offices as he may select. And such certificates shall have the like qualities, privileges and exemptions provided in said resumption act for the bonds therein authorized. And the proceeds thereof shall be used for the purpose prescribed in this section and for no others."

Health and strength carry us through dangers and make us safe in the presence of perils. A perfectly strong man with rich, pure blood, has nothing to fear from germs. He may breathe in the bacilli of consumption with impunity. If there is a weak spot where the germs may find an entrance to the tissues, then the trouble begins. Disease germs propagate with lightning-like rapidity. Once in the blood, the only way to get rid of them is to kill them. This is what Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is for. It purifies the blood. That means that it kills the germs, but that is only part of what it does. It assists digestion by stimulating the secretion of digestive fluids, so promoting assimilation and nutrition; purifies and enriches the blood and so supplies the tissues with the food they need. It builds up strong, healthy flesh and puts the whole body into a disease resisting state.

Wood's Phosphodine.—The Great English Remedy.

Is the result of over 25 years treating thousands of cases with all known drugs, until at last we have discovered the true remedy and treatment—a combination that will effect a prompt and permanent cure in all stages of Sexual Debility, Abuse or Excesses, Nervous Weakness, Emissions, Mental Worry, Excessive Use of Opium, Tobacco, or Alcoholic Stimulants, all of which soon lead to Insanity, Consumption and an early grave. Wood's Phosphodine has been used successfully by hundreds of cases that seemed almost hopeless—cases that had been treated by the most talented physicians—cases that were on the verge of despair and insanity—cases that were tottering over the grave—but with the continued and persevering use of Wood's Phosphodine, these cases that had been given up to die, were restored to manly vigor and health—Reader you need not despair—no matter who has given you up as incurable—the remedy is now within your reach, by its use you can be restored to a life of usefulness and happiness.

Price, one package, $1; six packages, $5; by mail free of postage.

One will please, six guaranteed to cure. Pamphlet free to any address.

The Wood Company, Windsor, Ont., Canada.

Wood's Phosphodine is sold by responsible wholesale and retail druggists in the Dominion.

Fairweather & Co

The weather seems more adapted to Umbrellas to-day.

We sell Umbrellas but much prefer selling Furs at this season of the year.

Should the weather turn cold in a few days you will feel the want of Furs very much owing to the sudden change. We are holding a heavier stock of Fur Coats and Robes than usual, and purpose selling them at GREATLY REDUCED PRICES.

KEEN KENTUCKY COON HUNT.

LITERARY ENERGY ELECTRICALLY EXPRESSED.

Midnight Massacre of Procyon Lotor—Ravine-ous Pursuit of the Juicy Coon.

While we are on the subject of shooting the grizzly Jack, that fierce old hugger with his silver-tipped fur coat that one often takes such risks to secure, I will just divert from the heavier dangers to give you an inkling of the fun my old friend Hubert-Herbert is having down in Kentucky. I will just read you his letter as he sends it me here to Nelson, B.C. Knocking the refuse tobacco from his pipe on the iron-clad heel of his stout miner's boot, he moved nearer to the rude deal table by shuffling his chair along, first on one foot of it, then another. Jamming a wad of Pace's finest in the bowl of his well-coloured briar root pipe, and lighting it, like a man who relishes each long intake of that well-seasoned tobacco, Charlie Gibson withdrew from the under pocket of his well-worn shooting coat a stout budget of closely-written single sheets, and smoothing them out on the table, the warm flood of light from the swinging kerosene lamp suspended directly back of his head, caused his light-coloured, curly hair just on the verge of turning gray, to glisten and scintillate like so many minute flashing precious stones. His swarthiness, his general massiveness in good proportions, won for him the name of "Charlie, the Sandow." Carefully pushing aside his two faithful cocker spaniels, Swipe and Spot, who lay half across his feet, for they followed him if he moved a yard off, he planted one substantial foot in the midst of the soft-yielding fur of a two-year-old black bear skin, which the owner lost by not being quick enough with all four feet to get out of range of Jack Findlay's Winchester one warm sunny day in spring, as he, Mr. Black Bruin, came out for his first airing, perhaps. Across this leg went the other foot, and with a couple of deep puffs from his pipe he began:

VERSAILLES, KENTUCKY,
Dec. 20th, 1895.

Dear Charlie.

So you are quietly resting after your three months jaunt in some wild and remote part of Vancouver Island, where Nell tells me you shot ever so many great and fierce four-footers, and that your inseparable friend, Jack Findlay, with his tiny stature, accompanied you and was always in at the death. Never mind great hunters and men of leisure as you may be; you have both been wounded by Cupid!—for why sweet cousin Nell's blush when I ask her how the hunters are? And then again that pretty little minx across the way from this sweet old homestead, in one just as sweet, too—Violet Burrows—who gets just too furious when I say, "Little Jack Findlay," the mighty hunter! Ugh, grunts Jack, who always pretends to hate the fair sex. But hold on, you talk of hunting; why, we have hunting here, too, and if you mighty men can but be patient,

I WILL SPIN MY YARN.

So spread yourself out and read—you know how to do it, Charlie: one end of you fast to a chair, for you always must have your feet up, and the other end of you pulling at a huge pipe filled with Pace's cut, I'll warrant! Your hair getting gray around the temples and bald on top, I shouldn't wonder, too, these days; and possibly, as you sit in your snug little cabin, the winter winds are howling words of comfort into your ears at a temperature of 50 degrees below zero, in that sweet little town of Nelson, B.C., where, I hope, there is no local option law, and that good whiskey is obtainable at the one general store of the place, where the hotel is doubtless likewise located.

Well, here goes:—Last Friday, which was Dec. 13th, five of us started out at night—there were two nigger climbers and a "poor white" tobacco hand to assist them; George Austin (Nell's brother, you rascal) and wee me—all of us mounted; there were two dogs, both new investments of George's; one a big white hound, called "Doc," and the other a little red lady dog, about as big as a minute, all lungs and legs, and as spry as a kitten, rejoicing in the name of Katherine, but generally dubbed Kate for short. We started shortly after a bountiful Southern supper (and this is a description of which I hope you will shortly realise the delicious suggestiveness), reaching the ravine selected for the hunt after a ride of about a quarter of a mile through Mr. Austin's plantation. The old proverb "Easy is the descent into hell"

WOULD FAIRLY DESCRIBE

the entrance to that ravine. Imagine a winding path at an angle of about forty-five degrees, ballasted with loose flat stones on which the horses slipped and slid in a manner rather trying to weak nerves, considering the fact that a previous survey of this part of the route in daylight had revealed a nearly perpendicular cliff beside which the path led. However, the horses are used to it, thank goodness, and hung on like goats. Arriving at the bottom of the ravine we followed the dried up bed of an old water course, mile after mile, with steep black cliffs on each side, within five or six hundred feet of each other and densely wooded to the top, except where they were too rocky and precipitous to support even the hardy mountain bushes. No description could do justice to the degree of darkness with which we were enveloped. The moon had retired from business and the heavy winter clouds covered the sky, while any chance gleam of light was completely shut out and discouraged by the inky blackness of that ravine. The "pore white," Garrett, (pronounced Ga'at by his darky companions) carried a lantern, which served only to emphasize the darkness instead of illuminating the path. In a word it was so dark that the shiny face of those niggers looked like white spots in the general gloom. We stumbled along, slipping on rocks, splashing into mud puddles, brushing against thorn trees and other unfriendly objects of nature, and all the time listening with all our senses alert for the first sound from the dog, Kate, who had been sent on to hunt the ground over, while "Doc" was kept as a reserve. Suddenly we heard her give tongue to lively music, and we dashed forward in anticipation of a good chance. But she made her way around the bend of the cliff, and up, up, up, up, her sobbing yelp growing fainter in the distance, till we knew she must have reached the top and struck off across the level country. "Come on boys," says George, "its nothing but a confoundedjold red fox," and with that he began whooping to recall the old dog. Now any coon dog, bred and born to the business, will follow a fox trail if she strikes it "hot," but can easily be called off, so it was not long before she came sneaking in with her tail between her legs, and I suppose, for I couldn't see her,

A GENERAL AIR OF DEJECTION

and shamefacedness. We pushed on then stopping now and then for a few minutes to enable her to hunt over the ground, till at last we reached the river where the ravine ended, without striking so much as a sign of a coon. It was then twelve o'clock, and getting cold enough to freeze the marrow in your bones and the heart in your bosom, so we decided to turn back. In the course of half a mile or so Kate struck a coon trail "sho' nuff," as the darkies triumphantly remarked to each other with many chuckles of satisfaction. We loosed old "Doc" then, and soon had a gay duet with his deep bass bay and Kate's shrill yelp. They were hot after his coonship, as we could tell from the almost incessant baying, and were setting him a pretty stiff pace over the rough ground. So it wasn't long before the noise redoubled, and we could tell from the fact that the sound was now stationery and from the evident excitement of the dogs, that the coon was treed at last. Riding up we discovered that they were at the very summit of one of the tallest, steepest and generally most uninviting cliffs in the country. So in order to save me a possibly useless climb, George took the lantern, and together with "Milt," one of the negroes, scrambled up the cliff to look into the matter. We waited in breathless excitement, and Jim, the other coloured brother, got off his horse to tighten his saddle girth in order to afford some outlet for his pent up feelings. The horse seized this auspicious moment to start for home, leaving the loosened saddle for Jim to "tote" himself. As he flew by "Ga'at" that individual made a half-hearted grab for the bridle and was rewarded by having it come off in his hand, Jim having with negro carelessness, neglected to fasten the throat latch. As I was ahead I undertook to head him off, but he knew me for a tenderfoot so far as riding was concerned,

AND EASILY ELUDED ME.

Another trial and another were, no more successful, for a riderless horse can go where nothing but a rabbit or a squirrel could successfully pursue him. At last "Ga'at" came up on one side and I on the other, and the horse, either yielding gracefully to the inevitable, or having had enough fun at our expense, submitted to be bridled and tied. Meantime George was growing impatient, and yelling to us to hurry if we wanted to see the fun. Now I have just one word of advice to you if you ever have occasion to climb that hill. First, get a knotted rope fastened to a tree at the top of the cliff, and reaching clear to the bottom. This will serve to keep you from falling over backwards. Second, have some one else bring along a ladder to climb over the otherwise inaccessible rocks, and an axe to cut down the trees and bushes which are most in the way; you will need the use of both hands and feet yourself. Thirdly and lastly, send some one else and don't go at all yourself. I know of one place where I slid ten feet and

BROUGHT UP IN A BRIAR PATCH.

Another, when I had climbed with infinite pains to the foot of a perpindicular rock which couldn't have been mounted by anything but a mountain herd fly. After retracing my footsteps and nearly reaching the top, an unfriendly tree reached over and knocked my cap off into the outer darkness, when I had to feel about on my hands and knees, holding on with nails and eyelids, over a space of about twenty feet square, before I recovered it again. But all good things have an end, and at last I succeeded in reaching the top, where George pointed out two small black objects, just discernible by the feeble light of the lantern. They were perched on the furthermost branches of an old sugar maple. "Milt" was soon up the tree and clambering carefully out on that limb he began shaking it furiously, at the same time calling out caressingly to the little black bunches, as visions of luscious coon steak passed before him. But these little furry bunches simply clung the tighter and would not be moved either by the violent shaking or by his endearing epithets. Finally George broke off a young sapling and sent Jim up the tree to hand it to "Milt" to push his coonship off with. Meantime Ga'at was holding old Doc immediately under our little quarries, and I was doing a similar service for Kate, so that they might be right on hand when the ball began. At the first poke with the pole "Milt" shouted, "Look out, Mister George, they's three of 'em!" Succeeding in getting one slightly detached from the rest, he gave it a good shove and down it came through the bushes, a little gray fighter from the back waters of Bitter Creek, where, as it is well known, they are all "bad 'uns." But he had struck his match, once and for all, for the dogs and the combatants slid down the hill, snapping, scratching, biting and snarling, till Kate seized the redoutable little rascal by the neck and proceeded to end his fighting days forthwith. When we had all finally assembled at our posts again, full of briars and bruises, but happy once more, Milt poked off the second coon and the fun began again with compound interest from date of push. The little fellow's eyes, were glaring like balls of fire and he fought like a little grey demon, all claws and teeth. The dogs were old soldiers though, and after each repulse returned to the fight with renewed energy and savage determination. He struggled fiercely to his very last gasp, and succeeded in making it very exciting for both dogs and men. When we returned to the tree the third coon was just preparing to leap for life and freedom, and we saw him come down with claws outstretched in a flying jump which carried him well over our heads and away from the dogs. They were after him like a flash though, and followed him hot foot down the cliff and along the creek. Yelp, yelp, yelp from Kate, boom, boom, boom from Doc, faster, faster, the noise growing fainter until it suddenly ceased. Then it broke out again momentarily, and as suddenly stopped. Then a long interval of silence, followed by a plaintive howl or two and we knew that the third coon had outwitted the dogs and made his heels save his head.

JUMPED FOR HIM LIKE WILDCATS,

With apologies for having inflicted this long coon hunt on you, and with faint hopes of forgiveness, I remain,

Sincerement,
Your friend,
HUBERT T. HERBERT.

GOLDEN LION.

For several years there has been a very strong disposition on the part of this store not to "carry over" any stock from previous seasons.

This year the endeavour to start the next season utterly unincumbered is stronger yet.

Consequently prices will be made to suit the views of buyers and our motto will be "No reasonable offer refused."

Round lots from each department will contribute to this desirable end; a uniform price will be marked and that price a low one.

NEWS FROM HAMILTON.

Senator Sanford Back From Hot Springs Cured of Rheumatism—Radial Railway Troubles.

Hamilton, Dec. 27.—Senator Sanford, who has spent several weeks at the famous Hot Springs, Ark., has returned to the city, and will be in his place at the opening session of the Senate. For some time the Senator has suffered from an irritating attack of rheumatism, but as a result of his treatment at the springs, the disease has been eradicated from his system.

He had nothing to say regarding the resignation of N. Clarke Wallace, although he remarked that he has pronounced views on the Manitoba school question. He characterized the message of Grover Cleveland, which he thought was practically a declaration of war, as infamous, and calculated to cause a panic in financial circles. While on the stock exchange in Chicago, capitalists spoke disparagingly of the President's action and even though the war scare is subsiding, it will have a disastrous effect.

The Hamilton Radial Railway Company is in difficulties. This morning Bailiffs Greenfield and William Hunter took possession of the offices, the former on behalf of the Bank of Commerce, who have a claim of $60 for rent, and the latter on behalf of M. W. Hopkins, a civil engineer, who recently secured judgment against the Radial Company for $88 salary. Projector John Patterson says his coworker, Projector W. F. Forsyth, has left town and is no longer connected with the company. The scheme of this company was to purchase the Niagara Central Railway, extend it through Hamilton to Toronto, and build a network of roads to Woodstock, Berlin and other towns. Negotiations were entered into for the purchase of the Niagara Central, but the deal never went through, and there is now very little hope of the scheme ever materializing.

A boy named Lambshed was burned to death at his parents' home in Burlington. The boy, who was only 9 years old, was walking upstairs with a lamp in his hand, when something went wrong. A quantity of oil spilled over his clothes, and ignited. The boy tried to extinguish the flame, and in the excitement failed to call for help. His parents down stairs thought the noise caused by his jumping about was the children playing, but when they were going to bed they made the ghastly discovery of their son lying on the stairs in a dying condition, with his face and body horribly burnt. Before a physician arrived the boy was dead.

Miss MacNab, sister of the late Sir Allan MacNab, died last night, being the last member of the well-known family. She was 94 years old. Till a few weeks ago she enjoyed good health when in going upstairs she fell, and broke her hip. The only surviving relatives are two daughters of Sir Allan MacNab, one the Duchess of Albemarle, who resides in England, and the other Mrs. Daly, at present in Italy. Rev. Alexander MacNab of Toronto is also a relative.

A LIBERAL GAIN.

Montreal Centre Speaks for Sound Government.

A MOST SIGNIFICANT VERDICT.

Mr. McShane's Majority 333—Scenes After the Battle at the Polls—Tremendous Crowds Celebrate the Victory—Congratulations Pour in From All Directions

Montreal, Dec. 27.—The Liberals of Montreal Centre to-day achieved the most remarkable victory in the history of Canadian politics. They faced a Conservative majority of 1214, gained by Hon. J. J. Curran in 1891, and elected Hon. James McShane by a majority of 333, against a candidate of the fame of Sir William Hingston, supported by all the means at the command of an unscrupulous Government, in the very stronghold of the National Policy. It is a black eye from which the Government cannot recover, and now the cry is "On to Jacques Cartier." The election of Mr. Charbonneau, the Liberal candidate, there on Monday, is certain.

Following are the returns by wards:

West Ward—Hingston 532, McShane 409; majority for Hingston 183.

Centre Ward—McShane 449, Hingston 394; majority for McShane 55.

East Ward—McShane 476, Hingston 188; majority for McShane 288.

St. Ann's Ward—McShane 2062, Hingston 1889; majority for McShane 173.

The first returns which reached the Liberal headquarters were not very encouraging, but the magnificent majority of 292 rolled up by the French-Canadians in the East Ward aroused their hopes and it soon became evident that Mr. McShane would have a large majority. The hall was packed so that the messengers with the returns could not get in. While they had been struggling for admission the figures had been posted up outside giving Mr. McShane a majority of over 300. The electors went wild with enthusiasm, and there were loud cries of "Speech, speech." It was out of the question to speak in the hall, as it was crowded to suffocation with a frenzied crowd, and ten times the number were out in St. James-street. Mr. W. A. Weir, the chairman of the West Ward, therefore asked the people to go to the St. Lawrence Hall, where Mr. McShane would speak from one of the windows. This they tried to do, but an equally large crowd had gathered there. With the greatest difficulty the member-elect succeeded in entering the hall. When he appeared at the window the scene which met his eyes has seldom been equalled in Montreal. From St. Peter street as far as the Postoffice St. James-street was thronged, and the traffic was entirely suspended.

Mr. McShane was so exhausted that he could hardly speak. Mr. W. A. Weir, on his behalf, thanked the electors for the magnificent result which he declared sounded the death-knell of the Ottawa Government.

Mr. C. R. Devlin, M.P., who did grand work all through the campaign, speaking first in French, thanked the French-Canadians for electing his fellow-Irishman, Hon. James McShane. His late uncle, Barney Devlin, had been elected in 1874, but was defeated in 1878. This victory avenged the defeat in 1878, and showed that Mr. Laurier is the man for the country.

Cries of "McShane, McShane," became so strong and insistent that the new M.P. was compelled to step to the window. His appearance was the signal for deafening cheers. He thanked the electors for electing him after a hard and fierce battle such as few men ever before had fought. He thanked not only the Liberals but also the Conservatives who had come to his support. He was abused day after day by The Gazette, but the common sense of the people, the mechanics, business and professional men, thought otherwise, and to-day he was a member of the House of Commons. He would be a faithful servant of the people who sent him to Parliament and a faithful follower of Mr. Laurier. Every sentence of Mr. McShane's speech was cheered to the echo, and when he concluded there was pandemonium.

Mr. Devlin called for cheers for the Queen, which were given with a will.

Mr. McShane and a couple of friends then tried to take a cab to go home, but the crowd was so dense along St. James-street that vehicular traffic was impossible. They walked along to Victoria square, followed by 2000 people, cheering and shouting. "What's the matter with Jimmy McShane?"

At the square he managed to get into a cab, but his enthusiastic suporters unhitched the horse and took charge themselves. The cabman was hoisted on top, of his horse, a sorry-looking, rear-colored animal, and led the procession up Beaver Hall Hill, along Dorchester-street to the Windsor, followed by about 500 people. Mr. McShane was compelled to make another speech here. He said that during the campaign he had never said an unkind word to anyone. 'The people stood by me. That is my answer to those who tried to crush me.' He was then allowed to enter the Windsor, and the crowd melted away, and he soon afterwards escaped to his home.

Among the telegrams of congratulation which Mr. McShane received were the following:

Arthabaskaville, Que., Dec. 27.—My most hearty congratulations on your great victory. Give my thanks to all our boys. (Signed) Wilfrid Laurier.

Kingston, Dec. 27.—Kingston Reform Association sends three times three for your great victory. (Signed) E. J. B. Pense, President.

London, Dec. 27.—The people's Jimmy forever. (Signed) C. S. Hyman.

London, Dec. 27.—The Young Liberals of London congratulate you. We will do the same for Hyman. (Signed) George C. Davis.

Londonderry, N.S., Dec. 27.—On my way home, I have just heard the good news. Heartiest congratulations to you and the Montreal friends on your splendid victory. (Signed) W. S. Fielding.

Kingston, Dec. 27.—Congratulations on victorious battle for Canada to resume rights fought for by Baldwin, Lafontaine and Young. (Signed) Alexander Gunn.

Quebec, Dec. 27.—Best congratulations on your splendid victory. Hurrah for Laurier. (Signed) F. Langelier.

Cornwall, Dec. 27.—Congratulations to the people's Jimmy on driving a big spike into the Tory coffin. (Signed) C. W. Young, editor of The Freeholder.

Halifax, Dec. 27.—Accept my warmest congratulations and those of Nova Scotia Liberals on your splendid victory. It is the conclusive token of the Government's downfall. If such were needed. Let Jacques Cartier follow suit and carry Laurier's banner to glorious victory. (Signed) J. W. Longley.

Woodstock, Dec. 27.—"You are the stuff." (Signed) James Sutherland.

Brantford, Dec. 27.—"Brantford Young Liberals congratulate the "People's Jimmy" on the great victory." (Signed) J. T. Hewitt, President.

An analysis of the vote shows that Mr. McShane was supported by all classes of the community. The French-Canadians of the East Ward endorsed the policy of Mr. Laurier on both trade and school questions by turning a Conservative majority of 36 at the general elections into a Liberal majority of 292. The most desperate efforts were made to depreciate the Liberal leader in the eyes of his fellow-countrymen. The Minerve devoted column after column to him on the school question, shrieking that he was a traitor to his race and his religion. Happily the electorate thought otherwise.

KNIGHTS OF THE GRIPSACK.

Annual Meeting of the Commercial Travelers Association—A Flourishing Institution.

Toronto, Dec. 28.

The annual meeting of the Commercial Travelers' Association of Canada was held in Shaftesbury Hall yesterday, President R. H. Gray occupied the chair and J. J. Allworth was elected recording secretary.

The 23rd annual report of the association was read and showed a gratifying condition of affairs. The total membership of the association was 3923.

The receipts of the year were from:

Certificates	$39,313 00
Interest	3,778 11
Interest accrued	144 90
Rentals	3,510 00
Additional accident insurance	2,049 25
	$53,800 26

The expenditure was:

General expenses	$ 2,741 37
Office expenses	3,726 65
Building expenses	1,940 01
Rent	1,500 00
Mortuary benefits	30,390 00
Accident bonuses	1,671 50
Furniture	51 85
Balance to Permanent Reserve Fund	11,778 88
	$53,800 26

The relief fund statement showed an expenditure Nov. 30, of $310, with a balance on hand of $200.10.

The president's address was encouraging. He congratulated the association on the close of another successful year, during which it had been able to increase the reserve fund, notwithstanding the large number of mortuary claims.

Referring to the matter of a total disability fund, the president thought that the association got unusually good value. If any further provision were asked it would be necessary for the travelers themselves to pay for the scheme and put it in operation.

"As far as our railways were concerned," Mr. Gray said, "the thanks of the association were due to them for their aid in encouraging internal trade and thus building up the membership; but their thanks were also due to the travelers, and the benefits they allow them," in his opinion, "were fully earned, in opening internal trade."

Concluding, Mr. Gray referred to the deputation of travelers who recently waited on Mr. Harcourt in reference to the appointment of a provincial officer to look after the sanitary conditions of hotels throughout the country. "You will remember that a similar deputation waited on the Government nearly two years since. We were then promised that attention would be given to the matter through the license inspectors throughout the province, and our members were invited to send in complaints to the department, which would be acted on. This, however, though many complaints have been made, has proved very ineffective, and very little change for the better, as I am informed, has taken place."

The different parts of the financial statement were considered seriatim at the afternoon session, after which it and the auditors' report were adopted.

The mortuary fund was shown to have paid out about a quarter of a million dollars to relatives of deceased members, and has succeeded in accumulating about a quarter of a million more. Matters of importance pointed out by the actuary were that, despite the hard times, the membership has increased by 159, and that the actual claims have reached only 63 per cent. of what was expected.

It was recommended by the committee appointed to consider the formation of a total disability fund that no one should be the recipient of relief unless entirely unfitted to earn his own living. They also urged that it be extended so as to include cases of old age as well as accident. The scheme was strongly supported by Messrs. Joseph Taylor and C. H. Murdoch, while Messrs. W. E. Ellis and E. S. Warin opposed it on the ground that it was not definite enough in its details. Action on the matter was deferred to another session.

Health and strength carry us through dangers and make us safe in the presence of perils. A perfectly strong man with rich, pure blood, has nothing to fear from germs. He may breathe in the bacilli of consumption with impunity. If there is a weak spot where the germs may find an entrance to the tissues, then the trouble begins. Disease germs propagate with lightning-like rapidity. Once in the blood, the only way to get rid of them is to kill them. This is what Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is for. It purifies the blood. That means that it kills the germs, but that is only part of what it does. It assists digestion by stimulating the secretion of digestive fluids, so promoting assimilation and nutrition; purifies and enriches the blood and so supplies the tissues with the food they need. It builds up strong, healthy flesh and puts the whole body into a disease-resisting state.

"A year ago my father, William Thompson, was taken suddenly ill with inflammation of the bladder. He suffered a great deal and was very low for some time. At last the doctor said he would not get well unless an operation was performed. At this time we read about Hood's Sarsaparilla and decided to try it. Before he used half a bottle his appetite had come back to him, whereas before he could eat but little. When he had taken three bottles of the medicine he was as well as ever." FRANCIS J. THE VICTORY IN MONTREAL.

The Dominion Government through its titled candidate, Sir William Hingston, was heavily defeated in Montreal Centre bye-election yesterday. Hon. James McShane, the Liberal candidate, was elected by the handsome majority of 333. How crushing the reverse of the Government is, is shown by the fact that at the general elections in 1891 Hon. J. J. Curran, the Government candidate, was elected by the large majority of 1214 over Mr. Guerin, the Liberal candidate. The result shows a change of 1,547 votes. The Government had a reason to expect that in the commercial metropolis of the Dominion its fiscal and restrictive policy, if it would meet approval anywhere, would be almost solidly endorsed. But Montreal Centre, which contains the material wealth of the city—the commercial hub of the city—has completely discredited the Government trade policy. And the government policy of coercion to Manitoba has been even more strongly condemned and in a province where it is expected to receive solid support. The result may be regarded as a sweeping condemnation of the governments policy on these two questions; and also its record of corrupt misgov rnment and extravagance has been as strongly denounced. As a general rule bye-elections go in favour of the government of the day; and the special means adopted in North Ontario and Cardwell, unblushing and shameless bribery, was resorted to. Intimidation of voters was also largely practised. It is not enough for the government to coerce Manitoba but the electors must also be coerced. The loss of Montreal Centre which was regarded as the citadel of the Conservative stronghold, is another severe blow to the Government, which has virtually lost all three bye-elections, Cardwell and Montreal Centre absolutely, and virtually North Ontario, where the opponents of the Government polled more votes than the Government candidate. If the Government cannot carry bye-elections in their strongholds how do they expect to win in the general elections, when there can be no such concentration of Government influence and boodle as have been lavished in the recent bye-elections!—when the energy of despair was exerted in vain to stave off, in two cases at least, humiliating defeat. The people are beginning to be aroused to the true state of the case and there is every evidence that the leaven of aspiration for honest, capable Government is working.

THERE's a limit to the power of boodle.

MONTREAL's heart is right—at least the Centre is sound.

SIR WILLIAM HINGSTON, M.D., was out in his diagnosis.

"THE People's jimmy" did better work than the surgeon's scalpel.

333 MAJORITY—"There's luck in odd numbers," says Jimmy McShane.

THE Curran Bridge didn't carry the Government over safely yesterday.

A WIDE difference—the Liberals won the day and the Government lost its Knight.

SIR WILLIAM HINGSTON, M. D., has mixed a bitter pill for the Government to swallow—it's a Bleu pill, too.

THERE's a vacant government seat now to keep company with the customs collectorship vacancy in Montreal.

COMMENTING on the vote in Cardwell, The Mail and Empire says the Liberal party is lost. It turned up all right in Montreal yesterday, didn't it?

CONSUMPTION

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND's lot is a hard one. He was suffering from a swelled head when he wrote his buncombe Venezuelan message, and he is suffering now from swelled head, resulting from the figurative punching he is getting from friend and foe.

WITH all its braggart talk about freedom and liberty, the United States has not as much liberty of speech as England. An American member of Congress would before this, have had a knife in his back, if he had uttered in respect of the United States such sentiments towards the United States as Mr. Joseph Redmond is reported to have used, when he declared his sympathy with the United States in case of war with Great Britain. Nobody particularly noticed Mr. Redmond's seditious remarks. But the British people are not governed by wind power.

MR. JUSTICE CONDE WILLIAMS, of Mauritius, speaking recently at the Royal Colonial Institute on "Our Sugar-Producing Colonies," said that "British Guiana contained possibilities of wealth beyond the dreams of avarice. The colony was as large as the British Isles, and with a population of less than three to the square mile its exports in 1893-94, in spite of all bounties and depression, amounted to nearly £2,500,000, of which more than £1,500,000 was in sugar and rum, and £500,000 in gold, obtained almost wholly from alluvial washing. The output of gold had increased tenfold during the past five years. Vast upland regions remained to be exploited, prolific in every resource and condition of tropical culture." It is worth nothing, says the Globe, that this judgment was uttered before President Cleveland's message had brought the colony so prominently into notice.

A TRIBUTE TO MACKENZIE.

The Toronto News thus refers to a proposition to erect a statute to the memory of Wm. Lyon Mackenzie, who was a prominent figure in the reform movement of 1837-38 that brought Canada the blessing of responsible government:—

A writer in the Globe, who was evidently a Loyalist in the stirring times of 1837, proposes a monument to William Lyon Mackenzie. This proposal is not a new one but it is none the less laudable, and, coming from a Conservative source, is significant of the just sentiment which mutually prevails with respect to sterling honesty and self-sacrifice in public life. The strong contrast in this respect presented by Mackenzie's patriotic career with the utter selfishness of not a few in high places since his day, is making itself felt as time goes on. The events of the last few years in Canada have made the Reform leader more appreciated than ever he was. The movement he headed was less a movement against the Crown's authority than against the abuse and prostitution of it by men unworthy of the Queen's confidence. The rash and tyrannical Sir Francis Head did more to goad the long suffering people of Upper Canada into revolt than any man living at the time. Considering the persecutions to which Mackenzie was subjected in his long and brave struggle for popular rights and good government, his moderation was marvellous. What popular leader of our day who could wield the power which he did would endure half as much as he under conditions as galling? Not one. By all means give him a monument. He well deserves it, if only because he hastened by many years the reign of responsible government, and taught, by shining example as well as precept, the much needed lesson that fearless, unpurchasable independence in the people's service should be, as it too often is not, the highest aim and reward of political ambition.

The need of a example like the sturdy reformer referred to is particularly exigean when the country is ruled by the aid of corruption in high places. Posterity in Mr. Mackenzie's case vindicates a course that contemporary opinion largely condemned. For aught one can tell, the country but for persistent fight he made and the sacrifices he made, might still have been struggling under the burden of the Family Compact.

Palpitation of the Heart Defined.

Palpitation of the heart, is perhaps the most common symptom of heart disease, and is defined as pulsations that are perceived by the patient. It comes on in paroxysms, with intervals of more or less freedom from attack. The heart may begin to beat violently; it may pound against the walls of the chest; the vessel may throb in the neck; the eyes become suffused, and the head ache; or on the other hand, the heart may be very rapid and very feeble, so that the pulse may consist only of a series of rapid and almost impalpable waves.

Those suffering from palpatation or fluttering of the heart, should not delay treatment a single hour. Dr. Agnew's Cure for the heart will always relieve this trouble within the first half hour, and for this reason is regarded by physicians generally as the greatest known remedy for the heart. Sold by H. S. McDonald.

A Bachelor's New Year.

"How do you intend to spend New Year's day?" was asked of a confirmed old bachelor who has luxurious rooms at the Grand Pacific hotel.

"Oh, about as usual. I will visit several of my married friends, take notes of their little worries and watch the antics of their irrepressible children. I will probably have ice cream poured into my hat and sticky candies hid in my coat pockets. I will see frowns on the faces of the husbands and added wrinkles in the eyes of the pretty wives of a few years ago. Then I will come back to my cozy bachelor quarters, and over a quiet glass of wine and a good cigar I will swear off matrimony for another year. Have done it for 20 years now and never regretted it, and I guess I'll keep right along in the same old way."—Chicago Tribune.

If you have a troublesome cough, don't keep nibbling sweets, and so ruin your appetite. A dose or two of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral will do you more good than pounds of candy, and assist rather than impair your digestion. Always keep this medicine in your house.

VENEZUELANS WILD.

An Immense Demonstration and Warlike Speeches at Caracas.

New York, Dec. 27.—A special to The Herald from Caraccas, Venezuela, says: The annals of Venezuela do not contain any record of such a pageant as occurred here yesterday. The whole city was en fete, and every house in it was decorated in honor of the great event—the demonstration organized to show Venezuela's appreciation of the attitude of the President of the United States in the boundary dispute with England as it affects America. The procession was reviewed by President Crespo and his Cabinet.

A reception was held last evening and many speeches were made. That delivered by the Minister of the Interior Dpartment attracted much attention. He said that not an inch of Venezuelan territory would be surrendered until the republic had been conquered by armed force. Mr. Akers, the correspondent of The London Times, has left here for La Guayra. The press of Caraccas insists that the Government should expel him for wrongly quoting President Crespo, as is alleged, but Mr. Thomas, the United States Minister, has advised the Government not to send him out of the country. The Government has accepted this advice, and Mr. Akers will not be forced to leave.

Several South American republics are reported here to have signified their desire to assist Venezuela.

The Agriculture and Arts Association

Toronto, Dec. 28.

The following members of the Agriculture and Arts Association waited upon the Ontario Government yesterday afternoon: Messrs. J. Sissons, Barrie, president; N. Awrey, M.L.A., Hamilton, ex-president; R. McKeown, Byron, chairman of the Finance Committee; A. Rawlings, Forest, chairman of the Executive; J. Legge, Gananoque; J. C. Snell, Edmonton (Ont.), and Henry Wade, chief of that branch of the Department of Agriculture. Mr. Wade has charge personally of the registration of stock, but with that exception the work of the association has been taken charge of by the Department of Agriculture. This change was accomplished early in the year, and the association's building at Queen and Yonge-streets transferred to the Government, who have practically supported the association by yearly grants. Yesterday the deputation asked for and received a grant of $2400 to pay off outstanding liabilities, as they had lost the rent from the Jamieson building.

A Blaze at Wybridge

Wybridge, Ont., Dec. 27.—On Wednesday night fire broke out in the premises occupied by W. R. Armson, merchant. The store and dwelling were completely destroyed; loss partly covered by insurance.

DIABETES CURABLE

Given up to Die—Uses Dodd's Kidney Pills and is Cured by Eight Boxes.

KIRKFIELD (Special), Dec. 23.—Mr. Duncan McKenzie, miller and lumberman of this place, had returned from Kansas lately. Had failed in health and strength, had lost fifty pounds in weight. Was given up by his physician as well as by specialists in Toronto and by himself and friends. Now comes a change—he says in a letter to Dodd's Medicine Co.: "After commencing with your Dodd's Kidney Pills I got help inside of two weeks. I took eight boxes in eight weeks, am completely cured, not a symptom left, general health good. Have regained my old health and weight. Had been bothered with heart and liver, both have vanished with the diabetes. I can walk briskly for miles instead of crawling as before. Am a brother of the President of the Toronto Street Railway Co., and well known here." Diabetes is set down as incurable—but Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure.

The best cough cure is Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. It heals the lungs and cures coughs and colds,

Weak and Tired.

DEAR SIRS,—I can heartily recommend Milburn's Cod Liver Oil Emulsion. For a long time I felt so weak I could hardly keep up, every little thing tiring me out. I took two bottles and the fatigue and tired feeling left me and have never returned.

PYNY-PECTORAL
The Quick Cure for COUGHS, COLDS, CROUP, BRONCHITIS, HOARSENESS, etc.

MRS. JOSEPH NORWICK, of 68 Sorauren Ave., Toronto, writes: "Pyny-Pectoral has never failed to cure my children of croup after a few doses. It cured myself of a long-standing cough after several other remedies had failed. It has also proved an excellent cough cure for my family. I prefer it to any other medicine for coughs, croup or hoarseness."

H. O. BARBOUR, of Little Rocher, N.B., writes: "As a cure for coughs Pyny-Pectoral is the best selling medicine I have; my customers will have no other."

AYER'S Hair VIGOR

Restores natural color to the hair, and also prevents it falling out. Mrs. H. W. Fenwick, of Digby, N. S., says:

"A little more than two years ago my hair began to turn gray and fall out. After the use of one bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor my hair was restored to its original color and ceased falling out. An occasional application has since kept the hair in good condition."—Mrs. H. F. Fenwick, Digby, N. S.

Growth of Hair.

"Eight years ago, I had the varioloid, and lost my hair, which previously was quite abundant. I tried a variety of preparations, but without beneficial result, till I began to fear I should be permanently bald. About six months ago, my husband brought home a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and I began at once to use it. In a short time, new hair began to appear, and there is now every prospect of as thick a growth of hair as before my illness."—Mrs. A. Wer— ——lymnia St., New Orleans, La.

Ayer's Pills cure Sick Headache.

THE WITCH'S STRONG BOX.

figure he had seen so few hours before, far spent in its humanity, but still alive.

A tooting of holiday horns enlivened the village. Occasionally a package of firecrackers went off, its noise drowned in boys' shouts.

Overhead was a stretch of sky gray and rough as a cobble-stone road. Old weeds and grasses speared through a slight sheet of snow, augmented later on by a straggling fall of flaccid flakes which struck Henneker's cheek as he came from the barn with a touch as of dead fingers.

He stopped to stare toward the lot on which Hinkle was going to put up his house. It would make something of a figure among the other town houses, most of them low and old, the few new ones unambitious shells of lavender and green with peaked roofs and hooded front doors. Henneker could see the two stores with their shuttered windows, the white church running up to a point in front, the brown roof of the mill in which he worked, and beyond all, on a hill-side, the long front of the house where Boonie Curd lived.

A blanketed saddle-horse pranced at the gate, and Henneker turned away with a groan.

He was paying dear for those experiences which had won him the name of being wild.

Yet Henneker felt that there was nothing in his life so black but that Boonie's father would have overlooked it had Henneker's possessions warranted a charitable eye.

Some one called him. A man passing in the road came lounging toward the fence.

Henneker approached him. "Howdy, Beasley," he said.

The other man, leaning on the fence, went over his morning adventure. "My nerves ain't right steady yet," he declared. "Well, I reckon we done about all we could. The women went in and straightened things neighbor-like. Can't do nothing about the burying till Stark gits back from Pineyville. Bein' justice of the peace, it's his place to see to things. I'm kind of played out, traipsin' around huntin' some one to set up to-night. Look like it ain't Christian to leave the pore old soul layin' thar by herself. She was ugly as home-made sin, and smoked terbacker and dipped snuff; but I say this, some one ought to be willin' to set up to-night. Most of the young crowd's goin' to a doin's over at Hank Sherill's. Bein' Christmas night, every one's got something on hand." He shook several snowflakes from his sleeve. "You're goin' to Sherill's, I reckon?"

Henneker said no, adding, "I'll put in about ten hours' sleep to-night."

Beasley came nearer. "Say," he said, persuasively, "now, honest, Clint, do you think it looks right to leave that pore old thing alone to-night?"

"Oh!" said Henneker, catching at the others, meaning, "you want me to— Well, it isn't a pleasant job. But some one'll have to do it for me some time."

He added mentally, with the safe recklessness of warm pulses, that he did not care how soon his friends were called on for this office.

Beasley's face diffused a look of relief. "Of course I'll git some one to keep you comp'ny," he assured Henneker. "You go over about dark—hunh?—and if I don't raise nobody else, I'll come myself just as soon as I can git away. We got folks asked to supper."

Henneker felt a gloomy sense of fitness in the enterprise before him. His mother, a languid woman with bands of yellow-white hair, fretted a little.

"Some older person ought to offer. You givin' up the party and all! 'Taint right. You're always givin' up and doin' things for people and gittin' no thanks. Makes me right mad, so it does. You're too easy, Clint; yes, you are. You give up too quick. Boonie Curd liked you a heap. Needn't tell me! You ought to've kept right on goin' to see her. Her paw'll leave her well off when he dies."

The door shut on her son's form. She heard his feet on the road.

Opening the door, she cried: "Clint! Aw, Clint! Come back and let me do you up a little snack of lunch."

But there was no reply. Henneker, going at a smart pace, was already out of ear-shot.

It seemed to him that a peculiar gloominess thralled the night. The sky was like an overturned silver bowl, and the tree-tops about it were a woful tracery in black of flying forms and winged pursuers with uplifted spears. Now and then in an open space of the horizon it was as if hunters and hunted had fallen in a heap, some stray sapling straining up like an arm of appeal.

A bell boomed faint and far, perhaps from the church or school-house in the hamlet beyond, where, as at Ways Store, Christmas jollity was forward for the many, while the ill-starred few sat alone, or, like Henneker, trudged on some errand of sorrow. He could see moving lights in cross-lanes and outlying fields—the lanterns of those who fared to the frolic at Sherrill's. Occasionally these were near enough for Henneker to catch an echoing voice. One light lanced the dusk just ahead of him. The figures of a man and a girl came in view. They regarded him curiously as he swung by, his eyes down.

"I believe it was Clint Henneker," said the man with a laugh. "That's just who it was, Miss Boonie. He's going over to sit up at the cabin. Beasley tried to work me in for it, but I said, 'Not any, thank you kindly.' Holidays only come once a year."

The girl shuddered. "It's awful—to be there alone with—with—"

"Oh, Clint won't mind it."

Henneker went on down the jagged slope leading to the creek's edge, at which an icy gleam nibbled. Across the low water a long plank stretched a dark arm. Straight ahead the log house made a grayish spot upon the dark hill. Some one had left a lantern at the door. It stood hard by the middle porch tree, staining the snow garb of the twisted vine to a pale crimson. Icicles hanging from the grasping branches had a strange effect of movement and color, like a dripping of something red and thick.

Henneker, his lantern held ahead, pushed the door open. He had a certain qualm at the idea of entering, but there was nothing in the poor room to alarm a man, unless he feared some power in the restful figure on the high bed. The hearth was swept. Two wood chairs decorously sat against the wall. Everything was in order. A bunch of dried herbs hung in a corner over the witch's few cooking things.

Hoping Beasley would come soon, Henneker put his lantern down. It was very cold, but he was not sure it would be right to build a fire. As he sat there looking toward the sheeted figure, he grew less timorous of its peaks and stiffness and straight lines. This was the inevitable ending of the human story unhackneyed by repetition. The tale of what we are was happily finished by one who had been poor and old and alone, whose heart-stirring days were so far past that even their memory must have had a graveyard savor.

Henneker pictured the old creature as he had seen her the night before, crouching over the niggard cheer of her spare fire, hugging her box. A sudden remembrance flashed on him.

Of late years villare gossip had dealt little with the subject of the old woman's wealth. In the face of her meager living the idea of hoarded gold under the hearthstones had long since ceased to invite discussion; but the vivid interest these once current tales had had for his boyhood recurred to Henneker, and he wondered if the box he had seen was the treasure-box.

He thought of its bulky look. If it held coin, it seemed likely that the contents might be considerable. Henneker pondered as to its probable disposition. It would go to the State, no doubt, the money which the old woman had hoarded—miserable money destined never to make any one happy. For to Henneker's mind the State was simply an abstraction. He thought of dungeons lined with iron-bound safes full to the doors of bags of bullion, available only for those sacred governmental uses which he respected without seeking to understand.

The witch's savings could scarcely be of much use to the State, a mere drop in that sea of gold which he fancied.

Henneker glanced toward the hearth. Reaching out his foot, he tried a stone that looked loose. It tilted, grating on something metallic.

At the sound Henneker drew back, shaking a little. The gray shade of an intention slipped furtively upon him. If he had money enough to build a house, even a very little house, how different life would look!

The face of Boonie Curd glimpsed upon him, as sweet and fresh from among the dark tangles of his thoughts as a wild rose buds in a thorny hedge. Just as she looked at him in this fleeting vision she was perhaps looking at Hinkle in reality, all a bewildering mixture of white muslin and blue ribbons and brown soft curls.

Henneker started to his feet, fired to action. As he kneeled on the hearth-stone he felt the presence of a lean old shape which menaced him with a vanishing finger.

The witch's eyes gloomed on him from every shadow. The wisp of dry herbs, stirring in a draught, crackled with boding noises. Whisperings and chill breaths filled the place, but Henneker's face had in it a purpose which put out fear. His lips were locked and white. He felt like one who had gained some unearthly power through a covenant with hell.

The stone came easily up. In an instant Henneker had dragged a rusty iron box out. The lid had a tongue which fitted over a knob in the front edge. Henneker, fumbling with this, felt it yield in his hand.

It seemed to him suddenly that he caught a sound outside, a sound blended of footsteps and voices softly rising and falling. Stumbling up, he held himself to listen.

There was a little faltering, half-scared tap at the door. Henneker stood nerveless, his eyes on the shaking panels. A girl's voice rung out, calling his name. Then the latchless door swung in, showing a pale small face under a blue shawl.

"Why, Clint, you didn't hear me, did you? I knocked twice. Oh, goodness, is that her? I—I'm afraid to come in. Why, say, I heard you were here, and I just couldn't stand it—you poor thing!"

At her tones Henneker had an odd sense of lucidity, as one coming to himself after a delirium. He seemed to see the iron box for the first time.

The girl stepped tremulously over the threshold.

"Cousin Ed. came along with me—he's waiting out yonder. We run off from Sherrill's. I reckon every one's wondering. Come on, Clint, we're going to take you back with us." Then, at the wildness in his face, which, she saw on nearer view, her fear and embarrassment seemed to depart. "Clint, you—you're not mad at me? Why, say, I—I'm not going to marry Hinkle. I can't help what paw says." She stole closer, holding out her hands.

Henneker drew a catching breath. A sob rose to his dry lips, a sob of such thankfulness as blotted out even the little appealing figure before him.

The blue shawl had slipped down, and Boonie stood all in white, her childlike face prefiguring to Henneker's wet eyes the countenances which angels have.

Stepping toward her, his heel caught, and there was a small clatter on the bare floor. The box had turned over on the stones of the hearth, its lid gaping.

"Was that the witch's box?" breathed Boonie.

Standing close, they cast toward it a fearful glance.

Nothing had spilled out. It held safe as ever the witch's treasure, and in the dim lantern rays this seemed to be a child's worn shoe of some by-gone vogue, and a handful of yellow curls, such as might have grown on a child's head.

Yule Carol.

Clink the beakers, swell the song,
Life is short and love is long
Yesteryear did Philomel
Sit where Dorothea is.
Hubert told a story well
Now where Will is telling his.
Philomel is gone and wed;
Dorothea takes her place;
Hubert's on the sea, or dead;
Will has aught of Hubert's grace.
Clink the beakers, swell the song,
Life is short and love is long!

Underneath the mistletoe
Handsome Gwyn kissed Anice sweet
Gwyn is in a churchyard row;
Anice nestles at his feet.
Mother Margot said she knew,
By her cat and bell and bone,
Gwyn was marked and Anice, too—
Life is short and love is long!

Clink the beakers, swell the song,
Life is short and lonve is long!
Here's the beer and here's the boar;
Pile another timber on.
Time's a taper—shut the door —
We are quick and they are gone.
Will shall Dorothea kiss
Underneath the berry bough;
Mother Margot's safe, I wis,
With her wispy witches now.
Clink the beakers, swell the song,
Life is short and love is long!

Dangerous.

We often see this sign on roads or streets.

Any kidney ailment is dangerous. Because you never know where it will end.

Suppose you feel languid, suppose you have feverish symptoms, there must be poison in the blood, for these are the certain signs.

To the fact that poisons get past the kidneys may be traced every sickness to which you are liable.

Treat the kidneys forthwith and first of all.

It is the safe and proper thing every time; therefore do it promptly and well. We are tryingto teach people to turn to Dodd'sKidney Pills as the simplest and greatest treatmnt of kidney diseases on earth.

Can you see the point? Every serious disease results from the kidneys being out of order. Dodd's Kidney Pills keeps on curing these diseases

On Wednesday (New Year's) night, Jan. 1st, 1896, a grand festival and social will be held in the George street Methodist church, under the auspices of the ladies, for the benefit of the building fund of Grace church. Refreshments will be served and a choice programme of music presented. 2d

A Runaway Horse.

A runaway took place on Saturday night last. Two men were driving to Peterborough and when near Nassau the horse ran away, throwing the occupants out. The runaway ran into another rig just at Nassau, twisting the hind wheel, and reaching Peterborough minus the men, who had to foot it.—Lakefield News.

The Saturday Market.

The market to day was not as large as expected, and as the buyers were plentiful, produce sold well and at good prices. Eggs are up to 20c per dozen, chickens from 25 to 50c per pair, ducks 75c a pair and very scarce, turkeys from 75c to $1.50; geese, high, 60 to 75c; butter plentiful, at 15 and 17c; Apples from 60c to $1 a bag, according to quality.

The next market day will be Tuesday, on account of Wednesday being New Year's day.

Christmas Wedding Near Westwood.

On Christmas night a very fashionable wedding took place at the residence of Magistrate Breckenridge, of Welbeck, near Westwood. The occasion was the marriage of his youngest daughter, Annie, to Mr. J. W. Kindred, of Zion, Otonabee. The bride was attended by Miss Clara Cairns, of Peterborough, and the groom by Mr. Norman Breckenridge, brother of the bride. The presents were very numerous and costly, testifying to the high esteem in which the bride was held by her numerous friends.

What She Said.

Mrs R. Peak, E. 15th street, New York city, visited Canada last year, and had the good fortune to pick up something which not only suited her, but her neighbors also. Writing the manufacturer of Nerviline she says :—"I bought three bottles of Nerviline while in Canada and treated my neighbors to some of it, and all think it the best medicine for internal or external pain they have ever used." Nerviline deserves such a commendation, for it is the most powerful, penetrating, and certain remedy for pain of all kinds. Take no substitute.

THE MAYORALTY CANDIDATES.

Two Citizens Who Will Seek the Endorsement of the Electorate on Monday, January Sixth.

MR. WM. YELLAND,

CANDIDATE FOR THE MAYORALITY, 1896.

Mr. William Yelland is an Englishman by birth, but has resided in Peterborough since 1851, and is at present the head of the firm of Wm. Yelland & Son, carriage makers,

In 1877 Mr. Yelland entered the arena of municipal politics and was elected to a seat the Council Board, which he occupied continuously until 1882. He was returned at the following year, however, and remained in the council until 1888 when he voluntarily retired.

During the time he sat at the Board he was a member of the committees on Charity, Finance, License, Health and Market at various times. When the Scott Act was in force Mr. Yelland strongly upheld the rigid enforcement of the provisions of the enactment as a Councillor, and on that account he has since been considered as a representative temperance citizen.

MR. THOS. CAHILL,

CANDIDATE FOR THE MAYORALTY 1896.

Mr. Thos. Cahill was born in the County Kerry, Ireland, but has been in Canada for many years. He took up his residence in Peterborough in 1860, and fourteen years later was returned a member of the town council, where he has continuously since occupied a seat. As early as 1878 he was selected as chairman of the Finance Committee, which position he has occupied at various time since, as well as that of Chairman of the Street and Bridge, Manufacturers and Railways, Fire Water and Light, and Joint Committee, and in fact all the important standing committees of the Town Council, as well as being either chairman or a member of several committees appointed for any special purpose in the interests of the town and being appointed on mostly all deputations waiting on the Governments from the municipality. Mr. Cahill occupies the position of Gas Inspector and Asst.-Inspector of Inland Revenue for Peterborough, under the Dominion Government.

THE NEW BRIDGE.

The Work on it is Progressing—The Street Grading Still Goes on.

The masonry on the new bridge on George street at Spaulding's bay is progressing rapidly.

The stonework is now above the level of high water, as ascertained the other day by a test when all the stop logs were put in at the locks dam.

If there is no heavy snow for the next week the bridge will be in so advanced a state that it can be then finished up immediately, and as the men are now able to work on the street grading, the street cars may be again running below Charlotte street on George shortly after the first of the year. The masonry of the new bridge is of a most substantial nature, the stone being of blocks of huge proportions.

So thorough is the excellence of Ayer's Hair Vigor that it can be used with benefit by any person, no matter what may be the condition of the hair, and, in every case, it occasions satisfaction and pleasure, in addition to the benefit which invariably comes from its use.

Grafton & Co. are in a position to save you fully 15 per cent. on an Overcoat.

Christmas Ale.

13 bottles to the dozen till New Years for $1.00. English hop ale—the best tonic in the world. Dublin Porter will fatten anybody and everybody. H. CALCUTT, Telephone 98.

Lamps.

What more suitable for a Christmas present than a handsome lamp. China Hall has them in endless variety, at special prices. No such value anywhere as at China Hall.

Piano Tuner.

Mr. George Gumpricht, as a first class piano tuner, is highly recommended by Messrs. Heintzman & Co., and all leading piano dealers. Orders may be left at Mr. H. S. Macdonald's drug store.

Young Women's Association.

Usual gospel service this evening beginning at 8.30. Cordial welcome to young women.

Special meeting of the Board will be held on Monday afternoon at 3.30 to make arrangements for the annual meeting. A full attendance is requested.

The Christmas Examiner.

The Galt Reformer says:—"The annual Christmas number of the PETERBOROUGH DAILY EXAMINER is to hand, filled with the choicest of reading matter and capitally displayed advertisements. Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.P.P., is the widely-known proprietor of the EXAMINER which has long occupied a foremost place among the smaller dailies of the province.

At Elliott's.

A grand stock of fine Wines and Liquors has been laid in at the Palace Grocery for the New Year. Prime Ales, the best brands of Canadian Whisky, fine imported Scotch and Irish Whiskies, Ports, Sherries, Stouts and Champagne. Also some special stock in Gins, Rums and Brandies.

Here We Are Again.

Right in the nick of time to catch the holiday trade, with a brimful store of groceries, teas, sugars, fruits, canned goods, candied peels, essences, pickles, relishes, spices, cheese, butter, eggs, provisions, poultry, etc., etc. Bankrupt prices, as usual, will prevail. No regular prices in the whole stock, but everything goes as it was bought—away below regular market value. You are lucky if you are late in buying your Christmas supplies for you will be right in time to share in the snaps now waiting you at this store. John Cameron's old stand, remodelled and refitted anew, 392 George street. W. J. HALL, dealer in bankrupt stocks, etc.

The Early Closing By-law.

A by-law has been passed by the Lindsay town council enacting that all dry goods, clothing, millinery, fancy goods, boots and shoes, groceries, stationery, jewellery, hardware stores and butcher shops in Lindsay shall be closed on all evenings except Saturday at 7 o'clock; and on Saturday all stores above mentioned shall close at 10 p. m. sharp. This by-law comes into force on the 20th day of Dec. inst., and will remain in force until repealed. The penalty for a breach of the by-law is $10.00. Householders who expect goods delivered on Saturday evenings should order as early as possible, and thus give the delivery men a chance to get home at an early hour as well the clerks. It would not be fair to ask merchants to deliver goods ordered a few minutes before closing hour.

THE COLLECTORSHIP OF CUSTOMS.

Who Will Be Appointed to the Position?

The public have for some time been discussing the position of the Peterborough Custom House, which it would seem has been practically without a responsible head for some time past, and wondering how long this was going to continue. It is currently reported on the streets that Mr. Rufus Stevenson, son of Mr. James Stevenson, M.P., is to replace the present incumbent, Mr. C. H. Clementi, son-in-law of Mr. Stevenson.

Should "Ruf," as he is popularly known, get the position, he is to be congratulated upon becoming the Customs collector of one of the most important ports in the province. It is said that a number of Conservatives would not object to Mr. Stevenson himself taking the office; but as he is beyond the age at which such officials are appointed, such a way out of the difficulty is not to be entertained.

It is also reported that the Government intends to order an audit of the Customs House accounts here, no such audit having been made for the past six or seven years.

DEATH OF LESTER M. POST.

He Comes in Contact with a Live Electric Wire and Is Instantly Killed.

Many of the citizens will remember Mr. Charles A. Post, who was connected with the Ontario Bank here in the capacity of teller for a number of years, and who was one of the first to discover the adaptability of Chemong as a summer resort and to rent a cottage in the village.

Mr. Post left many friends behind him when he resigned his position at the time of the great Northwest boom left for Manitoba.

Mr. Post afterwards moved to Riverside, Cal., and from a newspaper clipping THE EXAMINER learns that his young son, Lester, was accidentally electrocuted there the other day by coming in contact with a live electric wire and sustaining a shock of 2,000 volts strength. Lester was born in Peterborough and will be remembered by many. The sympathy of the community will be with Mr. Post in his sad loss.

Another Hamilton Citizen Cured of Rheumatism in Three Days.

Mr. I. McFarlane, 246 Wellington street, Hamilton: "For many weeks I have suffered intense pain from rheumatism; was so bad that I could not attend to business. I procured South American Rheumatic Cure on the recommendation of my druggist, and was completely cured in three or four days by the use of this remedy only. It is the best remedy I ever saw." Sold by H. S. McDonald.

ROUNDING-UP CLEARING SALE

For the Closing-Up of the Old Year and the Ushering in of the New at

R. H. KELLS & CO'S

Commencing Saturday, December 28th, 1895, and Continuing until January 31st, 1896. A HARVEST FOR BARGAIN SEEKERS!—PRIZES AND SURPRIZES FOR EVERYBODY.

The pre-inventory tide is sweeping through this store. At this season of the year, with stock-taking ahead, we are willing to lose money to reduce stock and realize on goods. Profit time is over and any price now for winter goods is better than carrying over into the February balance sheet.

ON SATURDAY MORNING, DEC. 28th, we shall launch the most Extraordinary Sale of the many that have carried our Firm name from one end of the County to the other.

This Rounding-up Sale is not to be an ordinary happening—not a reduction of a few leading articles—but an emphatic bid for the trade of the people of Peterborough and surrounding district, in every line of goods we deal in.

The reductions that we have made will constitute a harvest for Bargain seekers, and afford a paying investment to lay in goods for next season's wear.

Prices Will Never be Lower Than Ours Anywhere.

January is a money-losing month but with eleven of the opposite kind to our credit we can afford, on the home stretch, to mark down our goods to prices that will influence quick sales and secure the required Reduction of Stocks.

On several lines we place prices absolutely without regard to cost or value. Especially will this Grand Rounding-up Sale be of importance to every one requiring DRESS GOODS, JACKETS, CAPES AND MILLINERY. But this is not all—the Underwear—the Blankets—the Flannels—the Hosiery—the Gloves—the Frillings—the Curtains—the Corsets—the Laces—the Ribbons—the Dress Trimmings—the Linens—the Toweling the Handkerchiefs—the Umbrellas—the Waterproofs—one and all will be pruned by the same knife, and the result will be seen on Saturday in the greatest values ever offered to the Peterborough public.

Style, Merit, High-Class Quality and Low Prices are all combined in this Grand Rounding-up Sale. We propose to top off all previous good records.

In Our Dress Making Department.

During January we will, in order to keep all our hands employed throughout the dull season, make up Dress Goods BOUGHT ON THE PREMISES for $3.00. To insure promptness leave your order in early.

Daily Examiner.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 28, 1895.

DAILY MOTTO.

Saturday, Dec. 27th.

It is always the danger of our confidence in God's providence that we shall come to think it will be satisfied with our improvidence. Only as we make the best of what we have, and so become the best we can be, shall we win the great "well done."

They do not Despair.

An utter loss of hope is not characteristic of Consumptives, though no other form of disease is so fatal, unless its progress is arrested by use of Scott's Emulsion, which is Cod Liver Oil as palatable as cream.

Ennismore.

An election for School Trustees for school section, No. 3, Ennismore, was held on Thursday, 26th. The candidates were Mr. William J. Perdue and Mr. John Conway. The figures stood:—Perdue 26, Conway 9. Majority for Perdue 17.

Compliments of the Season.

To one and all—to our patrons and the public generally—we extend the congratulations of the season. Our magnificent exhibition of holiday goods are not all exhausted yet. New Years cards and calendars, especially, are worthy of inspection, as well as many other novelties especially seasonable. Regular stocks are not neglected, nor will they be. No trouble to show goods. A. H. STRATTON & Co., Peterborough Bookstore.

Barnardo Home.

Miss Woodgate gratefully acknowledges the following gifts to the Home:—Mrs. V. Best, apples; Miss Beckett, various articles for Christmas tree; Mr. C. N. Brown, turkey; Mr. J. W. MASONIC INSTALLATION.

The Officers of Corinthian and Peterborough Lodges Officially Invested—Some of the Mysteries of the Refreshment Room.

The Masonic Hall on Water street was filled to its utmost capacity last night by members of the local fraternity and visiting brethern. It was the Festival of St. John the Evangelist—a day revered by Masons and an annual convocation of the most important significance to the craft.

"God hath made mankind one mighty Brotherhood, Himself the Master, and the world His Lodge."

In accordance with time-honoured custom, the Festival of St. John the Evangelist is the day upon which the impressive ceremonies connected with the investiture of the officers elected and appointed for the ensuing year takes place.

The following a list of the officers of the Peterborough Lodges

Auditors — W Bro H Rush and Bro W Menzies.
Board of Relief—R W Bro Benj Shortly and W Bros H Rush, R McFadden, A St A Smith, and R Logan.

After the disposal of the ordinary routine business of both lodges R. W. Bro. R. E. Wood, D.D.G.M., assumed the gavel and conducted the proceedings. He was assisted by the following well-skilled Board of Installing Masters:—Wor. Bro. H. Rush, H. C. Winch, Adam Dawson, and Wm. Thompson. The respective representatives of the positions of honour in both lodges for the ensuing twelve months were then severally sworn in and invested, after which the official duties of the evening being concluded the lodges were closed down.

In the Refreshment Room.

After a brief intermission for an exchange of fraternal greetings, the brethren repaired to the adjoining Chapter room, where tables were spread under the direction of the J. W's and a splendid repast was served up by Bro. J. Watt. The bill of fare consisted of oysters, turkey, chicken, ham, roast beef, jellies, salads, vegetables, oranges, grapes, apples, tea, coffee, etc. The tables were plentifully supplied, the wardens and their assistants assiduous in their attentions, and the members all heartily delighted with the spread.

At the head of the table was the chairman of the evening, R. W. Bro. R. E. Wood, D.D.G.M., having on each side the newly elected and retiring Masters of both lodges.

After the refreshments had been cleared the chairman called the brethren to their feet by proposing the toast of "The Queen" which was received with enthusiasm and the appropriate Masonic honours, the whole company joining in "God Save the Queen."

W. Bro. R. M. Dennistoun proposed the toast of the "Grand Master and the Grand Lodge of Canada."

R. W. Bro. R. E. Wood, D.D.G.M., replied in a very effective speech. He thanked the brethren for the enthusiastic manner in which the toast had been received, and for the special mark of respect it had for himself personally. As a representative of Grand Lodge, he could assure them that that body was composed of the best and most loyal citizens of the land. Some of the best thinkers, strongest minds and most influential men of Canada were among its members. The composition of Grand Lodge was becoming a question of live interest to the craft. The membership was becoming so large that means must soon be devised to reduce it. Its representation was beginning to need more limitation and he referred to some of the means that he was in accord with, towards reducing the number of Grand Lodge representatives. The R. W. Bro. referred to the high position to which he had been elected and felt the honour to be one of the greatest of his life. It was to the active and zealous interest of the members of both Peterborough and Corinthian Lodges to which he ascribed his election as D.D.G.M., and he thanked the brethren for the high honour they had assisted in conferring on him in selecting him as their standard bearer. Ever since he had assumed his official duties he had received nothing but the kindliest treatment from his brethren of the district. He would endeavour to the best of his ability to keep up the standard of efficiency that had been raised by his able predecessors in office, and in the discharge of his duties asked for the continued cordial assistance of his brethren. (Cheers.)

R. W. Bro. W. Miller also responded to the toast and delivered a lengthy address, in which he reviewed the moral benefits of the order and enlarged on the objects, precepts and benefits of the Masonic code. The great aim of Masonary he said was to promote the happiness of the human race.

Bro. Melrose sang "Scotland Yet."

The chairman then gave the toast of "Our Visiting Brethren."

W. Bro. W. Hayden responded by a comic song, and Bro. D. Johnston, of Toronto, gave "Jim, the Powder Monkey," in fine voice.

W. Bro. Chandler, from Boston, replied in an effective speech. He thanked the brethren for the great pleasure it gave him to be present and to compare the gathering with other similar ones he had attended in the United States. He saw around him the same Masonic charm pervading the assembly of the brethren here as elsewhere, and felt as much at home among them as if in his own lodge room. He alluded to the Venezuela matter and President Cleveland's message, and made himself plainly understood as an American citizen and as a Freemason. He assured them, amid enthusiasm, that the powerful influence of American Freemasonry would be used in conjunction with the equally powerful influences of British and Canadian Freemasonry to prevent war and maintain peace.

Wor. Bro. H. Rush proposed the toast of "The Newly Installed Officers."

Wor. Bro. Dennistoun sang his rousing, ever-popular song, "Drill, ye Tarriers, Drill."

W. Bro. W. Johnston and W. Bro. Alex. Gibson, the Masters elect for their respective lodges, both fittingly replied to the toast, thanking the brethren for the honour conferred on them. Each expressed themselves hopeful that, with the assistance of their officers, they might be found worthy of their choice.

Bro. W. J. Drope gave a pathetic Irish song, and W. Bro. Dennistoun once more favoured the brethren with "Ballyhooly."

Bros. D. H. Buruett and W. B. Bamford, the active wardens of the two lodges, replied to the toast in appropriate terms.

The Chairman then referred to the Masonic Orphans' Home for the care of the orphans of deceased Masons, and briefly referred to the noble work being done by the somewhat similar institution in Peterborough, the Children's Aid Society. He then proposed the toast of "The "Yearly Visitors," which evoked a smile, and called upon Bro. J. Hampden Burnham, Secretary of the Children's Aid Society, for a speech.

Brother Burnham felt it a great honour to have his name coupled with this toast. He thought, however, there had been a mistake somewhere. He flattered himself he took a very keen interest in Masonry, and was prepared in and outside of the lodge room to stand by his colors and uphold the principles of the order. His interest in the cause of the Children's Aid Society gave him a field for the practical exercise of the true Masonic spirit, and he was glad to know that he was able to be of any assistance in the promotion of the happiness and future well-being of unfortunate children. (Cheers.)

Bro. Melrose gave "Cuddy Peggy" a humorous recitation.

W. Bro. R. S. Davidson made some felicitous remarks in reply to the toast and emphasized the good work which Mr. Burnham was engaged in in connection with the Children's Aid Society.

Bro. Edg. Varnes sang an appropriate peace song.

W. Bro. George McWilliams gave "The Retiring Officers" and W. Bro. Davidson "The Newly Elected Secretaries, to both of which suitable responses were given. Then came the J. W.'s toast—"Happy to Meet, Sorry to Part, Happy to Meet Again."

The whole company then sang "Auld Lang Syne," with the right hand of fellowship, and then made the room resound with "God Save the Queen."

WEDDED AT RIDGETOWN.

Mr. Wm. Pakenham, B. A., Wedded to Miss Laura L. Green, B. A.

On Christmas morning the residence of Mr. H. M. Green, Main street east, Ridgetown, was the scene of a very pleasant event, when Miss Laura L. Green, B. A., his only daughter, was united in marriage to Mr. William Pakenham, B.A., Principal of the Brockville Collegiate Institute, and a former well known and highly respected resident of Ashburnham.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. E. B. Lancely of London, and took place in the front drawing room, which was beautifully decorated for the occasion, and was witnessed by a large number of guests. As the bridal party entered the drawing room, the wedding march was played on the piano by Dr. Marr, of Ridgetown. The bride was very richly attired in white silk, made en train, with the usual veil and orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of white roses.

Miss Fannie Packenham, of Peterborough, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid, and was very prettily dressed in cream, and carried a shower bouquet of yellow roses.

Miss Gladys Chrysler, of Brantford, a little cousin of the bride, made a very pretty little maid of honour.

The groom was assisted through the ceremony by Mr. Duncan Walker, B.A., of Brockville.

After the ceremony dainty refreshments were served in the library and dining room, which were thrown into one for the occasion.

The newly married pair left on the M. C. R. at 1 p.m., for a short wedding journey, after which they will make their home in Brockville. Mr. Packenham's Peterborough friends give cordial congratulations.

LONG BROS.

336 and 414 George St.

The dream of Ponce de Leon was that he might discover the fountain of perpetual youth. He died searching for it. The fountain he was looking for was an impossibility, unnatural and chimerical. The nearest thing to the fountain of perpetual youth is a fountain of perpetual, perfect health. Health keeps people young. Sickness makes them old. Health means first of all, strength and regularity in the digestive functions. Put indigestible matter into the stomach and it is likely to find lodgment in the bowels. It will stop their action. Poisonous, refuse matter, which should have been thrown off, is retained in the body, and as it cannot go any place else, more or less of it gets into the blood. That's constipation. It is such a wonderfully simple thing that people do not regard it seriously. They let it run on, let it grow worse, become chronic, and show itself all over the body in fifty ways before they consider it important. Constipation causes nine-tenths of all human ailments. Its first symptoms do not seem very serious, but even they are very disagreeable. A few of them are sour stomach, flatulence, heartburn, distress after eating, foul breath, coated tongue, dizziness, palpitation of the heart, sick and bilious headaches, general lassitude and debility. When any of these symptoms show themselves, you should immediately take Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, according to directions. They are tiny, sugar-coated granules, made on purpose to cure constipation. They do this perfectly and quickly, and they are the only preparation in the world that will do it. There are plenty of medicines that will give relief as long as you keep on taking them, but you can't stop. They don't cure; they give merely temporary relief. Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets give immediate relief and produce a permanent cure.

THE WITCH'S STRONG-BOX.

By Eva Wilder McGlasson.

Henneker had not enjoyed it. The Christmas-eve merry-making was near its end, and he had not joined in the dancing at all, but with a brooding eye and a heavy heart had lounged about the long bare hallway in company with a young widower from Ways Store, whose notions of propriety kept him from taking active part.

A weed of crape still wrapped the young widower's hat, its hue tempered by half a year's changes of weather. His affliction forbade him bread to the full, but it permitted him any crumbs that might fall from the table where joy sat feasting.

"I don't know as they'd be any real harm in my footing a round or two," he informed Henneker, "but I won't hev it narrated about that I didn't pay proper respect. Her cousin is here, too. I reckon I done just as well not to take part to-night." He added: "Say, Clint, I 'preciate your keeping me comp'ny, but you oughtn't hev done it. You ought to hev gone in the room and hed a good time. Thar's one dance yet. You better go and take it in."

Henneker, his hands pocketed, frowned a little. "I haven't wanted to dance," he said.

The other man regarded him with growing speculation. "You and Boonie Curd," he suggested—"ain't you and her friendly as you was?"

Henneker laughed coldly. He was a slim young fellow with a blonde head, a big mouth, and gray eyes which sat deep and had a dreamy kind of humor in their depths.

"It doesn't look much like it," he exclaimed, casting off the last rag of reserve which had helped to mask his unhappiness.

A vague enlightenment stole into the other's face. His lips pursed in a silent whistle of comprehension.

In the low-ceiled room beyond them the carpet had been taken up, and the feet of the dancers clattering on the boards confused the notes of the banjo and violin. Now and again in changes of the dance Henneker caught a glimpse of the musicians, two black boys, whose faces, relieved by the whitewashed wall, had the distinction of a charcoal sketch, the high lights softly taken from cheek and chin and flat nostril. Candles were burning low along the mantel, threading out in smoky red and swaying cranily in cross-currents of air. Under them, making their light sick, a big log flamed. Some prickly branches of holly, gleaming black and white, were stuck behind a high-hung picture representing a long-haired woman firmly clinging to a cheerful-looking blue cross decorated with red and yellow roses.

Henneker's friend, slowly and laboriously putting two and two together, turned on the young man a look of sympathy. "She came over from Ways Store to-night with—let's see—with Will Hinkle, didn't she?" he remarked. "Come to think of it, she's ben dancin' with him sort of steady-comp'ny like and settled. But, pleg it all, Clint, you're a better man than Hinkle! Why don't you he'p yourself out of this?" He lifted his voice to a loud pitch of cordial expostulation. "Maybe you've hurted her feelings some way?" Inclining himself confidentially, he added: "They're easy to handle once you git the hang of 'em, women is. Being married now, a man gits to know a heap. If I could give you a few points——"

But Henneker only said, "They're breaking up, ain't they? I thought Tucker'd be the last."

He moved away as a throng of girls came trooping into the hall, getting their wraps from a pile on a chest.

A sharpness of night air cut in as some one opened the door. Men were lighting lanterns outside. In the uncertain light Henneker saw the double team which had brought over a dozen or more guests from Ways Store, six miles south.

A girl, tying a three-cornered white thing over her head, stepped up to Henneker. He was lurching into a rough overcoat, and he kept on stolidly adjusting his shoulders.

"Clint," she said, gently.

He set his lips tight, looking into her face as if he saw it at a long distance.

There was no coquetry in the girl's brown-lashed eyes. Their expression was of a sort easily to be defined as sweet. Her cheeks were softly indented with dimples, and there was a certain childlike abstraction in the lines of her parted lips.

Henneker's braced chin underwent a suspicion of movement. She kept on looking at him, her white dress showing in a stiff ruffle below the blue fringes of her shawl.

"You did'nt ask me to dance to-night," she said.

"I reckon you didn't care much," Henneker muttered.

A pretty pinkness pulsed in her cheek.

"Yes, I did so. I just hate to have you mad at me."

"Mad—I—"

"Because it ain't my fault, Clint. Paw and them just went on so I had to say I'd quit going with you."

"I presume they find Hinkle more to their taste."

"Paw says he's steady and saving. You see—you've been real wild, Clint." He dropped his head. "And you've never said nothing by, and paw says a girl's a goose to think of marrying a man that hasn't even a box-house to take her to. You see"—she stammered a little—"you see Hinkle owns that lot next to the church. He's going to put up a two-storey house on it with a porch, and paw says—"

Henneker turned on her with a white cheek and a glittering eye. "You're going to marry him, then?"

"I—I 'ain't promised for sure." She breathed hurriedly, shivering away from him just as Hinkle's face showed in the doorway.

"Team's waiting," he called out, smiling, his cheeks freshened with frosty air. "You ready, Miss Boonie? Come on, then. I got a warm corner fixed for you."

Henneker watched him help the girl into the wagon. Others were climbing over the low sides, scrambling for seats on the rough cross boards, burying their feet in the hay bedding.

"Why, there's no place for Henneker!" shouted some one.

There was a general moving up, and Henneker, just aware of standing gloomily unconscious of being left behind, found a place on the back seat as the horses dashed into the night. He sat, with his collar high, listening to scraps of song and jest. The white thing on Boonie Curd's head fluttered a long end mockingly over her shoulder. She laughed gayly as Hinkle bent to whisper something in her ear. Watching it all, Henneker's heart swelled with bitterness.

The horses' feet clattered along the stony road. Now and then a spark flashed from their hoofs. To the left a range of hills blackened the low sky, across which, like a silk scarf, a milky light drifted. Far ahead, through a net-work of bare boughs, a little redness broke.

Some one said: "Look at that light, will you? The witch is up early for Christmas morning. Wonder what she's doing out of bed away past midnight?"

The light came nearer. In the flash of the lanterns at the wagon's front a small way-side house sprang suddenly into view, its bleached walls appearing to start back as if abashed at the unexpected noises.

It was the poorest sort of house. A rotting clap-boarded roof slunk hollowly over a floorless porch, its weight upheld by three tree boles. These, rough with bark and knots, stood bald and black in the light, something crucificial in their grouping. On the middle trunk an old vine contorted itself, its leafless tangles shrouded in lingering snow to the vague semblance of an anguished human form.

A mutter of running water close at hand lent the night a mourful voice.

The man who was driving slackened speed. "Let's give a big holler," he suggested. "Let's wish the old lady merry Chris'mas. All together, now!"

Henneker, from his back seat, could see straight into the scrap of a window, its panes streaked with the flaming of a few sticks on the stone hearth. He could see, crouching over the fire, a bent, ancient figure with a crone's cap on its head. A whiff of smoke whitened the pipe at its lips. Its hands held a smallish box, black and heavy-looking, into which the scythe-like profile peered.

As the shout of the wagon load went up suddenly, shrilly, the old woman, clutching the box to her breast, lifted a face of alarm. Henneker caught her startled gesture as the team jolted by, going down the hill to a shallow ford outlying Ways Store.

"Scared her out of a year's growth!" laughed Hinkle.

It was quite right that she should be scared, this unaccountable old woman who lived in the house by the branch. She was entitled to no special consideration, having neither kinsfolk nor belongings. She could not even entertain chance visitors with a fund of old crony lore, for something was wrong with her palate, it was said, and all her efforts at speech were a mere incoherent babble.

Nor was she valuable in an occult way as a mixer of potions, a builder of spells. Once a girl who had quarrelled with her sweetheart sought the old house, beseeching some magic to right matters. But though the speechless old woman was called a witch, she could only gabble out an unintelligible pity for her visitor, who went away indignant.

Having no glamor of black-art upon it, the witch's appearance was not prepossessing. She was bent and brown and skinny, her black eyes like shining seeds which burst half out of withered yellow pods. Her nose was a rusty hook. Her lips sucked in. Over her holes of temples a film of gray hair spread like ashes.

Ways Store had a primitive ideal of old age, and she was not cast on the lines of its conception.

What was more fatally against her even than her looks was the fact that no one knew who she was, or where she had come from, or what she lived on. The cabin had been deserted for years. One morning its chimney gasped with smoke, and there was the old woman.

Ways Store grew accustomed to her. She did bits of work as she could get it. If any village wife, moved with cheap benevolence, gave her scraps of bread and cold bacon, she took the offering with a grateful mutter.

"She don't hev to ask nothin' off of no person," observed a hamlet philosopher. "I wouldn't wonder if she hed a plenty laid by. My boy Bud 'lows she's got a pot-metal box hid away that she prizes high. He see her put it under the harf stones. Nobody knows what she's got laid by. A man from up yender that was passin' through here claimed to know what she was. He claimed she had a only son that made her sign over all her propputty, and then laid out to put her in the poor-farm ter hev the town pervide fer her. This man said she got wind of it and put out. He said he bet she took away money her son hadn't got his hands on. Well, you can't tell. She lives mighty poor-folksy, but I've heerd tell of misers that starved rather than touch their pile."

No one paid much attention to these reports. The witch caused only two ripples in the social pool of Ways Store—at her coming and at her going.

For, late Christmas morning, as Henneker came down to breakfast, red-eyed and wretched, his mother, on her knees at the oven door basting a turkey, said, "Did you hear John Beasley just now talking at the gate, Clint? Seems the old woman in the log house yender is dead. Beasley went to fetch her a Christmas basket his wife hed fixed up, and he pounded around and couldn't raise no one, so he jest busted the button off the door, and there she was layin' on the shuck mattress I give her, right stiff. Seems real sad, dyin' alone that way. Old age, I reckon."

Henneker forgot his troubles for a moment to recall the withered shale of a approve of Scott's Emulsion. For whom? For men and women who are weak, when they should be strong; for babies and children who are thin, when they should be fat; for all who get no nourishment from their food. Poor blood is starved blood. Consumption and Scrofula never come without this starvation. And nothing is better for starved blood than cod-liver oil. Scott's Emulsion is cod-liver oil with the fish-fat taste taken out.

Christmas in Spain.

"No people in the world know how to keep Christmas better than the Spaniards," says E. Burd Grubb, United States Minister to Spain. "In Madrid everything and everybody is wreathed in smiles at Christmas time. All this joyous mirth, wild frolic and religious devotion culminate in one grand climax on Christmas eve. eve. The famous 'Puerta del Sol' or 'Gate of the Sun,' immortalized by Le Sage in his 'Gil Blas' and by our own Longfellow, is a blaze of light, as is also that magnificent promenade and driveway, the Prado. Both have been converted into temporary fair grounds, crowded with innumerable booths, within which are displayed by the light of hundreds of tallow candles every imaginable variety of holiday wares. An immense crowd, embracing all classes of society, goes surging by. Nuts, sweetmeats, cakes, sausages, toys and countless other notions are liberally displayed and as liberally purchased.

A Provident Woman.

An aged spinster living in Milford, Conn., has carefully stowed away in her attic the timber for a coffin, which she has instructed her relatives to use when she dies. The woman is nearly 70 years old, but gives evidence of living to a ripe old age. A peculiar fact is that she planted a black walnut tree many years ago, when she was a girl, with the sole purpose of using its timber for her coffin. When it was a full-grown tree she hired a farmer to cut it down, and, taking the body to a sawmill, she had the boards sawed out, giving full instructions as to thickness, width, etc. After the work was completed, she told her nearest neighbor all about the matter. A local undertaker has been engaged to make the coffin at her decease.

AT THE CAPITAL.

Lord Salisbury on the Trade Question.

THE ERROR OF A CAMPAIGN SHEET

Dr. Montague Owes the British Premier an Apology - The Fate of Shortis Not Yet Settled - What the Montreal Centre Victory Means.

Ottawa, Dec. 27.—The trade policy of England and its effect on the agricultural interest are subjects to which the new Minister of Agriculture, Dr. Montague, has of late devoted special attention. For five years past the exports of agricultural products from Canada have declined steadily, so that they are far lower in value than during the revenue tariff period, yet Dr. Montague did nothing to arrest the tremendous decline in exports and prices. In fact, the member for Haldimand was paying more attention to a gerrymander of Haldimand and his own political fortunes than to the stake of the farmer in the trade policy. A general election campaign is now on, and the interests of the farmers have become suddenly dear to his heart. He tells them that protection is their friend and free trade their enemy, and introduces Englishmen into the witness box to prove his assertion.

One of Dr. Montague's latest campaign sheets, lettered "J," edited and circulated by him, contains half a hundred paragraphs for the use of confiding Conservatives editors. One of these paragraphs is headed, "England's Premier on Free Trade," and reads as follows:

"The Marquis of Salisbury made a speech at Watford the other day to an audience which included Earl Cowper, Earl Brownlow, the Earl of Clarendon, the Earl of Essex, the Earl of Dudley, Baron Rothschilds, Lord Hyde and a number of Conservative members of Parliament. During the course of his remarks the Prime Minister referred to the agricultural question and said: 'Since the repeal of the Corn Laws we have had the strongest cause to lament that, though the protectionists insisted, their warnings had not been listened to more carefully. The repealers laughed at the idea of its injuring husbandry, but a lowering of prices resulted, and free trade has almost killed agriculture in several countries.'"

The authority of Mr. James Lowther, M.P., Dr. Fream and "a leading English Liberal" (Dr. Montague forgot to give his name) are cited to show that protection is the only hope for British farmers.

The Marquis of Salisbury has rebuked Dr. Montague for his garbled extract from the Watford speech. The rebuke is contained in a statement made by the British Prime Minister at the Foreign Office on the 11th inst., where the Earl of Winchelsea acted as spokesman for a deputation asking for customs taxes in the interest of English producers of hops and barley. Lord Salisbury's language was as follows:

"I am glad to hear that your Lordship did not pledge yourself to any theory, and as a matter of practical politics you did not urge any departure from the national policy in respect of free trade. I observe that Sir F. Lockwood has represented me as having been guilty of trifling with the hopes of those who are interested in agriculture by promising protection for hops in a speech at Hastings in 1892 and abandoning that promise the other day. I never promised on that occasion, or on any occasion, any relief by protection, or held out and expectation that there would be a restoration of protection in this country. I distinctly disavowed any advocacy of such a policy. I was urging a totally different thing, and that was that our principles of free trade should not include measures for obtaining reciprocity. (Hear, hear.) There is no comparison between the two ideas of reciprocity and protection. On the contrary, so far was I from urging protection for British producers that I was urging that we should take measures to prevent our foreign competitors from using protection against us. (Hear, hear.) I am sensitive upon the suggestion that I have ever promised or urged upon any audience a belief that protection would return within any period to which this generation can look. I have thought it wise—although certainly Your Lordship's speech did not furnish ground for any imputation that you were unsound on this point—to reiterate those opinions, so that there may be no mistake as to the view we take concerning the problem which lies before us, and conditions under which it must be solved."

The above is a very important declaration, just two weeks old, of the attitude of the Conservative party in England towards protection, and Dr. Montague should at once apologize to the distinguished leader of that party for misrepresenting his attitude. Let him notice that Lord Salisbury is sensitive upon the suggestion that he urged on the Watford audience any belief in protection, and that the British Tory Premier says, "I never promised on any occasion any relief by protection." Now that Dr. Montague has achieved a position as a Minister with a department, will he rise above the principle of misrepresentation, by which he sought to deceive the Cayuga Indians, and by which he seeks to misrepresent the attitude of England's First Minister.?

The result of the Montreal Centre election is taken here to mean chiefly that the National Policy has lost its charm for the workingmen, who believe it has been a failure. The division being a fortress of the manufacturers, it may reasonably be inferred that the manufacturers are not afraid of the Liberal trade policy.

Shortis' case was under consideration in Council to-day, but no conclusion was announced. It is said the Ministers were very evenly divided on the question of commutation of sentence.

Chamberlain Pardoned.

Winnipeg, Dec. 27.—Charlie Chamberlain, the personage who came to Winnipeg in 1893 for the purpose of defeating Hon. His sentence seems to have been commuted.

A BROAD-MINDED DOCTOR.

RELATES SOME EXPERIENCES IN HIS OWN PRACTICE.

Believes in Recommending any Medicine that he Knows will Cure his Patients—Thinks Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a Great Discovery.

"AKRON, Pa., April 24th, '95.

Dr. Williams Medicine Co.:

Gentlemen,—While it is entirely contrary to the custom of the medical profession to endorse or recommend any of the so-called proprietory preparations, I shall, nevertheless, give you an account of some of my wonderful experiences with your preparation, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. The fact is well known that medical practitioners do not as a rule recognize, much less use, preparations of this kind, consequently the body of them have no definite knowledge of their virtue, or lack of it, but roundly condemn them all without a trial. Such a course is manifestly absurd and unjust, and I, for one, propose to give my patients the best treatment known to me for the particular disease with which they are suffering, no matter what it is, where or how obtained. I was first brought to prescribe Dr. Williams' Pink Pink about two years ago, after having seen some remarkable results from their use. Reuben Hoover, now of Reading, Pa., was a prominent contractor and builder. While superintending the work of erecting a large building during cold weather he contracted what was thought to be sciatica, he having first noticed it one morning in not being able to arise from his bed. After the usual treatment for this disease he failed to improve, but, on the contrary, grew rapidly worse, the case developing int hemiphlegia, or partial paralysis of the entire right side of the body. Electricity, tonics and massage etc., were all given a trial, but nothing gave any benefit and the paralysis continued. In despair he was compelled to hear his physician announce that his case was hopeless. About that time his wife noticed one of your advertisements and concluded to try your Pink Pills.

J. D. Albright, M.D.

"He had given up hope and it required a great deal of begging on the part of his wife to persuade him to take them regularly.

"He, however, took as she desired, and if appearances indicate health in this man, one would think he was better than before his paralysis.

"Why,' says he, 'I began to improve in two days, and in four or five weeks I was entirely well and at work.

"Having seen these results I concluded that such a remedy is surely worth a trial at the hands of any physician, and consequently when a short time later I was called upon to treat a lady suffering with palpitation of the heart and great nervous prostration. After the usual remedies failed to relieve, I ordered Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The result was simply astonishing. Her attacks became less frequent and also less in severity, until by their use for a period of only two months, she was the picture of health, rosy-cheeked and bright eyed, as well as ever, and she has continued so until to-day, more than one year since she took any medicine. I have found these pills a specific for chorea, or as more commonly known, St. Vitus' dance, as beneficial results have in all cases marked their use. As a spring tonic any one who, from overwork or nervous strain during a long winter has become pale and languid, the Pink Pills will do wonders in brightening the countenance and in buoying the spirits, bringing roses to the pallid lips and renewing the fountain of youth.

Yours respectfully,
J. D. ALBRIGHT, M.D."

CANADIAN MISSIONARY BEATEN.

Rev. John Campbell Martin Beaten and Imprisoned in Central Turkey by Native Officers.

Constantinople, Dec. 27.—Despatches were forwarded from here Nov. 20th stating that a Canadian missionary, Rev. John Campbell Martin, had been terribly beaten and imprisoned at Fekke, near Hadjin, Central Turkey.

The details show that his travelling permits were forcibly taken from him and that he was brutally treated by Turkish officials, forced to abandon his work, threatened, assaulted, imprisoned, deprived of necessary food and sleep and subjected to various forms of ill-treatment and indignities, for more than three days, and all in the name of the Government.

A Woodman Lost a Leg.

Wiarton, Ont., Dec. 27.—Norman Johnson of Spry Lake, while working in the woods, was struck by a tree, which he was felling, springing back on him, almost severing his left leg, which had to be amputated below the knee.

Lost $5,000,000 by the Flood.

Sedalia, Mo., Dec. 27.—As the water recedes in the submerged districts the extent of damage is becoming known. The valleys of the Osage and Gasconade rivers suffered most, and it is not an exaggeration to place the aggregate loss at $5,000,000. Famine threatens in some localities.

REV MUNGO FRASER, D.D.

Of Hamilton, Ont.—This Well-known Presbyterian Divine, Pastor of Knox Church Hamilton, Ont., has Used Dr Agnew's Catarrhal Powder, and Tells its virtues.

Few ministers in the Presbyterian Church of Canada, are better known than the Rev. Mungo Fraser, D. D. of Hamilton. His great talents have been over and over again recognised in the church courts. As a preacher he has few equals, and the people of Knox Church, one of the largest Presbyterian churches in Canada, believe he stands at the head of the list. He has suffered as so many in his profession suffer, from cold in the head—a serious hindrance to those who have mental work to do. Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder was brought under his notice, and over his own signature he has told of the great benefits it has conferred on him, as it does on all who use it.

One short puff of the breath through Blower, supplied with each bottle of Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder, diffuses this Powder over the surface of the nasal passages. Painless and delightful to use, it relieves in ten minutes, and permanently cures Catarrah, Hay Fever, Colds, Headache, Sore Throat, Tonsilitis, and Deafness, 60 cents. Sold by druggists. Sample bottle and blower sent on receipt of two 3-cent stamps. S. G. Detchon, 44 Church street, Toronto. Sold by H. S. McDonald.

Flowery Girls.

The authorized dozing of little girls, or why girls is a piece of barbarism which, now that the subject has been definitely raised, will receive, we trust, no countenance from the Home Secretary. Mr. Hilgay says that girls in the elementary schools are taught a bit of information which we commend to the immediate notice of Sir John Gorst. The public of London has grown the days of Mother Hrownrig, and Mother Brownlee, as the Newgate Calendar" informs us, was not surprised by judge, jury, public opinion or Jack Ketch in her theories and her practice as to the amelioration of girls. There were pillories for girls. Looke did for one; and whipping of girls, Looke approved of the whipping of a mother who whipped her little daughter for playing truant. Looke approved of a mother who whipped her child for confess some error; and Johnson condemned a mother who whipped her child nine times in order to compel the child to do did Dr. Johnson. Looke approved of the interest of future truthfulness be-cause the girl had said she came in through one door, when in fact she had come in through another. But those were days when children were supposed to be born only that they might be blushed as far as possible out of their share of existence. Women were publicly flogged at the cart's tail in the days of Locke and Johnson—and of course in the interest of discipline and order and morals. We can not go back to those days, and any reform and public attempt to set back to them would be an absurdity as well as an outrage.—London Daily News.

Weak Lungs.

Emaciation, weakness, and that fatal disposition to take cold easily, thus adding little by little to the strain upon the already overburdened body. How many afflicted are trusting to cough mixtures, mustard and poultices for safety? Fatal error. Not by these, but by adding to the nutritive power of the body and the increased strength and vitality which increased nutrition affords, can you hope to obtain relief. Maltine with Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites combines the excellencies of a medicine, a food, and a digestive agency of unexampled power. The full remedial value of the cod liver oil, rendered palatable and of easy digestion, is combined with the nutritive values of wheat, oats and barley. This in itself would render Maltine and Cod Liver Oil of greater value than any emulsion. But it possesses a further quality of inestimable value in its property of increasing the solubility of fat-forming, heat-producing, starchy foods, just the elements required for the upbuilding of the emaciated. This you may demonstrate by a short trial of this unrivalled preparation.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

His Face was a mass of Blotches.

But now his skin is clear as a year old babe's.

Scott's Sarsaparilla his Salvation.

Nothing blights existence like the knowledge that our appearance is repellant to those with whom we come in contact, nor is there any relief like that of feeling that the disfiguring causes have been removed. Says Mr. William Alger: My face on one side was a mass of blotches, some of which were constantly full of matter. I run a bake shop doing my own work, but my face got so bad that customers drifted away. Then I hired a man and went to a doctor. He said my blood was in a horrible condition. I sold my business and moved to the city where Scott's Sarsaparilla was recommended to me. The first bottle did me much good, and after taking five bottles my skin is as clear as possible, and not a sign of my previous disfigurement. I say Scott's Sarsaparilla is the best blood medicine going and am speaking from experience.

Pimples, blotches, boils, ulcers and all diseases arising from vital exhaustion and impure blood are radically cured by Scott's Sarsaparilla, a concentrated compound of the finest medicines ever known. Your druggist has it at $1. But get Scott's. The kind that cures.

This is the Secret OF THE SUN'S SUCCESS.

The Press is now the principal medium by which the MERITS of the various Life Assurance Companies are made known to the public.

The Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, allots its profits to policies according to age and in proportion to premiums paid.

Mr. James W., of this agency, age 68, holds a policy (No. 28,038), for $1000 on the ALL LIFE PLAN in the SUN. On the First of April last he had been insured for 5 years and received results as follows:—

1st.—A Bonus Addition to the Sum Assured of $180 or, 2nd—A Reduction for the Next 5 years of $35.80 Yearly.

or, 3rd.—A single cash payment of $138.25.

The undersigned would like to see an example of profits approaching the above given by ANY OTHER LIFE COMPANY under similar conditions. The profit earning powers of the SUN are unexcelled.

Fairweather's Fine Furs

Fairweather & Co

The weather seems more adapted to Umbrellas to-day.

We sell Umbrellas but much prefer selling Furs at this season of the year.

Should the weather turn cold in a few days you will feel the want of Furs very much owing to the sudden change. We are holding a heavier stock of Fur Coats and Robes than usual, and purpose selling them at GREATLY REDUCED PRICES.

New Year's Thoughts.

Ring out, wild bells to the wild sky,
The flying cloud, the frosty light
The year is dying in the night
Ring out, wild bells, and let him die.

Ring out the old, ring in the new,
Ring happy bells, across the snow;
The year is going, let him go,
Ring out the false, ring in the true.

Ring out the grief that saps the mind,
For those that here we see no more;
Ring out the feud of rich and poor,
Ring in redress to all mankind.

Ring out a slowly dying cause,
And ancient forms of party strife;
Ring in the nobler modes of life,
With sweeter manners, purer laws.

Ring out the want, the care, the sin,
The faithless coldness of the times;
Ring out, ring out my mournful rhymes,
But ring the fuller minstrel in.

Ring out false pride in place and blood,
The civic slander and the spite;
Ring in the love of truth and right,
Ring in the common love of good.

Ring out old shapes of foul disease;
Ring out the narrowing lust of gold;
Ring out the thousand wars of old,
Ring in the thousand years of peace.

Ring in the valiant man and free,
The larger heart, the kindlier hand;
Ring out the darkness of the land,
Ring in the Christ that is to be.

—IN MEMORIAM.
STANZA CVI.

I do not think we can do any better than look a little more closely at these splendid words of a splendid poem. "In Memoriam," as its name implies, is a poetic monument to the memory of a dear friend. In it the poet describes the various stages of the emotions of heart and mind, from the first overwhelming sense of loss, through a gradually diminishing pain to a chastened sorrow, and at last to perfect peace and resignation. The period which it covers is about three years, and in the stanzas just quoted a new year is breaking, and, as is the custom, the bells of the neighbouring church are ushering it in with merry chimes. The poet's sorrow for his friend has taken a less selfish turn, and he mingles his grief with a sympathy for his kind, and an ardent longing for the redress of all wrong and the alleviation of all sorrows, and the triumph of peace

The past is gone, it is not all bad, neither is it all good. Forgetting the things that are behind, let us stretch forward to those things that are in front. That is the thought of the first verse:

"The year is dying in the night,
Ring out wild bells, and let him die."

* * *

What are the ills those bells shall ring out? What are the blessings they shall ring in? First, the poet speaks generally—

"Ring out the false, ring in the true."

No man likes to be called a liar. We consider no greater insult can be offered to us. The sentiment testifies to an innate love of the truth. And yet we all know that there is much that is false in our lives, in our social customs and in our business dealings. Are our churches and even our pulpits quite free from false aims and selfish strivings? Mutual recrimination is vain where all live in glass houses. But we can all join with the poet and deepen our wish into a prayer.

"Ring out the false, ring in the true."

Next we find the poet to have so far emerged from the first buoyancy of sorrow as to recognize that even in grief for the lost there may be an excess.

"Ring out the grief that saps the mind."

But he immediately turns away from his own private sorrows to the wider sources of evil. "The feud of rich and poor." We too know something of that in Canada. Less than in England, still less than in the States, but suppose a period of great prosperity to set in, have we not the same causes at work to produce the same results. So we will re-echo the poet's words,

"Ring out the feud of rich and poor,
Ring in redress of all mankind."

* * *

The poet now comes down to particulars—political strife. Is there not much that is foolish and trivial in our political life, to say nothing of the positive ills? Is not a good deal of our political enthusiasm and patriotism somewhat mixed like that of him whom Lowell describes—

"For I hev loved my country since
My eye teeth filled their sockets,
And Uncle Sam I reverence
Particklary his pockets."

* * *

"False pride in place and blood" comes in for a share of the poet's censure, but on the other hand let our too democratic friends note the poet's aspiration for "sweeter manners and nobler modes of life." We should have no hesitation in declaring that we do not and shall not regard bar loafers, street corner idlers, foul talkers, as our equals. But I think some of us do not yet quite honour highly enough the man grimy with honest toil, or the hard-working—yes, still harder working—housewife, as in plainest garb she drives her baby carriage up George street, intent upon disposing of, to the best disadvantage the dollars with which her purse is scantily lined.

"Ring in the common love of good."

"The civic slander and the spite."

We know a good deal of this, even here in Peterborough. There is nothing that stands more in need of reform. Or, no, reform is not quite the word. Addition, perhaps, would express it better. Our councillors do good work, but so long as almost the sole interest of town councillors is in taxes and dollars, so long must there be much that is mean and sordid in municipal life. Whilst most of their time must be taken up with these things, their aspirations should be to higher things, and those aspirations should find some means of expressing themselves.

Finally all is expressed in one line—

"Ring in the Christ that is to be."

I hardly like in this connexion to refer to a book which contained much that was objectionable and objectionably stated. Yet the question is most pertinent, "If Christ came to Peterborough," what would he think of our life? Might he not feel that with our ten or twelve churches and our thousands of disciples, we ought to be better than we are?

So we will at least agree with the poet and admit that there is a great deal wrong, and with the new year will try and

"Ring in the Christ that is to be."

HAMILTON SUNDAY CARS CASE.

Argument Heard by Mr. Justice Rose at Osgoode Hall.

Mr. Charles Moss, Q.C., and Mr. A. E. O'Meara, appeared in behalf of the Attorney-General before Mr. Justice Rose at Osgoode Hall yesterday to argue the case against the Hamilton Street Railway Company for alleged violation of the Lord's Day Act, the company being represented by Mr. Edward Martin, Q.C., and Mr. Kerman Martin, both of Hamilton. The point argued related merely to question of the company's right to operate its system on the Sabbath day. The evidence had already been heard by Mr. Justice Rose, but the arguments had been postponed until this time.

The counsel on either side was well equipped with law books, statutes and other documents containing information of a nature favorable to both sides of the case.

The learned counsel went into the question as to what constituted a traveler, claiming it was necessary for an individual to travel from one jurisdiction to another before he could be legally looked upon as a traveler; or, as he himself experessed it to His Lordship, a man taking a boat for Niagara would be a traveler, while a man simply employing the street cars to go to High Park would not be a traveler. His Lordship, however, could not see it in that light, and expressed the belief that a man became a traveler instantly from the time he set out, no matter what might be his destination or the object of his trip.

The learned judge gave the arguments of counsel the closest attention, seeming to think he was bound by the authorities cited as to the meaning of the word "traver," and also eliciting all that could be said as to right to injunction in this class of cases, supposing it to be admitted that some of the persons using the cars were not "travelers" within the act. He also thought that if the act of Charles II. was in force, as contended by Mr. Moss, it worked rather against the plaintiff, because under it people could be compelled to go to church, and therefore, if weak in body, the railway was a work of necessity to carry them to worship. Judgment was reserved.

THE CRUEL TURKS.

Armenians Robbed and Tortured and Many Afterwards Killed.

London Dec. 27.—A Constantinople despatch says: Some weeks ago hundreds of Armenians, with their families, were proceeding home to Harpoot from Adana, where they had been working, having among them the sum of £300, the amount of their earnings. For some time after their departure from Adana no tidings of them were received, and it was then rumored that they had been massacred. This rumor, however, was not credited until a survivor of the party returned to Adana and narrated the experience of himself and companions. He reported that a band of robbers, all armed, had attacked the party at the edge of the Marash Plain and ascertaining the identity of the custodian of the money constituting the earnings of the party tortured him until he disclosed its place of concealment. The custodian of the money was afterwards killed, with several others of the party, and after the robbers left the survivors proceeded. Upon reaching a point beyond Marash, near Malitia, they were attacked by another band, and most of them were killed, including four women and several children.

During the massacres at Marash, Mr. Levol, a teacher in the Protestant High School, was subjected to the torture of being flayed alive and then deliberately killed.

CHRISTMAS REMINISCENCES And Gratitude.

Twelve Christmases have passed since two lads put up their first sign as they started in business in the old brick building on George street on the spot which now marks Gough Bros. Two Mammoth Stores.

Twelve Christmases have found the same forces here trying to make the best store in Midland Ontario. It might be a much better store, but it is comforting to be told that much of the bettering, of retailing and pulling down of high prices, is traced to the doings of the same two lads who have stood by the business through good times and bad times.

It would be unbecoming for us to say this is true, especially when we think of the mistakes in business made by busy brains and human fingers. There are, however, three things which we wish to say to-day:—

FIRST—Business will be best administered and therefore greatest when it is pursued with earnestness and enthusiasm, and a close calculation which keeps it in constant touch with the demands of the masses.

SECOND—Back of the system and the large staff of employees are stalwart principles and a steadfast purpose to so apply them that the store shall be worthy of confidence from the ground upward.

THIRD---To the thousands of people who shop here year in and year out we tender our grateful thanks for their appreciation of our efforts. Our good wishes are extended to all---Friends and Customers and the Ladies who read our advertisements---a joyous New Year to all.

So shines upon us the memory of the increasing kindness, interest and favour of troops of the best of friends, upon each of whom we wish the New Year's sun may shine with double brightness.

Well Equipped.

"Are you ready to meet that solemn event in every man's existence, the New Year?" asked the meditative man.

"You bet I am," replied his flippant friend. "I have more material for swearing off than I ever had before in my life."

The New Year Dawns.

The New Year dawns—the sun shines strong and clear,
And all the world rejoices and is gay.
The city loving birds from spray to spray
Flit busily, and twitter in my ear
Their little frozen note of wintry cheer.
From ruddy children with the snow at play
Ring peals of laughter gladder than in May,
While friend greets friend with "Happy be thy year!"

So would I joy if thou wert by my side,
So would I laugh if thou couldst laugh with me,
But, left alone, in darkness I abide,
Mocked by a day that shines no more on thee.
From this too merry world my heart I hide—
My New Year dawns not till thy face I see.

400 Acre Farm FOR SALE.

IN SNOWDEN.

I WILL SELL AT A BARGAIN A 400 acre Farm in the Township of Snowden—very convenient—about half a lot from the Village of Gelert and Gelert Station. The property consists of lots 16, 17, 18, 19, in the 11th Con. less a strip of Lots 17, 18 and 19, through which runs the Victoria branch, of the Grand Trunk Railway. There are cleared on lot 16, 20 acres; on lot 17, 60 acres; on lot 18, 20 acres, and on lot 19, 25 acres, balance good hardwood bush and well timbered. Log House, Log Barn. The property is well watered by a branch of the Burnt River and would make an excellent farm for stock and grain and the Timber being convenient to the station can be sold at a good price or shipped as purchaser desires, and in the most profitable manner. It is close to school and church.

At a recent examination it is estimated that there are upon the four lots the following quantities of wood, etc.:—500 cords maple wood; 300 cords birch wood; 300 cords hemlock, balsam and soft wood; 2000 cedar ties; 2000 cedar posts; about 200 acres good farming land; 100 acres good pasture land. It is one of the best farms in the country for stock raising, pasture being always good.

GOLDEN LION.

For several years there has been a very strong disposition on the part of this store not to "carry over" any stock from previous seasons.

This year the endeavour to start the next season utterly unincumbered is stronger yet.

Consequently prices will be made to suit the views of buyers and our motto will be "No reasonable offer refused."

Round lots from each department will contribute to this desirable end; a uniform price will be marked and that price a low one.

A SUMMER-LIKE CHRISTMAS-TIDE

We heartily wish our customers, both in town and country, the compliments of this festive season.

Although our Christmas weather has been snowless and a dull, muggy atmosphere has prevaded, it has not had the effect of restraining the generous gift-giving of our citizens.

Our business for the week just passed—in fact, of the whole year—has been calculated to evoke our kindest gratitude, and we sincerely thank our friends for their generous patronage.

Perhaps you received an Xmas Gift from an unexpected quarter. It won't cost much to make a return by a New Year's Gift if you purchase it here.

IN VENEZUELA.

Dangerous Excitement Against Great Britain.

THE NATION ALL READY TO FIGHT

Resolution of Thanks to Mr. Cleveland—Views of Prominent Men, Including Mr. Whitelaw Reid—Mr. McMullen, a Canadian M.P., Interviewed Down South.

New York, Dec. 29.—A special to The World to-day from Caracas, Venezuela, says: Trouble seems inevitable. The excitement in the first outburst of enthusiasm has given place to a determination to fight.

If necessary Venezuela could be ready for battle to-morrow. Governor Andrade of the State of Mirando and Dr. Rafael Seijas, a great international lawyer, had a conference this morning over the situation with President Crespo.

The Government will release the political prisoners, it is said, to show a union of all factions against England.

A prominent Englishman here in daily communication with London, says: "The Guiana question might have been settled with dignity and satisfactorily to both countries had not President Cleveland sent a peremptory message to Congress. Now England will never accept the United States conditions, though war would be unfortunate, and the English interests in Venezuela are great."

The Herald's Caracas despatch says: Venezuelan military officials continue their preparations to resist any attack that may be made on this Republic as a result of the contention with England or any other disturbance.

Officers of the army are drilled daily in the use of heavy artillery on the hill-tops above this city. A new instructor is in charge there and he has done much to raise the men to a high state of enthusiasm.

It is impossible, he says, for a landing to be made except in the far eastern part of the country, if a force should be put ashore there or sent into the country from British Guiana a long march would be necessary to bring it before this capital. The Venezuelans confidently declare that they would be able to resist any body of men that might be sent on such expeditions.

WHITELAW REID'S VIEWS.

The Ex-Minister to France Expresses Himself on the Matter.

San Francisco, Dec. 28.—A Call special from Phoenix, Ariz., says: Whitelaw Reid, ex-Minister to France, refused to talk about the Venezuelan controversy when the telegraphic abstracts of the correspondence were first received. He said he was unwilling to form an opinion, much less express it, until he had an opportunity to see the full text of the correspondence. To-day the ex-Minister was more willing to be communicative. He was asked by the Call correspondent whether there was any possibility that the United States could make an alliance with France and Russia against England, as suggested in eastern papers.

"At present," he replied, "not the slightest. They are both against us—not that they love England, but they despise the Monroe doctrine. If we should get into war with England and a general European war over Turkey or Egypt or China should break out about the same time, then France and Russia would be with us. But even then they would not be in favor of the Monroe doctrine, unless on the principle that any club is good enough to hit your enemy with."

"You do not believe, like some of our papers, that the Monroe doctrine is good, binding international law?"

"What rubbish all this talk is about the Monroe doctrine being international law. Whoever thought it was? It is a tremendously good American doctrine, which we have backed up with tolerably fair success for three-quarters of a century—almost as good an American doctrine as the Republican form of Government and it is about as repugnant to every European Government. There has not been a moment since it was first advanced when the nations of Continental Europe without exception have not been solidly opposed to it. Why should they not? The two American continents constitute an extraordinarily attractive pasture. The Monroe doctrine is simply a notice to all monarchies to keep off the grass, and the United States is the big policeman with a club standing by to enforce the notice. European nations up to this time have obeyed it pretty well, but what nonsense to suppose they like it and would accept it as any way authoritative unless compelled to. They are all land hungry—all crazy to be dividing up weak countries like Turkey and China, or to be colonizing barbarous ones like Africa. Over the whole stretch of the two American continents the Monroe doctrine stands as a notice not to trespass. There is not a nation in Europe that does not resent being told to keep out; but there is not one either that will transgress, the order to get in. They have too many chances just now to fight nearer home, and are too much afraid they may have to embrace some of them.

"No, we are not going to have any war; if things are well managed. A little different turn to the message would have maintained our attitude just as well, created less alarm, and given England a better chance to get out. The message is splendidly American, but Mr. Cleveland is not strong in diplomacy, and diplomatic situations which compel either humiliation of our adversary of war with him are always to be avoided. Nevertheless, with time and a little common sense on both sides, we shall get out without fighting. The whole affair, though deplorable in some of its present aspects, will turn out to be a good thing. European nations will realize at last that the Monroe doctrine is more than a phrase and will all learn, as Louis Napoleon did in 1865, that the United States cannot be trifled with about American interests.

"There ought to be another excellent good resulting from it. This is the golden opportunity for our merchants to extend our trade to every quarter in Centre and South America, and never before could they have had such a welcome as now awaits them if only our diplomacy and our commercial enterprise can work together to seize it.

"Don't mistake me, however. About international obligations of the Monroe doctrine Europe, to be sure, has never acknowledged it. But England ought to recognize and obey it. She inspired its origin, rejoiced over its declaration and made haste to accept it. Lord Salisbury admits as much even now, but only maintains that since then times have changed."

"Do you think there is any justice in England's boundary claims?"

"Who can tell? So far as I know the English side never has been accessible, even briefly, to all Lord Salisbury's present very adroit and skilful letter. In 1890 Gen. Guzman Blanco, then Minister of Venezuela, had to leave Paris before the arrival of his successor, and he desired to leave the legation in my hands and our State Department gave me the authority to accept it. Gen. Guzman Blanco, who had been President and Minister to England and Minister to France, was at the time in opposition. His statues had been thrown down by the mob at Caracas. His property had been seized and there was every reason why he should dislike and be willing to thwart the new Government."

WAR IMPOSSIBLE.

The Feeling in England Shown by a New York Correspondent.

New York, Dec. 29.—Mr. Isaac N. Ford cables from London to The Tribune:

No real change in the relations of Great Britain and the United States has occurred since the Venezuela commission bill was passed a week ago. Princes, bishops, preachers, authors and all sorts and conditions of Englishmen have united in a Christmas carol in favor of peace. This was a safe thing to do, because they knew in their hearts a week ago that there would be no war. The newspapers have been printing many columns daily about the Venezuela affair and American opinion, but nothing has happened here since the slaughter of American securities which produced a Wall-street scare and enabled Mr. Cleveland to follow up his Venezuela message with pleading in bankruptcy. From that moment no intelligent Englishman has considered an outbreak of war possible.

So long as President Cleveland appealed to England on moral grounds to arbitrate a frontier dispute and not bully a feeble republic, the advantage was with the United States. The English conscience was uneasy when Mr. Chamberlain's order for defending the frontier with Maxim guns was disclosed; it would have been stirred more deeply if Lord Salisbury's dispatch dealing jauntily and contemptuously with the Monroe doctrine had been read by itself without the text of the President's message as a counter irritant. As it was, Mr. Cleveland contrived by his remarkable method of applying the Monroe doctrine and by his menacing language to efface all that was irritating in Mr. Chamberlain's orders and Lord Salisbury's reply and to give England the advantage of position on moral grounds.

Perhaps the fairest article on the Venezuela question is Mr. Labouchere's in Truth. His main conclusion is that, in spite of the indiscreet language of Mr. Cleveland, England ought to submit the entire boundary question to an arbitrator, and suggests Japan as the proper power to decide the matter.

Mr. Labouchere has the courage of his opinions; no other Englishman talks in this way. The ordinary view is that Mr. Cleveland has rendered arbitration impossible; that the English do not want war, and will do nothing to provoke it, but that they cannot yield their rights to a mere arrogant assertion of authority.

Monroe doctrine or no Monroe doctrine, they are convinced that a commission, even with such men as ex-Ministers Phelps and Lincoln on it, can do nothing to settle the dispute, since England cannot recognize its authority to intervene in any way. They have no idea that war is possible, but expect that Mr. Cleveland will retreat under cover of his commission from what they regard as an untenable position.

The Next Move.

New York, Dec. 29.—Isaac N. Ford, in an extra despatch to The Sunday Tribune, says:

The St. James' Gazette, which ordinarily reflects the views of Mr. Chamberlain, has a remarkable article today on the next move in Venezuela, bringing out the fact that a chartered company has been formed in British Guiana for working in the heart of the territory claimed by Venezuela. Mr. Chamberlain suggested this course in September, and the latest advices from Georgetown show that it has been followed, the company having been organised to work its concession in the region the ownership of which the Cleveland commission is called upon to decide.

The same journal directs attention to the fact that an indemnity has not yet been paid, and says that if Venezuela does not yield its procedure will have to be accelerated by the help of men-of-war, as at Corinto, although it may be wise to let matters take as leisurely a course as circumstances will permit.

If this article be inspired by Mr. Chamberlain, it is significant of the determination of the British Government to persevere in its policy when the present American flurry is over.

A Canadian M. P. Interviewed.

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 29.—The Journal prints an interview with Hon. James McMullen, member of the Canadian Parliament from North Wellington, who is visiting Kansas City, on the war scare. He says: "I regret to find the general feeling of bitterness toward everything English in this country. There is no such feeling toward America, for only the most friendly feeling exists toward this country. We are two peoples with a common origin; why should we fight each other? As far as Canada is concerned, there is no feeling generally in favor of annexation to the United States, and in the event of trouble Canada may be depended on as thoroughly loyal. Canada has no reason for wanting to be annexed. We enjoy all the liberties of a self-governing people; we contribute nothing to England's revenues; we pay only the salary of the Governor-General, which is $50,000. In return we get the all-powerful protection of England's army and navy. We want to trade with you; we want reciprocity. The new tariff Act just passed by the House will, if it becomes law, undoubtedly provoke reprisals in the shape of retaliatory duties on logs. The bill restores the 60 per centum McKinley duty on sawn lumber, but Canada will probably put an export duty on logs."

Mr. McMullen is of the opinion that war between the two countries would be disastrous to mutual interests. England, he said, has investments in this country that draw $500,000 interest every day of the year. War would be a terrible thing for both parties, and it is a mooted question which would suffer the more. "I believe that one result of the incident will be the formation of a coalition of British colonies throughout the world. I do not look for war unless the Venezuelans commit acts which will compel England to protect herself. Then if this country carries out the Monroe doctrine as America interprets it there will be the most stupendous and disastrous war of modern times."

Chicago—A special from Denver says: Chief Ignacio and his band of Ute Indians are starving on the western end of the reservation because the Government has not kept the promise to establish an agency on the lands reserved.

TRANSVAAL TROUBLES.

Boers Will Not Permit the Teaching of English in the Schools.

London, Dec. 29.—The struggle of the Uitlanders, who are Englishmen, and other foreigners in the Transvaal, to secure from the Boer Government the concession to them of the civil rights enjoyed by the Boers, has not even an approximate reference to the absorption of the Dutch Republic into England's region. On the contrary the malcontents who are threatening a revolution unless their demads are granted, include many Americans and Germans who aim to consolidate the Republic by a liberal franchise. The Boers, who now form a minority of the population of the Transvaal, wish to retain their rule over the Uitlanders and continue to levy taxes and regulate the mining industries through Boer cliques. The foreigners claim that mining operations are worse than hampered by the restrictions placed upon them by the Boers. The Government refuses to allow the teaching of English in the schools, with the result that the English-speaking children, of whom there are now 10,000 in the Republic, are debarred from obtaining an education in their mother tongue. The outlook is threatening, as the Uitlanders are determined to obtain what they hold are their rights, and a popular rising is within sight, unless the Boers act prudently in the matter. The foreign residents have formed a national union which will meet in convention on Jan. 6, to decide what course they shall take to secure rights equal to those enjoyed by the Boers.

Mr Gladstone's Birthday.

London, Dec. 29.—To-day is the 86th anniversary of the birth of Mr. Gladstone. Many of the Liberal clubs throughout the United Kindom telegraphed congratulations to Hawarden Castle. Mr. Gladstone's residence in Chester, from which place the messages were forwarded to Biarritz, France, where Mr. Gladstone has gone for the benefit of his health.

Foaming Ivorine Whitens the Teeth.

Dentists are delighted at the admirable qualities of Ivorine, the new preparation for the teeth. Commendations from the Dental profession carry the assurance that fragrant Ivorine is free from the admixture of enamel destroying substances, often the most marked characteristic of tooth powders, and that is the most efficient cleanser yet discovered. Ivorine cleanses from discoloration and whitens, hardens the gums, and imparts to the breath a delightful fragrance.

"About a year ago I had a very severe attack of the grip, which resulted in my not having a well day for several months afterwards. I was completely run down and my system was in a Terrible Condition.

I lost flesh and became depressed in spirits. Finally a friend who had been benefited by Hood's Sarsaparilla advised me to try it and I did so. I continued taking it until I used twelve bottles and today I can honestly say Hood's Sarsaparilla has restored me to my former health." JACOB WILCOX, St. Thomas, Ontario.

GEORGE STEWART, Secretary.

Mount Pleasant.

The fifth annual meeting of Mount Pleasant cheese factory was held Monday, Nov. 25th. Mr. Joseph Rutherford was appointed chairman and called the meeting to order, after which the secretary, Mr. D. R. Gardine was called upon and gave a very full report of the season's make.

	lbs. Milk.	lbs. Cheese.	Price.
May.....	106,602	9,989	$ 711.37
June.....	194,951	17,732	1,441.34

Total.....	860,789	80,622	$6,364.89

The average No. lbs milk to one lb. of cheese was 10.67 being much better than last season. Mr. S. D. Casey asserts that he has given every patron his just weight and that your cheese has been amongst the first selections, and the price secured one of the highest.

The secretary's report was accepted.

The Treasurer, S. J. Jameson, was then called on, and after giving report gave the patrons a chance of asking any questions on any part of the report they did not understand. As everything was satisfactory the report was adopted.

The auditors, Messrs. Jos. Bland and W. S. Graham, reported that they had examined the books and found some slight mistakes and had them corrected. Their report was also adopted.

Mount Pleasant Factory, considering the low prices in cheese, has made good progress. There is an increase in patronage and also an increase of over 18,000 pounds of cheese over last year and everything promises fair for another season, under the same management.

JAMESON BROS., Proprietors.

Bensfort.

The factory had 83 patrons this season, sending 1,263,231 lbs of milk, and 111,430 lbs of cheese, and the full amount of money was $9,220.61 ; there was realised $21 90 per standard of milk, although the price of cheese for the greater part of the season was not high, yet good cows, well cared for, has paid as well as any branch on the farm this season.

That Pain Knocked out

MR. JOHN MCKEE, Druggist, Peterboro :

DEAR SIR—I have been troubled with Neuralgia more or less for 25 years. For the past 10 years my sufferings have been intense, until last winter, when you advised me to try a box of "Templeton's Pink Powders." After taking three or four powders all pain left. I continued them, however, until three boxes were taken, and have had no recurrence of the pain for about nine or ten months. G. J. JOPLING, Bridgenorth, Ont.

Sold in Peterborough by John McKee.

At the annual meeting on the 13th Dec., the patrons re-elected the old officers for next year, viz :—

Sec.-Treas. and Salesman—John Riddell.

Directors—Levi Byers, Geo. Berry, Wm. Smithson, Wm. Waterman, Jas. Perrin and J. W. Hall, with William Smithson, auditor, patrons expressing general satisfaction.

North Dummer Dairy Co.

The stockholders of the above company held their annual meeting in their factory on Tuesday, Dec. 17th, for the purpose of settling up business for the present year and electing a Board of Directors for 1896. Mr. Wm. Carveth, president, occupied the chair. After calling the audience to order he called on the secretary, Mr. T. Darling, to read the minutes of general and directors' meetings, which were considered and adopted. The chairman next called on the Secretary to read the financial report, which was as follows :—Amount of milk for season, 692,423 lbs, which was in round numbers about seven standards of an increase from 1894. Total amount of cheese, 63,223 lbs. Average lbs of milk to a lb of cheese, 10.93. Average price for season, 7 9-10c.

The Chairman next called on the auditors, Messrs. Hugh Dodds and W. J. Little, for their report, which was as follows :—We, the auditors of North Dummer Dairy Co., have made a careful examination of the books of the Secretary in regard to patrons' account, bank account, and also bills and accounts, and find them all accurate, according to vouchers produced.

It was then moved by H. A. Moore, seconded by R. Crow,—That we pay a dividend of 16 per cent. on paid up stock of company.

The old Board of Directors was re-elected :—Wm. Carveth, R. Crowe, H. A. Moore, G. A. Payne, Frank Darling.

Victoria Cheese Factory.

Secretary's report :—

The farmers of Rockdale and Victoria, Belmont Township, have for a number of years been sending their milk to a patron factory, where they have been paying one and a quarter cents for the manufacture of their cheese ; besides, they had to pay for their milk drawing, which cost $2 per standard of three thousand pounds of milk.

Last winter a few of the people of these two neighborhoods proposed to start a stock factory to be built in Victoria neighborhood and known as the "Victoria Cheese Factory."

It was predicted by many that this new cheese factory would never start, and if it did it would never run one year, and the promoters would be ruined. Well, according to our statement, as yet we are not ruined, but, thanks to our worthy president, Mr. Charles Wilde, and Directors Leason, Rylfot, Fraser and Holcomb, we have been remarkably successful.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT.

Number of lbs of cheese made during season, 28,089.
Number of lbs of milk to 1 lb of cheese, 10.43.
Average price for cheese per lb, 7.76c.
Total amount received for cheese, $2,957 09.
Average per standard of 3,000 lbs of milk, $22.29.
Total expenses, including cheesemaker's salary, milk drawing, etc., $309.91.
Average expenses per standard, $3.84.
Balance to patrons and stockholders, $18.45.
The stockholders got $19 25, including their stock, which was $1.25 per standard signed by them ; this is a net balance to stockholders of about $18, that is, those who had taken stock to cover all the milk sent by them and those who sent all through October. Patrons got $16.90.

Mr. John Brown, our pork man, is doing a large trade in his line.

Mr. S. Fife, our poultry dealer, has shipped a large amount of poultry from Indian River station.

Mr. David F. Devlin, of the Devlin Lumbering Firm, has started again, and intends taking out a large amount of stuff. This firm is known better as the Fitzgerald and Devlin Company.

Mr. W. Fitzgerald and Mr. McGarvey have taken a large contract in a swamp of Mr. Fitzgerald's grading a road. We trust that they may make good progress.

Mr. and Mrs. Jno. Londergan, of Nassau Mills, were the guests of Mr. John McKenly of Indian River Station.

We regret the departure of one of our village young men in the person of Mr. Jas. McNulty, who has held the position of teacher in S. S. No. 1, Douro. He intends going to the Normal School, Ottawa.

Health and strength carry us through dangers and make us safe in the presence of perils. A perfectly strong man with rich, pure blood, has nothing to fear from germs. He may breathe in the bacilli of consumption with impunity. If there is a weak spot where the germs may find an entrance to the tissues, then the trouble begins. Disease germs propagate with lightning-like rapidity. Once in the blood, the only way to get rid of them is to kill them. This is what Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is for. It purifies the blood. That means that it kills the germs, but that is only part of what it does. It assists digestion by stimulating the secretion of digestive fluids, so promoting assimilation and nutrition ; purifies and enriches the blood and so supplies the tissues with the food they need. It builds up strong, healthy flesh and puts the whole body into a disease-resisting state.

Moved by Mr. Ritchie, seconded by Mr. Miell, that a vote of thanks be granted Mr. Maiden for his able services as chairman of this board for the past year, also a vote of thanks be extended to Mr. Mark for his services as secretary-treasurer.—Carried.

Have you Thought of It?

For four thousand years or more the world groaned, suffered, and fumed about its corns, for there was no positive relief—no certain and painless cure until Dr. Scott Putnam gave to the world his great Corn Extractor. If there is suffering now it is a result of carelessness, for the remedy is at hand. Try Putnam's Corn Extractor. It is sure, painless and prompt. Beware of substitutes. N. C. Severe Headache Cured.

DEAR SIRS.—I had severe headache for the past two years and used all kinds of medicine without finding a cure until I tried Burdock Blood Bitters, when relief and cure quickly followed. I think there is no better medicine in the world.

MISS MINNIE DRYSDALE. Berlin, Ont.

A CHRISTMAS EVE VISION.

Weird, ghostly shadows dance upon the wall,
The dying embers flicker in the grate,
From out the darkness voices seem to call,
And a lone star gleams like the eye of fate.

Can nature sympathize with human pain
And the wind moan because poor mortals mourn?
If so, no wonder that its low refrain
Is sad tonight, as if of misery born.

Sigh, O west wind, as if through all the years
That man knew sorrow thou hadst ceaseless swept Across the graves bedewed by human tears,
Freighted with all the woes of those who wept!

The past is drowsy on my brain, and I
Am now where solitude has found a voice,
While on my ear falls, soft as lover's sigh,
The words of her, my first, my only choice.

I feel the pressure of her hand in mine,
The soothing touch of other on my brow;
Hear, soft as south wind sighing through the pine,
The words of love, not sweeter then than now.

O maiden fair, thou of the blue eyes bright,
Where love enshrined itself in depths profound,
Twine sprig of holly in thy hair tonight,
Thou long lost loved one, lost to me, now found!

Mutely thou dar'st me take at midnight chime
Beneath the mistletoe love's first, pure kiss,
Which verged my being to a point in time,
And conscious life was naught but conscious bliss.

Oh, fancy that didst cheat me for an hour,
No more canst thou such magic o'er me cast
Or lonely room become an Eden's bower
By thy so vivid pictures of the past!

I am again alone. That vision bright
Of youth's brief, happy days has passed away,
And like sun glinted clouds as fades the light
The glamour's ended in a cheerless gray.

I hear the sobbing winds again intone,
The dying embers flicker in the grate,
The twinkling star looms from afar alone,
While I, a prey to sadness, bide my fate.

The Cabinet Squabble Over the Shortis Case.

NO DECISION YET ANNOUNCED

Vacancies in the House Not Yet Filled as Promised—The Social Program for the Session Slightly Changed—Military Spirit Strong in Canada.

Ottawa, Dec. 29.—The Governor-General's New Year levee will be held in the Senate Chamber on Wednesday morning, instead of in the office in the east block as in former years. In the afternoon Her Excellency will hold a reception at the Government House from 3 to 6 o'clock. The usual state dinner in connection with opening of Parliament will be held on Thursday evening. The drawing room following the resumption of parliamentary work will, it is expected, be held on Saturday evening, January 11th: In connection with the latter function a new rule is to be adopted. In the cases of ladies who are to be presented for the first time, application is to be made to the aide-de-camp in waiting so that the necessary billet d'entree may be forthcoming.

The latest spectacle for the country is that of the Bowell Cabinet struggling in a tug-of-war on a scaffold. The question of race appears to be the dividing line with some, and the desire to please influential supporters governs the actions of others. At all events the Cabinet have for three days during three separate special sessions been squabbling over their recommendation to His Excellency as to whether the law will be allowed to take its course in the case of Valentine Shortis, the unfortunate young Irishman now awaiting execution at Beauharnois on Friday next. La Minerve, the organ of Sir Adolphe Caron in Montreal, recently referred to a rumor that political considerations would lead to clemency, and spoke strongly in opposition to commutation. Other French Conservative papers not so guarded declared that if a plea of insanity was not allowed to interfere with the sentence of death passed on Louis Riel, it should not be adopted now as a principle to save the life of Shortis. It was hinted that certain persons of influence were making a point of saving Shortis from the gallows. Whatever there may have been in the report that the case would have some effect in th Montreal Centre election, it was true that the case was sent to the Council on Christmas eve, just four days before the election. The trouble arose, however, from the French-Canadian Ministers, who pointed out that commutation on the ground of insanity might prejudice the electors of Jacques Cartier against the Government. The Council spent the afternoon of Dec. 24 considering the case, the afternoon of Dec. 26 and the afternoon of Dec. 27. At this last meeting, which was on Saturday, it is said a decision was come to after a division was taken by a majority of one; which way that decision went it is difficult to say, because for some reason the utmost secrecy is observed in regard to it by members of the Council. But an announcement will be made to-morrow night. It is generally understood that the Minister of Justice reported to the Council in favor of commutation, and the chances are that commutation was decided on. Dr. Bergin, M.P., whose warm-hearted sympathy is always enlisted by distress, has taken an interest in the case, and has been a source of comfort to the convict's father and mother, who are spending those terrible hours at the Russell House.

The Premier stated a month ago that all the seats vacant in the House of Commons would be filled before Parliament met. When parliament meets West Huron and Charlevoix will still be vacant. In fact, the royal writ has been withheld from Charlevoix merely because the Tory party is not ready to nominate their candidate, and up to date it has not been issued. As seventeen days at least must elapse between the issue of the writ and the poll, it will be three weeks after Parliamentmeets before Charlevoix is represented. The cowardice displayed over Charlevoix is even worse than in the case of West Huron, because the deceased member for Charlevoix, Mr. Simard, was a Government supporter.

Information from Victoria, B.C., is to the effect that Mr. Templeman, editof of The Times, is giving Col. Prior a close run and will possibly defeat him. The Victoria election will show clearly how Liberalism has grown in that province and the good effect of Mr. Laurier's visit there.

It speaks well for the martial spirit of Canadians that at the present time there are in the Militia Department over three hundred applications for officers and men anxious to undergo military training at the several schools during the term commencing in January. The annual militia estimates however, only provide for the training of ten officers and twenty non-commissioned officers and men every three months, or 120 men for the year, so that unless Parliament votes a special appropriation in the shape of a supplementary estimate at the coming session it will not be possible for the department to meet the views of those who are anxious to undergo this special course of training.

Belleville, Ont.—W. W. Winchester Saturday pleaded guilty to a charge of raising an order from $3.96 to $18.96 and was sentenced to two months in jail.

Buffalo—Crandall & Co. of this city have contracted to supply during 1896 4000 cab horses for companies in London, Eng.

London, Eng.—Hepworth's clothing factory at Leeds was burned Saturday night, entailing a loss of $400,000.

St. Paul, Minn.—Despatches from the west indicate that a big snowstorm has seriously interfered with traffic.

Belleville, Ont.—Arthur Davis, a young man whose home is in Sydney, near this city, committed suicide by shooting himself a few days ago at Sterling, Ill., where he was employed in The Daily Standard printing office.

London—The young Duchess of Marlborough, nee Vanderbilt, who is now with her husband in Rome, is negotiating with a London insurance company for a policy in a large sum on her life, for the benefit of the Duke.

London.—The latest British treasury returns show that there will be a surplus of £5,000,000 over the estimates.

Berlin.—The Boerson Courier says that the American Government is negotiating with leading banks in Berlin for a loan of $200,000,000.

MONEY BILL PASSED.

The House of Representatives Endorses the Proposal for Bonds to Maintain the Gold Reserve.

Washington, Dec. 28.—By a vote of 170 to 136 the House to-day passed the section of the bill introduced by the Committee on Ways and Means, authorizing the issue of 3 per cent. coin bonds to maintain the gold reserve. Forty-seven Republicans voted with the Democrats against the proposition as did all the Populists and Mr. Newlands (Silver, Col.). Mr. Hutcheson of Texas was the only Democrat to ally himself with the great body of Republicans in support of the measure. There was no opposition to the second section of the bill directing the sale of certificates of indebtedness to meet temporary deficiency in revenue, and it was agreed to and the bill passed without a division.

The treasury receipts for December will probably exceed the expenditures about $500,000, and leave the deficit for that year about $15,500,000. So far this month the treasury has exchanged $18,000,000 in gold for legal tenders and for half year to date about $74,000,000. The treasury gold reserve at the close of business to-day stood at $63,717,987.

Rothschilds Will Not Take Any.

London, Dec. 29.—Much interest is displayed in financial circles here regarding the new proposed American bond issue. Pending the official announcement, however, of the issue of the loan, the interest to be paid and whether gold or coin bonds will be given to secure the loan, nothing definite can be predicted as to its influence on the European markets. There is a difference of opinion here as to the reception the London market would give even to new bonds bearing 4 per cent. interest, but it is significant that whereas a few days ago all idea of taking part of the issue was scouted, such action is now discussed as a probability.

The Times to-day repeats the report that the Rothschilds have declined to take any of the bonds at the present moment. It adds that doubtless capitalists will be found here ready to participate in the issue at a satisfactory price.

The Economist says that short-dated 3 per cent. coin bonds would certainly not be taken up in London, and, although they were placed in the United States, the Treasury would be unable to retain the gold realized by their sale, as it hitherto has been unable to retain the proceeds of former emissions.

The Daily News in its financial article to-day takes a view similar to that held by the gentlemen above referred to as authority for the statement that the 4 per cent. gold loan would be taken here.

DIABETES CURABLE

Given up to Die—Uses Dodd's Kidney Pills and is Cured by Eight Boxes.

KIRKFIELD (Special), Dec. 23.—Mr. Duncan McKenzie, miller and lumberman of this place, had returned from Kansas lately. Had failed in health and strength, had lost fifty pounds in weight. Was given up by his physician as well as by specialists in Toronto and by himself and friends. Now comes a change—he says in a letter to Dodd's Medicine Co.: "After commencing with your Dodd's Kidney Pills I got help inside of two weeks. I took eight boxes in eight weeks, am completely cured, not a symptom left, general health good. Have regained my old health and weight. Had been bothered with heart and liver, both have vanished with the diabetes. I can walk briskly for miles instead of crawling as before. Am a brother of the President of the Toronto Street Railway Co., and well known here." Diabetes is set down as incurable—but Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure.

Anglo-Russian Entente

London, Dec. 29.—Developments in the east point to an entente between Russia and Great Britain under which Russia will temporarily occupy the disturbed provinces of Asia Minor, Great Britain co-operating with Russia on the sea board. Russian overtures to this effect are undoubtedly before Lord Salisbury. The news yesterday from St. Petersburg adds to the belief that such négotiations are in progress.

Halibut are Scarce.

Gloucester, Mass, Dec. 28.—Halibut are very scarce. But one vessel has arrived from the banks for over a week. The fleet are scattered from Grand Banks to the Gully, and most of them have tried all over the various banks in vain searching for the fish.

Rheumatism Runs Riot

When there is lactic acid in the blood, liniments and lotions will be of no permanent benefit. A cure can be accomplished only by neutralising this acid and for this purpose Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best medicine because Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only true blood purifier prominently in the public eye.

Hood's Pills act easily, yet promptly and effectively, on the liver and bowels. 25c

NOMINATIONS FOR MUNICIPAL SEATS.

Mayoralty Candidates, Thos. Cahill and William Yelland.

LIST OF COUNCIL CANDIDATES NOMINATED.

A FULL LIST OF ASPIRANTS IN EVERY WARD.

Proceedings of Mayoralty Nominations—Addresses of the Candidates and Their Supporters—List of School Trustees Nominated.

The nominations for Mayor took place this morning at the Council Chamber. There was a large attendance of electors. The audience included several electors from Ashburnham. There was at times considerable enthusiasm for both candidates, but everything passed off good naturedly.

THE NOMINATIONS.

Mr. W. H. Moore, in nominating Mr. T. Cahill for Mayor, said he did so with confidence and without apology. He did so on account of a long service of twenty-two years unbroken and unprecedented, he believed, in municipal annals, Mr. Cahill had given excellent service. He had had a hand in that time in all the law-making that had been done in the town, and such a record entitled him to receive the cap sheaf in the shape of the mayoralty. No important subject had been brought up in which Mr. Cahill had not taken a prominent and intelligent part. He had hoped that Mr. Cahill would be returned unopposed, but Mr. Yelland had come out against him. The speaker had not one word to say against Mr. Yelland, but he had been a long time out of the council and was not in touch with the present condition of the town's affairs. There were important matters such as sewerage and other matters which Mr. Cahill knew more about than any other man in the town. It would be, Mr. Moore thought, an unfortunate thing if Mr. Cahill, with his full knowledge of these matters, should not be in the council, as he would not be if he were not elected mayor. Mr. Moore went on to point out the favourable condition in which the finances of the town were, compared to other towns. He quoted the case of five towns and minor cities which had about the same population as Peterborough. The debenture debt of Peterborough was $200,000, while that of the towns named was on an average nearly twice as much, $477,859; while Peterborough's rate of taxation was 16 mills on the dollar, that of these towns averaged 21 3-10 mills on the dollar. This condition of our town's finances was largely due to the services rendered by Mr. Cahill. It was the result of economy with efficiency in the civic service and he concluded by hoping that Mr. Cahill's valuable services would be available in the council for another year.

Mr. Dennistoun seconded Mr. Cahill's nomination but at the request of the clerk deferred any remarks till after other nominations were made.

Mr. J. H. Daubez nominated Mr. Wm. Yelland, and Mr. J. P. Metheral seconded the nomination. Subsequently, however, Mr. Daubez withdrew his nomination in favour of Mr. John Sawers, who nominated Mr. Yelland.

Mr. Dennistoun said that he had little to add to what Mr. Moore had said. He said that it seemed to be the general feeling that a man of twenty-two years experience like Mr. Cahill had earned his promotion to the Mayoralty unless there was some good reason to the contrary, and none had been shown. He had known Mr. Cahill a long time and his word was as good as his bond. He asserted that Mr. Cahill was nothing of a ward politician, but had been active in promoting works for the general benefit of the town, and it might be said in regard to Mr. Cahill's influence that any public schemes he favoured was generally carried. Mr. Cahill had not represented No. 1 Ward, but the whole town, and a man who had treated the town fairly as councillor would do the same as mayor. Mr. Dennistoun asserted that no man was better posted in the town's affairs than Mr. Cahill. Referring to the special position of the town's financial affairs, it required special training and special knowledge such as Mr. Cahill possessed. Mr. Cahill had had an all round municipal education and had discharged his duties faithfully. The creditable financial condition of the town was largely due to Mr. Cahill, as chairman of the finance committee. He had a surplus and had lowered the rate. Mr. Cahill was entitled to the mayoralty. The town should lay down the precedent that a man who had served well in a subordinate position should be given the higher position. This would encourage good men to serve the town well in view of the reward that would come to them when they sought it. Mr. Yelland had no doubt been a good councillor, but he had not lately been in touch with municipal affairs. Mr. Dennistoun said that he did not ask the electors to support Mr. Cahill for his own sake but for the sake of the town.

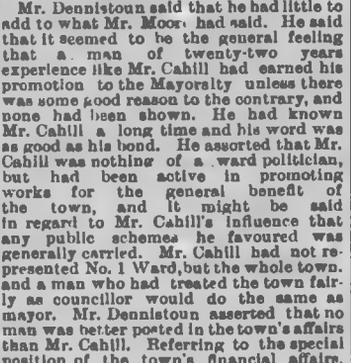
Mr. John Sawers said that Mr. Yelland would speak for himself as everybody knew him.

Mr. J. P. Metheral, said that if Mr. Cahill had got the town into difficulties, they should elect a man who would not get their town into trouble.

Mr. Moore asked Mr. Metheral to specify the difficulties to which he referred.

Mr. Cahill challenged Mr. Metheral or any other man to show him where he had been guilty of one crooked transaction.

MR. CAHILL'S ADDRESS.



Mr. Cahill who had put his remarks in writing was received with applause and said: I presume my first duty is to thank my mover and seconder for the kind words they have spoken of me, and also to thank this more than usually large audience for an occasion of this kind, for their marks of approval of what has been said.

This is the twenty-third occasion upon which I have appeared before the electorate of the good old town of Peterborough to solicit their suffrage, and I can say what probably few, if indeed any, man in the province can say—they never rejected me. It is true that on this occasion I appeal to a larger field, which consequently brings with it higher duties and larger responsibilities.

Since Mayor Kendry announced his determination to retire at the end of the present year, I have been frequently urged by several of the most prominent men in Peterborough, by men of every shade of opinion and every walk in life, from the humblest to the highest, to allow myself to be put in nomination for the mayor's chair, as a fitting wind-up of my municipal career, from which I intended retiring and from which I shall retire at the end of the incoming year if I am elected Mayor and spared so long. Of course if I am not elected I think I shall retire sooner.

The impression appeared to be general that on account of my long services and experience in the Council I would not be opposed, but a few individuals came to the conclusion that I must have opposition anyway, and formed themselves into a deputation and peddled the Mayoralty of this town around from Dan to Beersheba with very indifferent success, until finally they hit upon my present opponent.

I have not a word to say against Mr. Yelland personally; if I cannot be elected on my merits I don't want to be elected on any other person's demerits, (applause) but I do claim that I am better fitted to discharge the duties devolving on the Mayor of so large and progressive a town as Peterborough is, owing, remember, to my long and unbroken knowledge of the town's affairs. I have come up from the foot of the ladder, through all the stages requisite to acquire a thorough practical knowledge of the business of the corporation.

I have been chairman of every important committee of the Council and have been chairman of almost all special committees for the last fifteen years where the interests of the town required special attention. By unanimous resolution of the Council I have been acting Mayor upon all occasions when Mr. Kendry was absent, so that I have kept in touch with every detail of the town's business.

As chairman of the Finance Committee last year and this I think I may fairly claim a large share of the credit of putting our finances in the satisfactory condition they are in to-day and that is in a better condition than any other town or city in Canada. We lowered our rate of taxation this year one mill on the dollar and after providing for everything, including the stone and iron bridge on George street and the sewer from Townsend street, north to King, we have a tidy surplus, and I am quite confident, if I am Mayor next year, we will be able to reduce the rate at least another mill, without impairing the efficiency of the public service.

And now, sir, as to the surplus. I would expend that by commencing at the earliest possible moment that the weather would permit; works of a permanent character on our principal streets and as a large quantity of the material required for such work—for instance, stone, gravel and sand—can be procured cheaply during the winter months, I would commence at once to contract for this material with a view of commencing the permanent work in the early part of the year, when it would least interfere with mercantile business.

This question of permanent work forces itself upon us from the fact that timber is increasing in price, while permanent work can be done at very much less cost than even two years ago.

I might say here that this is a matter that Mr. Best, the chairman of the Street and Bridge Committee, and myself have frequently discussed during the year, and upon which we thoroughly agree.

In order to prepare the way for this work, I would have the sewer pushed through to Brock street in the early spring—when working people need work the most, and when the work would least interfere with business on the street. The question will naturally present itself to your mind, how are you going to accomplish this without raising the taxes? Well, I think I can answer this to your satisfaction. Under our present system of doing things, we expend annually from ten to fifteen thousand dollars on streets and bridges, and I think I am not over-estimating when I say we expend fifteen hundred dollars of that amount on George street, principally in hauling material on the street in summer and drawing it away again in mud in the spring. Fifteen hundred dollars will pay the interest and sinking fund on $30,000, and as the property owners are willing to pay their proportion of the cost the same as other places, this would give us, say, $40,000, which is more than sufficient to lay down a permanent roadway and sidewalk on George street from Murray to King streets. Then you have a start made, and when the people see the advantage of it the demand for it will keep growing from year to year until it is extended to all the central portion of the town.

There are other matters of grave importance which the council for 1896 will have to deal with. For instance, the contract for street lighting will expire on the 1st January, 1897, and of course some arrangement will have to be made before the contract expires for lighting the streets. This, as also the water system of the town are matters that must engage the attention not only of the council, but also of the citizen who feels any interest in the town, and if elected I shall take an early opportunity of bringing these matters before the ratepayers at large for their mature consideration. They might, perhaps, decide that it would be in the interest of the town to take the control of these matters into their own hands as has been done in other places; at all events these matters will engage the attention of the people, and whatever conclusion they arrive it will be my duty to carry out to the best of my ability.

And I might say here, gentlemen, that my ability has not been doubted so far as I have heard of, it has not been said that I have not worked faithfully and honestly or not efficiently for the best interests of the town.

You cannot drive over any of our permanent bridges to-day that I have not been the foremost in advocating. You cannot go to the Little Lake Cemetery without giving me credit for the handsome roadway and cribwork that leads to that beautiful resting place of your departed friends.

When you go to the market house you must give me credit for that also, in spite of the strong opposition I met with, and I am sure you will be pleased to know that the investment is bringing the town 8 per cent., without counting the advantage of one of the most commodious market halls in Canada.

Mr. Metheral said that the foundation under the market building was defective, and a bridge had been built over the Otonabee that had fallen in.

Mr. Moore—That was 25 years ago.

Mr. Cahill said that he would next be accused of having been in Noah's Ark.

Mr. Frank Ray asked what about the Mason law suit.

In reply to this Mr. Cahill said that he had taken the advice of the Town Solicitor in that matter and had placed the responsibility upon him. Continuing Mr. Cahill said, I have endeavoured, Mr. Chairman and gentlemen, to lay before you the true state of the affairs of this town as they exist. I must not forget that one charge has been made against me and it is the only charge that has been publicly made. That charge is that I have favoured what is called the liquor intetests of this town. I have no objection to tell you frankly my position on that question. It is simply this: that so long as the government of our country legalizes that business and makes it therefore a lawful business that any man who feels so disposed may engage in, so long as he complies with the law, that man is entitled to the protection of the law, and while I would not favour him more nor less than any other citizen. I would not be a party to digging a hole for him to fall into and then punish him because he had fallen in.

I might say also that I cannot see how cutting off the licenses of a few old and respectable citizens will help the cause of temperance so long as another within a few rods of them is permitted to sell the same stuff. On the other hand allow me to tell you that when a strong effort was made early in the early part of this year to dismiss the Chief of Police I stood between him and harm, for I shall never be a party to dismiss any man for doing his duty, nor deprive another man of the common rights of citizenship within the law. I feel it is due to you and to myself that I should submit for your judgment and consideration the matters affecting the well being and prosperity of our good town. I feel that there is room only for one large commercial city between Montreal and Toronto. Shall we be that city or not? Shall we take advantage of the facilities which kind Providence has placed at our command, or shall we bury them under the ground?

If you desire to be that city, if you would use the advantages which Providence has placed at our disposal, it is your duty to elect men of broad, liberal and comprehensive views, men who in the past have shown that they can grasp the situation, who have given their time freely, yes, and their money, too, to advance the best interests of our good town.

Mr. Cahill closed his address by wishing the electors all a happy and prosperous New Year, and was applauded as he took his seat.

MR. YELLAND'S REMARKS.

Mr. Yelland, who was received with applause, said he appeared before the people to ask for the honour he previously felt that he might some time aspire to. He was a few years older than Mr. Cahill, and as he had told that gentleman the other day he thought that this was a time when he should receive the honour of election as mayor. He had during his long term in the council sat with Mr. Cahill at the council board and had found him an honest man, though there were some things upon which he did not agree with Mr. Cahill, as there were some things at the present time upon which he differed with him. He appealed to the electors as a straightforward, honest, upright independent citizen. He was that when he was in the council where he faithfully discharged his duty without fear of any man, and he dared any man to to put a finger upon any crooked or dishonorable acts either as a citizen or as a representative of No. 3 Ward. He felt that his services in the council for thirteen years should have at the hands of his fellow-citizens the recognition implied in his election as Mayor. He might himself have been twenty-three years in the Town Council, but he had retired of his own free will in order to give others a chance to serve his ward. Mr. Cahill had been in the council twenty-two years because he had sought the position,

NO MILITARY SCHOOL THIS WINTER.

The Quarters to be Reserved for Detachments From the Imperial Service.

Although there are many who never regard the prospects of war with the United States as something which it was never intended should come to pass, yet that England herself was apprehensive of an outbreak on the part of the Americans and the exhibition of a hostile feeling towards Canada is evinced by the fact that detachments from the Imperial Army are already being despatched to Canada.

Peterborough, strange as it may appear at first sight, is directly interested in the ordering of the forces to the Dominion, as in consequence of the English regiments being quartered at the different military schools there will be no room for the candidates who were accepted from the Rangers to study there this winter, and a notification to this effect has been received by Lieut.-Col. Bell. They were to go down to the school early in January and are greatly disappointed at being unable to take the course, having made full arrangements to do so. There is a probability, however, that if the war scare blows over there may yet be a show for the boys. England is evidently determined to be fully prepared in case of any emergency and to be on the ground the moment the trouble begins.

THE MASONIC BANQUET.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR,—In THE EXAMINER'S account in Saturday's issue of the banquet on Friday evening, and of my reply to the toast of the "Yearly Visitors," you report me as making a most unbecoming reference to my connection with the Children's Aid Society. I wish to correct this, as I made no reference whatever to this society.

Yours, etc.,
HAMPDEN BURNHAM.

Dec. 29th, 1895.

Sometimes the most careful women are the most careless. Many a woman bundles herself up, to keep out sickness—when she is neglecting the very worst sickness that can come to a woman. She allows a slight disorder to become worse, to slowly sap her vitality. The little pain and the other slight indications of trouble seem to her unimportant. She goes on with increasing suffering, until life itself becomes a drag. Nervousness, "sinking spells," digestive disturbances, and fifty other complications may arise from the derangement of the organs distinctly feminine. Over thirty years ago, the need for a reliable remedy for so-called "female complaints" was recognised by Dr. R. V. Pierce, then, as now, chief consulting physician to the to the World's Dispensary and Invalid's Hotel, at Buffalo, N. Y. He prepared Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, the most wonderfully effective remedy that has ever been used for such maladies.

A STRONG SERMON ON "SIGNS OF THE TIMES."

REV. DR. TORRANCE ON PRESENT DAY TOPICS.

An Address Which Greatly Interested the Congregation of St. Paul's Church Yesterday Morning.

Rev. Dr. Torrance preached a very powerful sermon yesterday on "Signs of the Times," which has occasioned a great deal of comment since its deliverance. He spoke from Matthew xvi. 3, and in introducing his topic explained that the Pharisees and Sadducees had come to Jesus with the request that he would show them a sign from heaven. Knowing the spirit in which their request was made and the uselessness of giving them any other signs than they had already seen, Jesus answered: "When it is evening, ye say, it will be fair weather, for the sky is red. And in the morning, it will be foul weather to-day for the sky is red and lowering; O ye hypocrites, ye can discern the face of the sky; but can ye not discern the signs of the times."

It was absurd, yea wicked, for these men to ask for a sign from heaven; they had already signs sufficient to lead them to the truth.

They were surrounded by signs in external nature. Some of these signs they could interpret, as for instance, those afforded as to the probabilities of the weather from the appearance of the morning and evening sky.

They were surrounded by signs in providence, in the events which were happening in their midst. These signs they could not interpret; their real meaning they could not understand. God has revealed Himself to us in Nature. Nature is His handiwork. The world is the star-domed city of God, filled with objects calculated to call forth our interest. It is well, then, to study the signs which Nature exhibits and to discover their meaning. God has revealed Himself to us in Providence. It is not by chance that things happen as they do. God's hand may be seen just as clearly in the processes of the age and in the developments of civilization as in external nature. The events which are now happening are the signs of the times, and we ought to examine these signs and to endeavor to understand their meaning. There are many accurate interpreters of the signs in external nature who have failed to see or to understand the meaning of Providential signs.

God has revealed Himself to us in His Word. This is by far the clearest and fullest revelation which He has given.

THIS MAKES KNOWN to us truths concerning God which neither Nature nor Providence reveal. This revelation ought, then, to be the subject study; our aim should be to discover what it really means.

It is the revelation of God in Providence to the signs of the times that I wish to ask your attention on this the last Sabbath of another year.

The signs of the times as seen in the social problems which present themselves for solution at the present time. It is generally admitted that we are to day, face to face with social problems of immense importance. The solution of which will require our best thought and effort. There is a widespread dissatisfaction with the present condition of human society, no only on the part of those who are suffering from social wrongs, but also on the part of many who look at matters from a dispassionate point of view. Prof. Huxley said some time ago—"I do not hesitate to express the opinion that if there is no hope of a large improvement of the condition of the human family, if it is true that the increase of knowledge, the winning of a greater domain, our nature which is its consequence, and the wealth which follows upon that domain and to make no difference in the extent and intensity of want with its concomitant physical moral degredation amongst the masses of the people. I should hail the advent of some kindly comet, which should sweep the whole affair away as a desirable consummation." The changes which have taken place in the world during the past century have been without a parallel in its history. As the result of the development of applied science, railways and telegraphs have been extended on an enormous scale, the production of all kinds of articles has been facilitated and commerce has developed in all parts of the world. This has been the means of bringing the different nations of the earth into close connection with each other, of loosening the old bonds of society, and of bringing new forces into play. Population is to a large extent massing itself in towns and cities and the industrial classes are becoming a powerful factor in every community. The spread of education among the masses and the extension of the franchise have put in the hands of the people new weapons for securing what they believe to be their rights. And that they will not be slow to use these weapons, we may be quite sure. They are conscious that they have not shared in the benefits flowing from the progress which has been made. While the wealth of the world has been increasing, it has been passing into the possession of the few not of the many. Colossal fortunes are being built up; but the working classes have all they can do to make a livelihood and in the large cities there are the thousands of the lapsed masses sunk in abject poverty. The conflict between was never so severe as it is at the present time. The organization of society into different ranks is an indication of the suspicion with which the different classes regard each other. The strikes which take place from time to time, are like the volcano, which shows the condition of things inside the mountain. On the one side there are the rich, with their syndicates, corporations and federations of capital, on the other side the poor with their societies, trades union and federations of labour.

We are not undertaking to pronounce upon the merits of the conflict between capital and labour. It is likely that here, as is usual in conflicts, there are faults on both sides. Strikes usually entail a great deal of suffering upon the strikers, and it is doubtful if they lead to any permanent good. But the very fact of strikes taking place is an indication that there are grievances real or supposed.

There is a capitalist who during a period of great prosperity has accumulated an enormous fortune. During these years his employees were receiving only fair wages, not benefitting to any extent in the prosperity. A period of great depression sets in and work becomes scarce. The capitalist immediately discharges some of his men, and cuts down the wages of others. This, so far as I have been able to learn, was the history of the Pullman car strike, some eighteen months ago. We think it only natural for men, under such circumstances, to believe that they have a real grievance.

Some time ago in England a number of startling facts were brought to light by the enquiries of the Sweating Commission. There is a woman left penniless by the death of her husband, and obliged to support herself and several little children. She sews from early morning until late at night, and yet scarce earns enough to procure the plainest food for herself and family. Her little ones often go hungry to bed, their garments are in tatters. She looks out of her window and sees the head of the firm for whom she works driving in his splendid carriage with his liveried servants. Surely it would be difficult to convince that widow that she had not a grievance. Prof. Huxley says:—"I take it to be a mere plain truth that throughout industrial Europe there is not a single large manufacturing city which is free from a vast mass of people in a condition of misery, and from a still greater mass who, living just on the edge of the great social swamp, are liable to be precipitated into it by any lack of demand for their produce. And with every addition to the population the multitude already sunk in the pit and the number of the host sliding towards it continually increase."

The enquiries of Mr. Booth as to the state of things among the poor of London has brought some solemn facts to light: 30.7 per cent. of the population of London were found to be poverty, and this exclusive of the regularly employed and fairly paid working class.

It is because of the state of things which I have endeavored to describe that so much of the recent legislation in Great Britain has aim at benefitting

THE WORKING CLASSES.

The Eight-hour bill, the Factory Act, the Employers' Liability bill, brought in by the late British Government, were intended to lighten the burdens of the working classes. It is highly probable that the present Government will legislate in the same lines, devoting attention also to the condition of the agricultural labourer.

Closely connected with these matters to which I have referred is the wide spread and long-continued commercial depression from which so many countries are suffering. This commercial depression is said to be the most severe which has occurred within the memory of any now living. And along with this depression there has been a steady decrease in the value of farm lands and produce. Farms in our own neighbourhood are not renting for much more than half that they would have brought a few years ago. It is a sign of the times, which is calculated to awaken apprehension."

Always ready—Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It needs no mixing, no shaking, no disguise—nothing but a spoon. At dead of night, your child startles you with a croupy cough. Immediately that you give this remedy, the little one is relieved, and the household is again at rest.

The things that people see are inside of them and not outside. No two people see the same thing exactly alike. One woman may look out at a beautiful landscape and see all the beauty and restfulness and grandness that there is in it. Another one will look out at the same scene and see nothing. One will find enjoyment in a brilliant company, in music, in dancing, in an exquisitely prepared dinner. Another will enjoy these things half as much—another not at all. The things that people see are inside them. What one sees and what one enjoys depends upon the bodily condition—depends upon the capacity for enjoyment—depends upon the health and the vitality. The sick man has pain or discomfort so impressed upon him that he has no time to think of much else. A weak man has all he can do to struggle for mere existence. He has no strength to use in procuring pleasure. His performances are limited by his strength. He can do only a few things so he can enjoy only a few things. The man who is perfectly well and vigorous enjoys life to the full. The bedridden invalid enjoys it not at all. The man who is half sick and half well gets out of life about half what he ought to. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes people well. It doesn't do it in a miraculous way. There isn't anything unnatural about it—it is the most natural thing in the world. It simply puts the digestive organs, the stomach, the liver, the bowels, in perfect order and thereby makes the blood pure and rich. It doesn't have to do anything else. Nature does all the rest. All diseases live and thrive on impure blood. Keep a stream of pure, rich, red blood flowing into a diseased spot, and the disease will not stay. A man lives on rich, pure blood, and disease dies on it. That's the difference. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes pure, rich blood—makes men and women strong and healthy; brings good appetite, good digestion and builds up solid, healthy flesh.

A BURNING SHAME.

No Pity in Europe for the Woes of Armenia.

THE GAME OF THE DIPLOMATS

Rascally Turks Allowed to Work Their Fiendish Will—The Story of an Eye-Witness of the Horrors—Lord Rosebery Writes a Scorching Letter.

London, Dec. 29.—Dr. Henry S. Lunn, editor of The Review of the Church, and Percy W. Bunting, editor of The Contemporary Review, have addressed the following communication to "all editors in England and America": "We enclose extracts from a letter from a private friend who spent several months of this year in Armenia, and who is one of the authorities on the question, as indeed you would admit if we were at liberty to publish his name. May we beg you to insert these in the next issue of your paper."

"Any allusion to Armenia upsets me. I am ashamed, excited, indignant, when I think of what I saw in that country, and of the confidence with which I consoled quaking women and weeping men with hopes that England would see them through their difficulties, and the words of heartfelt thanks they uttered, often upon their knees, in the fields or on the hillsides, and the child-like messages of anticipatory gratitude which they asked me to deliver to the English people now burn and rankle within me like an envenomed wound. The European powers are playing a farcical representation round the graves of a Christian people. If conduct similar to theirs were to be pursued by an individual in private life, it would be visited with social ostracism, and would brand him with an indelible Cain's mark of infamy. Fancy a man's neighbors parading around the doors of his house while he and his children rush frantically from room to room and from window to window, imploring them to save them from the devouring flames. We have pity on a rat if we hear of its protracted and hopeless efforts to escape from burning, but men and women, boys and girls, who are killed piecemeal, are laughed at—that is what is has come to.

"The Governments of Europe are a spectacle to make angels weep. They guard the gates of Turkey, so to say, solemnly declaring that whatever may happen to the Christians, however diabolically they may be tortured to death, nothing shall happen to the Turks—they at any rate must and will be preserved from harm. Is it a wonder, then, that the Turks should set about fulfilling their threat of wiping out Armenia in Armenian blood? Every one knew that the threat would be fulfilled. Consuls reported to their Governments that the departure of the European delegates from Moush would mark the beginning of the blood-bath, and newspapers gave the prophecy publicity. Appeals to the public to insist on precautionary measures were multiplied and at last mere verbal warnings gave place to unmistakable signs and preparations. But diplomacy turned a deaf ear. Were they Greek or Bulgarians, Magyars, or serfs, they would have protectors who tellingly talk of the primary duty of protecting brothers and Christians. Even Abyssinians are brethren and orthodox when political calculations come in. But Armenians are nobody's kith and kin and so none of these Governments insisted on the dismissal of Zekki Pasha and the authors of Sassoun savagery. Nay, they were decorated and honored by the Sultan as an encouragement to others to go and do likewise. And now others have gone and have out-Heroded Herod, and no one seems shocked. People are only interested to get the latest news of Sivas or wherever the latest massacres have occurred, at their breakfast table early. Few persons take even a remote interest in the Armenian question on the continent, and those few are the advocates of Turkey. The Austrian press, said to be paid by the Turkish Government impudently denies the Russian massacres, and accuses the Armenians of having attempted to butcher the Kurds and Turks. The German press is the bearer of the same kind of culture to its readers, and in both these countries the public knows nothing about the Armenian question. The Russian papers, beginning with the Novo Vremya, crack jokes at the Armenians and in the last numbers which I have read, ask, 'Why should we Russians sacrifice a single soldier for the safety of Armenian bankers and millionaires, who are much better off than we are ourselves, to say nothing of British and American agitators, who have so cleverly got up the Armenian comedy?'

"A couple of regiments of British soldiers or Cossacks is wanted. They would set matters right in a few days. But even if the whole English-speaking people should arise and demand this, would it be accorded?"

A Stinger From Rosebery.

London, Dec. 29.—The morning papers will to-morrow print a letter from ex-Prime Minister Rosebery, dated Dec. 24, in which he says that he has been haunted by the horrors that have occurred in Asia Minor. Continuing, he says: "The country entrusted the present Ministry with a dictatorship. The chief of the Ministry has uttered sounding threats which might well raise the hopes of the people for whom he spoke. What has been the result? Our protests have been idle, our action futile and our menaces disregarded."

In conclusion Lord Rosebery declares that the Government is solely responsible for the condition of affairs and suggests that it gravely misled the country when it said the concert of Europe on the Armenian question was complete.

Russia May Make a Dash.

London, Dec. 29.—The Chronicle will to-morrow print a despatch from Constantinople saying that the constant movements of the Black Sea fleet lead to the belief that it may make a surprise visit to Constantinople on the pretext of assisting the Sultan to quell carefully prepared disorders.

The Constantinople correspondent of The Standard telegraphs that M. Nelidoff, the Russian Ambassador, had a long private audience with the Sultan on Wednesday. He says that it would cause no surprise should it be learned that there is a secret Russo-Turkish treaty. It is well known in Constantinople that the so-called concert of the powers consists of a confused entente between five of them, while Russia backs Turkey, whose finances are in a hopeless condition. Russia, it is said, is now offering to loan money to the Porte.

Constantinople.—The Turks captured Zeitoun, losing 250 men. The Armenian loss was 2500.

Consumptives Should Neglect

No means of ameliorating their disease. Cod Liver Oil is acknowledged one of the most valuable remedies in pulmonary complaints. That, however it be employed in such a form as to be easily digested is imperative. It is just here that the entire superiority of Maltine with Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites asserts itself. Maltine itself possesses nutritive value equal to cod liver oil, but more important to the sufferer from bronchitis, colds, consumption, is the great digestive power of maltine upon all foods of a starchy nature. Maltine with Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites is, in brief, a food of great value in emaciation and wasting diseases; a medicine possessing the remedial power of cod liver oil; a digestive agency of active potency; a restorer of the debilitated. Try it for two weeks.

SPANISH RULE IN CUBA.

A Meeting in Havana—Cuba's Destiny Can Only be Achieved Under the Flag of Spain.

Havana, Dec. 28.—An important meeting was held here to-day in support of Spanish rule in Cuba. Speeches were made by a number of prominent Conservatives, Autonomists and Reformists, all of whom declared that Cuba's destiny could only be achieved under the flag of Spain.

Senor Santos Guzman declared that the Conservatives gave their full adhesion to the party of the Government. The meeting of the several political parties proved that Cuba, equally with Spain, was willing to make sacrifices to save the island from destruction.

Senor Montoros, a leader of the Autonomist party, declared that the party subscribed to the sentiments expressed by Senor Guzman. He expressed the hope that the rebellion would be speedily put down, constitutional rights restored and the public liberties safeguarded. The Cuban people generally, he said, were determined to remain under the Spanish banner.

Senor Corra, speaking for the Reformists, said that the members of that party were willing to lay down their lives and sacrifice their property to save Cuba to the Spanish crown.

Captain-General Campos also addressed the meeting. His appearance was the signal for tumultuous applause and cries of "Long live the King!" and "Long live Spain!" He said that the circumstances of the present revolt were more showy than terrible. The unanimity of the sentiment displayed by those present would induce foreign countries to open their eyes to the true feeling of the island. He declared that he did not intend to resign or abandon Cuba while anyone was in arms against the Government. The fact that those so widely separated in their political faiths could hold a meeting where the only sentiment voiced was loyalty to Spain must make a deep impression on the rebels, and he expressed the hope that such manifestations of devotion to the crown would prove to the insurgents the futility of their hope to cause a general Cuban rising, leading them to return to their homes, where they would again be greeted as brothers.

SEVEN PERSONS LOST.

A Coasting Steamer Belonging to the Red D Line Sunk.

New York, Dec. 28.—The "Red D" steamer Caracas arrived this afternoon from Porto Cabello, and among her passengers were three distressed seamen. The seamen were A. O. Watrous, chief engineer; Patrick Kenny, first assistant engineer, and H. Lucto, the carpenter of the steamer Nansemond, a steamer of the Red D Line, which was employed in coasting service in Venezuela. The Nansemond was bound from Caracas to Maracaibo, and on Dec. 21, off the island of Aruba ran into the Spanish steamer Mexico. All hands were in confusion, caused by the shock, and no one in authority appeared to be able to give orders. The Nansemond sank in 20 minutes. The Spanish steamer picked up a number of the passengers and crew. A Government tug, which happened to be in the vicinity, was active in saving a large number of persons. The chief engineer was found floating on a hatch four hours after the collision. Seven persons in all—four passengers and three of the crew—were lost. Kenny said he could not account for the accident beyond the fact that it appeared to be a question of right of way. The Nansemond was a screw steamer of 223 tons burden. She was built in Baltimore and was owned in Wilmington, Del.

AYER'S Hair VIGOR

Restores natural color to the hair, and also prevents it falling out. Mrs. H. W. Fenwick, of Digby, N. S., says:

"A little more than two years ago my hair began to turn gray and fall out. After the use of one bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor my hair was restored to its original color and ceased falling out. An occasional application has since kept the hair in good condition."—Mrs. H. F. Fenwick, Digby, N. S.

Growth of Hair.

"Eight years ago, I had the variloid, and lost my hair, which previously was quite abundant. I tried a variety of preparations, but without beneficial result, till I began to fear I should be permanently bald. About six months ago, my husband brought home a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and I began at once to use it. In a short time, new hair began to appear, and there is now every prospect of as thick a growth of hair as before my illness."—Mrs. A. Wer— ——lymnia St., New Orleans, La.

WAR WITH ITS HORRORS.

Desperate Fighting in Cuba, Followed by Fire and General Devastation—Awful Carnage.

New York, Dec. 27.—A despatch to The Herald from Matanzas, Cuba, under date Dec. 27, gives the following details of the recent fighting at Colon: It was on the night of Friday, the 20th, that the rebels opened fire on the Spanish outposts at Colon, and from that time up to the present moment the fighting has continued without abatement.

The first attack was made on the outposts of Campos' right flank after dark on Friday evening, with skirmishing and exchanging of shots between pickets. A general attack was not expected, but the entire force was called to arms, and none too soon, for Gomez was leading in person an attack on Arroyo Coloma to the south and right. The first onslaught was successfully repelled, and the Spanish lines, flushed with their first victory, moved forward. Gomez did not delay, and his second charge was irresistible. The Spaniards fell back in disorder and a complete rout would have followed, but for the timely arrival of artillery.

In the meantime a battle equally fierce raged on the left of Colon. Maceo, with his whole cavalry and black infantry, swept away the light line of front and made himself master of several field pieces and then concentrated his attack upon the centre, where a solid triangle of infantry stood between him and the heavy unmanned batteries and field stores of the Spaniards. There was a fierce fight on all sides. It lasted through the entire night, and as the gray streaks of dawn shot through the sky the battle was neither lost nor won.

The positions of the armies were virtually the same, but with a slight advance of the rebel lines and a falling back of the Spanish. About noon on the 21st, Gomez made another assault on the Arroyo Coloma approach to Colon, carried the first entrenchment and captured four guns. Within the lines his charge was met by the famous Austurias regiment, and the fierce rebel fighters made several unsuccessful attempts to break through the line of bayonets. The Machete charges were furious, and only the cavalry at the right and the masked batteries at the left kept them in position until the arrival of Gen. Prat with a reinforcement of 4000 men. The arrival of Gen. Prat for the time being saved the right of the line, but as the left was giving way and the centre, even though freshly reinforced by Gen. Navarro, with 3200 infantry, was about to be broken through, Gen. Campos ordered the main force to retire beyond Colon.

The entire country surrounding the armies was in flames and with the retreat of the Spaniards, general disorder and confusion reigned. The negro troops of Gomez and Maceo made havoc among the weak lines at the front, and only the good management of the artillery lines, which were covering the retirement of Campos, saved him from ignominious rout.

The armies passed through Colon precipitately, and as they did so many sections of the little city were on fire, while the streets and houses were filled with killed and wounded, brought from the fight. On the morning of the 22nd Campos was preparing to move with his army on the line of the direct railroad to Matanzas, when he learned that another detachment of the insurgents was between Colon and Perico, that the railroad had been demolished and that the villages of Roque and Perico were on fire. The cane fields and woods the entire distance were burning, and it was impossible for him to move in that direction. With his cavalry and artillery covering the rear of his army, Campos boarded trains for Navajas on the road to Bostano. His retreat was in a direct line to Matanzas, and had been cut off and with strong bodies of rebels to the front and rear of his former position, his only hope was to reach Jovellanos by rail and present a new front to the enemy.

Good fighting was done by the cavalry left to guard the railroad, but Gen Oliver, the officer in command, was killed, and Gen. Prat was wounded.

Campos himself was slightly wounded in the arm after boarding the train for Navajas. His main force arrived at Jovellanos on the eve of the 22nd.

Catarrh can be successfully treated only by purifying the blood, and the one true blood purifier is Hood's Sarsaparilla.

THE DEMOCRATS

Will Oppose Both the Tariff and Bond Bills.

THE POSITION OF THE SILVER MEN

An Impassioned Speech by Mr. Johnson of California in Favor of Free Coinage—An Amendment to the Tariff Bill to be Offered.

Washington, Dec. 27.—The Democrats in both Houses have decided to oppose both the tariff bill, which is to be brought in for the purpose of providing the necessary additional revenue, and the bond bill, which the Republicans propose to meet the suggestions of the President's message. The opposition of the Democrats is based mainly upon party grounds. They are playing at politics. They know that there is a deficit in the treasury, and that, under existing conditions, it is likely to continue. They know also that the bond bill which will be introduced will meet the exigencies of the treasury and comply with the suggestions of the President's last message. Yet the Democrats of the House have determined to resist the passage of both measures.

Washington, Dec. 27.—In the Senate the House bill, "To temporarily increase the revenue to meet the expenses of the Government, and provide against deficiency," was received from the House, read a first and second time, and referred to the Finance Committee.

The opposition to the bond bill, which developed with unexpected rapidity among the Republicans in the House yesterday, an opposition which, it is claimed, threatened to defeat the passage of the bill, resulted in its amendment by the Ways and Means Committee this morning, so as to prevent the retirement of the legal tender notes. The implied retirement of these notes in the bill, as originally agreed upon, furnished the inspiration for much of the hostility to the measure among certain of the Republicans who belong to "the sound money wing of the party." The action of the committee to-day nullifies this hostility.

In the House the debate on the Bond bill was opened by Mr. Dingley, who advocated its passage in a speech of scarcely an hour's duration. He said its provisions would tend to strengthen and protect the gold reserve by making it a fund for the redemption of greenbacks only, and not a fund to be drawn upon for current expenses.

The passage of the bill was also advocated in the course of the afternoon by Mr. Grosvenor (Rep., Ohio), as a patriotic duty; by Mr. Lacey (Rep., Ohio), and Mr. Johnson (Rep., N.D.).

It was opposed by Mr. Turner (Dem., Ga.), who said the Administration wanted all the paper money retired, and that if he had had an opportunity to do so, he would have offered to so amend the bill; by Mr. Patterson (Dem., Tenn.), who said the duty of Congress was to restore confidence in the currency; and Messrs. Swanson (Dem., Va.) and Wheeler (Dem., Ala.).

The sensation of the day came at a late hour in the afternoon, when Mr. Johnson (Rep., Cal.) voiced in an impassioned manner the opposition to the measure in the ranks of the majority. He said it gave the lie to every Republican speech and every Republican platform, and he pleaded with his political associates to vote against it. He was cheered by the Democrats and many Republicans as he predicted the defeat of the bill, and declared that the only true relief to be obtained was in the free and unlimited coinage of silver.

Mr. Burrows to-day offered in the Senate an amendment to the tariff bill, which imposes until August 1, 1898, a duty equivalent to 40 per cent. of the duties imposed by the McKinley Act and subject to the conditions and limitations of that act upon the following articles:

Schedule A—Acid, sulphur or oil of vitriol, not otherwise provided for; copper, sulphate of, or blue vitriol; coal tar, all preparations of, not colors or dyes, mineral oils; sulphate of iron or copperas; indigo, iodine, cottonseed and croton oil, paints, colors, etc.; potash-sulphate of soda, glauber salts and salt or nitre cake.

Schedule B—Iron ores, cotton ties of iron or steel; copper and manufacturers of.

Schedule D—Flax, hemp, twines and binding.

Schedule G—Agricultural products, fresh milk, broom corn, cabbage, cider, eggs, plants, etc., peas, fresh fish, tallow, grease of wool, salt.

Schedule H—Lemonade, soda water and other similar waters.

Schedule N—Sundries — Feathers, paintings, statutary, hatters' plush, articles under section 3, act of Oct. 1, 1890—coffee, goat skins, raw hides, etc.

The new bill imposes a duty of 60 per cent. of the McKinley rates on lumber, which, under the present law, is imported free. This would fix rates in this way:

Lumber, hewn or sawed, 6 per cent. ad valorem; squared or sided, 3-10th of a cent per cubic foot; sawed boards 60 cents per thousand feet; other sawed lumber, $1.20 per thousand, with 30 cents extra for each side planed; 60 cents planed one side, tongued and grooved.

Pine clapboards would pay 60 cents per thousand; spruce clapboards, 90 cents per thousand; hubs, 12 per cent. ad valorem; laths, 9 cents per thousand; pickets, 6 cents per thousand; shingles, of white pine, 12 per cent of other wood, 18 per cent.; staves, 6 per cent.

One Honest Man.

Dear Editor:—Please inform your readers, that if written to confidentially I will mail in a sealed letter, particulars of a genuine, honest home cure, by which I was permanently restored to health and manly vigor, after years of suffering from nervous debility, sexual weakness, night losses and weak shrunken parts. I was robbed and swindled by the quacks until I nearly lost faith in mankind, but thank heaven, I am now well, vigorous and strong, and wish to make this certain means of cure known to all sufferers. I have nothing to sell, and want no money, but being a firm believer in the universal brotherhood of man, I am desirous of helping the unfortunate to regain their health and happiness. Perfect secrecy assured. Address with stamp:—Mr. Edward Lambert. P. O Box 55, Jarvis, Ont.

A REMARKABLE CASE.

Rheumatism of 20 years' standing radically cured by Scott's Sarsaparilla.

Mrs. Sarah Browning, an estimable resident of the Ambitious City, was for twenty years a sufferer from acute rheumatism, and her restoration to health is so remarkable that we present the case for the benefit of our readers, many of whom are doubtless sufferers from this painful complaint which arises from blood poison. Mrs. Browning says: "I used only one bottle of Scott's Sarsaparilla and received such benefit that I continued taking only at intervals for two months. That is seven months ago, and the pain has not returned. I had spent a fortune in various "treatments" and was told by one medical man that a cure was impossible as I had suffered so long."

Scott's Sarsaparilla cures by making and keeping the blood pure. It increases flesh by digesting flesh-forming foods. It is the most successful medicine in the world to-day, for dyspepsia, nervous troubles, rheumatism, sciatica, syphilitic afflictions, pimples and all diseases originating in a foul condition of the blood. Dose from one half to one teaspoonful.

DOURO.

From Our Own Correspondent.

On Christmas, day Father Kielty preached on Christian Unity. He took for his text: "Glory to God in the Highest and peace on earth to men of good will." This he said is the way the vulgate renders the text. The Rev. gentlemen said that Xmas 1895, saw Protestants and Catholics nearer one another than they ever have been in the past. There was everywhere abroad a friendlier feeling between Protestants and Catholics. The stars in their courses, he said emphatically are fighting for Christian Unity. The Pope some time ago had sent out a kindly message to the Protestant world. Catholic priests in the western states were going into town halls and village lyceums to tell the Protestants what the Catholics do not believe as well as what they do believe. Letters went to show he said that Protestants were animated now by a friendlier spirit towards Catholics than ever before.

COUNTERFEITS.

A few years ago a great discovery was made.

Unprincipled persons are trying to prey upon and dupe people who are led to ask for kidney treatment.

Some of the methods adopted by imitators are as follows:—

First;—To imitate the size, color and shape of Dodd's Kidney Pills and sell them by count.

Second:—To put them up to appear very nearly the same and to be offered at the same price.

Third;—To hook on the word "kidney" in naming catharatic pills so as to increase sales of mere physic.

Fourth;—To give a name so near to Dodd's that unwary people may be deceived and think they are getting Dodd's.

Look out for such dodges. When you want kidney medicine you want the best. And ought not to be the subject of any trick.

So beware.

NOMINATIONS FOR MUNICIPAL SEATS.

and in view of all the circumstances he (Mr. Yelland) felt that he had as good a right as Mr. Cahill to the position of Mayor. Mr. Yelland said that he had been told that Mr. Cahill was urging on the Town Solicitor to pursue the Mason case. A case which could have been settled for $200, but which now would cost probably more than $2500, and from what he had been told Mr. Cahill was responsible for pushing the case. Mr. Yelland pointed out that Mr. Cahill was willing to give $5000 to the Edison Works and yet he would talk of his economy. Mr. Cahill's supporters Mr. Yelland said seemed to think that Mr. Cahill had an exclusive right to the position of Mayor, but he, Mr. Yelland, believed that he had as good a right as Mr. Cahill had. He had during his 32 years residence in the town rendered the town some service and had received a recognition of his fitness for a responsible position by being appointed by the Government a member of the board of the Hall Poor Trust. He had lived longer in the town than Mr. Cahill, and had done honest work in the council during his thirteen years as representative of No. 3 Ward. He had taken an independent stand, and had worked faithfully for the interests of the town. Mr. Yelland said that as credited by his friends, Mr. Cahill might know it all, but it would appear that even he had to take advice from the town solicitor, and he (Mr. Yelland) could do the same. But Mr. Cahill might also get advice from his mover and seconder, Mr. Denniston and Mr. Moore. (Laughter). He had sometimes occasion in his private capacity to get advice from Mr. Moore, and the other day Mr. Moore had advised him not to run against Mr. Cahill. (Cheers and laughter.) He appealed to the electors to vote for him, and though he might not have so grand a record as Mr. Cahill, yet he would do the best he could. (Cheers.) He would be highly gratified if he received the honour and would do all he could to advance the interests of the town. As to the temperance question, he might be called by some a "temperance crank," but he submitted that he was no more a temperance crank than Mr. Cahill was a liquor crank. During the time that the Scott Act was in force he (Mr. Yelland) had done the duty of every public official in seeing that the law of the land was enforced; he, as a councillor, had done that duty openly. As to the matter of the licences, all that any man could do was to see the law carried out. Mr. Yelland resumed his seat with applause.

Mr. Stone, in making a few remarks, said that he had no axe to grind—one year in the council had been enough for him. He thought well of both candidates, but he wished to point out that Mr. Yelland was mistaken in the matter of the Mason case. When the matter had come up in the council Mr. Cahill had drawn up a cleverly worded resolution that had put all the responsibility upon the town solicitor. Mr. Stone added that it was important to the town to have the question definitely settled, or the town might be at the mercy of every one who met with an accident on our streets.

Mr. Cahill said that Mr. Yelland had said that the case could have been settled, and remarked that he had asked Mr. Dumble that question when he appeared before the council, and he called upon Mr. Frank Mason to verify what he had said.

Mr. Mason said that Mr. Dumble had told him that he had stated to a Town Councillor that the case could be settled for $200. (Cheers.)

Mr. Cahill—Who was the Councillor, was it myself?

Mr. Mason—No.

Mr. Cahill—That's enough.

Mr. Mason, continuing, said that Mr. Cahill had told him that the case would be lost, although the Town Solicitor thought it should be appealed. As to the $5000 grant to the Edison Company, Mr. Cahill had urged that it be handed over.

Mr. Cahill said that what Mr. Stone and Mr. Mason had said in regard to the Mason case relieved him from responsibility in that matter. As to the Edison grant it was well known that he had always been in favour of building up of the manufacturing interests of the town. When the lamp works were proposed to be moved to Peterborough the whole council had been in favour of the $5,000 grant in order to anchor the Edison Works in Peterborough.

The hour of twelve having arrived when councillors should be nominated, the meeting adjourned, without, however, any cheers for either candidates.

CHRISTMAS REMINISCENCES And Gratitude.

Twelve Christmases have passed since two lads put up their first sign as they started in business in the old brick building on George street on the spot which now marks Gough Bros. Two Mammoth Stores.

Twelve Christmases have found the same forces here trying to make the best store in Midland Ontario. It might be a much better store, but it is comforting to be told that much of the bettering, of retailing and pulling down of high prices, is traced to the doings of the same two lads who have stood by the business through good times and bad times.

It would be unbecoming for us to say this is true, especially when we think of the mistakes in business made by busy brains and human fingers. There are, however, three things which we wish to say to-day:—

FIRST—Business will be best administered and therefore greatest when it is pursued with earnestness and enthusiasm, and a close calculation which keeps it in constant touch with the demands of the masses.

SECOND—Back of the system and the large staff of employees are stalwart principles and a steadfast purpose to so apply them that the store shall be worthy of confidence from the ground upward.

THIRD---To the thousands of people who shop here year in and year out we tender our grateful thanks for their appreciation of our efforts. Our good wishes are extended to all---Friends and Customers and the Ladies who read our advertisements---a joyous New Year to all.

So shines upon us the memory of the increasing kindness, interest and favour of troops of the best of friends, upon each of whom we wish the New Year's sun may shine with double brightness.

PREPARATIONS
For The Biggest JANUARY SALE
In The History of The
GOLDEN LION.

For several years there has been a very strong disposition on the part of this store not to "carry over" any stock from previous seasons.

This year the endeavour to start the next season utterly unincumbered is stronger yet.

Consequently prices will be made to suit the views of buyers and our motto will be "No reasonable offer refused."

Round lots from each department will contribute to this desirable end; a uniform price will be marked and that price a low one.

A full line of the celebrated P. N. Corsets always on hand.

Umbrellas Re-covered while you wait.

A SUMMER-LIKE CHRISTMAS-TIDE

We heartily wish our customers, both in town and country, the compliments of this festive season.

Although our Christmas weather has been snowless and a dull, muggy atmosphere has prevaded, it has not had the effect of restraining the generous gift-giving of our citizens.

Our business for the week just passed—in fact, of the whole year—has been calculated to evoke our kindest gratitude, and we sincerely thank our friends for their generous patronage.

Perhaps you received an Xmas Gift from an unexpected quarter. It won't cost much to make a return by a New Year's Gift if you purchase it here.

ANOTHER SWEEP.

Mr. Charbonneau Returned for Jacques Cartier.

THE LIBERAL MAJORITY IS 574

Gains in the Vote All Over the Riding—A Fight Again t Big Odds—Notice to Quit Served on the Government—The Effect at Ottawa.

Montreal, Dec. 30.—Mr. Napoleon Charbonneau, the Liberal candidate in Jacques Cartier, won to-day a victory as remarkable as that of the Hon. James McShane in Montreal Centre last week. Ever since 1878 the county has gone Conservative, and at the last general election Mr. Girouard, now judge of the Supreme Court, had a majority of 236. To-day Mr. Charbonneau was returned with a majority of 574 over Mr. J. A. Descarries. It was emphatically the result of a popular uprising against the organized corruption of the Government. One evidence of that was the appearance of the committee rooms of the two candidates in the city. In front of Mr. Descarries' there were at least 100 cabs, which must have cost at least $10 a day each, while in front of Mr. Charbonneau's rooms were nothing but private carriages lent for the occasion. The Government candidate was well supplied with money. In fact he made this a condition of resigning his seat in the Local House, and he had the Government at his mercy, for they had announced the day of the election, but could not find a candidate. Again, at the last revision of the lists the Conservatives thought they had made the riding secure, for the work of putting names on was done without regard to the cost, while the Liberals had so little money for this purpose that they actually neglected St. Laurent altogether. Over 1000 names were added to the Conservative parishes and only 300 to the Liberal ones, giving a net Conservative gain of over 700. Notwithstanding all this, Mr. Charbonneau had a majority in every place except St. Laurent, where the Conservative majority of 250 at the last election, which was expected to be much larger, was cut down to 73. In fact all sections of the county repudiated the Government candidate.

The lists contain the names of 4383 French and 1014 English Protestant voters. In the rear of the county St. Genevieve and Ile Bizard, where there are no English, the majority was trebled. Many English Conservatives voted against Mr. Descarries because of some slighting remarks he made about them and also to show their disapproval of the appointment of Judge Curran. Many other English Conservatives in Lachine, manufacturers, of dependent on factories, have tired of the National Policy and are not to be driven back by the threats of the ruin which will follow the adoption of the Liberal trade policy.

The majorities were as follows:

Divisions.	Descarries, (Con.)	Charbonneau, (Lib.)
Pointe Claire	0	283
Dorval	0	30
Lachine	0	110
St. Laurent	73	0
Ste. Anne	0	96
St. Genevieve	0	115
Isle Bizard	0	13
Totals	73	647

Majority for Charbonneau, 574.

The Effect at Ottawa.

Ottawa, Dec. 30.—The result of the Montreal Centre election, as already stated, produced a sort of crisis at Ottawa and the Jacques Caritier landslide has thrown them into a panic. Friends of the Governmet are talking of dissolution, and even a possibility of Sir Charles Tupper, sen., coming to the rescue, although as a matter of fact he is physically unable to stand the strain of a campaign. The Government is so committed to the unfortunate policy that they adopted that they are bound to put the country to the expense of a sixth session.

The Yachts for the Mediterranean.

London, Dec. 30.—Britannia, Ailsa and Satanita are getting ready for the Mediterranean regattas, and the Queen has decided to go to Nice and be present to see the Prince of Wales land purses and silver plate. Great efforts are to be made to get Ailsa back to her original trim, and so keep down Britannia's prize money. If Satanita can do nothing better, she will at least be in the way to spoil either the one cutter or the other. Captain Jay, who sailed Ailsa last season, is to be supplanted by Captain Ben Parker, of Itchen Ferry, Southampton, who has a great name for the style in which he has sailed the forty-raters put in his charge.

The program of the German regattas has been published, and from June 7 to 20 will supply plentiful sport. June 7, 13 and 14 are to be devoted to racing on the Alster at Hamburg, while the Imperial regattas and Wroddeutcher regattas at Kiel will fill up June 19, 20, 21 and 22. On the 23rd there will be an Imperial regatta at Eckernforde, and on the 26th and 28th, regattas will be held at Travemunde. These are to be followed on July 12, 13, 15, 17 and 19 by regattas at various Danish ports, held under the flag of the Royal Danish Yacht Club.

There is a rumor that the Emperor of Germany is to build a challenger for the America's Cup. From a conversation with Mr. Watson it was learned that he will avoid having any more to do with designing challengers, and if Fife's improved Ailsa under her new captain does not show up better than she did last season, he, too, will hardly be relied upon for designing a challenger.

THE HYAMSES AGAIN APPEAR.

The Twins' Examination on the Conspiracy Charge Taken Up, But Adjourned for Another Week.

Toronto, Dec. 31.

The Hyams twins appeared in the Police Court again yesterday morning. They looked much more cheerful than when last in the dock and chatted freely with their counsel. The prisoners appeared to answer a charge of conspiring to murder Mrs. H. P. Hyams in December, 1894, and January, 1895, and the preliminary trial was commenced shortly before noon.

Before the charge of conspiring to murder was read the prisoners were charged with forging signatures to several chaques in April, 1893. The first was forging the name of William Lee, for $300; the second that of Alex. Crane; the third that of William Stone, for $250; and John Jackson for $200. The prisoners pleaded not guilty to all of the charges. All the cases were remanded to the 6th of January, at the request of Mr. Johnston.

The first witness was Dr. James H. Burns, examiner for the Mutal Life Insurance Co. He said Mrs. Harry Hyams was at the house of Dr. Field on January 29, 1895, when he examined her. There was only an agent for the company there, Mr. Higgins, Dr. J. L. Davidson came to Dr. Field's house to examine Mrs. Hyams before he left.

George W. Hogarth, local manager of the G.N.W. Ttelegraph Company, was the next witness.

Mr. Curry showed him some telegrams, but Mr. Johnston objected to the contents being made public then. They were put in as exhibits. The telegrams were sent from this city to Montreal. Mr. Hogarth said these were the only originals here, but there may be some at Montreal that passed between Dallas and Harry Hyams.

A. W. Barber of the C.P.R. Telegraph Co., also recognized a number of telegrams which he said were only from the Toronto office, there being none at Montreal, as those at that end of the line had been destroyed.

Some 30 telegrams were sent here from Montreal.

J. W. Kerr of the Standard Life Insurance Company said he had met prisoners in July, 1894. They wanted an application on the life of Martha Wells Hyams. It was Dallas that came to the office and said that he wanted to have his sister-in-law insured, and said she was out of town. Witness said he interviewed Dallas several times at his office regarding the insurance. Susequently he saw Mrs. Hyams at Dr. Field's residence, where she was being examined. One of the prisoners was present, but he said he thought it was her husband. Witness said the application upon which Mrs. Hyams was examined was for $10,000. He did not know who told him the amount. Dr. Field, Mrs. Hyams and her husband were present when he made out the application. I wanted them to increase the amount, but Mrs. Hyams said, instead of increasing it on her life, to put it on her husband's. Hyams made no answer. The application went to the head office, but was not accepted. Afterwards I saw Dallas and had a conversation with him. Dallas intimated that they had decided to take $75,000.

The absence of important witnesses rendered an adjournment for a week necessary.

Mr. Curry appeared for the Crown, while the prisoners were defended by E. F. B. Johnston, Q.C., W. G. Murdoch and T. W. Horn.

The spade that Murderer H. H. Holmes borrowed from Thomas W. Ryves to dig the graves of the two Pitezel children in the cellar of a St. Vincent-street cottage has been sold by Mr. Ryves for $75 to an agent of a Philadelphia dime museum.

The famous spade will figure in connection with a wax representation of the man who used it for such a dastardly purpose.

NEWS FROM OTTAWA

The Cabinet Busy with the Speech from the Throne.

GETTING READY FOR THE OPENING

The Remedial Bill Will Probably be a Very Mild Document—Still the Shortis Matter Remains Unsettled—Good Prospects for Butter and Cheese.

Ottawa, Dec. 30.—The Cabinet was engaged until a late hour this evening in drafting the Governor-General's speech for the opening of Parliament on Thursday. The coming session is to be a regular one, and private bill legislation will be proceeded with simultaneously with Government measures, chief among which will, of course, be the Remedial bill. This measure will, from all accounts, be of an exceedingly moderate nature.

Private bill legislation for the session shows a great falling off compared with other years. Notice has been given of 58 measures, as compared with an average of 85, the great majority of bills pertaining to railway affairs.

The case of Shortis, the Valleyfield murderer, is creating great interest here. It is said that the Cabinet, by one vote, decided to recommend to His Excellency that the law should take its course. The Gov.-Gen. has manifested a deep interest in all circumstances surrounding the crime and is reported to have consulted each of the Ministers regarding the case. At any rate, yesterday and to-day many of the Ministers visited Government House on this matter. Up to a late hour to-night no decision was reached regarding Shortis' fate.

Considerable feeling prevails among French Canadians with reference to the case. It is argued that Riel was hanged, although he was half-witted. Why, then, it is said, should clemency be shown in a case almost similar.

Enquiry at the Militia Department elicited the information that the recent landing of ammunition at Halifax from England was simply the usual supply sent out from time to time to the British troops stationed there. The suggestion that it had anything to do with prospective trouble between Great Britain and the States is perfectly ridiculous.

Evidently the British Columbia rivers and streams are in the same condition as regards low water as the rivers and lakes of Eastern Canada. Advices received here state that salmon are dying by millions in the waters of Vancouver Island, owing to inability to cross the sand bars to reach spawning grounds.

Prof. Robertson has reports from Great Britain indicating that creamery butter will fetch a much higher price there this winter than last year. The supplies of butter from Australasia are lighter owing to the severe drought on that continent. One valued correspondent in the United Kingdom who does a very large trade in home and colonial dairy products, writes that "altogether, prospects for dairying are more hopeful now than they have been for a long time."

As Australian butter and New Zealand cheese have been keen competitors with Canada in recent years, the lessened supplies from these countries will cause a more active demand and higher prices for Canadian cheese and butter. It will be remembered that the summer season of Australasia corresponds with the months when winter prevails in Canada.

A report has reached the Fisheries Department that considerable illegal trout fishing is going on in the lakes back of Montreal. Fishery overseers will be instructed to prosecute parties found guilty of contravening the law.

The Public Library project received a great boom to-night, a large public meeting being held in the City Hall, at which Their Excellencies were present and spoke. The by-law was unanimously adopted.

ALMOST A MURDER.

A Toronto Rumpus Which Resulted in Serious Wounding.

Toronto, Dec. 31.

Mary Ross, alias Mary Hunter, a woman about 35 years of age, was taken in the ambulance to St. Michael's Hospital at 11.45 last night with a bullet wound in her face. The ball had passed through both nostrils just below the right eye and finally lodged in the left cheek, the doctors being unable to extricate it.

The shooting occurred at 78 Frederick-street, a small frame house, just north of King-street. Policeman Van Winkle and Dilworth, who were attracted by the noise, made a diligent search for the pistol, which was found by the former on the person of Dorothea Hill, after she had strenuously maintained that the bullet had come through the window. Her left hand was covered with powder marks and had a wound on the little finger, which may have been caused by a bullet. She gave an incoherent account of the manner in which Mrs. Ross had ben shot, one of her stories being to the effect that she was embracing her preparatory to getting into bed when a brick was thrown through the window, followed by a bullet, which grazed her own finger and lodged in Mrs. Ross' face. The window was broken and she produced the brick in support of her story.

When the policeman discovered the revolver the woman's explanation was that a man had opened the door quickly and thrust it under the carpet. She told several other stories of a similar nature, at last maintaining that a man had pointed the revolver at Mrs. Ross and that she had grabbed it to prevent murder. She said that Jennie Brown, a well-known woman who lives in the locality, and Mrs. Adams were in the house at the time of the fracas. The whole party had been drinking and was under the influence of liquor when the shooting occurred.

Nervous Prostration

It is now a well established fact in medical science that nervousness is due to impure blood. Therefore the true way to cure nervousness is by purifying and enriching the blood. The great blood purifier is Hood's Sarsaparilla. Read this letter:

"For the last two years I have been a great sufferer with nervous prostration and palpitation of the heart. I was weak in my limbs and had smothered sensations. At last my physician advised me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla which I did, and I am happy to say that I am now strong and well. I am still using Hood's Sarsaparilla and would not be without it. I recommend it to all who are suffering with nervous prostration and palpitation of the heart." MRS. DALTON, 86 Alice St., Toronto, Ontario. Get Hood's, because

JACQUES CARTIER REDEEMED.

The Dominion Government has suffered another crushing defeat. Mr. Napoleon Charbonneau, the Liberal candidate, was elected at the bye-election yesterday in Jacques Cartier a division alongside Montreal. He converted a Conservative majority of 276 into a Liberal majority of 574. The seat became vacant through the resignation of the sitting member, Mr. Girouard, to accept a judgeship. The Government persuaded Mr. Descarries to resign his safe seat in the Local Legislature and submit to be slaughtered as he was yesterday. The defeat sustained by the Government was a crushing one—all the more so when the desperate attempts to carry the constituency are recalled. Every influence at their command was employed. Beginning with iniquitously stuffed voters' lists, the Government poured out money like water, and every form of intimidation and coercion was used. Government contractors and Government officials worked night and day, but all in vain—the "sovereign people," as our good Yankee horn-blowing and gong-beating neighbours would call them, decided otherwise, and condemned the policy of the Government as well as its record! In Montreal Centre the largest—as La Patrie says, "le plus important du pays"—manufacturing centre of the Dominion, and in Jacques Cartier, a rural constituency, the Government has been given a bitter taste of the opinion of both urban and rural electors as to its trade policy. The only manufacturing centre in Jacques Cartier is Lachine, but here was where the Liberal candidate got one of his largest majorities. Jacques Cartier is alongside Montreal, on the west, and yesterday's election may be regarded as the beginning of a wave of Liberal success that will roll both east and west over the country. The government's fatuous fiscal policy and its peddling, halting, uncertain, tortuous policy on other questions is fore-doomed to condemnation. Principle lives and will triumph, but policy—even the "National Policy"—will not endure the test of public approval.

"THE handwriting on the wall" is as plain as print.

BUT for startling our readers with a disturbing originality, we might suggest the handwriting is on the wall.

No wonder the Government fought shy of fighting the bye elections—they were afraid that they were loaded up the wrong way.

HERE is a little sum for the Finance Minister: If Montreal Centre converted a Government majority of 1214 into a Liberal majority of 333, and Jacques Cartier a Government majority of 276 into a Liberal majority of 574, what will the electors of West Huron do with the Government majority of 14 in West Huron on Jan. 14th?

My hair had been falling out very freely for some time. Becoming anxious about the matter I thought I would experiment upon the properties of Hairene, and one application actually stopped it at once. It seems to have given renewed and healthy vigor to the scalp, and I can recommend it in all confidence. W. B. FULLERTON, Chemist, Gananoque, Ont., Jan 18, 1894.

SMITH.

(From Our Own Correspondent.

On Friday evening, the 20th inst., S.S. No. 6, Smith, held their entertainment in Ray's school. The concert was a grand success, and notwithstanding the dark night and muddy state of the roads, the school house was filled to overflowing, several rigs having to turn and go home again, the people not being able to find even standing room. Mr. Jas. Sanderson, sec.-treasurer of the Board of Education of the section, occupied the chair in a very able manner.

The school room itself was very attractively decorated with evergreens, mottoes, pictures, etc. The stage, being supplied by Mr. Jas. Sanderson, and furnished and decorated by Mrs. H. M. Davidson and Mrs. Hayward, presented a very attractive appearance. The funds, the amount of which is very gratifying, are to be devoted to games and amusements.

The following was the programme rendered:

Chairman's address.....

Club swinging.....6 girls
Chorus, "Vocation song".....School
Tableau, "The Alarm".....
God Save the Queen.

The programme though long was very interesting throughout. The audience was supplied with incidental music by Mr. D Millar, violinist, and Mr. Gerald Hayward on mouthorgan, Miss Edythe Fitzgerald, accompanist. The chorus of about 60 voices showed talent and training. The boys in the sword exercises did great credit to their energetic instructor, Lieut. Cockburn of the 3rd Princess of Wales Dragoons. The wand and dumb-bell exercises and club swinging also was an important feature of the concert. The tableaus, being of a military character, were also attractive. Mr. Jas. Cullen as the wild Irishman in "Something to our Advantage" gave the audience no end of amusement. Towards the close of the programme Mr. J. Walter Fitzgerald, the teacher was made the recipient of a very handsome and costly present, a gentleman's companion. The address was read by Miss Edith Davidson, and presented by Master Willie Bickell. Mr. Fitzgerald made a short and suitable reply. The address read as follows:

To Mr. J. Walter Fitzgerald:—

DEAR TEACHER,—We the undersigned, on behalf of the pupils of S. S. No. 6, Smith, beg leave to express to you our sincere regret that the relation that has existed between you and ourselves, as teacher and pupils, for the past year is now severed.

You have always taken the liveliest interest in our welfare and have put forward earnest endeavours for our moral and intellectual advancement. You have endeavoured to make our lessons interesting and instructive and have borne with our shortcomings very patiently.

As young people we shall watch your career, which, we feel assured, will be an honourable one, with great interest, and be pleased to speak of you in the future as "our teacher."

We here beg leave to present you with this small token of our gratitude for your kindness in the past.

May the choicest blessings of the season be with you this Christmas time.

Signed by THE SCHOLARS.

Health and strength carry us through dangers and make us safe in the presence of perils. A perfectly strong man with rich, pure blood, has nothing to fear from germs. He may breathe in the bacilli of consumption with impunity. If there is a weak spot where the germs may find an entrance to the tissues, then the trouble begins. Disease germs propagate with lightning-like rapidity. Once in the blood, the only way to get rid of them is to kill them. This is what Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is for. It purifies the blood. That means that it kills the germs, but that is only part of what it does. It assists digestion by stimulating the secretion of digestive fluids, so promoting assimilation and nutrition; purifies and enriches the blood and so supplies the tissues with the food they need. It builds up strong, healthy flesh and puts the whole body into a disease-resisting state.

Consumptives Should Neglect

No means of ameliorating their disease. Cod Liver Oil is acknowledged one of the most valuable remedies in pulmonary complaints. That, however it be employed in such a form as to be easily digested is imperative. It is just here that the entire superiority of Maltine with Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites asserts itself. Maltine itself possesses nutritive value equal to cod liver oil, but more important to the sufferer from bronchitis, colds, consumption, is the great digestive power of maltine upon all foods of a starchy nature. Maltine with Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites is, in brief, a food of great value in emaciation and wasting diseases; a medicine possessing the remedial power of cod liver oil; a digestive agency of active potency; a restorer of the debilitated. Try it for two weeks.

HAMILTON SMELTING WORKS.

The First Industry of the Kind in the Province.

Hamilton, Dec. 30.—The formality of blowing in the smelting works took place this afternoon, before a gathering of several hundred people, comprising the prominent business men of the city and numerous prominent people from outside. A special train conveyed those present to the works at 2 o'clock and shortly after John H. Tilden, president of the company, briefly addressed the gathering on the importance of lighting the first smelting works blast furnace in the province, after which Mrs. Tilden, amidst the cheering of the crowd, with torch in hand, ignited the fuel. Then the crowd adjourned to the engine house. A. T. Wood, a shareholder, addressed the gathering at length, pointing out how that he had become convinced that the smelting works can be operated successfully in Hamilton, although he had thought otherwise when the matter of establishing a plant here was first mooted. Although the iron ore will have to be brought from the northern part of Ontario, and the coke also brought to the city, he thought the works were as conveniently situated as those at Tonawanda and other American cities. He was assured that the new industry will be of great advantage to the city, and looks for the support of the people of Ontario.

John Milne, one of the directors, referred to the fact that Hamilton has the only smelting works plant in Ontario or Quebec. The machinery and the plant in general are of the most substantial character, being unexcelled by any other smelting works plant in America, and the capacity is 200 tons of pig iron a day. The machinery is all duplicated, and Mr. Milne stated that the fire that was started would probably not be extinguished for over two years, and the smelting of ore would begin at once, there being a large quantity of it already on the premises. He formally started the engines going, amid the enthusiastic cheering of the crowd, who before dispersing examined the ponderous-looking machinery.

Besides Mrs. Tilden, there were present Mrs. T. H. Pratt, Mrs. S. F. Lazier, Mrs. Handy, Mrs. Milliard, and Miss Millard; and among the men present there were: H. Carscallen, Q.C., Hon. J. M. Gibson, Nicholas Awrey, M.L.A., George Roach, J. M. Lottridge, George E. Tuckett, F. W. Fearman, William Gibson, M.P., Col. Moore, W. H. Gillard, F. C. Bruce, Robert Thomson, John Leggat, H. G. Wright, Ald. Watkins, G. S. Lynch-Staunton, Robert Evans, J. V. Teetzel, Q.C., Ald. Raycroft, Ald. Colquhoun, W. J. Copp, Frank E. Walker, Major McLaren, Dr. Osborne, Ald. Hannaford, W. Southam, C. K. Domville, John R. Cameron, Alex Pirie, James McPherson, Rev. Dr. Burns, William Wallace, C. R. Smith, J. J. Mason, Dr. Baugh, A. D. Braithwaite, Adam Zimmerman, Alex Turner and many others.

A MERCANTILE CHANGE

Mr. Paul Campbell Retires From the Firm of John Macdonald & Co.

Toronto, Dec. 31.

Mr. Paul Campbell for more than eight years a partner in the wholesale dry goods firm of John Macdonald & Co., will retire to-day, owing to ill-health. Mr. Campbel has been connected with the firm for the past 34 years, having enterd the employ of the late John Macdonald as a youngster and his retirement will be regretted among those to whom his face and figure have for so many ears been familiar; in the wholesale quarter of the city.

Simultaneous with the withdrawal of Mr. Campbell is announced the entry as partners in the same firm of Duncan M. Macdonald and Arthur N. Macdonald the firm now being composed of the four brothers: John Kidston, James Fraser, Duncan M. and Arthur N. Macdonald.

SAMSON, KENNEDY & CO.

A Meeting of Creditors of the Firm in Montreal Yesterday.

Montreal, Dec. 30.—A meeting of the creditors of Samson, Kenedy & Co. of Toronto, was held in a private parlor at the Windsor Hotel to-day. About 25 gentlemen, who were either creditors or representatives of creditors were present, among them Messrs. D. H. Morrice of the Canada Cotton Mills Co.; R. L. Smythe, E. J. Coyle, Robert Henderson, A. J. Baird, G. S. Shearer, John Turnbull, Mont. Stephen, financial manager, J. D. Thompson and W. Roberts, lithographer. Statements of the firm's assets and liabilities were distributed to the representatives present.

Mr. D. H. Morrice of the Canada Cotton Company, one of the largest creditors, was elected chairman.

Assignee Clarkson read a letter from Warring Kennedy that was marked "private." In it the Mayor of Toronto said: "I cannot tell you how much I feel pained for the creditors of my firm, who will sustain an almost total loss. The assignment should have been made not now, but twelve years ago when Mr. Gemmel withdrew from the firm, but Mr. Samson and I decided that we would try to place the business on a paying basis, with what poor result you know."

"This," said Mr. Morrice, "is a private letter, but I think it better to let the creditors know how Mr. Kennedy feels about the matter."

Mr. R. L. Smythe, representing several English creditors, demanded full publicity of the proceedings of the meeting to which the other creditors objected, and there was considerable lively sparring.

Finally the following gentlemen were appointed inspectors: Messrs. R. L. Smythe, A. Stevenson, W. T. Ewan, Montreal; A. J. Robertson and Joseph Simpson, Toronto.

A resolution carried instructing Mr. Clarkson to engage counsel to investigate the affairs of the firm.

The meeting then adjourned, but later in the afternoon a dozen of the creditors lunched at the Windsor and bent their heads together. What they said will not be printed.

DIABETES CURABLE.

Given up to Die—Uses Dodd's Kidney Pills and is Cured by Eight Boxes.

KIRKFIELD (Special), Dec. 23.—Mr. Duncan McKenzie, miller and lumberman of this place, had returned from Kansas lately. Had failed in health and strength, had lost fifty pounds in weight. Was given up by his physician as well as by specialists in Toronto and by himself and friends. Now comes a change—he says in a letter to Dodd's Medicine Co.: "After commencing with your Dodd's Kidney Pills I got help inside of two weeks. I took eight boxes in eight weeks, am completely cured, not a symptom left, general health good. Have regained my old health and weight. Had been bothered with heart and liver, both have vanished with the diabetes. I can walk briskly for miles instead of crawling as before. Am a brother of the President of the Toronto Street Railway Co., and well known here." Diabetes is set down as incurable—but Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure.

ACTION FOR $350,000.

Proceedings Taken Against the Directors of the Banque du Peuple.

Montreal, Dec. 30.—Mr. J. N. Greenshields, Q.C., acting on behalf of Mr. W. Barclay Stephens, manager of the Western Trust and Loan Company, is taking proceedings against the directors of the Banque du Peuple to have them condemned jointly and severally to restore to the bank the sum of $350,000, alleged to have been arregularly and illegally advanced, and for which, it is alleged they are, under the bank's special charter, personally responsible. It is rumored that criminal proceedings against the directors are also in preparation, the charge being that false statements were issued by them, and other irregularities committed.

A DOCTOR FOUND DEAD.

A Well-Known Windsor Physician Who Graduated at Toronto.

Windsor, Ont., Dec. 30.—Dr. D. E. Brooks, one of Windsor's best known physicians, was found dead in a closet in the rear of the hall of his office yesterday morning about 10 o'clock. The doctor was about 35 years old, single, was a graduate of Toronto, and came to Windsor about six years ago. He was physician for the Grand Trunk and Michigan Central Railways, and a member of the Free Masons, Ancient Order of United Workmen and Knights of Pythias. It is supposed that his death was due to the rupture of a blood vessel. His parents live in Chatham.

Three Children Cremated.

Akron, Ala., Dec. 30.—William Atkins and wife went to church last night, leaving their three children aged 10, 7 and 5 years respectively, at home in bed. Returning at midnight they found the house in flames and heard the children crying for help, but were unable to save them, and all three were cremated. The fire was caused by the explosion of a lamp.

Railway Contract Signed.

Cobourg, Ont., Dec. 30.—The final contract for the building of the C.N. & H. R. was signed here to-day by Mr. Bowens' representative and by the company. Everything has been satisfactorily arranged.

unfortunate

Cod-liver oil suggests consumption, which is almost unfortunate.

Its best use is before you fear consumption; when you begin to get thin, weak, run down; then is the prudent time to begin to take care, and the best way to take care is to supply the system with needed fat and strength. Scott's Emulsion of cod-liver oil, with hypophosphites, will bring back plumpness to those who have lost it, and make strength where raw cod-liver oil would be a burden.

A substitute only imitates the original.

OFF FOR SOUTH AFRICA.

Major Brennan Entertained on the Eve of his Departure by the Officers of the 57th.

The staff and company officers of the Peterborough Rangers assembled to the number of sixteen, in the officers quarters at the drill shed, last evening, the occasion being that of a pleasant reunion on the eve of the departure of Major Brennan for South Africa.

On behalf of the officers, Lt.-Col. Bell presented the Major with the best improved patent Smith and Wesson revolver obtainable, with his name and a suitable inscription engraved on the handle. The Colonel prefaced the presentation with a few remarks suitable to the occasion.

The Major, in replying, spoke of his long connection with the battalion and of his advancement step by step from a private, through the ranks of the non-commissioned officers until he finally received his majority. He dwelt to considerable extent on the very pleasant relations which had always existed between his brothers in arms and himself and expressed in feeling terms his great regret at the necessity of sundering the ties which had thus been formed.

Lieut.-Col. Rogers, formerly in command of the Battalion, then spoke and was followed by Major Langford and Major Edwards. Captain Miller spoke on behalf of the Captains of the 57th, and Lieut. Mills voiced the feelings of the Lieutenants.

Refreshments were served during the evening and several hours were spent in enjoyable social intercourse.

Dr. Brennan left on the morning train, en route for South Africa, where he will represent the Detroit firm of Park, Davis & Co., druggists.

A VERY HIGH WIND.

It Blows Down Mr. Adam Hall's Chimney and Mixes up the Telephone Wires.

Old Boreas has been indulging in a mad freak all day, and unless the wind abates before night considerable damage is expected to result to property, although as yet nothing very serious has been reported, although Mr. Adam Hall will suffer considerable loss through a tall chimney on the Morrow property having fallen through the roof of his store. Crashing through into the third storey, it made a hole through which a horse and carriage could be driven. Fortunately none of the men were working on this flat, and so escaped injury. The load of bricks would probably have done even more damage, but the weight of the fall of the chimney was broken by a quantity of stovepipes on which it fell.

A number of crosses on local telephone wires have been occasioned by the high wind but no breakages have as yet been reported. It was a difficult matter indeed for the men to keep their hats on, and the ladies had a deal of trouble with their skirts as the wind coquetted with their drapery.

AN IMPROVISED CANNON.

It Fires a Hundred Pound Missle Across the River and Bursts in Half.

An experiment was tried at the Central Bridge Works yesterday, with a result which was rather astonishing.

The piston rod in the ram of the 28,000 pound steam hammer had broken off short in the socket, leaving a steel stub, 5 by 15 inches in size and weighing about 100 pounds, embedded in the heart of the ram. Numerous methods were tried to loosen the stub end of the piston rod in order that it might be removed and a new one inserted, but all to no end, as the tapering stub of the steel rod had firmly fixed itself in the socket of the 2,240 pound ram by the force of the blows which are administered at the rate of 160 a minute and with a pressure increasing the weight of the ram to forty tons.

As there is a small hole bored into the ram at the foot of the socket in which the steel end of the piston was so obstinately fixed, it was resolved to train a couple of pounds of powder into this hole and blow the plug out. A calculation showed that as the ram was composed of wrought iron it would have a resisting power in its centre of 1,220,000 pounds. As the two pounds of powder would only have an explosive power of 900,000 pounds, the experiment was thought to be a perfectly safe one.

There was no means, however, of ascertaining if the ram was perfectly constructed, or whether flaws existed which were not discernible.

The improvised cannon was brought forth and trained on the bank of the river, so that if the end of the piston was blown out with any great force no damage would be done.

But man proposes and God disposes, and when the fuse was touched off the huge ram parted in half, each portion flying through the air to a distance of about fifty feet, while the piston rod plunged into the bank, rebounded, and buried itself in the sawdust beds on the other side of the river.

Fortunately no one was hurt in the least, although all who witnessed the result of the experiment were devoutly thankful that they were not in the way of the flying missiles. After the explosion the ram was found to be defective internally.

TO THE ELECTORS OF ASHBURNHAM.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR,—Will you permit me, through the medium of your columns, to inform the electors of Ashburnham that I do not propose, either personally or in any other way, to make any canvass for election as School Trustee.

I think most of the electors know that I take a great interest in education in all its grades. It is, therefore, with no thought of gaining any denominational advantage that I accept the nomination made yesterday, but with the sole object of promoting the best advantages of school, in which I have taken a deep interest during the three years of my residence in Ashburnham, and of whose record, especially for the past year, we have all good reason to be proud.

Yours &c.,

HERBERT SYMONDS.

WELLINGTON vs. NAPOLEON.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR,—Noticing in a recent issue of your paper that Mr. Oslas De Laplante has seen fit to pick up the gauntlet, thrown down by THE EXAMINER on behalf of my colleagues and myself re the debate, "Wellington vs. Napoleon," we are willing to back up the statement of THE EXAMINER, and request Mr. De Laplante and his colleague to meet the chairman of the concert committee, Mr. Begley, and myself at the Catholic Association rooms on Saturday evening and agree to the time each speaker shall occupy. Debate to take place Tuesday evening, Jan. 7th, 1896.

Signed on behalf of my colleague and myself. JOHN T. J. BOGAN.

YOUNG'S POINT.

From Our Own Correspondent.

A Christmas tree and entertainment under the auspices of the Church of England was be held in R. Heard's Hall on Monday, Dec. 30th. An excellent programme was presented, consisting of vocal and instrumental music, readings, recitations tableaux, etc.

Mrs. Mary Young, relict of the late Francis Young, and who formerly resided near Selwyn, passed peacefully away on Thursday, Dec. 19th, at the residence of her son, in the township of Ennismore. Though being indisposed for some time her death was quite unexpected. The high regard and esteem in which the deceased lady was held was attested by the large number of friends and relatives who attended the funeral. Her remains were interred alongside those of her husband, in the Roman Catholic Cemetery here. Requiescat in pace.

The annual school meeting of school section No. 8 was held in the school house on Thursday, Dec. 26, a large number of the ratepayers being in attendance. Mr. A. Miller, the retiring member of the school board was again re-elected by acclamation. This speaks well for Mr. Miller's efficiency as trustee, it being his fourth term to be elected without opposition. The finances of the school were found to be in an excellent condition after the teacher's salary and all other expenses were paid, there still remains in the treasurer's hands a balance of $168.61 to the credit of the section.

Considerable discussion arose over the fact that a number of children from the township of Douro have been attending this school, although their parents are paying their school tax in Douro. On a vote of those present it was decided to leave the matter in the hands of the trustees to deal with as they saw fit.

The Trustees intend holding a meeting in the school house on Tuesday evening, Dec. 31st, when they hope to meet all the ratepayers in Douro township interested in this matter and trust some satisfactory arrangement will be arrived at.

On Christmas Day three masses were celebrated in the R. C. Church, the Rev. Father Brown officiating. Excellent music was furnished by the choir. The "Adeste Fideles" and "Gloria in Excelsis Deo" being exceptionally well rendered. The high respect and esteem in which the Rev. Father Brown is held was amply shown by the splendid donation he received from his congregation.

In the English church services were also held, both morning and afternoon, the Rev. Mr. Hartley officiating. Large numbers were in attendance at each service.

Mrs. J. E. Kearney, of the Lakeview, and her daughter, Miss Lottie, spent a few days in Peterborough last week, attending the bazaar.

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Young, of Selwyn, are visiting friends here.

Mrs. P. P. Young has returned home after a short visit with friends in Peterborough.

Miss Annie Young, of Mr. E. B. Edwards' office, Peterborough, spent Christmas at her home here.

Mrs. J. Elliton is dangerously ill.

We are sorry to say that Mr. and Mrs. Freshurn still continue about the same.

Court Littlejohn's Entertainment.

An interesting entertainment will be held under the auspices of Court Littlejohn, No. 92, C. O. F., in their court room, Sons of England hall, on Friday evening, Jan. 10th. An attractive programme is being prepared for the occasion, to which the public are invited. Admission, adults 15c, children 10c. 2d

Mayoralty Election

1896.

Address of Wm. Yelland to the Electors.

To the Electors of the Town of Peterborough:—

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN—At the urgent request of a large number of ratepayers of all classes, I have consented to accept nomination as Mayor of the Town of Peterborough for the year 1896. In soliciting your votes and support I do so with a full confidence that my past record and experience, both as a Councillor and a citizen, will enable me to discharge the duties of Mayor efficiently and will justify the support I respectfully solicit. My thirteen years' record in the council is before you, and with all due modesty I may claim that it has established the fact that I have left nothing undone that it was in my power to advance the best interests of the town. I have always stood up, fearless of criticism, for what I conceived to be right, and as my record in the past has been so I pledge myself that if elected Mayor my future shall be also. I have a considerable material stake in the town and pay a large bill of taxes, so that it is my personal interest, if I were influenced by no higher motive, to see ours affairs economically administered and to advocate and influence every reasonable project for the material and moral advancement of the interests of Peterborough. In the administration of the affairs of the town so far as I am able to control such administration, I shall see that all classes and all interests receive that justice that their claims and importance deserve and that all laws and by-laws shall be fairly and properly administered. If elected Mayor I shall do what is right and no power, or influence shall induce me to swerve one hairsbreadth from what my judgment declares is just and to the best interests of Peterborough. Trusting that my platform, plain and simple as it is, will commend itself to your judgment and bring me your hearty support, and wishing all the citizens of the Town A Happy New Year, I remain,

Your Obedient Servant,

WM. YELLAND.

DAILY MOTTO.

Tuesday, Dec. 31st.

We turn and look back upon the valley of the past year. There below, are the spots stained by our evil and our fear. But as we look, a ray of sunshine breaks upon our past, and in the sunshine in a soft rain falling from heaven. It washes away the stain, and from the purity of the upper sky a voice seems to descend and enter our sobered hearts: "My child, go forward, abiding in faith, hope and love, for, lo I am with you alway."

—Stopford Brooke.

Hood's Sarsaparilla, taken at this season will make you feel strong and vigorous and keep you from sickness later on.

Our stock of general furniture is now complete and is one of the largest in Canada; prices lower than ever.—A. CLEGG 427 George street.

Retiring Candidates.

Amongst those nominated for seats at the Council Board yesterday was Mr. Benj. Shortly. Mr. Shortly wishes to announce that he has withdrawn his name with the consent of his proposer and seconder, thus allowing Councillors Denne, Mills and Phelan to be re-elected by acclamation for No. 2 Ward. Mr. N. T. LaPlante has also withdrawn his name, having learned that he was disqualified on account of being on the bond of a town official. Mr. Gabriel Learmouth is also retiring in No. 1 Ward, and Mr. F. Mason declines to run again in No. 4 Ward.

Quiet Wedding.

This morning, at 8 o'clock, in St. Peter's Cathedral, Mr. Thos. Leroux, a prosperous merchant of Rouseville, Pa., was united in marriage to Miss Annie Rowan, of Toronto. A special mass was celebrated by Ven. Archdeacon Casey for the occasion. The bride was attired in a becoming brown serge dress trimmed with cadet blue, and bonnet to match. Miss Maggie Lynch, neice of the bride, performed the duties of bridesmaid, while Mr. Jas. Lynch discharged the duties of groomsman. After the ceremony the bridal party returned to Mr. John Lynch's, corner Park and Elm streets, where immediate friends partook of a wedding breakfast and tendered their congratulations. Mr. and Mrs. Leroux left on the 11:45 G.T.R., by way of Toronto, Niagara Falls, Rochester and Buffalo, for their home in Rouseville, Penn.

Sometimes the most careful women are the most careless. Many a woman bundles herself up, to keep out sickness—when she is neglecting the very worst sickness that can come to a woman. She allows a slight disorder to become worse, to slowly sap her vitality. The little pain and the other slight indications of trouble seem to her unimportant. She goes on with increasing suffering, until life itself becomes a drag. Nervousness, "sinking spells," digestive disturbances, and fifty other complications may arise from the derangement of the organs distinctly feminine. Over thirty years ago, the need for a reliable remedy for so-called "female complaints" was recognised by Dr. R. V. Pierce, then, as now, chief consulting physician to the to the World's Dispensary and Invalid's Hotel, at Buffalo, N. Y. He prepared Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, the most wonderfully effective remedy that has ever been used for such maladies.

CHRISTMAS WEDDING CHIMES.

Celebration of the Matchett-Gist Nuptials in Canton.

(Port Hope Guide.)

On Dec. 25th, 1895, at three o'clock, a most pleasing ceremony took place at the home of Mr. Roger Gist, Canton, when his daughter, Miss Jennie G., was wedded to Mr. Wellington M. Matchett, of Peterborough, by Rev. T. Brown.

The bride was attired in a costume of cream silk, trimmed with lace and ornamented with cream roses and carnations. Similar flowers also adorned her hair. The effect was very pleasing. The table was really a marvel of prettiness.

Only the immediate relatives of the bride and groom were present, with the exception of one lady and gentleman, friends of the bride.

It is almost needless to add that the presents were handsome, as all who are acquainted with the bride will know that. Even some of her acquaintances, although not invited to be present, remembered her by sending best wishing and tokens of their esteem. Mr. Matchett is the well respected Principal of the Ashburnham Public School. The EXAMINER extends congratulations.

CHURCH CHIMES.

A children's service was held in St. Luke's church on Sunday.

"Hosanna in Excelsis" by St. Quentin, was admirably rendered as an anthem in St. Paul's Sunday morning.

Simper's "Unto us a Child is Born" was sung in St. Paul's Sunday evening with excellent shading and expression.

Dudley Buck's anthem "There Were Shepherds," was well sung in the Charlotte street Methodist church Sunday evening.

A new arrangement of "One sweetly Solemn Thought" was sung on Sunday morning in the Charlotte street church, as a duet by Miss Hendren and Mr. John Miller.

Archdeacon Tims, who is about to visit Ontario in the interest of the Indian Homes of the Northwest, will be accompanied by Mrs. Tims and family, who will stay in Ashburnham.

Wednesday next being the Festival of the Circumcision of our Lord, and New Year's Day, there will be a celebration of the Holy Communion at 8 a. m., in St. Luke's church.

Miss Florence Hall and Miss De Land took the duet and Mr. W. J. Squires the tenor solo, with great effect in the anthem "Hail King of Glory" on Sunday morning in the Charlotte street church.

Mr. Davies' Magnificat and Nunc Dimittus, were excellently rendered Sunday night in St. Luke's. As musical compositions they are of a very high order, and will be repeated on Sunday evening next, being the eve of the Epiphany.

The children's entertainment and distribution of Sunday school prizes will take place in St. Luke's on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. Admission free. A plate will be placed at the door, in which those who wish to subscribe to expenses may place their contributions.

The services at St. Andrew's church were largely attended Sunday. The Christmas music, as announced, was not given, on account of the absence of Miss Grant, organist, but it will be given next Sunday. Rev. Mr. MacWilliams preached a very impressive sermon in the morning from the text, "And yet there is room." Mrs. MacWilliams sang the obligato solo in the anthem, "O Come Let Us Worship," in a very pleasing manner. In the evening Rev. Mr. Wright, of Brockville Presbytery, preached from the text, "What think ye of Christ." Mr. Wright is always welcomed to Peterborough, and his sermon was a treat. The anthem was "Arise, Shine for Thy Light is Come." Mr. Herbert King sang "The Palms," and during the offertory the choir sang "Saviour Breathe an Evening Blessing." The music for next Sunday will be announced in Saturday's paper.

SPORTS AND PASTIMES.

THE TRIGGER.

Captain R. Tivey and his team of crack shots will run up against Capt. Jamison's club to-morrow at Fraserville, where they shoot for some hundred turkeys. No doubt all the sharpshooters from town and vicinity will be on hand to witness the shoot.

CURLIANA.

It has been decided to postpone the big curling bonspell until a date to be named by the committee in charge on account of the disappearance of the ice from the rink.

The rink parlours will be open on New Year's afternoon when a pedro contest will take place between the members of the Granites and Thistles.

Prime Holiday Meats at Howden's.

All kinds of roasts of beef, pork or lamb, sugar-cured ham and bacon, turkeys and geese, headcheese, sausage and bologna in abundant supply at J. J. Howden's meat market. 'Phone 39.

THE MANITOBA SCHOOL QUESTION.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

MR. EDITOR,—If ever there was a time in the history of our country for every true Briton and patriot to raise his voice and exert his influence, now is the time, in order to withstand the Jesuitical influence that is brought to bear at this time to bring the Northwest into bondage. Mr. Editor, as you are aware, the government of the Northwest have taken a noble stand against Jesuitical interference, and let me tell you, dear sir, that every patriot in Ontario and everywhere else will stand loyally by the Greenway government and the noble Britons of the Northwest, who have stood up so nobly for their rights and British liberties.

Mr. Editor, I ask, "Who wants Separate Schools?" I tell you, dear sir, and I defy contradiction, that no intelligent Roman Catholic wants Separate schools. Then who wants them? Jesuits!

What is the effect of Separate Schools? It puts race against race, and creed against creed, and is one of the greatest evils that can befall a community. Dear Sir, there is nothing sectarian taught in our public school. It is adapted to all classes and creeds, whose aim and object is to fit the rising generation for the duties of life. The place to teach religion is in the home, the church and the Sabbath school. The man calling himself a Protestant, advocating Separate Schools in this 19th century, is nothing more or less than a Jesuit in disguise, and Dear Sir, if ever there were a class of people to be watched and kept in their proper place it is the Jesuits. They have been hunted out of every Catholic country of Europe, for their interference with the country's affairs. And let me inform you, Mr. Editor, if they don't keep quiet they will soon be hunted out of the Northwest.

Mr. Editor, our forefathers came through a sea of blood for soul liberty, and now shall we, their offspring, hand back our blood-bought rights to these black characters, who have deluged the world with blood? God forbid that we should do so. Our political parties seem to be willing to, but I warn them to beware of what they are doing. Ontario is watching, is waiting, and woe betide any government that interferes with British liberty. Men are waking up, and the spirit of John Bull is rising. Men are awaking—just think of noble D'Alton McCarthy and O'Brien, and also the noble stand Mr. Clarke Wallace has taken, whose praises are in every right thinking mind in Canada. And I say for your encouragement, Brother Wallace, don't be afraid to let your voice be heard. Wherever you are we are at your back, heart and soul. You have our hearts and our prayers. May God prosper and bless you.

Mr. Editor, I now call upon all classes and creeds and all political parties to put by their differences of opinion at the present time and make a solid front against any Jesuitical interference in our midst and also to stand by our brethren in the Northwest. We soon shall have a general election. Let every patriot be up and doing and let us hold one green spot for our sons and daughters who are settling in the Northwest. May we see that it is kept free from Jesuitical aggression.

Yours, Mr. Editor,
ONE OF SCOTLAND'S SONS.
W. G.—Smith.

SPENCER—McKAY—On the 25th Dec., 1895, at the residence of the bride's parents, Davenport road, Toronto, by the Rev. Dr. Parker, Mr. Alfred Spencer, of Peterborough, to Miss Alice, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew McKay.

CARD OF THANKS.

To The Electors of WARD NO. 1.

I beg leave to tender my hearty thanks to my nominator and seconder, and to those electors who so kindly volunteered me their support as a candidate for Councillor in No. 1 Ward.

I would have been most happy to accept their nomination, but find that I am prevented doing so in consequence of my being a bondsman for a town officer.

At some future time I might be in a position to place my services at the disposal of the electors.

NOAH T. LAPLANTE.

December 31st, 1895. 1d

To The Municipal Electors of WARD NO. 1.

Having again been honoured with a nomination as a candidate for Councillor in this Ward, I beg leave publicly to accept the nomination.

I therefore respectfully solicit the votes and influence of the ratepayers of "the Banner Ward." If elected, I pledge myself to use my best efforts, as in the past, to protect the interests and promote the welfare of No. 1 Ward and the whole town.

W. H. WHITE.

A woman's headaches may come from several causes. She may have a headache arising from nervousness, or from digestive disturbances; just the same as a man might suffer for the same reasons. Nine cases in ten, however, her headaches come from disorders peculiar to her sex. Possibly the apparent cause of the headache will be nervousness or indigestion, while the cause of these is not thought of. The organs distinctly feminine are more vital than any other organs in a woman's body. Any trouble of those affects the whole body. It may show itself in the symptoms which are characteristic of a dozen disorders. Thousands of times, women have been treated for the disorders thought to be indicated by these symptoms, when the real trouble was much deeper and more serious. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was compounded for the sole purpose of relieving womankind of the ills and pains very commonly considered the uncomfortable inheritance of her sex. It cures where really good physicians have failed. Thousands of women have testified that after taking treatment from several physicians without benefit, the "Favorite Prescription" cured them completely and quickly. It has been used for over thirty years, and has an unbroken record of success. The afflicted woman will find immediate relief and ultimate cure in the "Favorite Prescription." There is no doubt about it—there is no question about it. The woman who hesitates is invited to send 31 one-cent stamps for customs and cost of mailing a copy of Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. This celebrated work contains full information about Dr. Pierce's medicines, with the reproduced photographs of hundreds of people who have been cured by these world-famed remedies, also giving their names and addresses, besides plain, clear information about all of the organs of the human body and their functions. It has reached the unprecedented sale of 680,000 copies at $1.50 a copy. Thus the expense of preparation has been defrayed, and now 500,000 copies will be absolutely given away. Remember that this book is not a mere advertising pamphlet, but a genuine standard work of 1008 large pages, over 300 illustrations, some of them in colors. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N.Y.

THE ASHANTEE WAR.

British Expedition Pushing on to Coomassie.

THE KING SEEKS TO TEMPORIZE

But the British Commander Pays No Attention. The Situation in the East—A Wild Appeal From New York Russian Movements in the Far East.

London, Dec. 30.—Up to the present everything in conection with the British expedition being sent against King Prempeh appears to have gone well and smoothly. The main body of the expeditionary force left Cape Coast yesterday and the advance guard has already reached the River Prah, which has been bridged. When this work was accomplished the scouting parties were sent forward into the enemy's country.

King Prempeh has sent several temporizing messages to the British authorities, but no notice has been taken of them, and it is generally believed that he will fight when the expedition enters the bush.

General Sir Francis Scott, inspector-general of the Gold Coast forces, accompanied by his staff, which includes Prince Henry of Battenberg and Prince Christian Victor of Schleswig-Holstein, started for the front yesterday.

BRITAIN AND RUSSIA

May Unite to Effect a Solution of the Eastern Question.

London Dec. 30.—Developments in the East point to an entente between Russia and Great Britain under which Russia will temporarily occupy the disturbed provinces in Asia Minor. Great Britain co-operating with Russia on the seaboard. Russian overtures to this effect are undoubtedly before Lord Salisbury. The news yesterday from St. Petersburg adds to the belief that such negotiations are in progress.

The departure of the Russian Black Sea squadron from Sebastopol on Dec. 15 for an unknown destination, is much commented upon, and has caused a lively speculation as to its ultimate destination.

The apathy of Europe and America, so far as the governments are concerned, is almost as surprising as the cruelty of the Turks. There is still talk of committing reforms to these murderous Turks. They will take care unless Europe intervenes speedily that there shall be left no Armenians to participate in reforms.

The Duke of Argyle has written a letter, in which he comments on the absence of a genuine European concert on the Armenian question. He says, with reference to Asia Minor, that if a combination of the powers cannot be effected. Great Britain must give up her jealousies and invite Russia to do what she can accomplish with ease.

A Red Hot Appeal

New York, Dec. 30.—The Armenian Relief Association in New York has cabled the following to The London Times and London Daily News:

"Europe pushed Armenia into the mouth of hell and turned to celebrate Christmas. If the continental powers are dead to honor and conscience can England forget justice? Does she not believe in Almighty God, that she waits for help before stopping the wholesale assassinations of Christian ministers and their flocks and the ravishing of maidens? We send £1000 to Grosvenor House Committee. But what avails food when fire and sword exterminate? Shall we advise Armenians to apostatize? Surely the wrath of God and the blessing of Christ have still a significance for the men of England. Does she no more expect them to do their duty? Christian America will support England."

Russia Massing Troops

London, Dec. 30.—The Standard will to-morrow publish a despatch from Shanghai saying it is reported in that city that Russia is massing troops on the Corean frontier in readiness for any emergency that may arise. Owing to alleged assaults on Russian subjects in Corea, 70 Russian officers and soldiers have arrived at Conzan on the east coast of Corea.

IT LOOKS SERIOUSLY.

The Transvaal Government Taking Steps to Suppress Rebellion—People Fleeing From Pretoria.

Pretoria, Dec. 30.—The Transvaal Government has ordered the Boer Burghers to hold themselves in readiness to be called upon to suppress rebellion. The trouble between the foreign residents of the Transvaal and the Boer Government is increasing in intensity. The leading mines are closing and the price of breadstuffs in Johannesburg has risen greatly. Trains leaving her are filled with refugees.

Brewer is Acceptable

London, Dec. 30.—The Daily News in its issue to-morrow will say that the appointment of Justice Brewer of the United States Supreme Court as a member of the Venezuelan High Commission is a sign that President Cleveland wishes a fair report to be made.

FIRE AT ORILLIA.

Destruction of the Thomson-Tipping Block—Heavy Losses

Orillia, Dec. 30.—At 2.30 this morning fire destroyed the dental rooms of S. D. McPhee, in the Thomson-Tipping building. The tenants were as follows: Tipping Building, Traders' bank, furniture and plate glass almost a total loss, insured; McPhee's dental rooms, total loss, insured for $600; Orillia Athletic rooms, piano and gymnasium apparatus a total loss, piano insured; T. Haywood, Italian warehouse, estimated loss on stock $5000, covered by insurance; Bannerman's law offices, Y.M.C.A. rooms, Christians meeting place and the Masonic Hall, were completely gutted and the entire contents are a total loss. The records of Orillia Lodge, No. 192, A.F. & A.M., were not stored in their hall, and were consequently saved. Their furniture was insured for $500, and their loss will be about the same amount. The buildings were owned by George Tipping and George Thomson. Tipping's loss will probably be $3500 and Thomson's will reach $7000. The fire originated from a defective stove pipe.

HAMILTON NEWS.

Smelting Works Ready to Start Up—The T. H. & B. Open.

Hamilton, Dec. 29.—In the wake of the opening of the T., H. & B. Railway comes the blowing in of the smelting works on Monday afternoon. The works are practically completed, and the smelting of iron ore will go right on after Monday, there being several thousand tons of ore on the premises. The full complement of men, however, will not be employed till the concern is in proper working order, when it is expected 200 or 300 men will have work. About 150 visitors are expected in the city to-morrow, including members of both Governments and prominent iron consumers of the province, who will be entertained at Newport's in the evening. This is the first and only smelting works plant in the province and the blowing in of the furnaces and subsequent success of the new industry will be looked forward to with general interest. It will be a great factor in the development of the Canadian mines, which hitherto have been dormant owing to the absence of smelting works. Directors of the company say the supply of iron ore in the province is almost inexhaustible, and they will use Ontario ore almost exclusively. The ore already on hand came from North Hastings. The plant is situated at Huckleberry Point, on the bay shore, is connected with the Grand Trunk by switches running into the premises, and it will shortly be connected with the T., H. & B. The ore will be brought to the works by boat, and the pig iron will be distributed principally by rail, and with the excellent shipping facilities, the company is not only looking forward to the speedy development of the Ontario mines, but expects that there will be a handsome decrease in the importation of pig iron, as it will be in a position to supply this commodity to a great extent. This company is one of the many that have been urging upon the Dominion Government the necessity of deepening the canal at the Beach, to allow the heavily laden boats to pass through it, as the present depth of the water will not admit the big schooners to pass through.

Although there is a few weeks' work to be done to the tunnel, the Toronto, Hamilton & Buffalo Railway is practically completed from Waterford, a point on the Michigan Central, to Welland, also on the M.C.R. The loop line runs from Waterford to Brantford, to Hamilton and Welland, and starting on Monday morning, three trains a day, each way, will run through the city.

About 6 o'clock Saturday evening the first train from Welland, with Government Inspector Caddy and the T., H. and B. men on board, arrived from Welland, and passed through the tunnel to the station at Garth-street. The arrival of the first train was of much interest to citizens, and there were many spectators present. The company has complied with the conditions of the by-law, and will earn the $225,000 bonus. With this part of the road finished, the company will probably devote its energies to the construction of the fourth wheel of the cart, the Toronto branch, and the general opinion here is that if Toronto will give the company reasonable finacial assistance, the road will be finished by next summer, and through C.P.R. and N.Y.C. trains will run from Toronto to New York.

COUNTER FEITS.

A few years ago a great discovery was made.

Unprincipled persons are trying to prey upon and dupe people who are led to ask for kidney treatment.

Some of the methods adopted by imitators are as follows:—

First:—To imitate the size, color and shape of Dodd's Kidney Pills and sell them by count.

Second:—To put them up to appear very nearly the same and to be offered at the same price.

Third:—To hook on the word "kidney" in naming catharatic pills so as to increase sales of mere physic.

Fourth:—To give a name so near to Dodd's that unwary people may be deceived and think they are getting Dodd's.

Look out for such dodges. When you want kidney medicine you want the best. And ought not to be the subject of any trick.

So beware.

New Year's In Old New York.

In olden times ladies expended their chief care upon loading their New Year's tables. As an example of the masses of provisions exhibited we are told of a family of Dutch descent who prepared every New Year's day a table of astounding profusion. There were usually four turkeys of enormous size upon it, and there were two vessels of pickled oysters, which must have contained about half a barrel each. There were rounds of beef roasted and boiled and huge masses of a Dutch compound called "headcheese" built up into architectural forms and decorated with parsley. The mince pies, turnovers, tarts and New Year's cakes were exhibited in mounds and incredible fantastic heaps.

Besides the food on the tables there was provision made down stairs for supplying hot oysters in various forms, with hot coffee and (if the truth must be told) with hot punch.

There was an immense bowl of cold punch of potent composition standing in the room and kept replenished from 10 in the morning until midnight.—Philadelphia Times.

Farmer Stebbins as Santa Claus.

By WILL CARLETON.

[Copyright, 1895, by American Press Association.]

We went to Pegtown visiting, my good old wife an' me,
An' thought that we would bathe ourselves in Chris'mas joy an' glee;
For Sarah Ann, a buxom dame, an' daughter, too, of mine,
Resides there with her older half an' children eight or nine;
An' so we gathered gifts enough to make 'em all content
An' took the train an' landed there the very day we went.

The children warmly greeted us an' crowded round my chair,
With four a-perchin' on my knees an' young uns still to spare;
An' asked about my spectacles, an' how I growed my wig,
An' if my papa bought my teeth before I got so big,
An' how my whiskers come to bleach an' other questions prone
To make a mortal realize that younger days have flown;

An' if I ever looked it up how fur I was around,
An' when I run if it would shake the whole adjacent ground,
An' if the your-correct-weight box didn't think I was a lot,
An' if I wouldn't have to put two pennies in the slot,
With other questions well designed to give a hint to me
That I was not a first class sylph so far as they could see.

An' when I told 'em fairy tales they wouldn't believe a word
An' said the Sin'bad sailor things could never have occurred;
An' all the pleasant little lies that used to cheer my youth
They set upon without delay as destitute of truth.
An' when of Christmas mysteries in solemn tones I spake,
They laughed an' said that Santa Claus was all "a bloomin' fake."

So Christmas eve I slyly told my daughter Sarah Ann:
"I'll show the tots a little sight to laugh at if they can.
You rake the fireplace clear o' fire, not tellin' them the cause,
An' I'll come down the chimney way dressed up as Santa Claus.
It isn't very fur to climb—the weather's pretty mild,
An' I would do three times as much to interest a child."

I went an' clad in hairy garb, with whiskers long an' white
An' other things to paralyze the inexperienced sight,
An' had some sleighbells bright an' new a-hangin' on my arms
An' pockets full o' Christmas things to add unto my charms,
An' with the strongest ladder rope that I could find in town
I entered in the chimney top an' clambered slowly down.

My goodness sakes! Who ever heard of such untimely luck?
The chimney narrowed all to once, an' suddenly I stuck
An' hung there like a roastin' hen a-waitin' to be brown,
For spite of all my effortin' I couldn't get up or down.
An' then the chil'ren heard the noise an' run distressin' fleet
An' looked an' yelled: "It's Gran'pa Steb. We know him by his feet".

An' then their mother had to tell what I had tried to do,
Whereat their little fancies sprung the subject to pursue.
They asked me if I'd traveled far, if chimneys injured coats,
An' where my span of reindeers was, an' if they'd like some oats,
An' told me, with a childish greed for Christmas gathered pelf,
If I would throw the presents down, I needn't come myself;

An' there I hung for quite awhile, with fury in my heart,
Until they brought a mason in, who took the bricks apart;
An' though they made the children stop, an' sent 'em off to bed,
I knowed what they was thinkin' of an' what they prob'ly said,
An' when the mornin' did appear an' breakfast time occurred,
They set around the table there forbid to say a word;

A-sufferin' so to laugh at me, afraid that I'd be gruff,
An' longin' for their presents, too—I knowed it well enough.
An' then a tear come in my eye, an' like a fond old dunce
I went an' dug the presents out an' give 'em all to once.
An' then I says, "If Santa Claus is what you call 'a fake,'
These pr'tty things he brought fur you is real an' no mistake."

An' then they up an' danced around an' kissed me, one by one,
An' hugged me harder than the blamed old chimney just had done,
An' with a thousand looks of love incumbered me with thanks
An' made me like 'em more an' more in spite of all their pranks.
An' one, the prettiest of the whole, who always took my part,
She smiles an' says: "It's Gran'pa Steb. We know him by his heart!"

Rheumatism Runs Riot

When there is lactic acid in the blood. Liniments and lotions will be of no permanent benefit. PYNY-PECTORAL

Positively Cures
COUGHS and COLDS

In a surprisingly short time. It's a scientific certainty, tried and true, soothing and healing in its effects.

W. C. McCOMBER & SON, Bouchette, Que., report in a letter that Pyny-Pectoral cured Mrs. C. Garneau of chronic cold in chest and bronchial tubes, and also cured W. C. McComber of a long-standing cold.

MR. J. H. HUTTY, Chemist, 528 Yonge St., Toronto, writes: "As a general cough and lung syrup Pyny-Pectoral is a most invaluable preparation. It has given the utmost satisfaction to all who have tried it, many having spoken to me of the benefits derived from its use in their families. It is suitable for old or young, being pleasant to the taste. Its sale with me has been wonderful, and I can always recommend it as a safe and reliable cough medicine."

One Honest Man.

Dear Editor:—Please inform your readers, that if written to confidentially I will mail in a sealed letter, particulars of a genuine, honest home cure, by which I was permanently restored to health and manly vigor, after years of suffering from nervous debility, sexual weakness, night losses and weak shrunken parts. I was robbed and swindled by the quacks until I nearly lost faith in mankind, but thank heaven, I am now well, vigorous and strong, and wish to make this certain means of cure known to all sufferers. I have nothing to sell, and want no money, but being a firm believer in the universal brotherhood of man, I am desirous of helping the unfortunate to regain their health and happiness. Perfect secrecy assured. Address with stamp:—Mr. Edward Lambert. P. O Box 55, Jarvis, Ont.

Sick Headache
CURED PERMANENTLY
BY TAKING Ayer's Pills

"I was troubled a long time with sick headache. It was usually accompanied with severe pains in the temples, a sense of fullness and tenderness in one eye, a bad taste in my mouth, tongue coated, hands and feet cold, and sickness at the stomach. I tried a good many remedies recommended for this complaint; but it was not until I

CHRISTIAN BENEVOLENCE.

IF THERE is one feature of our modern civilization which more than another distinguishes it over all former periods, it is the enlarged sympathy with which the wealthy and the cultured regard their poorer and less fortunate fellow men and women. It is undeniable that much of this is the direct effect of Christian teaching and culture, and though men doubtless acted the part of the good Samaritan before Jesus proclaimed his message of peace and good will on earth, there are but few who would feel disposed to deny that the active benevolence so characteristic of our times is the direct outcome of that event, which is now being celebrated all over the world.

Though charity is a duty which should not be limited by times and seasons, still the bounty of the most benevolent should be more freely dispensed on the occasion of the commemoration of the birth of him who first inculcated the universal brotherhood of man and chose for his companions not the cultured and wealthy, but the poor and humble and illiterate of the earth. "The poor ye have always with you," said he of Nazareth. Christians will best follow their Divine examplar's footsteps by seeing even beneath the beggar's gabardine a human heart that may be stimulated by their aid and sympathy into hope and a higher realization of life and its duties.

Nervous Prostration.

Cured effectually by Scott's Sarsaparilla.

His heart was affected.

"Overwork as a student at college brought on an attack of nervous prostration," says Mr. Gilbert, a railway missionary. "I was exceedingly nervous and if I exerted myself my heart commenced to flutter violently, and I was warned that even ordinary exercise endangered my life. But thanks to Scott's Sarsaparilla I feel better than I ever expected to feel, for I can now address a meeting without effort, can walk a brisk pace for two hours or more without exhaustion and am free from that distressing palpitation. In my work I have oftentime recommended Scott's Sarsaparilla, and have seen many cases where its effects have been most marked."

Scott's Sarsaparilla acts like magic in restoring shattered nerves because it rebuilds the nerve centres. Nervous headache, nervous dyspepsia and all nerve derangements wear on the system. Scott's Sarsaparilla makes new blood and muscles and strong nerves. Of all druggists, $1 per bottle. Dose from half to one teaspoonful.

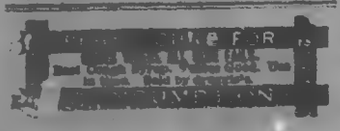
Foaming Ivorine Whitens the Teeth.

Dentists are delighted at the admirable qualities of Ivorine, the new preparation for the teeth. Commendations from the Dental profession carry the assurance that fragrant Ivorine is free from the admixture of enamel destroying substances, often the most marked characteristic of tooth powders, and that is the most efficient cleanser yet discovered. Ivorine cleanses from discoloration and whitens, hardens the gums, and imparts to the breath a delightful fragrance.



NOMINATIONS ELSEWHERE.

Smith.

In Smith last year's Council is returned by acclamation, but there is a slight change whereby Councillor J. G. Armstrong takes Mr. Wm. McIlmoyle's place as Deputy Reeve and Mr. McIlmoyle goes in as Councillor. The Council will therefore be composed as follows :—Reeve, Jas. Middleton ; Deputy Reeve, J. G. Armstrong ; Councillors, Wm. McIlmoyle, Geo. Fitzgerald and H. C. Garbutt.

North Monaghan.

In North Monaghan Reeve Joseph Forster was re-elected by acclamation and the names of the following Councillors were placed in nomination :—Messrs. Thos. M. Hunter, John McIntosh, G. H. May, M. T. Johnston, R. Waterman, T. E. Bradburn, John Moore, Wm. G. Yelland, Alfred Sanders, H. J. Forster and James M. Davidson. The three last named have retired.

Douro.

Reeve—John Moloney, elected by acclamation. For Councillors—Ward No. 2—John M. Walsh, by acclamation. Ward No. 3—James McElligott, by acclamation. Ward No. 4—William Leeson, by acclamation. There will be a contest in Ward No. 1, W. J. Bullock, the Councillor for 1895, being opposed by Thomas Edwin Jory.

Millbrook.

The following is the result of the village nominations held there Monday : Reeve, A. Ferguson, W. S. Pickup ; councillors, Isaac Richardson, Henry Campbell, John Clarke, Simeon Bateson, Robt. Doak, W. S. Pickup ; school trustees, A. Ferguson, Geo. Campbell, A. Leach, Wm. Thexton, Robt. Roddy, Isaac Needham and John Allen.

Otonabee.

In Otonabee the old council is elected by acclamation as follows : W. Anderson, reeve ; T. J. Johnston, deputy reeve ; John Lancaster, 2nd deputy reeve ; John Deyell and A. Weir, councillors.

Dummer.

The nominations for the offices of reeve and councillors for township of Dummer for 1896, took place in the town hall, Warsaw, on Monday. For reeve, E. Hawthorne and Henry A. Moore ; for deputy reeve, Richard Crowe, Geo. Payne, sr. ; for councillors, Robt. McConnel, Robt. McCracken, Thos. Webster, Samuel Edwards and Wm. Crowe, after which Mr. McConnell and Mr. Samuel Edwards withdrew, leaving the council elected by acclamation. The following are the councillors for 1896 : Robt. McCracken, Thomas Webster and William Crowe. The meeting was a credit to the ratepayers of Dummer, as not the least word was said in any way to insult any of the candidates, but the reeveship will be a pretty tight contest from the feeling of the meeting. The speeches were of importance and dwelt largely on subjects coming up at county council, and to the interests of all ratepayers. Meeting adjourned at 4.30 p.m., for a poll to be taken on Monday, Jan. 6th, at 9 o'clock to 5 p.m., at all the usual polling booths in the township.

Omemee.

For Reeve and Councillors of the Village of Omemee. Reeve—Dr. Cornwall, Chas. Ivory, T. A. McPherson, R. J. Grandy. For councillors—T. J. Parsons, J. C. Stephenson, Joseph Beatty, Geo. H. English, King Goodfellow, Henry Toole, F. E. Hatch, Thos. Stephenson, Jas. Evans.

Galway.

Michael Mansfield, reeve ; James Allen, John Gilmore, Michael Collins and George McKee, councillors ; all elected by acclamation.

EAST CHANDOS.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Mr. Will Woodbec has returned home from the St. Anthony Company's limits, with his feet badly frozen.

Mr. Albert Woodbec and bride visited his parents this week and held a reception. There was about forty present and they had a very pleasant time. We all wish them a happy married life.

Mr. Isaac Hoard and wife are spending their Christmas holidays in Belmont.

It was decided by the ratepayers in S. S. No. 5, to re-open their school as soon as they can get a teacher. Applications will be received by H. S. Prouty, Lasswade, Ont.

Mr. Wm. Daniels and family spent Christmas with Mr. H. Hubble.

Mr. John Baskins burnt the refuse slabs around the mill this week and cleaned them up well. Quite a number thought the mill was on fire.

Mr. James Woodbee held his annual party on Christmas eve, there being about fifty present. Mr. C. B. Hawley and son furnished music for dancing for a few sets.

Mr. Fred Wheeler was elected as school trustee in place of John Hoard. Mr. Hoard has held the position for six years in succession, and thought he would retire.

Mr. Nelson Hoard had the misfortune to loose a fine cow last week.

STONY LAKE.

Mrs. Joseph Brown, of Reaboro, and Miss Martha Brown, of Peterborough, were visiting friends and relatives here last week.

Miss Mena and Ida McCracken are visiting relatives her at present.

Thos. McQuigge, of Blairton, was in this section lately dehorning cattle.

Our popular school teacher, Mr. Henning, was the recipient of a beautiful and useful present in the shape of a shaving set and mirror from the young people of Zion, on the eve of his departure for his home in Goderich.

We understand that the Stony Lake Dairy Company has re-engaged Andrew Grant as cheesemaker for next season.

The first mail over the new route will reach us on Wednesday, Jan. 1st. We are all pleased with the new arrangement.

This is the route we long have sought
And grieved because we got it not.

The Newest and Best

The success scored by Pinemalt in one season, the drug trade admit, was phenomenal. No new medicine of recent years so suddenly leaped into favour. This suprising success has been due to merit. It has not been obtrusively advertised. It has not been presented as a "miracle" working remedy able to raise the dead. Nor yet is Pinemalt a common double-barrelled hit or miss patent jumble, a century in the rear. Pinemalt has become a favorite pulmonary medicine, because it accomplishes what it was designed to do. Its field is diseases of the throat and chest. That is a field wide enough for one medicine. While curing the special disease it tones and builds up the whole system. In lingering cases ask your druggist for Pinemalt and Hypophosphites instead of plain Pinemalt. The newest most Palatable and Best.

THE NEWCOMBE PIANO.

Mr. W. A. Shaw Re-engaged as Local Agent.

Mr. W. A. Shaw, agent of Octavius Newcombe & Co., feels like congratulating himself upon the unprecedented patronage he has received from the people of both town and country during the short time he has been in Peterborough. While he and the company he represents, are naturally gratified they are not at all surprised. The merits of the Newcombe piano commend themselves so strongly to the public that it is easy to sell a piano to persons who are looking for a first-class instrument —brilliant tone, ease of touch and lasting qualities. The Company in recognizing the excellent work done by Mr. Shaw in introducing the Newcombe into this vicinity have re-engaged him for another year. In entering upon his duties for 1896 Mr. Shaw wishes to cordially thank those who have favoured him with their patronage and to solicit from the general public an equally liberal patronage, feeling assured that he can serve their desires in the matter of the purchase of a first-class pianoforte in the most satisfactory manner. Address—P. O. Box 527.

CHRISTMAS REMINISCENCES

And Gratitude.

Twelve Christmases have passed since two lads put up their first sign as they started in business in the old brick building on George street on the spot which now marks Gough Bros. Two Mammoth Stores.

Twelve Christmases have found the same forces here trying to make the best store in Midland Ontario. It might be a much better store, but it is comforting to be told that much of the bettering, of retailing and pulling down of high prices, is traced to the doings of the same two lads who have stood by the business through good times and bad times.

It would be unbecoming for us to say this is true, especially when we think of the mistakes in business made by busy brains and human fingers. There are, however, three things which we wish to say to-day :—

FIRST—Business will be best administered and therefore greatest when it is pursued with earnestness and enthusiasm, and a close calculation which keeps it in constant touch with the demands of the masses.

SECOND—Back of the system and the large staff of employees are stalwart principles and a steadfast purpose to so apply them that the store shall be worthy of confidence from the ground upward.

THIRD---To the thousands of people who shop here year in and year out we tender our grateful thanks for their appreciation of our efforts. Our good wishes are extended to all---Friends and Customers and the Ladies who read our advertisements---a joyous New Year to all.

So shines upon us the memory of the increasing kindness, interest and favour of troops of the best of friends, upon each of whom we wish the New Year's sun may shine with double brightness.

AT THE CAPITAL.

The Bill of Fare Presented to the Legislators.

A NUMBER OF IMPORTANT MATTERS

The Members Will Have to Consider a Good Deal Besides Remedial Legislation—The Fast Steamship and Pacific Cable Projects Will Engage Attention.

Ottawa, Jan. 1.—For the first time since Confederation the Parliament of Canada is to meet to-morrow for its sixth session. Two previous Parliaments held five sessions, three held four sessions and one two sessions. The precedent which the present Parliament will create is not likely to be repeated for many years to come. Had it not been for the Manitoba school question it is a fair inference that the present Parliament would have been dissolved before this. Although convened for a special purpose, it is to be a regular session, and the bill of fare which the Government will present will be found to be a most important one. The Governor-General in his Speech from the Throne will likely refer to the reasons for calling Parliament together at this unusually early period, this being rendered necessary by the pledge made last session. His Excellency will doubtless advert to the bountiful harvest with which Canada has been blest during the past year, and to the evidence of the increased activity in various branches of industry. Fitting allusion will be made by the Governor-General to his recent visit to the great west of Canada, where he had many opportunities of noticing, particularly in British Columbia, the extension of mining enterprises and development of our mineral resources. A special feature of the same tour were visits paid to Indian reserves and schools, where adult Indians and children are manifesting proficiency and intelligence highly encouraging. The Governor compliments the country in possessing in the territorial Mounted Police an efficient and able cavalry corps. His Excellency may fittingly impress on the country the importance of maintaining this splendid body of men, which are indispensable in the western country.

The Speech goes on to deal with the special matter for which Parliament is summoned. It says the Government has been in communication with the local authority in Manitoba to see if that province would amend the school acts so as to render interference by the Dominion Parliament in the interests of the Catholic minority unnecessary. The Provincial Government having declined to entertain favorably the suggestions made, Parliament will be asked to consider legislation on this subject.

The promised aid of the Imperial Government to the Atlantic fast mail service is acknowledged in complimentary terms. Reference is also made to Mr. Chamberlain's interest in this and the Pacific Cable projects. The Speech will say that the recent decisions of the Home Government on these important matters may be regarded as evidence of a desire on the part of Her Majesty's Government to draw closer to each other and to the Motherland the outlying portions of the Queen's dominions.

Reference will appropriately be made to the satisfactory conclusion of the survey work necessary for the proper delimitation of the boundary between Canada and Alaska. Mr. W. F. King, Canadian Commissioner, and General Duffield, his United States confrere, met at Albany yesterday and signed a joint report to their respective governments.

After referring to this subject, the Speech will deal with matters which your correspondent foreshadowed last week. The attention of Parliament will be asked to measures intended to provide for the better arming of our militia, and the strengthening of the defences of Canada. President Cleveland's jingo policy has done good service by impressing on the Government and country the imperative need of maintaining an efficient and thoroughly equipped militia.

The visit to England last summer of Mr. Newcombe, Deputy Minister of Justice, to consult with the Home Government on the copyright question and Mr. Hall Caine's recent visit to Canada on the same subject will doubtless lead the Government to promise a copyright bill.

The increase of population in the Northwest Territories, as demonstrated by the recent police census, has shown the fairness of the demand for increased parliamentary representation. A bill will be, therefore, introduced to divide Alberta into two electoral districts, with one additional member.

The Speech will close with the gratifying intimation that the revenue and expenditure are reaching an equilibrium.

The mover and seconder of the address will not be finally chosen until Monday. If Mr. McGillivray is a straight Government man he will be offered the chance of moving the address.

There are many who yet believe that there will be a change of Government before many days. Sir Charles Tupper's name is the only one mentioned as a possibility. Sir Mackenzie Bowell will, however, hold on until he introduces a coercion school bill. How he can dictate the choice of a successor after that it is difficult to see. A sub-committee of the Council, consisting of Messrs. Ouimet, Daly and Haggart, met privately to-day to consider if the terms of the bill can be altered in view of the result of the bye-elections. It is rumored that Mr. Ouimet offered his resignation on Friday, the night of the Montreal Centre election. How true this is it is impossible to say. At all events Senator Desjardins was offered a seat in the Cabinet, but, like a wise man, declined. The fact seems to be that the Government are unable to secure a Minister from the Province of Quebec.

The Governor-General's usual New Year's levee was held to-day in the Senate Chamber. It was largely attended. In the afternoon Her Excellency was at home at Government House and had many callers. Most of the Ministers' wives received to-day. Mrs. McCarthy, Sir Mackenzie Bowell's widowed daughter, did honors at the Premier's residence, and had a continuous number of callers.

THE UNITED STATES LOAN.

London Bankers Decline to Give Very Definite Opinions as to Buying the Bonds.

New York, Jan. 1.—Ballard Smith cables from London to The World:

As to the prospective bond issue but little indication appears in the London press as to its reception here. Most of the leading Anglo-American bankers in London have, however, been seen to-day as well as the prominent Paris, Frankfort, Amsterdam and Berlin financiers. This question was addressed to them: "Would 3 per cent. bonds of the United States be taken in your city at par, payable as have been other bonds of the United States?"

For whatever reason, European bankers just now generally decline to be quoted by name. In London all the authorities who expressed an opinion emphatically declared that coin in bonds payable either in gold or silver at the option of the United States Government would not now be taken in London. Were 3 per cent. bonds specifically stated to be payable in gold to be offered, it was very generally considered that (if the Venezuelan disputes were likely to be amicably settled) not much difficulty would be experienced in placing such bonds at par on the London market. It was further stated that until cordial relations were re-established between the United States and England, United States bonds of any description would not be taken in England to any extent. The sentiment being freely expressed that England was not inclined to find money for the United States which might possibly be used to provide sinews of war against England herself.

Mr. Sandeman, governor of the Bank of England, declined to give an opinion on the specific question put to him without consideration, but desired to take advantage of the opportunity to express his earnest hope that in the financial and commercial interests of the two countries, the present difficulties would be speedily removed.

A member of the Rothschild firm also positively declined to express any opinion whatever on the specific questions submitted. His firm, he said, had absolutely nothing to do with the proposed loan.

The manager of the house of Baring Bros. replied to the question in the negative and added that until the opinion of the financial community changed, United States bonds would not be a great success on the London market.

The senior member of the firm of Brown, Shipley & Co., stated that if the United States had issued 3 per cent. gold bonds, instead of 4 per cent. coin bonds, they would have been taken up probably at par on the continent and elsewhere. He considered that the former bonds would have gone better than the latter.

Mr. Blake of Blake, Boissevain & Co., considered that 3 per cent. coin bonds would not be taken up in London.

Mr. Burns of J. S. Morgan & Co. returned an emphatic "Certainly not," to a question. He added that under normal conditions 3 per cent. gold bonds only would be quite largely taken in London.

Several of the members of the firm of Sir Samuel Montague & Co. expressed precisely similar opinions.

A Slap From the Standard.

London, Jan. 1.—The Standard says in connection with the new American loan: "The loan is a mere raising of money to enable the United States to maintain an appearance of solvency. As it prolongs the present financial system, it must be debasing the currency. The new bonds would not be extravagantly cheap at par."

Catarrh in the Head

FREE TRADE SPEECH

Made by the Premier of New South Wales.

THE COLONY IN GOOD CONDITION

A Partition of Turkey or a Great War Foreshadowed—The War Fever—A United Australia Hoped for—Closer Union of the Colonies Must Come.

Sydney, N.S.W., Jan. 1.—At a public banquet given here last night which was attended by Viscount Hampden, Governor of the Colony, and a large number of colonial officials and other prominent men, the Prime Minister, the Hon. G. H. Reid, made a speech, in which he said he rejoiced that the prolonged and disastrous commercial troubles had ended. He professed the utmost confidence in the future, under the policy of free industries and free commerce. He rejoiced that the flag of New South Wales could fly beside the grand old flag of the Motherland, with equal glory, as a new signal of fearless trust in liberty and peace and good will to men.

As Mr. Reid referred to the Turkish and other problems that had disquieted the world, he predicted that there would be a great partition of territory or a great war owing to the changing political conditions on the three continents.

Continuing, Mr. Reid said: "Even our level-headed cousins in America have caught the contagion of universal unrest. I fear there are thousands of Americans who are willing to plunge the whole Anglo-Saxon race into what would be the most wanton and disastrous war of the century over a few miles of fever-breeding jungle where not one sane citizen of the United States would send a dog. I cannot believe that such a stupendous crime is possible. The hearts of the race are too full of kindred blood."

Referring to the question of federation, Mr. Reid said there was a united Britain and a united Canada and he trusted that they would soon add a united Australia. The Australian nation might soon have to stand shoulder to shoulder, if it were to stand at all. He hoped that an enduring federation would be achieved calmly and voluntarily, but he could not ignore the fact that if the colonies did not come together willingly they might soon be drawn together by the sheer force of events.

NEW YEAR HONORS.

Mr. Alfred Austin Made Poet Laureate—A Canadian Judge Knighted—Two New Peers.

London, Dec. 31.—In accordance with the usual custom of conferring honors on the occasion of the New Year, the Queen has elevated to the peerage Sir Frederick Leighton, president of the Royal Academy, and Henry Hucks Gibbs, formerly member of the House of Commons, and late a director of the Bank of England, and has knighted Hon. H. P. P. Crease, senior puisne judge of British Columbia. Henry H. Gibbs has been a large donor to the purse of the Conservative party.

Austin Made Laureate.

Her Majesty has also appointed Alfred Austin poet laureate, an office which has been vacant since the death of Lord Tennyson on October 6, 1892.

Alfred Austin, the poet laureate, is a poet, critic and journalist. He was born at Headingley, near Leeds, May 30, 1835. His father was a merchant and magistrate of the borough of Leeds. He took his degrees at the University of London in 1853, and in 1857 he was called to the bar of the Inner Temple. But the publication, although anonymously, of a poem entitled "Randolph," when he was 18, showed the bent of his disposition. From his earliest years he was imbued with the desire and determination to devote his life to literature. His first acknowledged volume of verse, "The Season: A Satire," appeared in 1861. His other poetical productions are: "The Human Tragedy," 1862; "The Golden Age: A Satire," 1871; "Interludes," 1872; "Rome or Death," 1873; "Madonna's Child," 1873; "The Tower of Babel," a drama, 1874; "Lowzko, the Bastard: A Tale of Polish Grief," 1877; "Savanarola," a tragedy, 1881; "Soliloquies in Song," "At the Gate of Convent," "Love's Widowhood and Other Poems," "Prince Lucifer and English Lyrics," all published between 1861 and 1880. He has published three novels: "Five Years Of It," 1858; "An Artist's Proof," 1864, and "Won by a Head," 1866; also the poetry of the period reprinted from Temple Bar, 1870, and "A Vindication of Lord Byron," 1869, occasioned by Mrs. Stowe's article, "The True Story of Lord Byron's Life." He has written much for The London Standard and for The Quarterly Review.

His political writings include "Russia Before Europe," 1876; "Tory Horrors," 1876; a reply to Mr. Gladstone's "Bulgarian Horrors," and "England's Policy and Perils," a letter to the Earl of Beaconsfield, 1877. In 1888, in conjunction with W. J. Courthope, he founded The National Review, and continued to edit it till the summer of 1893. In 1892 Messrs. Macmillan issued a collected edition of his poems in six volumes, since which time they have published "Hortunatus, the Pessimist" and "England's Darling," and other poems and a prose work entitled "The Garden That I Love."

HOW SHORTIS ESCAPED.

The Governor-General Acted on His Own Responsibility After Cabling to the Home Government.

Ottawa, Jan. 1.—It is understood that after a number of meetings of Council at which the case of the prisoner Shortis was discussed, the Cabinet, not having recommended any interference with the sentence of the court, His Excellency, the Governor-General, made representations to the Home Government by cable, stating the facts, and received a reply to the effect that in such a case his duty would be to exercise his own judgment, and His Excellency has decided that, under the circumstances, the sentence should be commuted to imprisonment for life. The necessary steps have, therefore, been taken to carry out the decision of His Excellency. There can be no doubt that a lunatic asylum will be his future place of confinement.

Weak, Tired, Nervous

Women, who seem to be all worn out, will find in purified blood, made rich and healthy by Hood's Sarsaparilla, permanent relief and strength. The following is from a well known nurse:

"I have suffered for years with female complaints and kidney troubles and I have had a great deal of medical advice during that time, but have received little or no benefit. A friend advised me to take Hood's Sarsaparilla and I began to use it, together with Hood's Pills. I have realised more benefit from these medicines than from anything else I have ever taken. From my personal experience I believe Hood's Sarsaparilla to be a most complete blood purifier." MRS. C. CROMPTON, 71 Cumberland St., Toronto, Ontario.

THE GOVERNMENTS RELAXING GRIP.

The Government should, if it has any hold upon the people, be able to carry the bye elections. By an unfair and improper fixing of different dates the party in power is able to concentrate all its horse, foot and artillery—all the resources of the boodle brigade. They can and have perpetrated the most extravagantly lavish and unblushing bribery—there is no time for a protest before the assembling of Parliament, and after the session will come dissolution. Yet, with all these advantages, the country, where it has had a chance to speak, has pretty severely condemned the Government. Within nine months there have been nine bye elections. Of these the Government has retained Haldimand. North Ontario (in which the Government candidate had a minority of the votes cast by the two opposing candidates), Quebec West and Westmoreland, where the Government majority was reduced by 1400 votes. The Government party has lost, and the Liberal party has gained, by splendid majorities, Montreal Centre, (Conservative majority 1,214), Jacques Cartier, Antigonish and Mr. McCarthy has plucked Cardwell, another Government stronghold, from the Government's hands. The waterlogged hulk, drifting on an uncertain sea, with the crew in a state of mutiny, is striking many dangerous rocks. The last bump was on the rocks in the Lachine rapids, and it is pretty certain that it will run aground in West Huron. And there will be abundance of shoal water and sand bars in the general elections.

THE RESPONSIBILITY.

The Mail and Empire with more energy than warrant, is endeavouring to create the impression that Mr. Laurier is responsible for making the Manitoba school question a matter of Federal politics, and thereby inciting race and creed prejudices. The Toronto Telegram, which is an independent journal, and uninfluenced by bread and butter considerations, thus gives its views deduced from the facts, which collide pretty squarely with the contention of the Mail and Empire. "It is impossible to read the terms of the remedial order without concluding that the design of the Dominion Government was to throw the school question into the arena of Federal politics. It is no secret in well-informed circles that the Cabinet divided almost evenly and that the remedial order was carried by only one vote. Nor is it a secret that the wording of the remedial order is the work of one Cabinet Minister, who hoped thereby to secure the favour of the Church and thus make sure of one trump in his game for the Premiership. How can the Government pretend that the remedial order was an invitation to compromise, when the wording of that order roused all the force of Manitoba's self-respect against any suggestion of compromise? The question is admittedly difficult. The Government had to endanger either the country or itself, and it subjected the country to all the horrors of sectarian strife at the polls, instead of bravely adopting a conciliatory policy."

Sir Mackenzie Bowell and his colleagues are realizing the truth of the lesson in the fable of the old man and his ass; they try to please everybody and end in pleasing nobody and losing their—themselves—into the bargain.

THE cheese industry of the province has evidently not reached its limit yet, there being an increase of 114 factories last year and an increase in the output of 11,117,828 lbs., according to the Provincial Department of Agriculture. The total amount of money paid to patrons of the factories was almost eight million dollars. It will be seen from these figures what an important industry this is in Ontario, and the necessity there is to have the Canadian article stamped so that inferior cheese from the United States cannot be sold in Britain as Canadian.

Y.P.S.C.E. NOTES.

Paragraphs of Local Interest to Endeavourers Supplied by the County Union and Epworth League.

THE WORLD'S C. E. PRAYER CHAIN.

Since our special subject for December is a prayer for preparation for the Week of Prayer, and the subject for January:—"That all Christians may be open to receive the Holy Spirit, and that a season of special religious awakening may result," let us expect great things from God and work for them in our own society and church. Let our New Year's prayer be that the coming year may be one of great revival.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOUR IN POLITICS.

There has recently been quite an outcry by ardent Prohibitionists against Rev. Dr. Clark for not leading the C. E. phalanx into the prohibition party. In defence of his position he stated that the C.E. society is not a political institution, it is merely a child of the church, for the purpose of training young people in truth and righteousness, striving to make them loyal and efficient members of Christ's Church.

While Christian Endeavour does not dictate to its members as to what political party they shall belong, it teaches with emphasis that "Righteousness exalteth a nation," and therfore every Christian Endeavourer is—as every Christian should be—interested in having men of pure life at the head of affairs, whether in parliamentary or municipal politics.

The feeling is growing that we have too much politics and not enough righteousness in Canadian politics, and too often this evil enters into municipal matters. It may be that we have not many Christian Endeavour votes in town, but every Endeavourer has an influence. Let us each do all in our power to elect for councillors and mayor only those who will be for righteousness. In the coming municipal elections the aim of every elector should be to vote for men who will enforce the laws, and suppress all that tends to evil.

ST. PAUL'S SOCIETY.

A few short talks on the topic—"How next year may be made better than this has been,"—will be helpful to all who were present on Monday evening. Rev. Dr. Torrance impressed us all with the need of prayer for success in all church work—in fact without it a church is useless. He would prefer six who were mighty in prayer rather than six wealthy but wordly members of a church. Miss Quinn, Miss McIntosh, and Mr. A. J. Johnston also gave short talks along lines of improved work next year. The last part of the meeting was taken up with the consecration service.

GEORGE STREET SOCIETY.

The last business meeting of the year was held Monday evening. Full reports were received from the different departments of work.

The relief committee has made three warm quilts during the month, two of which were sent to "The Haven" in Toronto, and the other to a needy family of town. On Christmas eve seven baskets were prepared and distributed to as many poor families, some of which would otherwise have been without a Christmas dinner.

The social committee reported having spent an evening with the old folk of the Protestant Home, refreshments being served and several musical selections given. They will some time next month give a social to the Y.M.C.A.

The lookout committee have continued their faithful work. Monday evening they reported five new members for reception, two of them active.

The literary committee arranged the programme for the "Evening with Tennyson," which proved so entertaining and instructive.

Some time ago the executive decided that instead of sending away for new prayer meeting topic cards, the matter be left in the hands of the prayer meeting committee to select topics and leaders for the next six months. At the meeting last night the convenor reported that they had done the work assigned them, neat topic cards, or programmes, containing the subject and the name of the speaker for each meeting, having been printed and distributed.

According to our programme, the topic for this meeting was "Looking Backward" and was to have been taken by Mr. Dumble, but as he was not present, Mr. Dayman, our president, made a few appropriate remarks upon this subject.

Health and strength carry us through dangers and make us safe in the presence of perils. A perfectly strong man with rich, pure blood, has nothing to fear from germs. He may breathe in the bacilli of consumption with impunity. If there is a weak spot where the germs may find an entrance to the tissues, then the trouble begins. Disease germs propagate with lightning-like rapidity. Once in the blood, the only way to get rid of them is to kill them. This is what Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is for. It purifies the blood. That means that it kills the germs, but that is only part of what it does. It assists digestion by stimulating the secretion of digestive fluids, so promoting assimilation and nutrition; purifies and enriches the blood and so supplies the tissues with the food they need. It builds up strong, healthy flesh and puts the whole body into a disease-resisting state.

ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION.

The following address, accompanied by the gift of an elegant Bible and hymn combined, was presented to the teacher of School Section, No. 18, Hamilton, Mr. C. Howson, on the occasion of his leaving to continue his studies to a higher grade in Ottawa:

Mr. C. Howson,

Dear Teacher and Friend,—We the undersigned pupils of School Section No. 18, beg to express our sorrow at your removal from amongst us.

During the short year that you have spent with us you have won our highest respect, both in your labours as teacher and in your society as friend; always showing that your object was to do right not as a man pleaser but as God-fearing a trait of character which ought to stand first among the requisites of a teacher of the young.

We thank you for the interest you have taken in both our moral and mental advancement, and feel assured that our loss will be a gain to those whose privilege it will be in the future to be placed under your guidance.

Again expressing our sincere regret at your removal from our midst, we wish to convey you our profound respect for your usefulness to us by your accepting this small token of remembrance which we trust will be appreciated, not on account of its intrinsic value but by our gratitude hereby expressed, and trust that should it never be our privilege to meet on earth, we may all meet where there will be no more sorrowful partings.

Signed on behalf of the school.

Lord Rosebery Comes Out With a Second Very Strong Letter.

London, Jan. 1.—The morning papers print another letter from Ex-Prime Minister Rosebery of similar tenor to the letter from the same source published Monday morning, in which Lord Rosebery took the Government severely to task for its action, or rather its inaction, in regard to Turkish affairs. In his last letter Lord Rosebery advocates the holding of many mass-meetings to express the public opinion on the subject. Some safety-valve, he says, must be found for the pent-up, irrepressible indignation of the people. He adds: "To build the mightiest navy in the world and give absolute power to the Ministry in order to see our every effort baffled and ridiculed by a Sultan—and such a Sultan—is enough to make every gorge in the country rise."

Consumptives Should Neglect

No means of ameliorating their disease. Cod Liver Oil is acknowledged one of the most valuable remedies in pulmonary complaints. That, however it be employed in such a form as to be easily digested is imperative. It is just here that the entire superiority of Maltine with Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites asserts itself. Maltine itself possesses nutritive value equal to cod liver oil, but more important to the sufferer from bronchitis, colds, consumption, is the great digestive power of maltine upon all foods of a starchy nature. Maltine with Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites is, in brief, a food of great value in emaciation and wasting diseases; a medicine possessing the remedial power of cod liver oil; a digestive agency of active potency; a restorer of the debilitated. Try it for two weeks.

Government Orders Dr. Jameson's Return.

GREAT EXCITEMENT AT BERLIN.

Communication With the Force Cut Off—A Fight Hourly Expected—The Incident Will Probably Cause Trouble Between Britain and Germany—Turkish Affairs.

London, Jan. 1.—In its issue of today The Times says: "The new year opens with mingled omens. At home the auguries are in every way favorable. The outlook of external politics is most serious, even alarming. The revival of war spirit in the United States, or what simulates it, and the prolonging of the uncertain position in the East are almost equally disquieting. The long impending crisis in South Africa has become acute. We are bound, therefore, to be prepared for contingencies, which may call for a vigorous exertion of power, that last resort that must be relied upon to hold the British Empire together. Happily it is certain that the nation is fully capable of meeting the probable demands on its resources."

AFRICAN WAR CLOUD.

A Conflict Between the Contending Parties in the Transvaal May Happen at Any Moment.

London, Jan. 1.—A despatch to The Times from Cape Town says: "Consequent upon a letter signed by the leading inhabitants of Johannesberg, which was sent to Dr. Jameson at Mafeking on Saturday, Dr. Jameson on Sunday crossed the Transvaal frontier near Mafeking with 700 men. It is known that he passed Malmani at 5 o'clock on Monday morning. The letter from Dr. Jameson was dated Dec. 28 and said: 'Matters in this state have become so critical that we are assured that at no distant period there will be a conflict between the Government and the Uitlander population. The position of thousands of Englishmen and others is rapidly becoming intolerable.'

"The letter then proceeds to complain that the Government virtually compels Uitlanders to pay the whole revenue of the country, while denying them representation.

"The internal policy of the Government incensed not only the Uitlanders, but a large number of Boers, while its external policy has exasperated the neighboring states to the extent of endangering the peace and independence and the preservation of the republic.

"We must consider what must be the condition of things in the event of an armed conflict. Thousands of unarmed men, women and children of our race will be at the mercy of the well-armed Boers, while property of enormous value will be in the greatest peril. We all feel that we are justified in taking any steps to prevent the shedding of blood and insure the protection of our rights."

Joseph Chamberlain, Secretary of State for the Colonies, has returned to London unexpectedly, and remained at the Colonial Office the whole day.

The Times, in an editorial, says: "Mr. Chamberlain's action indicates that no adequate justification exists for Dr. Jameson's apparent breach of the law of nations. It was known in official circles yesterday that in the course of the day Mr. Chamberlain had wired Dr. Jameson ordering him to return without delay to the company's territory. The adoption of this course manifestly places a serious responsibility upon the shoulders of the Colonial Office. It is believed that the Boer forces have been mobilized under Gen. Joubert, and that an explosion is possible at any moment.

"Mr. Chamberlain is believed to have addressed himself to President Kruger as clearly and as firmly as to Dr. Jameson. He called upon the Boer leader to do his utmost to prevent hostilities and has offered Great Britain's aid to promote a peaceful settlement.

"If no rising has occurred, Mr. Chamberlain's attitude will command universal approval; but if British blood has been shed which might have been saved, it is inevitable that some part of the blame, however unjustly, should attach to his intervention.

"Dr. Jameson would do well to accept the British offer of mediation, but it is rumored that he has been ill-advised enough to resort to a measure of a very different kind. He is said to have been so far forgetful of the position of the Transvaal as subject to the suzerainty of Great Britain, as to appeal to the French and German consuls for support. Conduct of that kind betrays a remarkable ignorance of the rights of this country over the Transvaal and of her resolution to enforce them, whatever else we may tolerate at the hands of the Boers, we will not endure foreign intervention in any shape within the Transvaal nor suffer the Transvaal to fall into anarchy."

The Times understands that Dr. Jameson's force is well provisioned for four days' march, and supposes that the wires have been cut, so that it is impossible for telegrams to reach him. It well probably take him four days to reach Johannesberg. It is estimated that the Boer force consists of 800 to 1000 men, with Maxim guns, and about 5000 Burghers, armed with their own guns and self-supporting. There are rumors, however, of much disaffection among them.

HIGH-HANDED JAMESON.

His Ill-Judged Actions Blamed For the Dangerous Feeling.

London, Jan. 1.—The Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, Secretary of State for the Colonies, has issued an official statement that he is now in communication with President Kreuger of the South African Republic, in an endeavor to avert serious consequences of the unauthorized and altogether unjustifiable act of Dr. Jameson, the administrator of the British South Africa Company, in leading a force of from 500 to 700 men into the Transvaal to assist the Uitlanders in their contention against the South African Republic. Governor Robinson of the Cape Colony has issued a proclamation publicly repudiating the act of Dr. Jameson, and has caused to be published in the newspapers of Pretoria and Johannesberg an injunction in the name of the Queen to all Her Majesty's subjects in the Transvaal not to give aid to Dr. Jameson, but to obey the law and observe order. Messengers who have been sent to overtake Jameson conveying orders to him that they shall retire from the Transvaal territory immediately. The situation is very much aggravated by the fact that Dr. Jameson cut the wires behind him, rendering telegraphic communication with him impossible. Mr. Chamberlain sent a despatch to the British South Africa Company asking them to repudiate Jameson and his acts. To the despatch the company replied that they were entirely ignorant of Jameson's acts or purposes.

Cecil Rhodes, Prime Minister of the Cape Colony, in connection with this reply, stated that Jameson had acted without authority. He (Rhodes) had tried to stop him when he learned that he had gone into the Transvaal, but found that the wires had been cut and that consequently he could not communicate with him. Jameson wrote a letter to the commandant at Maricosaland, refusing to withdraw from the Transvaal, and avowing that he would proceed upon his original plans, which, in acceptance of the invitation of the principal residents of the Rand, were to assist them in their demands for justice. It is rumored here that advices have been received announcing the arrival of Dr. Jameson, with his followers, in Johannesberg.

Lord Salisbury spent the afternoon at the Foreign Office, where he received United States Ambassador Bayard and the Turkish, German, Russian and Spanish ambassadors. After the reception the Premier had a long conference with Mr. Chamberlain, who had previously conferred with the Marquis of Lansdowne, Secretary of State for War.

GERMANY TALKS SERIOUSLY.

She Will Grant the Boers More Than Diplomatic Protection.

Berlin, Jan. 1.—Considerable excitement prevails here over the crisis in the Transvaal and the attitude of Great Britain is denounced upon all sides. The National Zeitung says: "The South African Company holding the charter of the Queen, has committed a grievous breach of the peace and violation of the law of nations. Germany's interests demand that the independent republic shall be maintained intact, and we expect Germany to interpose with all possible emphasis to assist President Krueger."

The Vossische Zeitung says: "The proceedings of the British South Africa Company cannot be tolerated, and Germany must immediately take energetic steps to protect the South African Republic."

The paper expresses hope that Dr. Leyd, the Secretary of State of the South African Republic, who is now in Berlin, and in close communication with the Foreign Office, has already telegraphed to Pretoria that Germany will grant the Boers protection that will not be merely diplomatic.

Relations Endangered.

London, Jan. 1.—The Times gives a qualified approval of Mr. Chamberlain's course, and expresses the strongest sympathy with the foreign residents of the South African republic.

The Times to-morrow will print a despatch from its Berlin correspondent, in which he says: "The crisis in the Transvaal endangers British relations with Germany. The Government hitherto has endeavored to restrain the newspapers over which it has some control, but, judging from what has already been written, one does not like to contemplate what will happen when the restraint is removed. Inasmuch as the German residents of the Transvaal cannot but be affected by a serious breach of the public peace, Germany cannot be at a loss for a concrete case for interference if she is determined to interfere. There is some reason to believe that she is determind and resolved under no circumstances to tolerate a disturbance of the status quo in Sluth Africa.

The Standard to-morrow will print a dispatch from its Berlin correspondent saying that the news of the invasion of the Transvaal has caused a storm of indignation in the German capital that has rarely been witnessed. Emperor William yesterday summoned by telegraph to the new palace Baron Maerschal Von Bieberstein, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, to discuss the situation. The correspondent adds that there is excellent reason for believing that German statesmen expect a peaceful and satisfactory settlement of the affair.

My hair had been falling out very freely for some time. Becoming anxious about the matter I thought I would experiment upon the properties of Hairene, and one application actually stopped it at once. I applied it afterwards, using in all about a quarter of one bottle, and have not required to use it since. It seems to have given renewed and healthy vigor to the scalp, and I can recommend it in all confidence. W. B. PATTERSON, Chemist, Gananoque, Ont., Jan. 14, 1894.

Fainted on the Street.

South Ward School Opening.

The opening of the new South Ward school, it is now thought, will take place on Friday, Jan. 9th, instead of on Monday next as was at first decided. The matter will be brought up before the School Board on Tuesday evening next, and in all probability the opening will take the form of an "at home," and a general invitation is extended to the public to be present and examine the splendid new addition.

Solvation Army Banquet.

The Salvation Army banquet held yesterday was a great success, as was the musical entertainment following it. The "beautiful present" given away proved to be a fine overcoat presented to the Captain. Many thought there was to be a wedding but were disappointed, though such an event is one of the probabilities of the not distant future. At midnight the Army sallied forth from the barracks and marched the New Year in.

Mr. McCarthy Retires.

Mr. Allan McCarthy writes The EXAMINER to say that he has retired from the contest for Councillor in Ashburnham. He consented to the nomination, at the request of several citizens in the North Ward, but owing to the fact that there are financial matters to settle, with which the old Council are familiar, he feels that the settlement should be left to them. He therefore retires, thanking those that favoured his candidature and wishing them a Happy New Year.

Lee Moon Strikes the Town.

Lee Moon arrived in town on the evening train from Port Hope last night, and after registering at a first-class hotel, proceeded to make enquiries as to the chances for making a living in Peterborough in the laundry business. As there are several good laundries in town already, the answers he got were not very encouraging, but, nothing daunted, the Celestial is out this morning busily engaged in looking up suitable premises. He comes from Oysterville, near Whitby.

Trouble With the Light

The electric lights suddenly went out on New Year's eve at about nine o'clock, after having spasmodically burnt dimly and brightly by fits and starts for over an hour. The cause of the cutting off of the current lies in the fact that the power was shut off through the presence of large quantities of anchor ice in the river, which also prevented the entrance of water into the mains and consequently the waterworks service was not available until morning, by which time the ice had been cleared away sufficiently to allow the pumps to resume work.

At the Rink.

Mr. Angus McIntosh states that unless Peterborough gets some of the cold weather which they are having now in the Northwest that there will be no skating or curling this week. In the skating rink there is only a quarter of an inch of ice in some places, as there are only two degrees of frost in the building. In the curling rinks the sand is not all covered yet. Unless, therefore, a very sudden drop in the temperature takes place to-night the rink will not be open this week, though with ten or twelve degrees of frost the ice could be in readiness by Saturday.

Y.M.C.A. NEW YEAR'S RECEPTION.

The Most Successful yet Held.

The reception tendered to young men by the Young Men's Christian Association yesterday proved to be one of the most successful receptions in the history of the association, over two hundred young men attending. The reception committee was kept busy welcoming strangers to the rooms, and the ladies' auxiliary were taxed to their utmost to supply refreshments. The new games introduced this winter proved a boon to the entertainers, as they attracted the attentions of the young men. In the evening an impromptu programme of vocal and instrumental selections prevented the possibility of any monotony. A jolly set of young fellows gathered around the piano, sang and played on different styles of instruments, all of which tended to enliven the gathering. In the parlours groups were to be seen, all enjoying to the fullest extent the home-like privileges of the Association. Not a few young men informed the secretary on leaving the rooms last evening that they enjoyed the reception greatly. A large number of young men handed in applications for membership. The day was fittingly brought to a close by a short song and prayer service held in the parlours, about twenty-five young men remaining. This service took on the true consecration ring. Two thirds of those present ranged in age from sixteen to twenty years, just the class of young men that need such attractions. The work of this year has started out with a proper spirit, and in every department is well in hand, and with a new building and the extra attractions that will then be afforded, this institution promises to be one of the most successful of any in town.

WEDDING OF MR. JOHN KING.

He Espouses a Rochester Young Lady on Christmas Day.

(Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.)

"Miss Bertha May Carr was married to John King, of Toronto, Canada, Christmas Day, at the residence of her mother, Mrs. Anna R. Carr, No. 236 Monroe avenue.

Miss Emma L. Carr, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid, and Herbert J. King, of Peterborough, Canada, a cousin of the groom, was best man. The parlour in which the ceremony was performed was tastefully decorated with holly and flowers. The Rev. Ward D. Platt, pastor of the Monroe Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, read the marriage service of that church. Only relatives of the bride and groom were present to witness the event and the newly married couple left on an evening train for a short trip through the West. Mr. and Mrs. King will reside at No. 62 Wellington avenue, Toronto, after January 10th."

Mr. "Jack" King is an old Peterborough boy and has many friends who, with the EXAMINER, will extend hearty congratulations.

Sometimes the most careful women are the most careless. Many a woman bundles herself up, to keep out sickness—when she is neglecting the very worst sickness that can come to a woman. She allows a slight disorder to become worse, to slowly sap her vitality. The little pain and the other slight indications of trouble seem to her unimportant. She goes on with increasing suffering, until life itself becomes a drag. Nervousness, "sinking spells," digestive disturbances, and fifty other complications may arise from the derangement of the organs distinctly feminine. Over thirty years ago, the need for a reliable remedy for so-called "female complaints" was recognised by Dr. R. V. JAMES FREEBURN TORN TO PIECES.

Fatal Explosion on the Trent Valley Canal.

THE AWFUL WORK OF DYNAMITE CARTRIDGES.

Becoming Overheated They Discharge Themselves.

NO VESTIGE REMAINS OF THE BLACKSMITH SHOP.

Giant Trees Torn Up by the Roots and the Ground Furrowed for Yards Around by the Force of a Premature Dynamite Explosion Which Occurred Yesterday Near Lakefield on the Line of the Trent Valley Canal—Particulars of the Awful Death of Mr. James Freeburn, Who Was in Charge of the Explosive.

A yawning chasm marking the spot where stood the blacksmith shop in section No. 5 of the local division of the Trent Valley canal and the mutilated remains of Mr. James Freeburn tell the sad tale of a dynamite explosion which took place yesterday morning, just outside the village of Lakefield.

Young Freeburn had charge, it seems, of superintending the work of blasting with dynamite and the explosive was entrusted to his care. Several cases of it were generally kept stored at night in the blacksmith shop, and if the night was a cold one the necessitating a thawing out at the blacksmith forge.

Yesterday morning at about six o'clock Freeburn left the boarding house and walked to the blacksmith shop, a distance of about three-quarters of a mile, in order to have the dynamite prepared for use by the time the men came to work half an hour later. While in the smithy some terrible danger evidently menaced the young man, as he is thought to have opened the door in an endeavour to escape, when what he most dreaded occurred and with a rumble like a sharp crash of thunder, an explosion took place which was felt in every farm house

FOR MILES AROUND,

the windows being almost shaken out of the big boarding house for the men, three quarters of a mile away. Those who were in the open air in the vicinity at the time state that the whole sky was illuminated by the flash which preceded the noise of the explosion.

Those employed on the canal feared the worst as soon as the well known and dreaded boom reached their ears and scores hurried to the blacksmith shop, where a never-to-be-forgotten sight was witnessed. Flattened against the front of a pile of cut stone was the headless, armless, and legless trunk of poor Freeburn's body, crushed into an unrecognizable mass, with his entrails torn out and scattered on the ground. Of the blacksmith shop not a vestige remained, but in its place fully twenty feet deep, while the earth was torn up and furrowed by the force of the terrible explosion for yards around. Giant trees were ripped up by the roots and hurled over the tops of others to great distances, whilst timbers and stones descended on the roofs of farmers' houses a quarter of a mile away.

Amongst the canal men it is thought that Mr. Freeburn allowed the dynamite to become overheated, and suddenly realizing this opened the door and attempted to fly for his life, when the explosion took place and drove him over against the stone pile. Others again, however, hold that he may have accidentally dropped one of the large tin cans in which the CARTRIDGES WERE HELD.

Still another theory exists to the effect that the shed caught fire, and whilst Freeburn was attempting to save some tools something dropped from the roof upon the explosive. The canal employees do not, however, confirm this view of the case.

The mutilated remains of the victim of the awful accident were collected and placed in a coffin by the men, amongst whom he was a great favourite, and in the afternoon were conveyed to Lakefield, where his family, consisting of a wife and several small children reside.

During the day hundreds visited the scene of the accident from Peterborough, Lakefield and the adjoining townships, as the shock of the explosion affected almost every part of the vicinity.

Later Particulars.

The deceased who was a young married man from the village, has charge of the blasting operations, and was the first to arrive at the works in the morning, where he put on a fire in the stove in the loading room to warm it and the water used to thaw out the cartridges. A few minutes after he was spoken to by a fellow workman, Mr. Joseph Watson, and was then outside the building gathering wood and chips. Mr. Watson had just reached the pump house, a little way further on, when he and the engineer observed a bright glare, as if the magazine was on fire, then all became dark—a few seconds after the explosion occurred. It is supposed that when Freeburn went back and opened the door of the room he found it on fire. Knowing the danger he shut the door and sought safety in flight, but had only gone thirty feet when the explosion came, and he was blown to pieces. His legs and arms were taken off, his head shattered to pieces, whilst the brains, heart, etc., were scattered over the rocks, from which they were gathered by friends and placed in a coffin. Had the explosion occurred a few moments later the men would all have been at work, and the loss of life would have been great.

The deceased leaves a young wife and child. He was the son of Mr. James Freeburn of Smith, and was 24 years of age. No inquest was held.

The funeral took place this afternoon from the undertaking establishment of Mr. W. M. McDonald in Lakefield.

PRESENTATION TO MR. BENEDICT.

The Bank Men Remember him on the Eve of his Departure for Nova Scotia.

On Tuesday evening a number of the bank men and a few of their friends met at the residence of Mr. C. L. Benedict, who is about to be moved to Nova Scotia, and presented him, through Mr. F. W. Taylor, Manager of the Bank of Montreal, with a very handsome brass-mounted Gladstone travelling bag.

In making the presentation, Mr. Taylor expressed the great regret which both he and the staff of the local branch of the Bank of Montreal felt at the severance of the pleasant relations which they had had with Mr. Benedict for years. He wished him every success in the new field.

Mr. Benedict in replying assured his friends that their regret at parting was not greater than his own, and after thanking them most heartily for their kind remembrance of him, took occasion to express his appreciation of the friendship of his confreres in the bank, and of the many kindnesses shown him by them at different times.

The presentation took place at midnight, with the incoming of the New Year, and at the close of a very pleasant evening.

Foaming Ivorine Whitens the Teeth.

Dentists are delighted at the admirable qualities of Ivorine, the new preparation for the teeth. Commendations from the Dental profession carry the assurance that fragrant Ivorine is free from the admixture of enamel destroying substances, often the most marked characteristic of tooth powders, and that is the most efficient cleanser yet discovered. Ivorine cleanses from discoloration and whitens, hardens the gums, and imparts to the breath a delightful fragrance.

A GREAT Clearing Sale.

PRIOR TO STOCK-TAKING.

This is the last but not the least important sale of this business year. No doubt every store will have a sale during January, but where can you get such a variety of first-class goods as we show you. The standard of our stock has been kept up, although prices have been lower than that quoted by smaller houses for inferior grades of goods. SELLING FOR CASH enables us to clear the balance of our stock at prices that we could not think of doing were we giving Credit like all our opponents. If we get cost or even less we can turn the money over and clear ourselves.

DAILY MOTTO.

Thursday, Jan. 2nd.

"It is thus each year comes to us—for each day a clean white page; and we are artists whose duty it is to put something beautiful on the pages one by one; or we are historians and must give to the page some record of work or duty or victory to enshrine and carry away."

Swift years, but teach we how to bear.
To feel and act with strength and skill;
To reason wisely, nobly dare,
And speed your courses as ye will.

EMILY.

A Golden Wedding Celebration.

A very pleasant event was celebrated on Saturday evening last at "Hillside Farm," Emily, the home of Mr. and Mrs. John McCarrol, sr., the occasion being the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage which was solemnized in the village of Ballyduff, Durham County, Ont., on Dec. 28th, 1845, by the Rev. James Douglas, Presbyterian minister.

There were some seventy friends gathered to do honour to the occasion and extend their congratulations to the estimable old couple, whose lives has been one of happiness and prosperity.

There were born to Mr. and Mrs. McCarrol a family of nine children, and but one death has occurred to cast a shadow of sorrow upon them. The remaining eight were all present, viz: Messrs. W. J., Wesley, Andrew, Joseph and Benjamin, all of Emily township, and Mrs. J. Little, Toronto, Mrs. W. Boate, Lakehurst, and Mrs. Thos. Guthrie, of Emily, who very kindly remembered their parents by presenting them with two lovely easy chairs, upholstered in plush. The presentation, on behalf of the family, was made by Mr. Joseph Little, of Toronto, in a few well chosen words which were as follows:

DEAR MR. AND MRS. MCCARROLL,—You understand we are assembled here to do honour to this the fiftieth anniversary of your marriage and to offer our congratulations on your being spared to enjoy so many years of almost unbroken happiness.

We would, therefore, ask you to accept these two easy chairs as a gift from your children, with the earnest hope that you will find them a comfort in your declining years, and trusting that you may both be long spared with us and that health and happiness may still be yours for many days to come.

This was a complete surprise to the old couple, who requested the Rev. Mr. Hill, of Omemee, to reply, and which was done in the following words:—

DEAR FRIENDS,—At the request of Mr. and Mrs. McCarrol I will attempt to say a few words in return for the beautiful chairs presented and kind sentiments expressed by their family.

I am indeed pleased that you have so kindly remembered your dear father and mother in this way.

We find it hard to express their feelings in regard to those lovely gifts.

You most certainly have shown good taste in the selection of those chairs, as it surely shows that you desire your parents to spend the balance of their days in comfort. The Rev. gentleman said he always admired those who had a great respect for their parents.

He went on to tell what a great change there had been during the past fifty years When Mr. McCarroll came to Emily there were just two houses in it, and any man who possessed a yoke of oxen was considered pretty well off. But now, what a change! It is a beautiful country, well supplied with everything needful for man's convenience. Then, again, look at the changes in the settlers during the past half century. A great number of those who came to this country with Mr. McCarroll have long since passed away. Where are the men your father knew in his boyhood days? Where are the politicians, the ministers? Ah, yes, where are the Jeffersons, the Ryersons, the Greens of fifty years ago? They are all gone. Life is fast changing. The children of to-day are the men of to-morrow. Such is life. The reverend gentleman again thanked the family for the great respect they had shown their aged parents. He earnestly hoped they would strive to follow in their footsteps in all that was good, noble and honest. He wished them all the greatest success in life and assured them it gave him very great pleasure to be present to share in the honour of the occasion. Mr. Hill closed his thoughtful address with the earnest prayer that God might yet spare them all for many days to come to enjoy the good things of life.

The following were those who were present:—Mr. and Mrs. J. Little and Miss Lillian Little, of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. W. Boate and Miss Maud Boate, of Lakehurst; Mr. and Mrs. W. J. McCarroll and family; Mr. and Mrs. Benj. McCarroll and little daughter Beccie; Mr. and Mrs. Wesley McCarroll and family; Mr. and Mrs. Andrew McCarroll and family; Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Guthrie and Miss Hannah Lotherie; Mr. Joseph McCarroll; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McCarroll and family; Mr. and Mrs. John McCarroll and Master Bert McCarroll; Mrs. Eliza McCarroll, Miss E. J. McCarroll—all of Emily township; Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Williamson, and Messrs. A. and H. D. Williamson, Peterborough; Rev. Mr. Hill and wife of Omemee; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Holmes, Pontypool; Mrs. M. A. Holmes and Miss Ada Holmes, Ballyduff. There were fourteen grand children present.

PERSONAL.

Mr. J. W. Rorke, Norwood, spent New Year's in town.

Miss Annie Swanston, Ashburnham, is visiting friends in Toronto.

Mr. Andrew Mahood is the guest of Mr. Archie Fulton, Water street.

Mrs. M. Post, of Cavan, is the guest of Mrs. E. Smith, Madoc.

Rev. J. W. Bell, of Hamilton, is visiting his mother in town.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Conway spent New Year's Day in Dundas.

Miss Ritchie, of Beaverton, is a guest at the residence of Mr. Coyle Brown.

Mr. Thomas Duncan, of Grand Rapids, Mich., is visiting his parents in town.

Miss Louisa Reynolds, of town, is visiting friends and relatives, Lindsay.

Mr. Clayton F. Johnson, Toronto, spent New Years at Mr. B. F. Ackerman's.

Mr. Geo. Washburn, of Rochester, N.Y., is in town renewing old acquaintances.

Miss Ida Wesley of Park street, left on a visit to friends in Toronto yesterday.

Mrs. Wm. Helm is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Nixon, Churchill avenue, Toronto.

Miss Aggie Sloan, of Norwood, is visiting her cousin, Mrs. McGregor, Aylmer street.

Rev. J. C. Speer, of Broadway Methodist Tabernacle, Toronto, is visiting friends in town.

Miss Sybel Jewell, Hastings, spent New Year's at Mr. Geo. McBurney's, 4 Sheridan Terrace.

Mr. Will. Moore has passed his Christmas examinations in science at McGill University.

Mr. E. R. Wood, secretary of the C. C. L. and S. Co'y, is visiting his parents, Ashburnham.

Mr. Daniel Smith, of Crookston, is paving a short visit to Mr. Richard Lund, of the Windsor.

Miss Lucy Staples, of Millbrook, is in town visiting Miss May Richardson, George street.

Mr. R. F. Morrow has returned, after spending a few days in Lindsay with his sister, Mrs. R. D. Preston.

Mrs. Thos. Elliott and her son Charles, of Millbrook, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Byers, town.

Mr. Thos. Beavis, of Moose Jaw, is the guest of his brother-in-law, Mr. Wm. Medcalf, Water street.

Mrs. H. LeBrun and daughter, left this morning for Watertown, N.Y., for a holiday visit with her parents.

Mr. Norman Lewis is around on crutches to-day through having sprained his ankle by a fall from a trapeze.

Mr. Geo. Long, chief foreman for Messrs. Howry & Sons., is spending his New Year's with his parents, Sophia street, Ashburnham.

Mr. John Claringbold, of Napanee, is spending his holidays in town, the guest of his sisters, Mrs. Jos. Mills and Mrs. W. C. Conway.

Mr. Will. McClelland, of Ottawa, who has been spending the holidays with his parents on Reid street, returned to the Capital to-day.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Sanderson, of Lake street, Ashburnham, have returned home after spending Christmas week with friends in Toronto.

Mr. George Dixon, Peterborough's former famous goalkeeper for the hockey club, and who is now living in Toronto, is spending a day or so in town.

Messrs. J. A. Milburn and Court. Poussette, of town have each taken honours in the Christmas examinations of their fourth year term at McGill University in Montreal. Both have passed their fourth year examinations in hygiene, and Mr. Milburn has passed in pathological histology, an optional subject.

At the recent presentation of the "Messiah" in Montreal by the Philharmonic Society, Miss Louise Daly, of Napanee, cousin of Mr. W. W. Daly, town, took the soprano solos. This is a fine tribute to the excellence of Miss Daly's singing, as this is the first occasion that a Canadian vocalist has been chosen, heretofore the soprano soloist having been imported from abroad for the occasion. The other soloists were imported this year.

TWO FIRES.

A sofa in the residence of Mr. Walter Bates, on Smithtown Hill, took fire Tuesday midnight and the fire engine started off for the scene, but was met and turned back before it got there by the hose wagon, on which the advance guard of the firemen went out. Little or no damage resulted.

At about half-past six o'clock, yesterday morning, some wood which was piled around the range in Ed. Welsh's Hunter street restaurant took fire and burnt a hole through the floor. The flames were extinguished by the Babcock, and the promptness of the brigade in this case is especially commendatory, as a fire at such a time would have been very disastrous.

See Grafton & Co's Overcoats at such low prices.

Still in the County Gaol.

The two girls who created such a disturbance in the Police Court the other day, and were sentenced to two years each in the Mercer Reformatory, are still in the county goal.

THE MAYORALTY.

Both Candidates and Their Friends Working Energetically.

The contest for the mayoralty for 1896, like all other electoral contests, is increasing in intensity as the day of polling approaches, and the friends of both candidates seem confident of victory.

On Tuesday evening committee rooms were opened by the friends of Mr. Yelland in the rooms formerly occupied by Messrs. Stratton & Hall, Hunter street, next to the post office, and a large number assembled to push forward his candidature. Mr. Yelland himself was present and is very hopeful of the result. He found that wherever he went he received the most gratifying assurances of support. He impressed upon his friends that all that was required was to see that the vote was thoroughly canvassed in the meantime and brought out on Monday. He said that an effort was being made to give a party political cast to the contest, and to single him out as the candidate of the Liberal party. This was utterly false. He was the candidate of no party, but the candidate of the people. He received strong assurances of support from men of both parties. He was running for mayor to represent the whole people and not any section or party—political or otherwise, and if his friends in both parties worked faithfully till the close of the polling, Monday night, he would show by his actions as mayor for the year 1896 that he represented the people as a whole and not any party; that he would work for economy and efficient management of the civic service.

The friends of Mr. Cahill have secured rooms in the Cox block, over the offices of the Central Canada Loan and Savings Company, corner of Brock and George streets. A large and enthusiastic meeting was held on Tuesday evening for organization for vigorous work. Mr. R. M. Dennistoun was elected chairman, and James Stewart secretary of the committee. The assemblage was large and fully representative of the several wards, and the feeling was that Mr. Cahill's long services to the town would receive the hearty recognition of the people, and that Mr. Cahill, with the co-operation of his friends, would carry the election without a doubt.

A thorough organization of the town is being effected and enthusiastic preparations are being made for the polling of a large vote on Monday. Mr. Cahill's friends insist on the great fitness Mr. Cahill possesses for the office by virtue of his intimate and practical knowledge of every branch of the civic service, and that he will make a Mayor well qualified to deal with the important questions that will come up for consideration during the coming year. As the committee rooms of both candidates will be open every night this week the friends of both candidates are expected to rally and make full preparations for the vote on Monday.

A CANDIDATE'S ELIGIBILITY.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—Is a person who has a contract with the town qualified for a seat at the Council Board, provided that the work is finished but a settlement with the Council not made.

Yours etc.,
RATEPAYER.

[We are inclined to think that under the circumstances such a person is not qualified for a seat at the Council Board.]

An Eloquent New Year's Gift.

The District Manager North American Life Assurance Coy. received the following telegram yesterday morning at 9 o'clock:

TORONTO, Jan. 1st, 1896.

Mr. J. W. Garvin, B. A., District Manager North American Life.

"Hearty congratulations on company's best year's results. Policies over three millions; mortality exceedingly favourable; cash put by nearly three hundred and twenty thousand dollars; addition to net surplus nearly ninety thousand dollars, which largely exceeds year's losses under policies; year's interest exceeds policy claims over twenty thousand dollars."

WILLIAM MCCABE.

The above was a splendid new year's gift for the policy-holders and for the enthusiastic fieldmen of this highly successful Canadian company. It is doubtful if the record of any other Canadian company, for the year 1895, will be the above. 1d1w

Mayoralty Election

1896.

Address of Wm. Yelland to the Electors.

To the Electors of the Town of Peterborough:—

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN—At the urgent request of a large number of ratepayers of all classes, I have consented to accept nomination as Mayor of the Town of Peterborough for the year 1896. In soliciting your votes and support I do so with a full confidence that my past record and experience, both as a Councillor and a citizen, will enable me to discharge the duties of Mayor efficiently and will justify the support I respectfully solicit. My thirteen years' record in the council is before you, and with all due modesty I may claim that it has established the fact that I have left nothing undone that it was in my power to advance the best interests of the town. I have always stood up, fearless of criticism, for what I conceived to be right, and as my record in the past has been so I pledge myself that if elected Mayor my future shall be also. I have a considerable material stake in the town and pay a large bill of taxes, so that it is my personal interest, if I were influenced by no higher motive, to see ours affairs economically administered and to advocate and influence every reasonable project for the material and moral advancement of the interests of Peterborough. In the administration of the affairs of the town so far as I am able to control such administration, I shall see that all classes and all interests receive that justice that their claims and importance deserve and that all laws and by-laws shall be fairly and properly administered. If elected Mayor I shall do what is right and no power, or influence shall induce me to swerve one hairsbreadth from what my judgment declares is just and to the best interests of Peterborough. Trusting that my platform, plain and simple as it is, will commend itself to your judgment and bring me your hearty support, and wishing all the citizens of the Town A Happy New Year, I remain,

Your Obedient Servant,
WM. YELLAND.

Dec. 30th, 1895.

CARD TO THE ELECTORS.

Thos. H. Brady wishes to announce that he has decided not to be a candidate in No. 4 Ward for the Council this year and in withdrawing his name wishes to thank his nominator and seconder for the honour which they conferred upon him, and also to express to his friends his appreciation of their efforts in his behalf. Although press of business will prevent Mr. Brady from seeking re-election this year he hopes at some future time to place himself in the hands of the electors of No. 4 Ward. 1d

WARD NO 4.

To the Ratepayers of Ward No. Four:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,—Having decided to accept the nomination as councillor for Ward No. Four, I respectfully solicit your votes and influence. I desire to thank all those who supported me last year, and hope that they will again honour me with their support. If I am elected I will give my best attention to the duties of the office, and I promise to perform the same to the best of my ability.

I remain,
Your obedient servant,
M. H. QUINLAN.

TO THE ELECTORS OF
NO. 4 WARD.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN—Having been honoured with the nomination for Councillor, for No. 4 Ward, for 1896, at the request of a large number of ratepayers, I have decided to accept the same. I therefore solicit your votes and influence for the same, and promise if elected to act to the best of my ability in the interests of the town at large and of No. 4 Ward in particular,
Yours Respectfully,
JAS. G. GRAHAM. 33-1

Having again been honoured with a nomination as a candidate for Councillor in this Ward, I beg leave publicly to accept the nomination.

I therefore respectfully solicit the votes and influence of the ratepayers of "the Banner Ward." If elected, I pledge myself to use my best efforts, as in the past, to protect the interests and promote the welfare of No. 1 Ward and the whole town.

W. H. WHITE.

December 31st, 1895. 4d-1-3

TO THE ELECTORS OF
WARD NO. 3.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN—At the request of a number of the ratepayers of No. 3 Ward to become a candidate for Councillor for 1896 I have decided to do so. I therefore respectfully solicit your vote and influence, and if elected I will serve you to the best of my ability.

ROBERT WEIR.

TO THE RATEPAYERS OF
WARD NO. 3.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—I beg to offer myself as a candidate for election as one of the representatives from your ward in the Council of 1896, and solicit your support to secure my election. Hoping to be favoured,

Yours respectfully,
W. H. MOORE.

TO THE ELECTORS OF
WARD NO. 4.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,—Having decided to accept the nomination for Councillor for No. 4 Ward, I desire to solicit your votes and influence. I do not intend to make a personal canvas, but if you see proper to favour me with your confidence, I will devote my best energies to the welfare of the town.

Yours respectfully,
WM. LANGFORD.

THE workman often eats his lunch on the same bench where he does his work. The office man snatches a few minutes from his occupation and turns his desk into a dining-table. Neither gets the exercise he needs, neither takes the proper time for eating. It is small wonder that the digestion of both gets out of order.

Nature works as hard as she can, but there are some things she cannot stand. If a man gets some foreign substance into the works of his watch, he doesn't expect the watch to run until the impediment is removed. His own digestive system is a much more wonderful and delicate mechanism than that of his watch, and yet he neglects it and abuses it. He lets it get out of order, and refuses to help it. In the end his neglect reacts with terrible force upon himself. The reaction comes on gradually, however, so that sometimes he scarcely suspects the cause.

The cause of nine-tenths of the sickness of the world is constipation—a condition so common that four people out of five take it as a matter of course. From this one cause come indigestion; disorders of the stomach, liver and kidneys; biliousness, headaches, flatulence, heartburn, impurity of the blood and the serious complications that follow. To begin with, constipation is a little thing, and a little thing will cure it. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are tiny, sugar-coated granules. They give to nature just the little help she needs. They are as gentle as they are efficient, and will perfectly cure the worst cases of constipation. There is nothing in the world like them, so there can be nothing "just as good." The druggist who tries to sell you something else has his own interest in view and not yours.

For a free sample package of from 4 to 7 doses, address World's Dispensary Medical Association, No. 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Any one sending 31 one-cent stamps to cover cost of customs and mailing only, will receive free a copy of Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. The expense of producing this wonderful book has been paid by the sale of 680,000 copies at the regular price, $1.50. It has now been decided to give away absolutely free, an edition of 500,000 copies. Address as above.

BRITAIN'S OBJECT.

Mr. Nathaniel Paige Says International Law Does Not Exist.

New York, Jan. 1.—Nathaniel Paige, the well-known international lawyer of Washington, who won the great Mora claims against Spain, is at the Fifth Avenue Hotel. He has studied so-called international law all his life and has spent many years in Spain, France and England prosecuting claims. In politics he is a republican, but he said to-day that he believed President Cleveland was sincere and patriotic in his stand against the aggressions of England.

He was asked: "Do you think England is attempting to get more than she is entitled to in Venezuela?"

"Nothing can be clearer than that Great Britain is endeavoring to control the great rivers of the world. Her whole move in Venezuela has been to get control of the Orinoco River, the second largest river in South America. It is 1100 miles long, and is larger than the Hudson River; and that she has tried to absorb from 50,000 to 70,000 square miles in Venezuela no one can have any doubt."

Mr. Paige then took up the legal aspect of the case as follows: "In regard to rights in what are called international law there are no abstract rights under international law, because there is no such law as international law. There is a right between so-called Christian nations which might be termed international morality.

"If there were an international law there should be an executive officer to see that judgments or indemnity or rewards were immediately executed. But an award, an indemnity, or a decision of law may remain 100 or 1000 years unexecuted, and it is not until the consciences of nations are roused that any respect is paid to them. These views are well illustrated in cases against Spain about which so much has been published lately. Spain solemnly promised in 1871 to release all the estates in question and pay damages. The claims were based on solemn treaties between the United States and Spain, and yet all international law books were of no value in the prosecution of the cases."

"How were the cases prosecuted?"

"The battle between Spain and the United States was almost wholly subterranean, and law, strictly so-called, had nothing to do with the prosecution. And a smile passed over the faces of all lawyers who had anyting to do with them when they were complimented for being international lawyers, and for having won their cases upon the grand principle of international law. There will probably, in the course of a thousand years, be a crystallized code of international morality, and the Sermon on the Mount will then have more to do with the intercourse of nations than the work of Sir Henry Maine and all the great writers of England and the United States on international law. I have read 100 of their books, but they have been of no practical service to me except to while away an hour and sharpen my reasoning faculties."

AS GOV MORTON VIEWS IT

The Chief Executive of the Empire State on the War Question.

Albany, N.Y., Jan. 1.—Governor Morton's message to the Legislature, which convened to-day, is a lengthy document. The Governor refers to the Venezuelan question in the following terms: The doctrine formulated by President Monroe, and which has since borne his name, has become so established in American national policy that there is no room for doubt as to opinion of our people concerning it. New York has now a population nearly equal to that of the entire Union when Mr. Monroe became President, and our peculiar geographical position, the location within our borders of the American metropolis and the vast and complicated commercial interests of our state justify us in feeling an especial concern in the present unhappy agitation. Any disturbance of the existing friendly relations between the United States and Great Britain cannot fail to have a serious effect. Because of the possible baleful consequences of such disturbance, I deem myself justified in making this reference to the larger affairs of the nation in which we feel such a peculiar and vital interest.

I cannot believe that the relations between our country and Great Britain will be ruptured or seriously impaired by the misunderstanding now existing between that country and Venezuela concerning the proper location of the boundary line of their possessions in South America. Arbitration affords simple and honorable method of determining national disputes, and it is scarcely conceivable at this period of the world's history that any great nation is willing to take the responsibility of the needless sacrifice of human life and the wanton destruction of property which would be the inevitable result of an armed conflict.

THE VENEZUELA COMMISSION.

Brewer, Alvey, White, Coudert and Gilman are the Names

Washington, Jan. 1.—The President tonight announced the composition of the Venezuelan Commission, which will consist of five members, as follows: David J. Brewer of Kansas, associate justice of the Supreme Court of the United States; Richard H. Alvey of Maryland, Chief Justice of the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia; Andrew D. White, New York; Frederic R. Coudert, New York; Daniel C. Gilman of Maryland.

TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES.

Madrid.—Two thousand Spanish troops embarked at Cadiz last evening for Cuba.

Belleville, Ont.—Henry Weese of Rosemore, aged 80, died while eating breakfast on Sunday morning.

Washington.—The financial question was not directly up for consideration to-day, but all the discussions had reference to that burning question.

Dorr, Mich.—A potato parasite, new and strange, is doing great damage to farmers in this district. The potatoes are girdled and the insides eaten away.

Belleville, Ont.—Edward Penny's dwelling house, on the Canifton-road, Thurlow, was burned yesterday Penny's loss $200. John Donovan owned the building, which was insured for $700 in the National of Ireland.

Detroit.—The Citizens' Railway ordinance providing for eight tickets for a quarter, five cents extra for transfers, good for day or night, has passed the City Council. A 30-years' franchise goes with the concessions.

London.—The British steamer British Empire, from Boston, for London, which struck a rock off the Scilly Islands during a dense fog, has had a fracture. It is thought 800 tons of flour in her cargo has been damaged.

Philadelphia.—The Philadelphia Bourse, the first general exchange to be erected in this country, was formally dedicated yesterday. The building is eight stories, runs through from Fourth-street to Fifth-street, and between Chestnut-street and Market-street, and cost $2,500,000.

A HAMILTON SENSATION.

Miss Margheretta Joan Schamahorn Married to Mr. Pang Jin.

Hamilton, Jan. 1.—Another triumph was recorded to Cupid to-day, when Pang Jin, better known as Pang Wah Lee, the millionaire laundryman, James-street north, joined hands and heart with a sprightly and handsome maiden, Margarhetta Joan Schamahorn of Welland County. The auspicious event was the occasion of much fluttering in Celestial society circles, and although only the immediate and intimate friends of Mr. Jin witnessed the ceremony, it was nevertheless responsible for the washee men of this city not making any New Year resolutions. Handicapped by being a foreigner, but aided by wealth, Pang's desire to realize his inordinate ambition to wed a 'Melican lass has been an uphill task, and his expectations have been more frequently frustrated by designing and crafty women than those of any living Chinaman. Two years ago perfidious Mary Doyle came up from Toronto, toyed with Pang's affections, was presented with diamond and jewelry adornments, silk dresses and treasure galore, but when the wedding day came she did not materialise. A year ago a mean, heartless and designing trickster—a Hamilton girl—wooed Pang, was treated with the same infinite liberality as her predecessor, but she was unrelenting, and jilted him. It was not strange that Pang bubbled over with excruciating joy to-day. The wedding took place at 3 o'clock in Knox Church, and the knot was tied by Rev. Dr. Fraser. Wah Sing wast best man and perfidious Mary Doyle was bridesmaid. The groom's gifts to the bride were numerous and gorgeous, and the happy couple have an unusual supply of opium at the washing-factory to-night, celebrating the memorable event.

WENT CRAZY AND SUICIDED.

The Sad Ending of a Respected Resident of Lyn.

Brockville, Ont., Jan. 1.—A few days ago, Robert Bryson, merchant tailor of Lyn, was stricken with paralysis, whih affected him mentally, and last night he cimmitted suicide by cutting his throat from ear to ear. Deceased who was about 70 years of age, was a much respected resident of the district. He leaves a wife and family. The coroner was notified, and after hearing the particulars of the case, decided that an inquest was unnecessary. Deceased was at one time a resident of Brockville.

To-day the mail service of the Brockville and Westport Railway, between here and Westport, was inaugurated. The company have made excellent arrangements for the service. Mr. Metcalf, from Elgin, is the mail clerk in charge.

COUNTERFEITS.

A few years ago a great discovery was made.

Unprincipled persons are trying to prey upon and dupe people who are led to ask for kidney treatment.

Some of the methods adopted by imitators are as follows:—

First:—To imitate the size, color and shape of Dodd's Kidney Pills and sell them by count.

Second:—To put them up to appear very nearly the same and to be offered at the same price.

Third:—To hook on the word "kidney" in naming catharatic pills so as to increase sales of mere physic.

Fourth:—To give a name so near to Dodd's that unwary people may be deceived and think they are getting Dodd's.

Look out for such dodges. When you want kidney medicine you want the best. And ought not to be the subject of any trick.

So beware.

AMERICAN FINANCES

Stocks Weaker and Interest Higher Talk of an European Syndicate to Take Cleveland's Bond Issue.

New York, Dec. 30.—The opening of the railway and miscellaneous stock market to-day was weak and generally 1-4 to 1-2 per cent. lower. The weakness was due to lower cables from London and selling orders for foreign account. Soon after the opening, however, there was a decided change for the better and under the leadership of Sugar an improvment of 1-4 to 1-2 per cent. ensued. Sugar sold up from 102 to 104, an advance of 1-8 in the price of refined having induced the purchases of this stock. Other shares conspicuous for firmness at this time were Jersey Central, Manhattan, Tennessee Coal and Iron, the Grangers, Southwesterns, Western Union, Leather pref. and Chicago Gas. In the afternoon money on call suddenly rose to 25 per cent. The rise led to considerable shifting of loans and forced liquidations all along the line. Chicago Gas was the particularly weak spot, selling down from 65 1-4 to 62 3-8. Some of the selling of the stock was ascribed to liquidations by lightweight operators who had acquired a line after the decision of Judge Bischoff in the Whitner case had been announced on the theory that the reorganization committee had comparatively smooth sailing in its work of bringing the company in line with the laws of Illinois. A rumor that Attorney-General Maloney had comparatively rendered an adverse decision in the matter, however, alarmed speculators and the result was a spilling of long stick held on slender margins. There was also selling of the general railway list by operators who were disappointed because of the delay in announcing a new Government bond issue. The greatest losses outside of Chicago Gas were made in Sugar, Canada Southern, Big Four, the Grangers, Consolidated Gas, Louisville & Nashville, Pacific Mail, Lake Erie & Western pref. and Lead. The market closed weak and generally 1-8 to 1 5-8 per cent. lower. Baltimore & Ohio was better supported than of late and recovered 2 1-2 per cent.

London Stock Markets.

London, Dec. 30.—The stock markets here were very dull to-day as a whole. Even gloomy apprehensions are once more being expressed in regard to Turkey and a good deal of uneasiness has sprung out of the position of affairs in the Transvaal. American securities were comparatively steady to-day, for the reason that there was no business in them. South African shares were depressed for the reason given above.

The United Press has ascertained here that a syndicate is being formed in Berlin and London to take up the proposed United States loan. The principal negotiations will proceed in Berlin for four per cent. bonds issued at about par. The London firms taking part in the syndicate include the prominent American bankers here. It is doubtful whether a public issue will be made in London. The completion of the contracts with the syndicate depends upon the view which President Cleveland may take about the issue price. The amount proposed to be taken is $200,000,000.

Frankfort Takes Loyerly.

Frankfort-on-Main, Dec. 30.—An American loan of $150,000,000, at 3 3-4 per cent. is about to be negotiated here by the Morgans and the Deutsche Bank group.

A Provincial Institution Abolished.

Toronto, Dec. 31.

With the old year there will pass out of existence to-night an important Ontario Government institution. An Act put through the Legislative Assembly at the last session provides that after Dec. 31st, 1895, the "Agriculture and Arts Association" shall be no more.

This association embraced a number of sub-organizations, such as the Short Horn, the Argyleshire, the Clydesdale and the Swine Breeders' Association. Each of these now becomes a distinct society, with a separate grant of money from the Government.

Mr. Henry Wade, until now secretary of the Agriculture and Arts Association, becomes to-morrow "Superintendent of Live Stock Registrations," and as such practically secretary of each of the now divided associations. He retains his offices at the Parliament buildings.

RHEUMATISM

Its Cause and Cure.

A poisonous Acid in the Blood, which needs removal.

Only one means for a radical cure.

Rheumatism is a blood disease, due to the presence of uric acid—a poison—in the system, and it is only by the removal of this pain-producing poison, that a radical cure can be effected. Acute rheumatism is hereditary, and thus it is that young children are often victims to this torture. The use of liniments, embrocations and outward applications, may give temporary relief, but can never cure, for the poison is in the blood, and until it is expelled, rheumatism, sciatica and neuralgic pains will continue. Scotts' Sarsaparilla cures rheumatism by removing the cause—by neutralizing and expelling this poisonous acid. In chronic cases, this medicine reaches the source of the disease as no other medicine can. It gives renewed energy to the organs that sustain life, the forces that make the blood. For the nervous troubles of youth, for the debility that precedes old age, for ladies in their severe ordeals, it is without a compeer.

Scott's Sarsaparilla is a concentrated compound of the finest medicines known to modern medical science. The dose is from one half to one teaspoonful and during its use the ordinary vocations are not interfered with.

PORTRAITURES OF CHRIST.

Singular Diversion of Views by the Great Masters.

IT IS a singular fact that throughout the entire New Testament there is nothing regarding the personal appearance of Christ, and the early fathers of the church, who doubtless knew something of how he looked while on earth, are equally silent about it. A portrait of him has been claimed by some to have come down from apostolic times, and that copies of it were taken and are still extant. That this statement has no foundation in fact would appear to be evident from the circumstance that the old masters, in their representations of the Saviour, follow no recognized model and are as various in such portraitures as were their conceptions of what the real Christ should be.

This diversity must be apparent to all who have examined such paintings in the Louvre and other large collections. In Fra F. Lippi's "Madonna and Child," for instance, an exquisite creation, the face of the infant Saviour, though perfect in contour, has a look of precocious intelligence which seems unnatural in one so young. Carlo Dolce, Murillo and others, though displaying different types of child life, are perhaps equally successful in conveying a nearly satisfying ideal in their representations of the child Christ. They all, however, pay no regard to ethnic considerations in their work, and as a result the face is Italian, French, Spanish or Flemish, as the case may be, rather than Jewish, as it should have been.

In paintings of the man Christ there is a still greater diversity noticeable, as would be naturally expected. The face of Christ in F. R. Francia's painting, "The Virgin and Two Angels Weeping Over the Dead Body of Christ," is probably the divinest conception of it ever traced on canvas. Though the face is evidently that of the dead, all the emotions of the soul seem to be mirrored upon it. In Borgognone's "Christ Bearing the Cross," Correggio's "Ecce Homo," Guido Reni's "Ecce Homo," all marvelous creations, as well as in others perhaps equally meritorious, however different they may be, they at least convey an ideal Christ, which does not shock Christian sensibilities, as does Munkacsy's representation of the Saviour in his famous painting "Christ Before Pilate."

DIABETES CURABLE

Given up to Die—Uses Dodd's Kidney Pills and is Cured by Eight Boxes.

KIRKFIELD (Special), Dec. 23.—Mr. Duncan McKenzie, miller and lumberman of this place, had returned from Kansas lately. Had failed in health and strength, had lost fifty pounds in weight. Was given up by his physician as well as by specialists in Toronto and by himself and friends. Now comes a change—he says in a letter to Dodd's Medicine Co.: "After commencing with your Dodd's Kidney Pills I got help inside of two weeks. I took eight boxes in eight weeks, am completely cured, not a symptom left, general health good. Have regained my old health and weight. Had been bothered with heart and liver, both have vanished with the diabetes. I can walk briskly for miles instead of crawling as before. Am a brother of the President of the Toronto Street Railway Co., and well known here." Diabetes is set down as incurable—but Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure.

Handicapped.

Dashaway—Well, uncle, I suppose you will have roast chicken for your New Year's dinner, eh?

Uncle Ebony—No, sah. It's a leetle cold and de chickens dey doan' roost outside no mo'.

Christmas Stockings.

A street urchin stood peering into the window of a toyshop one evening just before Christmas watching a prosperous father buying presents. Bigger and bigger the boy's eyes grew as the purchasing went on. Finally, when it was all over and the man left the store, the lad sidled up to him and with great diffidence asked:

"Wuz all them things you bought fer one boy, mister?"

"Why, yes, certainly," said the man impatiently as he turned away with the bundles under his arms.

The street boy's eyes grew bigger yet.

"Gee whiz!" he whispered under his breath. "Rich men's boys must wear awful big stockings!"

One Honest Man.

Dear Editor:—Please inform your readers, that if written to confidentially I will mail in a sealed letter, particulars of a genuine, honest home cure, by which I was permanently restored to health and manly vigor, after years of suffering from nervous debility, sexual weakness, night losses and weak shrunken parts. I was robbed and swindled by the quacks until I nearly lost faith in mankind, but thank heaven, I am now well, vigorous and strong, and wish to make this certain means of cure known to all sufferers. I have nothing to sell, and want no money, but being a firm believer in the universal brotherhood of man, I am desirous of helping the unfortunate to regain their health and happiness. Perfect secrecy assured. Address with stamp:—Mr. Edward Lambert. P. O Box 55, Jarvis, Ont.

Worth $5.00 a Bottle.

Sirs,—For five years I have been troubled with neuralgia and tried everything I could see or hear of. At last I was advised to try a bottle of Yellow Oil and I refused because I thought it was like all the rest—a failure. A half bottle was given me, however, and I found it helped me, and bought a bottle which cured me. If it cost five dollars a bottle I would not be without it.

WARSAW.

From our own Correspondent.

The primary class in connection with th Warsaw Presbyterian church Sabbath school were invited by their teacher, Rev. R. Hyde, to spend the afternoon of Friday, the 27th instant, at the manse. About 2 p.m. the little tots, two deep, marched up to the manse and were kindly welcomed by the pastor and his wife. When all were seated, two of the members of the class stepped forward, one of whom placed in his hands a small parcel, while the other remarked, "That is for you." As soon as the parcel was opened up, it displayed to view a short address and a beautifully engraved silver fish knife and fork. The address is as follows :

DEAR TEACHER.—We, the scholars of your class, hope you will accept this small token of our love and well wishes to you, and to show that we appreciate your kindness to us.

Signed on behalf of the class,
ROLAND DOUGHTY,
JOHNNY MCINTOSH.

Their teacher was taken by surprise, not having received the least hint of what the little tots intended doing. Having kindly thanked the members of his class for their beautiful present, he said that in after years, if spared, the sight of their present would suggest to him the many hours spent with them in the Sabbath school, studying together the lessons contained in the Old and New Testaments. He closed his reply by telling the members of his class that his prayer was that each scholar may so live here that at the close of our earthly journey teacher and scholars might meet in heaven to spend eternity with Him whose life we were studying together on earth.

The children spent a delightful afternoon, and when the shades of evening were approaching tea was announced. After tea the tots took their departure for home, sorry that the day was so short, yet some of the class were heard to express the wish that their teacher would again invite them to spend another afternoon with him.

CHRISTMAS REMINISCENCES
And Gratitude.

Twelve Christmases have passed since two lads put up their first sign as they started in business in the old brick building on George street on the spot which now marks Gough Bros. Two Mammoth Stores.

Twelve Christmases have found the same forces here trying to make the best store in Midland Ontario. It might be a much better store, but it is comforting to be told that much of the bettering, of retailing and pulling down of high prices, is traced to the doings of the same two lads who have stood by the business through good times and bad times.

It would be unbecoming for us to say this is true, especially when we think of the mistakes in business made by busy brains and human fingers. There are, however, three things which we wish to say to-day :—

FIRST—Business will be best administered and therefore greatest when it is pursued with earnestness and enthusiasm, and a close calculation which keeps it in constant touch with the demands of the masses.

SECOND—Back of the system and the large staff of employees are stalwart principles and a steadfast purpose to so apply them that the store shall be worthy of confidence from the ground upward.

THIRD---To the thousands of people who shop here year in and year out we tender our grateful thanks for their appreciation of our efforts. Our good wishes are extended to all---Friends and Customers and the Ladies who read our advertisements---a joyous New Year to all.

So shines upon us the memory of the increasing kindness, interest and favour of troops of the best of friends, upon each of whom we wish the New Year's sun may shine with double brightness.

HE TOLD THE TRUTH.

Canadians Would Fight for Their Homes and Firesides.

THE TAKING OE WELLAND CANAL

Would be No Holiday Excursion for the United States Troops—Mr. William Monaghan, ex-Consul at Hamilton; Tells a Reporter Some Hard Facts.

Cleveland, O., Jan. 2.—The Hon. William Monaghan, ex-consul of the United States at Hamilton, Ont., believes that the patriotism of the American people has blinded their eyes to the real strength of Canada. In an interview Mr. Monaghan said that it is his belief that if war were declared between United States and England, the occupation of Canada and the destruction of the Welland Canal, which have been advocated through the press, would not be inthe nature of a holiday excursion. On the contrary, he thought it would be a hard-fought campaign, with skilled soldiers. The effect of such a war, he thought, would destroy the annexation sentiment in the Dominion.

"They would be fighting for their homes and firesides," said he, "and such a people become desperate. I found the rank and file of the people of Canada, or, at least, those with whom I came in contact, intelligent and hospitable, with not only favorable but flattering opinions of the resources and greatness of this republic and its people.

"The feeling of the civil officers of the Dominion, expressed or manifested toward the people of the United States, was cordial, but at the same time they were firm in their dealings with customs matters and questions.

"As to annexation, I would say there was more or less sentiment exhibited, but it was largely confined to the plain people. However, it was not so general as one would be led to believe from the newspaper articles in this country. The professional men and officials are steadfast in their devotion and attachment to their own country and its laws."

"Do you think Canada would resist an effort on the part of the United States to annex the Dominion to the Republic, and do you think that efforts in that direction would be successful?" asked the reporter.

"They would resist, and resist with all their powers and resources, and I would like to correct an error regarding the size and skill of the battalions of the Dominion. We should remember the fact that in the State of Ohio, when we had less than three millions of people, we raised over 300,000 troops."

"There has been some talk about destroying the Welland Canal, and thus making it impossible for England to get any war vessels through to the lake cities," suggested the reporter.

"That is easier said than done. We would first have to get on Canadian soil to destroy the canal. The avenues to the canal would be Niagara, the St. Clair River, and the St. Lawrence River. Do you suppose for an instant that the Canadians would not destroy the bridges and cut off all avenues of invasion? It would be to their interest to do so."

"What would be the most vulnerable point of attack on the Welland Canal?" was asked.

"Near St. Catharines. There the Grand Trunk Railroad runs through a tunnel under the canal, and if a party of men could reach the tunnel and blow it up, then the canal would be destroyed, but as I said before, we would find it extremely dangerous to attempt to get into Canada in the event of war."

"Then you do not think we would have possession of Canada in 24 hours, as some of the enthusiastic Americans say?"

"That is mere bosh." Canada, without any aid from England, [illegible]

A DULL OPENING.

Government Ill-Luck Affects Parliament.

THE OLD PARTY APPARENTLY SICK

Trying to Get Rid of Premier Bowell—The Speech From the Throne—Remedial Legislation Duly Announced — Other Matters Which Will Come Up

Ottawa, Jan. 2.—The opening of Parliament to-day was very like a prorogation. It irresistibly reminded one, too, of preparations for a funeral. The usual cherful faces of the Ministerialists were moody, and a troubled look rested on the countenances of the Government leaders. Dr. Montague was the only exception. He had a brand new portfolio and a new supporter to introduce, so he was feeling pretty good. Mr. Ouimet, bleding from two recent electoral wounds, looked uncomfortable when Mr. Speaker read his announcement that vacancies had occurred in the representation of Montreal Centre and Jacques Cartier by apointments to office. It is a fact that Mr. Ouimet has been very sulky for a month past, and refused even to go to Montreal and vote for Sir William Hingston until persuaded by Mr. Costigan. Things are not going right to Mr. Ouimet's mind, and he is simply waiting the first opportunity of getting out. It would surprise no one if he resigned when the Remedial bill is introduced, on the ground that it is too weak.

As it is, Parliament has assembled and Mr. Angers' seat in the Cabinet is still vacant. All efforts to fill it have so far ben futile. At last, as alerady stated, Senator Desjardins of Montreal was offered it, but declined. He can have no confidence in the stability of the Administration. Mayor Villeneuve of Montreal has been called to the Senate for the purpose of taking him into the Cabinet without the peril of a bye-election, and he will probably be the new Minister. It is a very significant fact, indeed, that with Charlevoix vacant by the death of the sitting member, who was a Government supporter, there is no minister who could hope to carry it, certainly none who will attempt it.

The whole talk now is how to get rid of Sir Mackenzie Bowell as Premier. This is a difficult task, because the only man who could take his place is Sir Charles Tupper, and he is not a member of Parliament and does not wish to be one. If he takes the advice of his son, the Minister of Justice, he will let the Administration go to smash. For Sir Mackenzie Bowell to resign would be to run great risks, to change the leader without changing the several weak men in the Cabinet would be folly, and under the present circumstances to throw over two or three of the Ministers would add to the divisions so deplored by the party press. Sir Mackenzie Bowell could hardly resign without giving His Excellency a reason, and to confess that he was no longer wanted by the party and was unable to cope with a general election would scarcely be reasons sufficient to warrant the Governor-General to accept his advice as to a successor. Dissolve without passing a remedial bill is the advice of many of the party, but this the Premier will not do. To be defeated on it, resign and recommend His Excellency to call on the High Commissioner to form a Government is an idea in the minds of some, but they are not sane minds. Any defeat and resignation will be followed by a summons to Mr. Laurier from His Excellency. Even if the Government were strong enough to force a remedial bill through it would lead to disaster at the general elections. The general opinion to-day seems to be that the Government will be defeated on the coercion bill the first opportunity. What with the seats already lost and those they will lose, the Government's party majority will be ten less than last session, so that the desertion of a score of followers on the coercion bill would be sufficient to defeat the Government. It is beyond doubt that at least 30 or 40 Conservatives would have to vote against such a bill. There are ten Conservatives who have already publicly expressed themselves as unalterably opposed to any interference with Manitoba, and to say there are twenty others is a moderate estimate. One member of the House, a Ministerialist, expressed the opinion to-day that the majority against the Government will be twenty.

The beginning of the sixth session of the seventh Parliament was accompanied by the usual ceremonies, though the crowd was not so great. The Governor-General came up in state, his carriage drawn by four horses with outriders, and escorted by the Princess Louise Dragoon Guards. At the principal entrance His Excellency was received by a guard of honor from the Foot Guards, whose fine band played the National Anthem.

His Excellency was surrounded by a brilliant suite. Lady Aberdeen wore a full court dress, her train being carried by her two sons, acting as pages. Among the Ministers in attendance on His Excellency, were Sir Mackenzie Bowell, Sir Frank Smith, and Sir A. P. Caron.

Col. Gzowski came down from Toronto specially to attend the function, and Assistant Surgeon-General Ryerson was also present. Gen Gascoigne Col. Powell, Adjutant-General, and many local officers were also in attendance.

The Speech.

The Governor-General being seated on the Throne, Black Rod was despatched to summon the faithful Commons. Presently Mr. Speaker arrived with the members of the House, and the Governor-General read the following Speech from the Throne:

Hon. Gentlemen of the Senate:
Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

In accordance with the announcement made during the last session, Parliament has been summoned somewhat in advance of the usual period.

The bountiful harvest with which Canada has been blessed is a cause for the deepest thankfulness to the Giver of all good.

I congratulate you upon the evidence of increased activity in the various branches of commerce and industry. Several such indications have come under my personal observation during a tour made recently in the Northwest Territories and British Columbia. In particular, I noticed the extension of mining enterprise in British Co-tions, and also the Indian Industrial Schools. On the former I was received with hearty demonstrations of loyalty and good-will, while in connection with the latter the proofs of proficiency and intelligence on the part of the children were highly encouraging.

As to the work of the Indian Department as a whole, the manner in which it is directed and administered appears to be very satisfactory.

A reference to these topics would be incomplete without an allusion to the valuable services of the Northwest Mounted Police, which may justly be regarded by Canadians as indispensable, under present conditions, to the well being of those extensive and promising portions of the Dominion in which they are stationed.

Immediately after the prorogation of Parliament, my Government communicated, through the Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba, with the Government of that province, in order to ascertain upon what lines the local authorities of Manitoba would be prepared to promote amendments to the Acts respecting education in schools in that province, and whether any arrangement was possible with the Manitoba Government which would render action by the Federal Parliament in this connection unnecessary. I regret to say that the advisers of the Lieutenant-Governor have declined to entertain favorably these suggestions, thereby rendering it necessary for my Government, in pursuance of its declared policy, to introduce legislation in regard to this subject. The papers will be laid before you.

I am happy to inform you that the representations of my Government and the suggestions of the Ottawa conference respecting steamship communication have resulted in an announcement by the Imperial authorities of their willingness to grant a substantial subvention towards the Atlantic portion of the scheme. This will, I trust, ensure the successful establishment of a line of steamers between the United Kingdom and Canada which in point of speed and equipment shall fully meet all requirements.

My Government have also learned with satisfaction that it is the intention of the Secretary of State for the Colonies to appoint a committee to consider a proposed Pacific cable to connect Canada with Australia. You will, I am sure, share the gratification with which my advisers welcome these announcements, as affording further evidence of the desire of Her Majesty's Government to draw closer to each other and the mother land the outlying portion of the Queen's dominions. The papers on these subjects will also be submitted to you.

Your attention will be asked to measures intended to provide for the better arming of our militia, and the strengthening of Canadian defences.

The growth of population in the Northwest Territories, as disclosed by late enumeration, calls for additional representation in Parliament, and a bill for this purpose will be laid before you.

I am happy to be able to inform you that the commissioners appointed by Great Britain and the United States for the purpose of delimiting the boundary between Alaska and Canada have concluded their labors and have signed a joint paper for presentation to their respective Governments. This report will be laid before Parliament in due time.

At the request of the Right Hon. the Secretary of State for the Colonies, a delegate of my Government visited England last summer to confer with the Imperial authorities upon the question of copyright. His report will be laid before you, and I doubt not that this subject will again receive your earnest attention. You will also be asked to consider measures for the extension and development of our trade in agricultural products with the United Kingdom and other markets.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

The accounts of the past and the estimates for the ensuing year will be laid before you. The latter have been framed with every regard for economy consistent with the requirements of the public service. You will be pleased to learn that the revenues of the country show a gradual and continuous increase, and that the promised equilibrium between income and expenditure on consolidated fund account for the current year bids fair to be realized.

Hon. Gentlemen of the Senate:
Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

I commend these subjects and others which may come before you to your earnest consideration, relying upon your wisdom and prudence under the divine guidance to discharge with dignity and effect the high trust committed to your care.

On retiring His Excellency and Lady Aberdeen walked the entire length of the chamber and emerged into the lobbies by the main door facing the Speaker. This was an innovation of last year's, and afforded the spectators a full view of the Governor-General and his entourage.

After their Excellencies had retired the Senate summoned its ordinary session, but only routine business was transacted. Senator Villeneuve, Mayor of Montreal, one of the new Senators, was ready to be sworn in, but as his patent had not been made out, the ceremony had to be postponed. It was decided that the Senate should meet again on Tuesday, at 8 o'clock, and to take the Governor-General's speech into consideration on Wednesday.

When the Commons resumed after the visit to the Senate Chamber, the Speaker read a list of vacancies in the representation of the Commons since last session.

Dr. Montague and Major Sam Hughes introduced John A. McGillivray, the member for North Ontario, who took his seat amid vociferous applause.

The Speaker announced that to prevent mistakes, he had obtained a copy of the Governor-General's speech, and on motion of Mr. Foster it was decided to take it into consideration next Tuesday.

The House then decided to adjourn until next Tuesday, and the opening until next Tuesday, and the opening of it.

Sir William Whiteway, Premier of Newfoundland, arrived here to-day and was an interested spectator of the opening proceedings of Parliament. Speaking to your correspondent, Sir William said his visit to Ottawa has no political significance. He is as warm a confederate as ever, but thinks Canada should give somewhat better terms than were offered last year. It is hoped that as the outcome of Sir William's present visit the union negotiations will shortly be resumed.

Mr. Lariviere will move for papers on the Manitoba school question.

Mr. Bergeron will ask for papers regarding the commutation of the death sentence passed on Valentine Shortis.

Mr. Davin will move that in the opinion of the House the duty on agricultural implements should be removed.

There was a regular rush of notices of public bills to-day. Major McLennan is to the fore with three measures, among them the branding of cheese bill, and the return railway ticket bill.

Mr. Mulock has three bills, all old favorites, one relating to interest and another to better secure the independence of Parliament.

Dr. Sproule will move to amend the anti-combines bill, to amend the Adulteration Act, and will again press his bill respecting detective corporations and mercantile agencies.

The usual state dinner was held at Government House to-night. It was largely attended.

Mr. Lariviere is the only Manitoba member who has so far put in an ap-

Daily Examiner.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 3, 1896.

WHILE the electors are rejecting Government candidates the latter is packing the Senate with its supporters. That's responsible government for you.

MR. R. S. WHITE has been appointed Collector of Customs at the Port of Montreal. As usual our brilliant Government has locked the stable after the horse is stolen.

SIR WILLIAM HINGSTON is to be speedily rewarded for his snow-under in Montreal Centre. He is made a Senator for the Rougemont district. He was decidedly rejected by the electors of Montreal Centre, but the Government thrusts him upon the electors of Rougemont.

THE Government has summoned courage to call the bye election in Charlevoix—nomination Jan. 20th and voting, if the Government can find a candidate to oppose the Liberal, Mr. Charles Angers, on Jan. 27th. Charlevoix went Liberal in the last elections by 307 majority. La Patrie predicts a Liberal victory in the approaching bye election of seven or eight hundred against all comers.

THE Kingston News evokes the true spirit of obsolete Toryism when it asserts that the result in Montreal Centre teaches "the colossal and grave danger of manhood suffrage;" in other words, that money alone makes the man, and that the classes with money must have rights that are denied the masses. The News must remember that this is the nineteeth century, not the Middle Ages.

THE Government is in a bad way. Sir Mackenzie Bowell is so discredited as a leader that he can get no one from Quebec to join his Cabinet. Senator Desjardins was offered Mr. Angers' portfolio and refused it, and Mr. Pelletier also refused to enter the Cabinet. Efforts are being made to replace Sir Mackenzie with Sir Charles Tupper, but the latter is evidently wary. He has cancelled his passage to Canada, and will watch "how the cat jumps."

BELMONT.

Addresses at the Municipal Nominations.

(From Our Own Correspondent)

After the usual routine nomination proceedings, the speaking begun.

The first speaker to take the platform was Mr. John Vansickle. He said that he did not know that he was going to be nominated and resigned with the consent of his nominator and seconder.

Robert Anderson took the platform and said that as they had no representative in his section of the country, he had been solicited by many in Belmont to come out as a candidate for the deputy reeveship. He intended to stand as a candidate and, if elected, he would try to serve them to the best of his ability.

Mr. George Embleton was also nominated as deputy reeve, but he was not present.

The next was John Seeney, who said that he intended to stand as councillor and do his best for the welfare of the people if he was elected. Wished all a happy New Year.

J. B. Peoples, Reeve of Belmont, took the platform. He said he must return thanks for his vote a year ago. He had endeavoured to serve the municipality to the best of his ability. His opponent would say that he did not deserve credit. He was not as fluent a speaker as his opponent. He then explained the manner of the expenditure of the municipal moneys. They had expended over $700 on roads and bridges since last January; had spent $2.00 for $1.00 spent in 1894, besides balance of municipal government.

He did not ask the electors to take his word but to turn to the auditors' report. They had held nine meetings of the council; could have managed with seven, but unforseen circumstances had caused the two other sessions. The average number of sessions during the past had been about eleven each year. They (the council) had the pleasure to be able to say that they had not put money into their pockets. The municipality did not owe the county one cent. He said the comparison of the years 1894 and 1895 was in his favour. The assessment was smaller this year than last, they had to strike a higher rate on that account. The municipality had to strike rate on the resident roll and not on the non-resident roll. The land sale was $23.70. He said if he was returned as reeve he would do what he could to see that justice was done. His opponent had accused him of misappropriation of public money, but he had proved his innocence. He went to the county council with his eyes and ears open, realizing the honour of his position. He read the petition which he presented before the roads and bridges committee at the county council. He did his best to procure money from the government for the township, but failed and had to try the county alone. He claimed that Mr. Aunger, the deputy-reeve, had hindered him in getting a county grant. Mr. Peoples then brought up the boundary line question between Marmora and Belmont, and dwelt for some time on that subject. He spoke of the trouble between Messrs. Leason and Sanders in reference to concession road. The council did not know that Mr. Sanders' lot was a crown lot. Had written to the Crown Lands Department, and had received a reply saying that they did not think that Mr. Sanders deserved compensation. He claimed that the road would be better around the hill than over its present route. He had not much more to say. He made it his business to find the truth when he went to the county council. The county had sent a bill of $322.61 for interest from 1878. He did not know from what source it was authorized to come. The county treasurer had not signed the account. Mr. Peoples read a letter from W. E. Roxburgh claiming a reduction in his assessment. He stated that Mr. Roxburgh came before the council with his demand. He (the reeve) quoted section 3 of the statutes, and Mr. Roxborough quoted 47. He said that he had talked to other reeves of municipalities and they claimed that a non-resident had no right to appeal from assessment on the resident roll. He said that they (the councillors) were not lawyers. If they granted Mr. Roxburgh's concession it would be established as a precedent. Mr. Peoples said that Mr. Roxburgh had made his claim because other non-resident claims had been received, and that he had the same right. He did not care any more for Mr. McWilliams than he did for Mr. Brown. He considered that we should get legal advice for all municipal troubles.

Mr. J. L. Aunger took the platform. He said he had not a long speech made up and would not say much. He thanked the ratepayers for the hearty support they had given him in the past. He had done his best for the municipality, though the reeve had charged him with wrong things. He doubted if ever any man in the county council before Mr. Peoples had drawn up a long petition and presented it to the road and bridge committee. No man had seconded Mr. Peoples petition in reference to the grant. Mr. Peoples had asked him to speak for the motion. He was called upon on the spur of the moment and spoke to the committee. He said to them that the road Mr. Peoples was asking money for was a bad one and needed money very much from the county, and he said he had been thinking that he would spend part of the money he had received if the county did not grant Mr. Peoples his request, as shown in his petition. Mr. Aunger then took up the Boundary Line question and presented a map showing the situation of the respective lots on the boundary. He then thanked them for the attention and resigned.

Mr. John Brown next took the platform. He said that everybody was delighted with the Reeve's speech. He was not here as a candidate, only to explain the state of the finances. He though it would be better to keep lawyers out of municipal matters as much as possible. It was a matter of principle for him to appear before Mr. Peoples and the ratepayers. He had heard that during the last municipal campaign Mr. Peoples and Mr. Allen had canvassed against him, using as their platform that he had voted for the Grits. But, he said, if they denied it that would exonerate them, (which they did.)

There had been considerable said about Mr. Peoples' character—that he had not said that Mr. Peoples had put the money in his pocket. What he did say last year, and said now before the electors, was that Mr. Edward Bowen was charged on the resident collector's roll for 1894 for arrears returned to the County Treasurer in 1891, and that Mr. Daniel Bowen had appeared on Dec. 15th, 1894, before the council and produced a receipt that the taxes were paid in 1891. Mr. Brown claimed that Mr. Bowen should have an abatement. The present reeve, Mr. Peoples, was present then, and advised the council not to give Mr. Bowen the abatement, but to try and find out who had the money, and the speaker, Mr. Brown, said that some one had the money, either the collector or the township treasurer, and that he as reeve wanted to know where that amount of taxes had gone and if the township treasurer had it, and if it was accounted for all right. He was pleased to know now that the collector of 1891 had paid it over to the treasurer of 1895, as it had not been handed over before. If that hurts a man's character to look after public money that had been collected and not accounted for, he (the speaker) claimed it was his duty to look after every dollar of the public money and see that it was paid over to the proper officials. He did not think that Mr. Peoples had any right to say that his character was injured, and though Mr. Brown said though he was nominated he would not be a candidate for the reeveship. The speaker claimed that he was defeated on the ground that he voted for Mr. Blezard, M.P.P. Mr. Peoples had stated that neither he nor his supporters had used politics in the canvass to his knowledge. Mr. Allen stated that he did not use use politics in his canvass.

Mr. Brown then brought forward the detailed statement and explained the errors. Mr. Brown said that the auditors' report as dated February 8th, 1895, showed assets over liabilities to the amount of $859.47. There was a good surplus to commence a year's work on, he considered. The detailed statement for 1895 showed assets over liabilities of $743 91, another handsome surplus. When the ratepayers take the road and bridge account and add up the items they find $705.19, and as footed up shows $346.63, which makes a difference of $358.56. For argument take the $358.56 from the surplus of $743.91, it would show $385.35. The amount of incidental expenses, if not required, might increase the surplus $430.35. County rate 11-10 mills, on the valuation of the assessment for 1894, which amounts to $604.56. General school rate 1 1-10 mills amounts to $218; total for 1894, $912.55. For 1895 county rate 3 7-10 mills upon the valuation, which amounts to $721.12. General school, 1 1-10 mills, amounts to $253.71, total $974 83. Due to the county in 1894 the sum of $62.28 less than 1895. Township school rate for 1895 was 6 1 2 mills, levied on all the assessed property of the municipality, less the valuation of $6 811, of the Union School, Havelock is $1,237.75. The township valuation of 1894, deducting the valuation of No. 15, is 6 mills on the dollar, which amounts to $1,179 23. In 1895 it was $38.52 more than 1894. Township rate for 1894 was 5 mills on the dollar, which raised $1,016.75. In 1895 the rate was 5 1-10 mills on the dollar which raised $1,005.89, which leaves a credit to 1895 of $10.85; total of the two items for 1895 they raised $120.80 more than they did in 1894. In 1895 they were given credit for $10 85 less, and the items shows that the ratable property raised $109 94 in 1895 more than in 1894. And Mr. Brown said that he did not see, as this statement was taken from the statement in the clerk's office, how that Mr. Peoples can make it clear that there were less taxes in 1895 than 1894. Then the speaker took up the account claimed by Mr. Peoples of interest from 1878, including 1894, and he said positively that he did not believe that the municipality was liable for that account unless the municipality passed a by-law assenting to pay it. As he, the speaker, understood from the minutes of 1895 that the County Treasurer was acting under by-law 480, and, as Mr. Peoples has stated, it was advisable for a solicitor to advise the Council how to act in this matter and other matters in reference to roads and other questions that come up before Municipal Councils, and the speaker said he thought that if the Municipal Council would be unprejudiced in dealing with all these matters in a common sense manner, they generally have law, and to keep the lawyers away as much as possible; and, as Mr. Peoples has stated here to-day, "the municipality was running in a hand-to-mouth fashion," the speaker defied him to show where the municipality, during the last fourteen years, had to pay law expenses or arbitrations, only in a case of schools, which the municipal council have no control of, and that he could not see during the last twelve or fourteen years that there was any municipality that was freer from law expenses than the township of Belmont, if the township had only been run hand to mouth fashion. Mr. Brown then thanked the electors for the kind hearing they had given him, having occupied three quarters of an hour, and Mr. Peoples has had an hour and a quarter, said Mr. Brown, and I now resign the candidature of the reeveship, wishing success to the township.

[At the close of the nominations the present reeve and ex-reeve shook hands, with the understanding that the ex-reeve, Mr. Brown, should never again come in the field.]

Charles Wilde took the platform and said he had not intended to stand for election, and if his nominator and seconder would allow him, he would resign, but as they would not allow him to, he stood for election.

The next speaker was John A. Sexsmith. He thanked the ratepayers for the liberal support they gave him last year. He had run last year with a good deal of doubt as to the issue. There had been a number who wanted him to run as deputy reeve. He thought that last year's business had been pretty well sifted. He spoke in reference to the rebates and defended the council in the action they had taken.

S. W. Wilson was the next speaker and said that he intended to stand another year. He thanked the ratepayers for the liberal support given him, and wished all the compliments of the season.

Mr. William Burgess, ex-reeve of Belmont, was the next speaker. He said he had no idea he would be would be brought out. He had no intention of running this year. He would be prepared next year to come out as a candidate for the reeveship. Mr. Burgess then made a few remarks concerning the municipal management and took his seat.

A poll was demanded in behalf of C. Wilde.

We are informed from later reports that there will be no municipal elections this year, as Mr. Embleton will not stand for the deputy reeveship and Mr. John Seeney has also resigned as councillor. So the council for 1895 will be:—James Peoples, reeve; Robert Anderson, deputy reeve; and Messrs. Sexsmith, Wilson and Wilde, councillors.

Have you Thought of it?

For four thousand years or more the world groaned, suffered, and fumed about its corns, for there was no positive relief—no certain and painless cure until Dr. Scott Putnam gave to the world his great Corn Extractor. If there is suffering now it is a result of carelessness, for the remedy is at hand. Try Putnam's Corn Extractor. It is sure, painless and prompt. Beware of substitutes. N. C. Consumptives Should Neglect

No means of ameliorating their disease. Cod Liver Oil is acknowledged one of the most valuable remedies in pulmonary complaints. That, however it be employed in such a form as to be easily digested is imperative. It is just here that the entire superiority of Maltine with Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites asserts itself. Maltine itself possesses nutritive value equal to cod liver oil, but more important to the sufferer from bronchitis, colds, consumption, is the great digestive power of maltine upon all foods of a starchy nature. Maltine with Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites is, in brief, a food of great value in emaciation and wasting diseases; a medicine possessing the remedial power of cod liver oil; a digestive agency of active potency; a restorer of the debilitated. Try it for two weeks.

WHERE'S ALL THE MONEY?

Banque du Peuple Affairs Look Dark—A Young Woman Who Wants to Die—Montreal Notes.

Montreal, Jan. 2.—Affairs have assumed an exceedingly dark aspect around the Banque du Peuple these days. The report which Messrs. Weir, Garand, Dupuis, Kent and Royer have prepared will, it is said, be a very bad one. It is understood that these gentlemen find that the capital of $1,200,000 and rest of $500,000 have completely disappeared.

Miss Albina Champagne, of Sorel, who has been staying for some time at 133 City Hall-avenue, attempted suicide this afternoon by taking a dose of opium. In fact, the poor girl had attempted to poison herself on Christmas day, and she declares as soon as she can get out of the hospital another attempt will be made, for she has been disappointed in love and is tired of life. The unfortunate young woman will most likely recover.

The news of the reprieve of Valentine Shortis created a most unfavorable impression here. No one believes the Valleyfield murderer to be insane and it is felt that a most dangerous precedent has been established.

Stacks of requisitions are being presented to Alderman R. Wilson Smith, asking that gentleman to stand for the mayoralty. English and French alike are supporting the able and popular financier and if he accepts his election will probably be by acclamation.

THE INGERSOLL TRAGEDY.

Calwell Was the Man Who Died and Not McClure—An Inquest.

Ingersoll, Jan. 2.—The report sent last evening about the fatal scuffle in the McMurray House here yesterday was incorrect, as Erwin Calwell was the man killed, and not McClure. They got into a scuffle and fell, McClure being underneath. He regained his feet, but Calwell immediately became unconscious, and in ten minutes was dead. McClure was arrested and placed in the lock-up.

The dead man was about 65 years of age, and was familiarly known as "Corney." He has been a resident of Ingersoll for over forty years, and kept a second-hand furniture shop on King-street east. He was a single man, and it is believed has no relatives here.

McClure, who is charged with causing his death, is about 50 years of age, and keeps a restaurant on Thames-street. He has only recently completed a six months' term in the Central Prison for throwing a stone through one of the club-room windows. He also stabbed a man in the neck a few years ago.

Drs. McKay, M.L.A., and Neff conducted a post-mortem examination.

An inquest was opened this afternoon, and after some contradictory evidence had been taken, was adjourned.

DIED IN TWO HOURS.

The Carriage Upset and Mr. Michael Fitzpatrick Met His Death.

Hastings, Jan. 2.—While Mr. Michael Fitzpatrick, an old and respected resident of Percy Township, and four of his family were returning yesterday from a visit to one of his farms, the pole of the carriage became detached while going down a hill The vehicle upset and the occupants were thrown out. All were more or less seriously injured, and Mr. Fitzpatrick so seriously that he died two hours after the accident. He was over 75 years of age, and was a resident of Percy Township for 50 years.

ROBBERS TACKLED A JUDGE.

The Dispenser of Justice Had a Gun and One Robber is Dead.

Chicago, Jan. 2.—While Justice Jarvis Blume, of the West Chicago-avenue Police Station, was passing under the alley L structure at 13th-street at 1.30 this morning in company with his daughter, he was stopped by two highwaymen. One of the robbers threw his arms about the justice's neck; but the latter drew a revolver and shot the robber, who died within twenty minutes. The dead robber's companion ran away, and the justice fired after him, but none of the bullets took effect.

GREAT SYMPATHY FOR HIM.

An Armenian Student Receives Terrible News From His Old Home.

Auburn, N.Y., Jan. 2.—Great sympathy is felt here for one of the Armenian students in the seminary. He left his parents, wife and little ones in Malatea, Turkey, when he came to Auburn, and ever since the massacres began he has been unable to hear from them, and has been nearly distracted with suspense. Finally a letter came on New Year's Day. It was from his father, his sole surviving relative. Four of his family were butchered. His father wrote: "I have no home, no money, nothing to eat, nothing to wear." The son, nearly crazed with grief, is now tramping the state, trying to sell a few wares to earn money to send to his destitute father.

Whole Family Burned to Death.

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 2.—The residence of J. H. Hibbard, 1398 East Long-street, was burned at 4.30 this morning and Hibbard, his wife, two small children, Miss Hibbard, a sister, and Miss Lee of Brownville, Ohio, were burned to death.

COUNTERFEITS.

A few years ago a great discovery was made.

Unprincipled persons are trying to prey upon and dupe people who are led to ask for kidney treatment.

Some of the methods adopted by imitators are as follows:—

First;—To imitate the size, color and shape of Dodd's Kidney Pills and sell them by count.

Second:—To put them up to appear very nearly the same and to be offered at the same price.

Third;—To hook on the word "kidney" in naming catharatic pills so as to increase sales of mere physic.

Fourth;—To give a name so near to Dodd's that unwary people may be deceived and think they are getting Dodd's.

Look out for such dodges. When you want kidney medicine you want the best. And ought not to be the subject of any trick.

So beware.

Bright Little Boy Drowned.

Garden Island, Ont., Jan. 2.—A bright little lad, 6 years of age, named Emmet Campeau, son of Felix Campeau, mariner, was drowned here. He must have slipped off the wharf. His body was found by Mr. George Lambert a few yards from the pier, floating with the top of the head only above the water.

Drink, Murder, Hanging.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 2.—Albert W. Woodley was hanged at 10.29 a.m. Woodley killed Mrs. Jennie Buchanan at her home, Allegheny City, May 9, 1894. He was engaged to be married to the woman. The life of the two, so far as is known, had run like a love dream, and the cause of the murder was never known. Woodley claimed that he was drunk when he did the shooting.

Sometimes the most careful women are the most careless. Many a woman bundles herself up, to keep out sickness—when she is neglecting the very worst sickness that can come to a woman. She allows a slight disorder to become worse, to slowly sap her vitality. The little pain and the other slight indications of trouble seem to her unimportant. She goes on with increasing suffering, until life itself becomes a drag. Nervousness, "sinking spells," digestive disturbances, and fifty other complications may arise from the derangement of the organs distinctly feminine. Over thirty years ago, the need for a reliable remedy for so-called "female complaints" was recognised by Dr. R. V. Pierce, then, as now, chief consulting physician to the to the World's Dispensary and Invalid's Hotel, at Buffalo, N. Y. He prepared Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, the most wonderfully effective remedy that has ever been used for such maladies.

Reception to Rev. Mr. Andrews.

The schoolhouse of Holy Trinity church was the scene of a very pleasant occurrence last evening, says the Toronto Globe, when the many members of the congregation gathered to bid farewell to their curate, Rev. Frank DuMoulin, who leaves to-day for Chicago, where he will fill the position of assistant rector of Trinity church, and also to receive his successor, Rev. B. C. H. Andrews, formerly of Peterborough. The function was under the direction of the Women's Auxiliary of the church, who supplied refreshments for the two or three hundred present. Rev. John Parsons, rector, introduced Mr. Andrews, after which a pleasant and social evening was spent.

ST. LUKE'S CHRISTMAS ENTERTAINMENT.

The Rector Assisted by Lieut.-Colonel Rogers, the Superintendent, and Mr. Peck, Distribute the Prizes.

St. Luke's schoolhouse was packed to the doors last night by an audience composed apparently of all the children of Ashburnham, with "Their fathers and their mothers,

Their sisters and their brothers."

The proceedings opened with the singing of the carol, "The First Nowell," after which the rector made a brief address on the present position and work of the Sunday school, and then, assisted by Lieut.-Col. Rogers, the superintendent, and Mr. E. A. Peck, the secretary-treasurer, the prizes, consisting of Bibles, prayer books and song books, were distributed. The second part of the programme was opened with the carol, "Gloria in Excelsis Deo."

This was followed by a short but extremely pretty musical sketch, entitled "Santa Claus' Plight." Mr. J. J. Turner, jr., took the part of Santa Claus, Florence Butcher that of the Queen of the Fairies, ruling over the following little army. Fairies—Mollie Bloise, Blanche Westlake, Bertha Symonds, Maud Long, Florence Scott, Greta Symonds, Bella Long, Lulu Scott. Brownies—Claude Rogers, Frank Eden, Sydney Tivey, Sydney Fairbairn, Webber Turner and Harry Rogers. Mrs. E. A. Peck was accompanist and Miss Edith Burnham and Miss Bysh were directors. On the stage was arranged a fire-place, the bricks of the chimney and mantle-piece being composed of appropriately-painted boxes. At the conclusion of the piece the boxes containing candies were distributed by the fairies and brownies to all the children of the Sunday School.

Mrs. Warde was the recipient of a handsome lamp from the members of her Bible Class, and Mrs. Scott, Miss Bella Armstrong, Mr. J. J. Turner, jr., and Mr. Gaskins also received presents from their scholars.

NEWSBOYS' COMPETITION.

They are Awarded the Prizes Which They Won.

THE EXAMINER office was filled from the front to the rear on New Year's Eve by eager little newsboys anxious to ascertain who had won the prizes in the competition which has been in progress for the past several months.

Lou Best was awarded the first prize for selling the greatest number of papers, and received a handsome gold watch. F. Coulson came next, receiving a splendid silver timepiece. G. Hardill won a suit of clothes; B. Cranfield, a reefer overcoat; W. Bullen, a fur cap; G. Harris, a pair of winter boots; H. Bremer, a warm pea jacket, and James Ellis, a pair of spring skates.

THE COFFER DAM SWEPT AWAY THIS MORNING.

The High Water in the Otonabee too Much for Its Strength.

The recent rains so increased the volume of water in the Otonabee, that the big coffer dam erected at so much expense by the canal contractors on the section just below Lakefield was swept away. The big steam pump was recovered from the river with difficulty and the loss, it is thought, will be a heavy one. The work was almost finished and many of the hands had already been discharged. If the dam has to be rebuilt the expense will be great, but it is hoped that the work had reached such a stage that this will be unnecessary.

OFF FOR "C" SCHOOL.

Half a Dozen Local Men Will Take a Military Course.

It is evident that England is assured of the peaceful adjustment of the Venezuela boundary question, as orders for a detachment of the Imperial army to make Canada their headquarters for the winter have been revoked, and in consequence the military schools will be open for the reception of those intending to take a course this winter. Last night Sergeants A. E. Green, V. Lebar and G. Green, Privates Cook and Sherwood and Bugler M. Green all left for Toronto to attend the school.

The Ashburnham School.

Miss Lillie Fitzgerald, who passed the Model School examinations in Norwood recently with honours, has been engaged by the Ashburnham School Board to fill the position rendered vacant by the resignation of Miss Pratt.

Foaming Ivorine Whitens the Teeth.

Dentists are delighted at the admirable qualities of Ivorine, the new preparation for the teeth. Commendations from the Dental profession carry the assurance that fragrant Ivorine is free from the admixture of enamel destroying substances, often the most marked characteristic of tooth powders, and that is the most efficient cleanser yet discovered. Ivorine cleanses from discolorations and whitens, hardens the gums, and imparts to the breath a delightful fragrance.

The Prizes Awarded.

The prizes awarded in the literary competition offered by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. of Brockville, Ont., have just been announced. The decision as to the order of merit of the five stories selected was left to a vote of the readers, and that great interest was taken in the matter is shown by the fact that 16,788 votes were recorded. "A Night on Crookback," by Dua (Mrs. R. S. Smellie, Toronto), received 4,655 votes, the largest number cast, and is awarded first prize. "The Lady of Beauce," by Othmas (Thomas Swift, Ottawa), comes second with 4,403 votes. "The Fall of York," by Allan Douglas Brodie (T. Herbert Chestnut, Toronto), takes the third with 3,004 votes. "The House of Eulalie," by Margery Tooker (Mrs. C. F. Fraser, Halifax, N.S.), has the fourth place with 2,500. "The New Eden," by Iagoo (C. B. Keenleyside, Brantford), 2,166 is awarded fifth prize. The prizes are $100, $75, $60, $40 and $25. The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. deserve much credit for so liberally assisting in developing Canadian literary talent.

Turkey Shoot at Fraserville.

The shooting match at Fraserville on Wednesday was a grand success in every particular, there being present on the occasion nearly four hundred shootists from the neighbouring towns and villages. From town were Capt. M. A. Jamieson, Capt. R. Tivey, Maj. A. Fulton, Lieut. Craig, Corps. Boyd, A. Jones (of the Ambulance Corps), Privates Nesbitt, Philips, Harvey, Charles James and Billy Dayman. The lucky ones in the party are as follows:

Captain Jamieson came out far beyond expectations, having secured no less than sixteen turkeys and geese, while the other crack shots were less fortunate, but did fairly well, as follows:—Capt. Tivey, two; Craig, 4; Dayman, 3; James, 3; Fulton, 3; Jones, 2; Nesbitt, 4; and Harvey, 3. On the arrival of the nine p.m. train from the south the sports of the town were on hand to congratulate the fowl riflemen, the scene being quite unique. The turkeys and geese, being alive, had their say till they were stalled at the Windsor. Capt's. Jamieson, Tivey and party, on their departure for home, were handsomely entertained by Mr. Bullied and, as the train pulled out, three cheers were given the boys. The wind-up resulted in an elaborate oyster supper at the Windsor, given by the genial proprietor, Mr. M. A. Jamieson. The evening was most pleasantly spent in song, music and mirth, which was kept up till the earlier hours of the morning, all singing in unison, "Mickey's a Jolly Good Fellow."

A DOG CASE IN COURT.

A Terrier Disinterred to Prove a Man's Innocence of the Charge of Theft.

Mr. Fred Comstock, of Westwood, was in the police court, this morning, where he was charged by Rev. Father Conway with the theft of a particularly well-bred little Irish terrier, upon which the reverend father set great value.

The theft was alleged to have taken place on August 23rd last, but the evidence for the prosecution was of such little weight that the prisoner was honourably discharged.

It seems that the loss of the dog was advertised in the school at Westwood, where a cousin of Mr. Comstock's stated that a dog similar to the one described had been seen by him at his cousin's house, where it had accidentally been shot. This came to Father Conway's ears together with other stories circulated amongst the school children, and an information was accordingly laid.

By the disinterment of the dog it was shown that the one shot and buried was a black and tan one, and not the terrier belonging to Father Conway. Mr. Comstock is glad that the matter is now thoroughly cleared up and all suspicion of him entirely removed.

PERSONAL.

Miss E. Elliott is visiting Miss Storer of Lindsay.

Mr. Ernest Parsons has returned from Hastings, where he was visiting his mother.

Mr. J. T. Tanner, of Bishop's College, Lennoxville, was in town yesterday, the guest of Mr. H. P. Lindsay.

Messrs. John Burnham, Q. C., M.P., and Jas. Stevenson, M. P., are both in Ottawa at the opening of Parliament.

Rev. Carl. Smith, accompanied by Mrs. Smith, spent New Year's in Port Hope, the guests of Mr. J. D. Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Gough have returned to Lindsay, after spending New Year's in town with Messrs. A. J. and Richard Gough.

Mr. John Mouncey of South Monaghan, contemplates retiring from farming and becoming a resident of Peterborough in the spring.

Mr. Albinus Clark, son of Mrs. A. Clark, who recently completed his University course and received his degree of Bachelor of Arts, has just passed his examinations at the School of Pedagogy.

Mr. Robert Smeaton White, the newly appointed collector of customs at Montreal, is a native of Peterborough. He is the eldest son of Hon. Thomas White, late of this town, and born here March 15th, 1856.

Mr. John A. McGillivray, Supreme Secretary of the I.O.F. and recently elected member of Parliament for North Ontario, spent yesterday in town as the guest of Mrs. A. Clark. Mr. McGillivray was on his way through to Ottawa.

Mr. W. J. Stubbs left this morning for the west where he begins his duties on Monday. Will will be missed, especially among the young people, with whom he was always a great favourite. He was also a member of the George street Sunday school and orchestra, where he always took an active part in music and church work, also in the Y.M.C.A., where he was pianist for some time, and of the I.O.G.T. and Business College, where he spent some time in short hand and typewriting. He carries with him the best wishes of his many friends.

SPORTS AND PASTIMES.

CURLIANA.

The Lindsay Post says:—At a meeting of the foreign match committee, held Saturday night, Messrs. Flavelle and W. McLellan were chosen skips to represent the club in the Tankard competition this year, and also to represent the club in the Bonspiel to be held at Peterboro next week. The club may send four rinks to Peterboro to compete in the single rink competition. The first prize in this event is four pairs of Red Hone Stones. It is hoped that some of the other skips of the club will organize rinks and enter for this prize. The double rink competition commences the next day. The Bonspiel has been postponed until the weather is more favorable for the making of ice.

THE TRIGGER.

A party of sports left Ashburnham this morning for a fox hunt in Dummer township. Having borrowed all the hounds procurable they attached them to their various gigs and started off. All went well until a couple of the dead game sports commenced "chewing the rag." The hounds, getting on to the "racket," "chewed the string" and returned to their homes. The sports, to their disgust, had no alternative and returned home also.

Everybody in King's Co.

Everybody in King's County, N. B., knows Mr. George S. Dryden, of Mitchell & Dryden, Sussex, N. B., He says: "Norway Pine Syrup is the best cough remedy I have ever used. My wife had a very bad cough that was most distressing for ten days. I tried the Norway Pine Syrup and one bottle cured her. I never found its equal.

GEO. S. DRYDEN.

"JINGO."

The Origin of the Term. "We Don't Want to Fight, but by Jingo, if we Do."

The origin of the word "Jingo" is interesting at this time when one is confronted with it so often. At the time of the close of the Russo-Turkish war, which as all readers of history know, terminated so disastrously for the Turks, and caused a feeling of apprehension in England that the Russians were bent on taking Constantinople, and the ultimate dismemberment of the Turkish empire, a change which could not be tolerated, the public feeling found expression in England upon the stage in pantomimes and in the music halls by numerous patriotic songs. One of these was as follows:

"The dogs of war are loose and the Rugged Russian Bear,
Full bent on blood and robbery, has crawled out of his lair.
It seems a thrashing now and then will never help to tame
That brute, and so he's out upon the same old game.
The Lion did his best to give him some excuse
To crawl back to his den again—all efforts were no use.
He hungered for his victim, he's pleased when blood is shed,
But let us hope his sins may all recoil on his own head."

CHORUS:

"We don't want to fight, but, by jingo, if we do,
We've got the men, we've got the ships, we've got the money, too.
We've fought the Bear before, and while we're Britons true,
The Russians shall not have Constantinople."

The song became most popular, and was heard on every street corner, from every organ grinder, and was whistled by every bootblack. Shortly after this, the election campaign began, in which Gladstone, the head of the Liberals, attacked the Tory party, then led by the Earl of Beaconsfield, who was then in power. The Tory foreign policy was ridiculed, and they were stigmatised by the Liberals as "the party of bloodshed, glory and jingo."

From the time of this election campaign, which resulted in the defeat of the Tories and the accession of the "peace party," Gladstone's 1880 Administration, the word "jingo" has been used to denote an individual or section of a party ready to rush, without mature consideration, into all the horrors of war.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

A GREAT Clearing Sale.

PRIOR TO STOCK-TAKING.

This is the last but not the least important sale of this business year. No doubt every store will have a sale during January, but where can you get such a variety of first-class goods as we show you. The standard of our stock has been kept up, although prices have been lower than that quoted by smaller houses for inferior grades of goods. SELLING FOR CASH enables us to clear the balance of our stock at prices that we could not think of doing were we giving Credit like all our opponents. If we get cost or even less we can turn the money over and clear ourselves.

The Skating Rink.

The change in the weather has enabled ice to be made so fast at the rink that it will be open for skating and curling to-morrow afternoon and evening—unless a sudden thaw sets in.

Acknowledged With Thanks.

The Children's Aid Society wish to acknowledge with thanks the receipt of clothing and boots from Mrs. E. H. D. Hall and $5 from Dr. Burnham in the month in December.

The Water Shut Off.

This morning the water on George street between Simcoe and Charlotte was shut off in order to allow the stop cock in front of the Geo. Matthews' retail branch to be repaired. The cock was leaking yesterday, and flooded all the eastern side of this portion of the street. The leak was repaired by noon.

Annuals at Half Price.

No better literature in the world than the old standard annuals—"Sunday at Home," "Leisure Hour," "Boys' Own" and "Girls' Own." These can now be obtained at the Peterborough Bookstore at half price. The surplus stock is very limited this year, and those who want to buy at half price should buy at once. A. H. STRATTON & Co.

Pump and Windmill Factory Changed Hands.

Mr. G. Walter Green, of Millbrook, has purchased the plant, patterns, agencies and machinery of the McWilliams pump and windmill factory on Dickson's race. Mr. Green had opened out a temporary branch shop of his Millbrook factory a short time ago on Charlotte street, but will now remove his stock to his new premises on the Dickson race. THE EXAMINER is pleased to welcome Mr. Green to Peterborough as a substantial addition to our active business men. This gentleman comes well recommended among us, and has had the advantage of a previous acquaintance with many of the farmers of this county. He will continue to carry on his Millbrook business, which he has successfully conducted for many years, and with the two factories in operation ought to be able to control a very large trade in this and the surrounding counties. See his advertisement in another column.

The Winner is Mr. Robert Campbell, of Lindsay.

On the 1st of October Mr. J. W. Garvin, B.A., District Manager of the North American Life Assurance Company, issued a circular to some twenty representatives of the Company in the seven counties under his management, offering a prize of a valuable gold watch to the member of the staff who should write the largest amount of business during the last three months of the year. The following rules governed the contest:—(a) Only such business shall count in the contest as is bona fide and represented by applications written and dated between Oct. 1st and Dec. 31st, inclusive. (b) Applications written by assistance of District Manager or Travelling Inspector shall count for one-half the amount applied for. (c) Applications written for semi-annual or quarterly premiums shall count only for one-half or one-quarter their face. (d) At least $15,000 of new business must be written by the winner." Mr. Robert Campbell, of Lindsay, District Agent for Victoria and Haliburton Counties, comes out victor. Mr. Campbell has been in the insurance business some eight months only, but in that time has taken rank among the most successful canvassers. Prior to his entering the service of the North American Life, Mr. Campbell was in the newspaper line, being a member of the staff of the Watchman, where he made many friends throughout the county. Three years ago Mr. Campbell was honoured by the Victoria County Association of the Patrons of Industry by being selected their General Secretary, a position he has held with credit to himself and profit to the Association ever since. Mr. Campbell is a young man of great energy and perseverance, whose ability, integrity and warmth of heart have made him one of the most popular men in the district. It is safe to prophesy for Mr. Campbell a most successful future in his chosen calling.

THE ARABS CAMP STORMED.

Lindsay has a Disagreeable Experience With the Vagrants.

Last Monday, says the Lindsay Post, a party of wandering Arabs, hailing from Peterborough county, pitched their camp on Mr. Frank Curtin's farm, about a mile and a half south of the town. The gang numbered 15 or 18 persons, exclusive of four performing bears and a monkey, and they quickly made themselves objectionable to the neighbors by soliciting alms, robbing henroosts and burning fences.

The township councillors consulted as to the best course to pursue to get rid of such unwelcome squatters, and it was decided to invoke the law. Yesterday Reeve Ellis and Mr. Frank Curtin swore out informations before County Magistrate Deacon, and a posse of Constables, all heavily armed, accompanied by Douglas Sinclair and his Winchester as an extra guard, drove out to the Arab camp.

Between two and three hundred people were present to witness the arrests, and a vigorous defence was anticipated. The poor wanderers were almost frightened out of their wits by the show of force made and the warlike appearance of the constables, and offered to leave the township at once if given a chance. Five of the men were taken into custody, and lodged in Castle Jackson pending examination. This morning the prisoners were before Col. Deacon, who fined them 40s. each for the injury done to Mr. Curtin's fencing, and a further fine of $20.00 each to be paid by noon of Saturday, the alternative being two months in gaol. The men promised to leave at once.

The Arabs broke up camp at noon today, and the motley procession passed up Kent street, heading west, about two o'clock. Three little shanties on wheels, each drawn by a rough looking nag, accommodated the children, while the women, men and bears trudged along on foot through the blinding snowstorm. It was an exhibition of wretched and repulsive poverty.

WESTWOOD.

From Our Own Correspondent.

On Christmas night a very pretty wedding took place at the residence of 'Squire Brackenridge, "Welbeck," near Westwood, when his youngest daughter, Annie W., was married to Mr. J. W. Kindred, of Zion, Otonabee. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. D. A. Thomas of Hastings. As the bridal party entered the parlour, the bride leaning on the arm of her brother, Miss Annie Raddon of Norwood, played the wedding march. Miss Clara Cairns of Peterborough, was bridesmaid, and Mr. Norman Brackenridge assisted the groom. After congratulations and refreshments the many guests amused themselves for several hours with games, speeches, songs, etc. The bride received many costly and useful presents, testifying to the high esteem in which she was held by her many friends. The young people begin life under very auspicious circumstances, and their many friends wish them a long and happy life.

KINMOUNT.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The spring must be here—the farmers are ploughing. Mr. Dan Silver sowed fall rye on 23rd ult. as a test.

Elections for school trustees last Friday were most exciting, even more so than the municipal, or even Provincial or Dominion elections. The run between Mr. A. Y. Hopkins and Mr. H. Graham was so keen that, despite the rain, votes were brought in for three miles. The election resulted in favour of Mr. Graham by a majority of 4.

We are in hopes of having a new industry started here in the form of a chemical factory. Mr. Penchen, the well-known paint manufacturer, has been here looking up a site and making estimates of how much can be obtained.

The Mansfield block is completed and a good business is being done.

To-day Galway returned the old council by acclamation. Lutterworth has followed suit, but Sommerville is not so tame. There are only four reeves, two deputies and six councillors.

Mr. R. P. Cummings has been visiting his friends in the village for the last few days.

Mr. Charles Hopkins is spending his Christmas holidays with his uncle and aunt and will return to Albert College in Belleville in a few days.

Mr. W. J. Harper, our esteemed station agent, has been under the weather for some time, but is able to be on duty again.

Merchants report a very good Christmas trade considering the bad roads and poor prospects.

LASSWADE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Mr. Dobson has taken his departure from this place after teaching school here for the past two years to join his friends in Stratford. We wish him success and are sorry to part with him. The young people will miss his company at their social gatherings the long evenings this winter. They will be lost for a while with out William John.

On Christmas night there were about forty invited friends gathered at Mr. Mathew Woodbeck's, the occasion being the marriage of their son, Albert Woodbeck. He brought his beautiful bride home from their wedding trip. They were received with congratulations from all their friends. They indulged in various kinds of music. C. N. Dingman furnished the violin music. They ended up with a hop and they kept it up till break of day, regardless of the pouring rain outside. The young couple took their departure this morning for Seymour from whence they came.

Edward Youmans has gone to Havelock to get medical treatment, as he is very poorly. We hope Edward will come back a new man in health and strength.

Mr. Holbrook has a number of schools back in these parts. He has a very good singing school here, and an organ class, and is a good teacher. Practice is held Monday evening at Mr. J. Bullied's and Saturday evenings at Mr. E. Youman's. Saturday evening is close at hand, boys and girls get your sounds.

Mr. John Spratt had a wood-bee to-day. He got a lot of wood cut. Mr. Bingman's saw, the Racer, took the lead.

The annual school meeting was held in Methuen school house yesterday. They got along very nicely. Mr. G. McGiness has got the job of cutting the wood.

Mr. B. Carroll took L. Washburn's place as trustee. Nicholas Dingman was put in truant officer. Nicholas, you want to see to those children to the south, so that they don't stay away from school more than two-thirds of their time unless they have a good reason for doing so.

Mr. W. R. Dingman went to Norham two weeks ago with sleighs to move his family in. As he has made no appearance he must be waiting for snow.

.. THE .. Mayoralty Election 1896.

Address of Wm. Yelland to the Electors.

To the Electors of the Town of Peterborough:—

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN—At the urgent request of a large number of ratepayers of all classes, I have consented to accept nomination as Mayor of the Town of Peterborough for the year 1896. In soliciting your votes and support I do so with a full confidence that my past record and experience, both as a Councillor and a citizen, will enable me to discharge the duties of Mayor efficiently and will justify the support I respectfully solicit. My thirteen years' record in the council is before you, and with all due modesty I may claim that it has established the fact that I have left nothing undone that it was in my power to advance the best interests of the town. I have always stood up, fearless of criticism, for what I conceived to be right, and as my record in the past has been so I pledge myself that if elected Mayor my future shall be also. I have a considerable material stake in the town and pay a large bill of taxes, so that it is my personal interest, if I were influenced by no higher motive, to see ours affairs economically administered and to advocate and influence every reasonable project for the material and moral advancement of the interests of Peterborough. In the administration of the affairs of the town so far as I am able to control such administration, I shall see that all classes and all interests receive that justice that their claims and importance deserve and that all laws and by-laws shall be fairly and properly administered. If elected Mayor I shall do what is right and no power, or influence shall induce me to swerve one hairsbreadth from what my judgment declares is just and to the best interests of Peterborough. Trusting that my platform, plain and simple as it is, will commend itself to your judgment and bring me your hearty support, and wishing all the citizens of the Town A Happy New Year, I remain,

Your Obedient Servant,

WM. YELLAND.

Dec. 30th. 1895.

McWILLIAMS

Pump and Windmill Factory,

DICKSON'S RACE.

I take great pleasure in announcing to the people of Peterborough and surrounding country that I have bought out the entire Plant, Patterns, Machinery and Agencies of the above well-known Factory on Dickson's Race.

I have also made arrangements to continue the lease and to carry on the manufacture of Iron and Wooden Force and Lift Pumps, Cisterns, Steel Windmills, Tanks, Fanning Mills, Hand Seeders, Churns, Washing Machines and every other line formerly manufactured in the above premises.

I have also removed the temporary Pump Shop which I opened on Charlotte street a short time ago—and will now be found at my Factory on Dickson's Race.

With the long, practical experience I have had in this business, and with the splendid facilities which I now have for turning out good work, I am confident that I will be able to guarantee perfect satisfaction to all who may favour me with their orders.

G. WALTER GREEN.

CARD OF THANKS.

In reference to the above, I beg leave to thank all my old friends and customers for the liberal patronage extended to me in the above factory. I can with pleasure confidently recommend Mr. G. Walter Green as a practical, reliable and thorough man, and bespeak for him a continuance of your patronage.

"If Eric is in robust health, and has slept well, and is at the top of his condition at his departure from Greenland, his ships will reach Newfoundland. But, take out Eric and put in a stronger man — Biorn or Thorfin and the ships with just as much ease will reach Labrador and New England."

Emerson was right. The stronger a man is the fuller his chest is, the sounder his heart and brain and lungs are, the further he will sail on the ocean, the higher he will sail in his balloon, and the deeper he will dive into the intricacies of his business or profession. A man's glory is his strength. The world has small use for weaklings, and, it must be said, sickly people have little use for the world. But, sickness is generally an unnecessary evil. It is almost a crime against nature to be ill. If you are ill and feel repentant, anxious to undo the mischief, take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Don't be despondent because your grandfather died of consumption or bronchitis, or some other equally frightful throat or lung trouble. There is no need of hereditary consumption. Purify your blood with "Golden Medical Discovery," then take more of it to thoroughly strengthen and build up your whole body through the purity and strength of your blood.

There is nothing miraculous about the "Discovery." It is a compound of curatives skillfully blended. It will cure 98 per cent. of all cases of consumption if it is honestly used.

Would you know yourself? Send 31 one-cent stamps to cover cost of customs and mailing only, and get Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. In the reading of this book of 1008 pages is a medical education. It is a complete family doctor book, written in plain language that everybody can understand, and profusely illustrated. JAMESON BEATEN.

A Sharp Battle Fought at Johannesburg.

RECEIVED ORDERS TO TURN BACK

He Disregarded Them and Was Surrounded and Forced to Surrender—Germany Will Make an Official Inquiry of Great Britain Abou the Matter.

London, Jan. 2.—A despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company this evening says that Dr. Jameson has been severely defeated by the Boers before Johannesburg.

The news of the serious defeat of Dr. Jameson's forces was confirmed and the Secretary of State for the Colonies, Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, has been summoned to the Colonial Office, where a conference is now being held.

The despatch received at the Foreign Office announcing that an engagement had taken place between Dr. Jameson's force and the Boers, and that the former had been compelled to surrender was sent by Sir Jacobus A. Dewet, the British agent at Pretoria, the capital of the South African Republic. Mr. Chamberlain had left the Colonial Office when the despatch was received, but its contents were at once communicated to him, and he immediately returned to the office to attend to the preparation of despatches and to receive any further telegrams that might be sent him.

Ten Thousand Armed Men.

London, Jan. 2.—The Pall Mall Gazette asserts that 10,000 armed men are in readiness at Buluwayo to march into the Transvaal, and are probably en route for that territory.

The directors of the British South Africa Company held a meting at noon to-day to consider the despatch sent by Mr. Chamberlain ordering the immediate disavowal by the company of any knowledge of or responsibility for Dr. Jameson's act in leading an armed body of men into the Transvaal. The directors themselves profess to be entirely without knowledge of Jameson's movements. The report that the Queen has ordered the Duke of Fife to withdraw from the directorate of the British South Africa Company is denied.

Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, Secretary of State for the Colonies, has issued a statement announcing that Governor Robinson of the Cape Colony will start for Pretoria this afternoon to assist in the peaceful settlement of the Transvaal difficulties.

Mr. Chamberlain had a satisfactory interview this afternoon with the directors of the British South Africa Company, among whom was the Duke of Fife.

JAMESON IGNORED ORDERS.

He Was Commanded Not to Invade the Boer Country, But Went Forward.

London, Jan. 2.—The following despatch was received late this evening from Sir Hercules Robinson, Governor of Cape Colony, dated Cape Town, Jan. 2, 8.25 p.m.:

"A messenger overtook Dr. Jameson 10 miles the other side of the Elans River. The messenger brought back a verbal message that the despatches, received by Dr. Jameson would be attended to. The force was saddling up, and at once proceeded eastward. Dr. Jameson thus received and disregarded both my messages."

Sir Jacob Dewet, the British agent at Pretoria, telegraphs this morning that it would have been impossible for him to have gone to Dr. Jameson. If it had been possible his mission would have been futile, as the fighting commenced at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The messenger referred to by Sir Hercules Robinson was one who was sent to Dr. Jameson with orders instructing the latter to return to British territory and to abandon his aggressive movement against the Boers.

Worse Details.

Cape Town, Jan. 2.—The Cape Times has a despatch from Pretoria dated yesterday, saying that the latest news from Krugesdorp was to the effect that there had been fighting between the Boers and the force led by Dr. Jameson, and that the latter had suffered heavy losses.

The British agent at Pretoria telegraphs under date of yesterday that he had seen Gen. Joubert, commanding general of the Boer forces, who reported that Dr. Jameson had been driven from several positions. Twenty-two Burghers were wounded and 23 prisoners were taken. At that time no forces had moved out of Johannesburg to assist Dr. Jameson.

It is reported that a further British [illegible] Johannesburg [illegible] mobilized for the purpose of entering the Transvaal.

A Kaffir "Commando" is forming on the Bechuanaland frontier of the Orange Free State, with the object of assisting the Boers should such assistance be needed.

A later despatch from Pretoria says that Dr. Jameson was surrounded by a large force of Boers near Krugersdorp and was obliged to surrender.

Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, Secretary of State for the Colonies, has sent a despatch to Gov. Robinson, saying: "I regret that Dr. Jameson's disobedience has led to a deplorable loss of life. Do your best to secure generous treatment of the prisoners and wounded.

London Press Comments.

The Chronicle in its issue to-morrow will claim on high authority that rebellion has been smouldering in Bechuanaland for six months, and that during that time Dr. Jameson and his followers were silently arranging to descend upon the Transvaal. The paper hints at certain matters to the discredit of the honor of Englishmen, of which matters, it says, Mr. Chamberlain is cognizant. The Colonial Office, it adds, is also aware that Hon. Cecil Rhodes, Prime Minister of Cape Colony, would have to supply the money for Dr. Jameson's escapade.

All the morning papers will publish editorials on the subject of the invasion of the Transvaal. They deplore the result, which, they say, will involve the gravest consequences. They contend that nothing but success could have justified the invasion. As the movement has miserably failed, it has seriously damaged the future of South Africa.

The papers predict that the blood fued between Englishmen and Boers will be excited to fury, and that probably a cry will be raised to wipe out the stain of the second humiliation inflicted upon the British arms by the Boers, but they declare that such a demand cannot be encouraged. All the papers condemn Dr. Jameson's rashness and disobedience.

The Times alone, of all the morning papers, neither condemns nor excuses Dr. Jameson. It argues that it is possible that his surrender may have been to Government orders and not to the Boers. It examines the origin of the despatches in support of this theory but admits that it is more probable that he surrendered to the Boers.

Germany Wants to Know

Berlin, Jan. 2.—The statement that Germany has officially enquired of Great Britain what steps the latter Government intended to take in regard to the invasion of the Transvaal by the British South Africa Company is confirmed.

MEAGRE DETAILS tRrbw

Johannesburg Excited.

London, Jan. 2.—A despatch from Johannesburg, South Africa, dated December 30, says the people there are greatly excited. Numbers of Boers are to be seen riding through the streets, which adds greatly to the public excitement.

A performance of "Othello" was given on December 30 at the Standard Theatre in Johannesburg, which was crowded with people of all classes. The orchestra played the "Volksllied," the national air of Transvaal, whereat the audience drowned the music with groans and hisses. The orchestra then played "God Save the Queen," when the people rose and cheerd.

A mass meeting of Australian residents of Johannesburg has been held, at which the chairman proposed that infantry and mounted companies be raised to resist the Boers.

The Pall Mall Gazette says Dr. Jameson, upon receiving a summons to proceed to Johannesburg to assist the Uitlanders, resigned his position as Administrator of the British South African Company, and that his followers also severed their connection with the company.

The Star advises Mr. Chamberlain, Secretary of State for the Colonies, to cancel the charter of the British South African Company.

Something About the Country.

London, Jan. 2.—Prof. James Bryce, M.P., has arrived in England from South Africa. Being asked for his views upon the situation in the Transvaal, he said:

"There is a pretty widespread feeling of dissatisfaction with the existing condition of affairs in the Transvaal. Much will depend upon President Kruger's attitude. It is hoped that the Transvaal Government will recognise that the situation is, or may become, serious. The population of Uitlanders is increasing rapidly."

Prof. Bryce says that when he was at Cape Town 1600 persons were leaving there weekly for the Rand (highlands on either side of a river valley).

The Transvaal is enormously rich in gold and other metals, and the Boers, who settled it, are determined to hold it against the British, who covert it. The British are numerous and influential in the country, and claim that they are being discriminated against by the Boer Government.

The Boers contend that they have every lawful title to the land, while the British protest that they have contributed so much to its prosperity that they should share its political privileges.

An eminent English writer asserted lately that "the land belonged to Great Britain until a Radical Government, with senseless haste and reckless pusillanimity, gave it over into the hands of its present owners."

The Dutch point particularly to the gold mines, the greater part of which are in the hands of the English. The Earl of Dunmore, in the January number of a London magazine, described the 10th of July of the present year as a red-letter day in the calendar of the Transvaal, because the chairman of the British Stock Exchange in Johannesburg was able to make the extraordinary announcement that the output of gold for the month of June, 1895, had reached the hitherto unprecedented amount of 200,941 ounces, representing in money a sum equivalent to £775,000 ($3,875,000).

The quantity of gold mined in the Rand (the local name for the Witwatersrand gold reefs) long since exceeded the best records of California, Australia or any other of the great gold sections. During 1893 alone the shipment of gold amounted to $27,500,000, and the Rand reefs are said to yield now over 25 per cent. of the total gold supply of the country.

The value of the output of the fifty producing mines on the 1st of last January was $160,000,000.

This means that the increase in the world's output is due to the extent of 56 per cent. to these mines.

President Kruger, now serving his third term as Chief Magistrate of the republic, has indomitable force and rare intelligence. His popularity amounts almost to fanatical enthusiasm.

JUNIUS HENRI BROWNE ON BELIEVING AND DOING.

Broad Religious Influence of the Day. Morality and Humanity—What Jesus Was and What He Labored For—Man's Conduct His Justification.

[Copyright, 1895, by American Press Association.]

Nearly all the early Christian festivals which are still extant were shrewdly founded on the pagan festivals preceding them, so that the influence of the old and the new could be united and identified. Christmas, as commemorative of the birth of Jesus, is an exception, having been religious from the beginning. The day of the event was not agreed on until the fourth century, when, by an inquiry of theologians, Dec. 25 was decided to be the date, which has been observed ever since. In this country the gloomy, morbid Puritans earnestly opposed any celebration of Christmas as savoring of the scarlet woman, especially if of a social or convivial kind, for they regarded all pleasure, however innocent, as wicked, thinking to gain heaven in the next world by making a hell of this. The mass of Americans, whether young or old, no longer couple the day with theology. They consider it a time for taking substantial comfort and making merry. Christmas presents, Christmas dinners, Christmas gayeties of every sort are significant of Dec. 25, are looked forward to with fond anticipations and backward at with mild regret, like all pleasant things that have passed.

The mere fact that the day, whether accurate or not, is indelibly associated with Christ, with Jesus, with his nativity, with the record of his noble, beautiful, self sacrificing life, entirely devoted to humanity, should render it precious and inspiring. It matters not whether he be believed to be the Son of God or the son of man—his acts, his supreme generosity and benevolence, his total self denial, his sublime courage, his sovereign altruism remain, in either case, precisely the same. Regarding him simply as human, his entire life would seem indeed to be grander, more exalted, more touching, more consecrated than if he were accounted supernatural. He would be divine in his humanity, not through miracle, but through superlative goodness, purity, exalted passion for the welfare of his fellows. To the thoroughly rationalistic, he might not appear so truly heroic, so unapproachable, so morally wonderful in the light of a God as in the light of a man. In one instance he might seem to be playing a part; to be going through an imposing form; to be something less than he assumed. In the other, he would prove himself absolutely, awfully sincere, rising gloriously above the common weakness of his race, reaching the loftiest pinnacle of the ethically sublime. As an heir of time and nature, he is without companion, competitor or peer, the grandest ideal of humanity.

Jesus, judged by reason alone, was the first, as he may have been the last, perfect, completely flawless man. He was the primary democrat. In his eyes all his fellows were equals. The prince and slave, the courtier and the hind, the scholar and the yokel were on the same level. He demanded justice for the whole race, and he tempered justice with mercy. He was the first to esteem, to revere woman for her womanhood, to stand between her and the wrongs of her stronger, less sympathetic partner. He was as tender as he was fearless. He was the sole pioneer of true civilization, a moral and political reformer and centuries in advance of his time. This it was that led to his destruction. The Pharisees naturally hated him. They were active in his undoing. Brought to the sanhedrin, he was declared guilty of irreligion and condemned to death. Arraigned before Pontius Pilate, governor of the province, charged with sedition, he was also sentenced (though Pilate believed him innocent) on account of the clamors and menaces of the people. His offense no doubt was political. It was feared he would undermine the institutions of the time, for he, himself a Jew, was hostile to the temper and spirit of the Jews, who were violent and sanguinary, as was all humanity at that era. He suffered as any one might have suffered who was far beyond his epoch, whose opinions, feelings, convictions were adverse to those of the community in which he moved. He had the soul of a martyr, the strength and will for martyrdom. He died for humanity, as he knew he must die, and was happy in so dying. The end, which he clearly saw, crowned the work, completed his spiritual career, haloed it forever.

Such an example is always before us; it cannot be obliterated, dimmed or distorted. Each return of Christmas should revive it in our minds and hearts. The influence of the day, whatever our understanding of theology, must be, in the best sense, religious. Jesus is an eternal pattern. We cannot reach it, but we can strive toward it. He is the embodiment of the best possible in manhood, of generosity, friendship, brotherhood, democracy, tenderness, self sacrifice, love and charity. He is altogether beyond dogma. Admiration, affection for him is a new faith, a revelation outside of Revelation, Christianity higher than the Christianity of the church.

Were he, the lowly, devoted, stainless man of sorrows, to return to earth tomorrow, many who esteem themselves most pious would not recognise him, would not welcome him. Many of the churches dedicated to him would not admit him, nor would he enter where their splendors shine. He would seek the poor, the humble, the abodes of indigence and wretchedness. He could not breathe freely in the sumptuous temples reared in his honor. He would not, he could not, worship among his worshipers. Christ would be isolated in a throng of Christians. They would not sympathize with him; they would avoid him; they would not deem him worthy to associate with their superiority. So much has Christianity changed since Christ was in the world.

Christmas, considered in its best significance, should not inculcate any special creed, any class of dogmas, any form of ritual, but the broader, deeper spirit of religion, consisting of morality joined to humanity. It should teach the practical lessons of Jesus' life, the divinely human of his nature, the truest, rarest, highest that is in our common nature. From him and from the inspiring festival we should learn to be more willing and eager to help our fellows, to sympathize with the distressed and unfortunate, to relieve every want, to heal every hurt, to soften every woe. So Jesus did to the very end. And if we imitate him, however remotely, we may be sure that we are aiding somewhat in the progress and welfare of the race, acting the part of brotherhood whether we obey dogma or violate tenet. Not what we believe, but what we do, is our sovereign justification.

JUNIUS HENRI BROWNE.

JANUARY FIRSTLINGS.

Some Things to Ponder and to Be Thankful For.

The best time to rejoice, to feel great satisfaction, is not so much at the opening of the New Year as at the close of the old, when we know what we have gained, what we have achieved and what we have reason to be thankful for.

The exercise of memory, however gratifying the things we remember, never affords such pleasure as the exercise of hope, which pictures everything that might be, but has not been. The New Year, therefore, always appeals to us as promising the realization of the dearest wishes of our heart and is in consequence exuberantly welcome.

The profuse distribution of gifts on New Year's day was still the custom in England during Elizabeth's reign, and nearly her entire wardrobe as well as her jewelry was supplied in the form of presents. If the women of today were as bountifully furnished as was the vastly overrated queen, Jan. 1 would be more precious in their eyes than all the holidays together, but the present makers would be irretrievably bankrupt.

In mediæval times women enjoyed being kissed on New Year's day under the mistletoe. The modern, the contemporaneous woman, is not particular about the mistletoe or the day either, Time, place and the man being given, she relishes kissing generally.

Till within a few years the women of New York were in the habit of receiving their friends in town on New Year's day in grand style. Now those claiming to be fashionable fly on that day to the country, presumably to avoid their foes—in other words, to get rid of bores, who are socially the most formidable of enemies.

The Chinese at home gamble on New Year's night to a prodigious extent. In Wall street New Yorkers gamble enormously on most of the other days of the year.

The good resolutions made on Jan. 1 have generally proved to be bad performances before the end of February.

The men who are continually "turning over a new leaf" on New Year's day are apt to forget the leaf soon after, or that they have turned the leaf over at all.

The headaches that are felt the next morning after New Year's may usually be attributed to "treating" the good resolutions they have made on that day.

Many Americans outside of New York so detest the fulfillment of what it called social duties that they would be delighted to see widely extended the French custom, which releases Parisians from the obligation of making New Year's calls in consideration of their sending small presents instead. They would give liberally to be entirely exempt from the whole business of "visiting," be the date Jan. 1 or any other. They would much rather pay out than go out.

Expectancy is so strong in the human breast that it amounts almost to superstition, as New Year's day illustrates. No matter how ill success a man may have had in all the years that have past, he is pretty sure to believe that the New Year will bring him a change of fortune. And happily his belief will help him to bear his burdens if it does not make them lighter. What we believe may not happen, but it makes the present brighter.

It is a great pity that every day of the year does not inspire and cheer as Jan. 1 is apt to do. Then we should always carry a light heart and possess a cheerful mind.

In the cities of China the people on New Year's day offer up paper prayers in the temples. To use a commercial phrase, do they meet their paper when it falls due?

JUNIUS HENRI BROWNE.

Telling Fortunes From the Bible.

In Scotland an old New Year's custom is for people who wish to know what fortune the new year has in store for them to consult the Bible in the morning. The sacred book is placed on a table and opened at random. The particular passage on which the forefinger rests is supposed to forecast in some way the fortunes of the ensuing year for the person making the trial.

New Year's In Ancient Rome.

The Romans offered sacrifices to Janus and were very careful how they conducted themselves for the first few days, as upon their behavior depended their good or ill luck for the coming year. The Saxons celebrated the advent of the new year with special rites, and mistletoe cut in peculiar forms was a favorite gift.

DIABETES CURABLE

Given up to Die—Uses Dodd's Kidney Pills and is Cured by Eight Boxes.

KIRKFIELD (Special), Dec. 23.—Mr. Duncan McKenzie, miller and lumberman of this place, had returned from Kansas lately. Had failed in health and strength, had lost fifty pounds in weight. Was given up by his physician as well as by specialists in Toronto and by himself and friends. Now comes a change—he says in a letter to Dodd's Medicine Co.: "After commencing with your Dodd's Kidney Pills I got help inside of two weeks. I took eight boxes in eight weeks, am completely cured, not a symptom left, general health good. Have regained my old health and weight. Had been bothered with heart and liver, both have vanished with the diabetes. I can walk briskly for miles instead of crawling as before. Am a brother of the President of the Toronto Street Railway Co., and well known here." Diabetes is set down as incurable—but Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure.

THAT HACKING COUGH can be quickly cured by Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. Price 25 cents.

Christmas and Sentiment.

TA period like the present, when the commercial spirit prevails and people are devoted to material interests almost to the exclusion of everything else, they are very liable to relegate sentiment into the background. This tendency is even noticeable in the celebration of particular events, such as the birth of Christ, when young and old are too generally inclined to regard the observances characteristic of the occasion without thinking of their significance or the sentiment underlying them. If this decay of sentiment only affected the external aspects of our lives, our business, and the ordinary affairs and events of our everyday existence it were a matter of no great importance, but when it adversely influences our views on religion, on society, art, the love of nature, etc., we must admit that the matter is one of grave importance. Religion is largely a matter of sentiment, and he who regards society merely from the standpoint of the utilitarian, while he may be a fairly good citizen, will most assuredly be an unsympathetic, unsocial and not very amiable man. Art, the love of natural beauty and those graces and elegancies which give such an ideal charm to life, are almost exclusively dependent for their very existence upon sentiment. How sordid and mean would our lives be if divested of all those finer feelings, romantic notions and idealizations which keep alive the spiritual flame within us? N. M.

IT PUT NEW LIFE IN ME.

"ALL I DID WAS JUST TO MOPE AROUND"
"SCOTT'S SARSAPARILLA CURED ME."

The chilly weather of late fall and early winter finds them unprepared to stand the change and hence they suffer. This fact is plainly proved by the following opinions of some who speak from practical experience:

"I felt like a man that could commit suicide. I caught a cold while camping on damp ground, had twinges of awful muscular pains, couldn't eat and couldn't sleep. All I did was to mope around and make all in the house as miserable as myself. Scott's Sarsaparilla put new life in me, braced me up thoroughly, and since its use pain is a stranger to me." Alex Grant, Toronto.

J. T. McGraw, a mining prospector, writing from Minden: Express me three bottles Scott's Sarsaparilla here before Saturday. Have been a martyr to rheumatism and indigestion brought on by exposure. Scott's Sarsaparilla is rapidly curing me."

Nothing has ever equalled Scott's Sarsaparilla for building up the system, putting the blood in healthful circulation and invigorating the body. Thousands testify to its splendid effects in extreme weakness and all debilitating diseases. On this account no imitation of Scott's should be accepted. Of your local druggists at $1 per bottle, 6 bottles $5.

From Our Own Correspondent.

The annual tea meeting of the Blairton Methodist church was held at that place on Christmas night. Tea was served in the school room and the entertainment was held in the church. Though the roads were very bad quite a large number of the people from the surrounding country were present and an enjoyable evening was spent. The church had been beautifully decorated by the young people.

The programme was as follows:—Musical selection from the Bonter brothers and Mr. Gilbert Alster, members of the Marmora brass band. They were heartily applauded and encored, and responded with another beautiful selection. The pastor, Rev. Mr. Anderson, who acted as chairman, addressed the audience, and in a few remarks said that he was well pleased to be able to take part in this time honoured custom of the Blairton people—the annual tea meeting. He admired the courage and resolution of those present in coming out under such difficulties. He was agreeably surprised at seeing so many present. The choir then sang an anniversary anthem. The chairman called on Mr. Aunger, deputy reeve of Belmont, to make a speech, in which he was heartily sanctioned by the audience, but as Mr. Aunger was not feeling well he was excused. A selection from the Band, which was very beautifully rendered. Instrumental music by Mr. Thomas McQuaig on the violin and Mr. Fred Bonter on the cornet. They were heartily encored and gave another selection, called "The Cowboy." Song by the choir—"Come let us Sing unto the Lord." The pastor then rose and said that he had expected the Rev. Mr. Balfour, of Marmora, to be present, but he had received a card from him saying that, owing to illness in his family, he could not be present. Christmas song by Miss M. Boyd and Miss Gertie Robinson, which was beautifully sung and heartily received. song by the choir, "Awake! Awake!" address by Mr. Switzer on "Intellectual Development;" music from the cornet and organ by Messrs. Porter and Alster; music from the band; instrumental music by violin and cornet; song by Mr. Sanderson, "Where is Heaven?" The entertainment was closed with a song from the choir. It would not be fair to those who took part to particularize, suffice it to say that all did their parts well and everybody present were satisfied with the evening's enjoyment, but we should especially mention the ladies who provided the bountiful tea, and though they were disappointed in there not being more present, still those who were present did ample justice to the bountiful spread, and the ladies of Blairton will be always remembered for their skill in satisfying the cravings of the inner man.

Mr. Sanderson, of Madoc, son of our esteemed pastor, Rev. Mr. Sanderson, of Blairton, has been engaged as teacher of the Blairton school.

Mr. John McLaughlin, of Blairton, has returned from Dorset, where he was employed in the woods by the Gilmour Co. He says that the Company have closed all their lumber camps, and consequently a large number of men are out of employment.

The Free Methodists held a religious service at Rockdale on Christmas.

Miss McConnel, of Springbrook, has been engaged as teacher of the Rockdale school.

Mr. Robert Breckenridge, of Rush Point, has been re-engaged as teacher of the school for 1896. He has given excellent satisfaction in the past and we trust he will be as successful in the future.

The annual school meeting of the Victoria School Section was held last Thursday. Mr. Andrew Brean was appointed Trustee in the place of Mr. Hullit, who has removed to Cobourg.

Miss Parks, of Bridgewater, sister of Mrs. H. Taylor, of Victoria, is visiting her sister at Victoria.

Mr. James Covert, of Victoria, has a grain cracker on his premises and is prepared to do excellent work every Friday for the farmers of the surrounding country.

The Free Methodists held their quarterly sacramental service at their church at Victoria last Sunday. A large number attended both in the morning and the afternoon. Rev. Mr. Sims, the presiding elder, delivered an eloquent sermon in the morning from the text, "Blessed is the man who endureth temptation," and in the afternoon from the subject of Jonah's disobedience. The Free Methodists will hold a watch-night service at Healy Falls on New Year's Eve. They anticipate a great time.

Miss M. Minchin and Master George, of Victoria, have returned home from Campbellford, where there they have been attending the High school. Miss Minchin is studying for a first-class certificate and George intends being a candidate for a third. Also Mr. Thomas McLaughlin, of Belmont, has returned home from Campbellford, where he has been attending the High school. He will resume his studies when the school opens after New Year's Day.

Mrs. Sexsmith, a former resident of Victoria, is at Rockdale visiting friends.

Mr. Calvin Youmans, of Rockdale, has taken a contract from Mr. Taylor, of Rush Point, to furnish thirty thousand feet of elm.

Mr. William Young has returned home his lumber camp on Otter creek. He will resume operations as soon as there is sufficient snow to enable him to begin drawing to the river. He is doing well. He has about fifteen hundred pieces to cut yet.

There is not much prospect of an interesting municipal election contest as yet. Apparently none of our ambitious ratepayers envy the positions held by our worthy reeve and councillors, consequently there appears to be no opposing aspirants for municipal honors.

The revival services at Rockdale closed last week.

Mr. William Youmans, of Blairton, is no better, and his sister, Miss M. Youmans, is seriously ill. There is no hope of her recovery.

The annual meeting of the Victoria Cheese Company was held in the school house at Victoria on Tuesday, Dec. 20th, beginning at 3 o'clock, when the following business was transacted. The president, Mr. Chas. Wilde, occupied the chair.

Moved and seconded that J. M. Brown be secretary of the annual meeting.

Mr. W. H. Murchison, the secretary of the company, then made a statement as to the state of the finances, which appears under the heading of Cheese Reports.

The auditor, Mr. Frank Wilson, certified to the correctness of the books.

It was moved and seconded that the auditor's report be received and adopted.—Carried.

Mr. John Brown moved that a vote of thanks be tendered the president, Mr. Chas. Wilde, the secretary, Mr. W. H. Murchison, auditor Frank Wilson, and directors Ryllot, Leason, Fraser and Holbrooke for the able manner in which they had performed their duties during the past year, though they had considerable extra work and some opposition in building the factory. They have been successful and the shareholders and patrons owe them at least a vote of thanks. Mr. Brown's motion was seconded by Mr. Jas. Freeman and was unanimously carried.

Moved and seconded that Mr. John Brown be chairman during the election of officers.—Carried.

Moved and seconded that Mr. Chas. Wilde be elected president, and Messrs. Rylott, Leason, Fraser and Holcomb be re-elected directors.—Carried.

Moved and seconded that the president receive $35 for arrears of salary, which includes his regular expenses.—Carried.

The shareholders and patrons then came forward and received their cheques, and the meeting then closed.

From the expressions used by the patrons of the factory they were apparently agreeably surprised at the profits which they received, which were over and above what they expected, they all apparently being well satisfied with the joint stock company.

We wish the readers of the EXAMINER and the staff A Happy New Year, [Thank you], and if Providence allows us to see another New Year that we may look back upon a year well spent.

Council Meeting.

From our own Correspondent.

Meeting opened, Reeve Hales in the chair and councillors all present. After the reading of the minutes of last meeting Treasurer P. Mahoney, presented his report, which, upon motion of Mr. Couche, seconded by Mr. Jno. Bullied, was accepted by council, and the clerk authorized to procure 100 printed copies of the same for distribution as directed by statute.

Mr. Charles Hawley, sr., made application for money to open road between concessions 26 and 27, but upon this matter no action was taken by council. Upon motion of Mr. Couche, seconded by Mr. Bullied, the clerk was instructed to write to Mrs. Robt. Gerrard, notifying her that Mr. Wm. Martin must be allowed to travel across her property upon the road allowance, as established by the council of the old municipality of Burleigh, Anstruther and Chandos; also that she be allowed two years further extension of time in which to build fences and remove all gates therefrom. Mr. Wm. Hubbell presented account for shovelling snow, winter 1894-1895, but on motion of council it was not accepted.

On motion of council orders were drawn on treasurer as follows:—John Hubbel, for road work, $2.00; Albert Mace, rebate on taxes, 54c; E. Gooley, for clearing road, $2.00; Treasurer school section No. 6, balschool levy of 1894, $7.20; balance cost of deputation to county council re separation of township from old municipality, $14.00, total, $21.30; R. S. Tivey, rebate of taxes due to over assessment; S. O. Phillips, for road work, $5.00; Peter Johnston, for road work, $5.00; Martin Henry, rebate on taxes, 75c.

On motion of council, By-law No. 17, a by-law instructing pathmasters to keep account of work done in opening roads during winter, and to give men so employed credit for the same on the road lists for the following season, passed its several readings. Also By-law No. 18, to appoint place of nomination, polling places and deputy returning officers for municipal elections, 1895, was introduced, given the necessary readings and passed, after which council adjourned to meet on Friday, Dec. 27th.

One Honest Man.

Dear Editor:—Please inform your readers, that if written to confidentially I will mail in a sealed letter, particulars of a genuine, honest home cure, by which I was permanently restored to health and manly vigor, after years of suffering from nervous debility, sexual weakness, night losses and weak shrunken parts. I was robbed and swindled by the quacks until I nearly lost faith in mankind, but thank heaven, I am now well, vigorous and strong, and wish to make this certain means of cure known to all sufferers. I have nothing to sell, and want no money, but being a firm believer in the universal brotherhood of man, I am desirous of helping the unfortunate to regain their health and happiness. Perfect secrecy assured. Address with stamp:—Mr. Edward Lambert. P. O Box 55, Jarvis, Ont.

Sirs,—For five years I have been troubled with neuralgia and tried everything I could see or hear of. At last I was advised to try a bottle of Yellow Oil and I refused because I thought it was like all the rest—a failure. A half bottle was given me, however, and I found it helped me, and bought a bottle which cured me. If it cost five dollars a bottle I would not be without it.

From Our Own Correspondent.

It is with feelings of profound sorrow that we record the death of Mrs. Robert Lang, of this village, who quietly passed away on Saturday morning. The deceased was very highly respected and much loved by all who knew her. The funeral took place on Monday at twelve o'clock and proceeded to the Little Lake Cemetery for interment. The relatives and friends have the deep sympathy of the neighbourhood in their sad bereavement.

God's angels drop, like grains of gold
Our duties 'midst life's shining sands,
And from them, one by one, we mould
Our own bright crown with patient hands.

From dust and dross we gather them;
We toil and stoop for love's sweet sake
To find each worthy art a gem
In glory's kingly diadem,
Which we may daily richer make.

TO THE ELECTORS OF WARD NO. 3.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN—At the request of a number of the ratepayers of No. 3 Ward to become a candidate for Councillor for 1896 I have decided to do so. I therefore respectfully solicit your vote and influence, and if elected I will serve you to the best of my ability.

ROBERT WEIR.

TO THE RATEPAYERS OF WARD NO. 3.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—I beg to offer myself as a candidate for election as one of the representatives from your ward in the Council of 1896, and solicit your support to secure my election. Hoping to be favoured,

Yours respectfully,

W. H. MOORE.

TO THE ELECTORS OF WARD NO. 4.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—I am in the field as a candidate for election as one of your representatives in the council of 1896. If you approve please give me your vote and influence. I have had some experience in this line, and if elected will do the best I can to promote the welfare of our fair town. Yours respectfully, 3d2

W. EYRES.

TO THE ELECTORS OF WARD NO. 4.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,—Having decided to accept the nomination for Councillor for No. 4 Ward, I desire to solicit your votes and influence. I do not intend to make a personal canvas, but if you see proper to favour me with your confidence, I will devote my best energies to the welfare of the town.

Yours respectfully,

WM. LANGFORD.

To The Municipal Electors of NO. 4 WARD.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—Having consented to accept the nomination as candidate for Councillor for No 4 Ward, I hereby solicit your votes and influence. If elected I will endeavour to discharge he duties of the position with an earnest desire to serve its best interests.

As the time is short I will not be able to see every ratepayer of the ward, and would therefore solicit the support of all who desire to encourage an economical policy in the management of our town affairs.

Your Obedient Servant,

JOHN M. WHITE

Jan. 2nd, 1896.

TO THE ELECTORS OF NO. 4 WARD.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN—Having been honoured with the nomination for Councillor, for No. 4 Ward, for 1896, at the request of a large number of ratepayers, I have decided to accept the same. I therefore solicit your votes and influence for the same, and promise if elected to act to the best of my ability in the interests of the town at large and of No. 4 Ward in particular, 3d-1

Yours Respectfully,

JAS. G. GRAHAM.

WARD NO 4.

To the Ratepayers of Ward No. Four:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,—Having decided to accept the nomination as councillor for Ward No. Four, I respectfully solicit your votes and influence. I desire to thank all those who supported me last year, and hope that they will again honour me with their support. If I am elected I will give my best attention to the duties of the office, and I promise to perform

CHRISTMAS REMINISCENCES And Gratitude.

Twelve Christmases have passed since two lads put up their first sign as they started in business in the old brick building on George street on the spot which now marks Gough Bros. Two Mammoth Stores.

Twelve Christmases have found the same forces here trying to make the best store in Midland Ontario. It might be a much better store, but it is comforting to be told that much of the bettering, of retailing and pulling down of high prices, is traced to the doings of the same two lads who have stood by the business through good times and bad times.

It would be unbecoming for us to say this is true, especially when we think of the mistakes in business made by busy brains and human fingers. There are, however, three things which we wish to say to-day:—

FIRST—Business will be best administered and therefore greatest when it is pursued with earnestness and enthusiasm, and a close calculation which keeps it in constant touch with the demands of the masses.

SECOND—Back of the system and the large staff of employees are stalwart principles and a steadfast purpose to so apply them that the store shall be worthy of confidence from the ground upward.

THIRD—To the thousands of people who shop here year in and year out we tender our grateful thanks for their appreciation of our efforts. Our good wishes are extended to all—Friends and Customers and the Ladies who read our advertisements—a joyous New Year to all.

So shines upon us the memory of the increasing kindness, interest and favour of troops of the best of friends, upon each of whom we wish the New Year's sun may shine with double brightness.

I was spending one day in a Drug Store, a short time back fitting glasses, examining eyes and writing prescriptions, when a prominent business man Brown telephoned me, asking me to call at his store to fit him with a pair of glasses. He said he was fitted with a pair at that drug store and he did not like to come to see me there as the druggist imagined the glasses he got of him were perfection. He had gone so far as to tell his neighbours that he had fitted Mr. Brown with glasses. I answered that my outfit required a horse and carriage to move it and that he would have to see me in my private rooms in the rear of the drug store. My examination of the eye is always private in the rear rooms of the drug store, only one patient admitted at a time.

WEST HURON.

The Liberal Party Organizing for Victory.

POSITION OF THE TWO CANDIDATES

Mr. M. C. Cameron's Forces Well Organized—The Chequered Career of Mr. Weismiller, the Government Candidate—Every Prospect of a Liberal Victory.

Goderich, Jan. 3.—Steam has scarcely been got up in the West Huron election. The conditions of the contests have been somewhat unsettled and uncertain, which in a measure accounts for this, but the complications which were promised by a surplus of candidates are straightening themselves out, and now, with the fight narrowed down, as seems probable, to a straight issue between the two old parties, the fires of interest will be stirred up and the Liberal and Conservative forces will brace themselves for the final struggle. Nominations take place next Tuesday and polling a week later, so that the campaign has only ten days to run. Like Cardwell, it will be short and sharp.

The forces opposed to the Government are in good spirits and well organized. Mr. M. C. Cameron, the old war horse, as his friends admiringly call him, is a candidate whom every Liberal should be glad to supoprt. He carried the Liberal standard to victory in 1891, and is as strong to-day in the riding as he ever was. He is, moreover, a candidate whose political record entitles him to the vote of every advocate of honest, economical government and a second tariff policy, whether he be in or out of the Liberal party. With the field left to him and the Government candidate there is no doubt as to the result. That this will be done there is now strong probability. Four candidates have been nominated, but Mr. David Forrester of Clinton, who was nominated by the Patrons of Industry in the autumn of 1894, sent to the County Secretary of the order on the 11th November last his resignation. This may be accepted as evidnce that he will not contest the riding against so good an upholder of tariff reform as Mr. Cameron. The other independent candidate who has been nominated is Mr. Robert Newman of Toronto. He was nominated by the P.P.A., benig recommended to the P.P.A. of the riding by Rev. J. C. Madill, Past Grand President of the association. Mr. Newman is Past Grand Master of the Loyal True Blues of Canada. He held a meeting last night in Goderich and opened the campaign. His intentions are causing the Conservatives some uneasiness, but until the official nominations take place so one is able to conclude whether he will remain in the field or not. The Government candidate is Mr. D. Weismiller, who lives at Hensall, and was once a merchant in that village. Up to the year 1890 he was a supporter of the Liberal party. In that year he was taken with the equal rights movement. In the Dominion general elections the following year he ran as an independent candidate in South Huron and was beaten by Mr. John McMillan, M. P. He came out as a straight Conservative candidate with P.P.A. support in the provincial general elections in 1894, and was defeated by Mr. McLean, M.L.A.

INSURGENTS ARE STRONG.

Generals Gomez and Maceo, the Cuban Leaders, Have 23,000 Men.

Philadelphia, Jan. 3.—New light on the actual numerical strength of the insurgent army under direct command of Generals Gomez and Maceo, and concerning the great destruction of crops, was furnished upon the arrival here yesterday of the British steamship Aradaudhu, which sailed from Havana on December 29. This information is to the effect that these two generals alone had 23,000 men massed under them and that Havana was in a state of great confusion and excitement on the Aradaudhu's sailing day.

During the first part of the steamship's voyage along the Cuban coast fields of blazing corn and cane could be seen for a long distance. The scene of devastation extended all the way from Havana to Cardenas and millions of dollars' worth of property was soon reduced to ashes.

The business men of both Cardenas and Havana hope, according to reports brought by the Aradaudhu, for insurgent success and many believe it to be near at hand.

They say there is a financial panic impending in Havana owing to Spain's lack of both money and credit. The young military recruits, who have not been paid for months and have survived the yellow jack, openly curse the cause of Spain and threaten to revolt.

A large rebel force passed westward yesterday in view of Union. Two trains arrived here to-day from the latter place bringing reinforcements. Five hundred Spanish troops are now garrisoned at Palos Veija.

Matanzas reports say that it is estimated that two-thirds of the sugar crop in the province has been destroyed. The Havana paper, El Comercio, advises the stockmen in the provinces of Matanzas and Havana to drive their horses and cattle westward to save them from the hands of the rebels.

PREPARING FOR A CHANGE.

Sir A. P. Caron's Paper Talks Warmly to the French-Canadian Catholic Voters.

Montreal, Jan. 3.—The French press having spoken in no uncertain sound regarding the vote in Montreal Centre and Jacques Cartier, it would apepar that the French-Canadian Ministers are preparing the public for a justifiable change of base in the school question. Sir A. P. Caron's paper, La Minerve, has an inspired leader today, and in referring to the appointment of Sir William Hingston to a French senatorial vacancy says: "Was it the fault of the French-Canadian Ministers, whose influence has been so fatally lessened by the two recent elections? The Manitoba school question was the one around which the fight was waged, and have the French and Catholic electors the right to complain? The Government, a majority of which is Protestant, proposed to render complete justice to the French and Catholic minority of Manitoba, and yet French and Catholic electors voted against them. After this Sir Mackenzie Bowell may, without incurring too grave a reproach, consider that in the Province of Quebec the religious and national sentiment counts for little when the mean interests of a political party are at stake. Therefore if, as the Liberals allege, the fracticidal verdict of Montreal Centre and Jacques Cartier clearly indicates the opinion of the electorate of the province, the conclusion is easily drawn."

A GREAT SOCIETY EVENT.

Ottawa to Have a Fancy Dress Ball Which Will Eclipse All Previous Ones.

Ottawa, Jan. 4.—Arrangements are now well in hand for the carrying out of a fancy dress ball, planned by Their Excellencies for the first week in February. Their Excellencies' ideas are that this ball should be representative of the most striking periods in Canadian history. A number of leading ladies in Ottawa have undertaken to organize a series of dances, having this object in view. Each of these ladies will arrange a dance characteristic of a period chosen, in which ladies and gentlemen taking part will represent various historical personages. These have been arranged as far as the following are concerned:

1. First discovery of Canada by Norsemen, about the year 1000; Leif Ericson and others; Government House party.
2. Cabot and his Venetian friends starting on their voyage of discovery under the protection of Henry 7th; Mrs. Mackintosh.
3. Jacques Cartier leaving the Court of Francis I. on his way to Canada; Mrs. Daly.
4. The days of Champlain.
5. The early French and English settlements in Acadia, under De Monts, Champlain, Sir William Alexander and Charles De La Tour; Mrs. Dickey.
6. The days of Maisonneuve and the foundation of Montreal; Lady Caron.
7. New France in the days of the "Grand Monarque," under De Tracy, Frontenac and others; Mrs. Gwynne.
8. English Acadia in the days of Evangeline.
9. The days of Montcalm and Wolfe; Mrs. Peter White and Mrs. Bourinot.

The coming of the United Empire Loyalists, in the days of Gen. Murray, Gen. Haldimand and Gov. Simcoe; Mrs. R. W. Scott.

Ladies and gentlemen not taking part in any of the above mentioned dances are requested to select some character belonging to any of these periods.

Before the procession into supper it is intended that the various historical groups, each preceded by their distinctive standards, shall be presented in succession to the vice regal court of the present day.

With regard to the costumes, two firms from Montreal have undertaken to provide dresses for the gentlemen, on moderate terms, according to the style of the costume required, i.e., from $5 to $10 for one evening's hire. They will also provide designs and supply materials and trimmings for the ladies' dresses if desired, the ladies, however, undertaking to have them made up.

AT THE CAPITAL.

The Demand for the Premier's Resignation

COMES FROM ONTARIO MEMBERS

Proposed Time Clause in the School Legislation—The Trade and Navigation Report—Returns of Foreign Trade for the Last Year—Other Items.

Ottawa, Jan. 3.—"Premier Bowell has resigned," was the statement made this evening by two Ontario Conservative members of the House of Commons. They were very anxious to circulate the report, and under the existing panic among Ministerialists the intelligence was joyfully received. It was not true, however, Premier Bowell is not to be driven out by the rebellion among Ontario Conservatives. He did not take their advice as to his school policy and he is not asking their advice now. He is rather looking to Quebec for support. There he is said by the Conservative press to be a broadminded partiot. Sir Mackenzie has always been popular in Quebec, though recent events go to show that he could not overcome the unpopularity of his Quebec colleagues in the Ministry. The Quebec members are not calling for his resignation; the Ontario members of the party are. Though to-night's report is not believed to be true, there is a common conviction that unless something is done the Government will be defeated in the House on their coercion bill.

The latest suggestion is to insert a clause in the bill providing that it shall not go into effect for twelve months. This would be defended on the groond that if the people pronounced against the policy of coercion at the polls the bill might be repealed and is designed to let the Ontario Ministerialists down a little easier.

To be frank, most members of Parliament spoken to on the subject of a solution of the party difficulties discredit the idea that Sir Charles Tupper could become Premier. He is years older than Sir Mackenzie Bowell and very much less thought of in the country. His interference would kill his son's chances of promotion. His health forbids it. He has no seat in Parliament. These and other reasons are urged by Conservative members in private conversation. In addition to all this many members are heard to exclaim: "Why, it was young Tupper who got us into all this trouble ove rthe Remedial order."

The trade and navigation returns for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1895, have been printed by order or Parliament. The aggregate tradee for the year, on the basis of goods for consumption amounted to $218,891,000, as compared with $230,618,000 in 1894, a decrease of nearly $12,000,000. Total trade of all kinds amounted to $224,420,000, against $241,000,000 in 1894, a decrease of over $16,000,000. Compared with 1893 the decrease was $23,000,000.

Our aggregate trade with Great Britain was less in 1895 than in 1894 by $15,000,000, and with the United States more by over $5,000,000.

Our purchases from Great Britain were less than one-half what they were in 1894, and from the United States they were just the same figures as in 1874. Ourpurchases from Great Britain were less, and from the United States more, in 1895 than when the N.P. was victorious in 1878. In other words our high tariff hurt England and not the United States.

The fact that our aggregate trade with the United States increased by $7,000,000 in the face of a decline with nearly all other countries can only be attributed to the operation of the reduced tariff under the Wilson bill. While we bought a million and a half more from them than in 1894, they bought from us five and a half millions more. The average duty collected on British goods imported amounted to over 22 per cent., while the average duty collected on American goods was only 12 1-2 per cent.

Consumptives Should Neglect

No means of ameliorating their disease. Cod Liver Oil is acknowledged one of the most valuable remedies in pulmonary complaints. That, however it be employed in such a form as to be easily digested is imperative. It is just here that the entire superiority of Maltine with Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites asserts itself. Maltine itself possesses nutritive value equal to cod liver oil, but more important to the sufferer from bronchitis, colds, consumption, is the great digestive power of maltine upon all foods of a starchy nature. Maltine with Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites is, in brief, a food of great value in emaciation and wasting diseases; a medicine possessing the remedial power of cod liver oil; a digestive agency of active potency; a restorer of the debilitated. Try it for two weeks.

Pictures, etc.,

At A. Clegg's. A line of pictures very cheap, not much more than half the regular price, and the balance of his stock of window shades in plain, fringed, lace and insertion will be cleared out at cost. Our stock of general furniture is now complete and is one of the largest in Canada; prices lower than ever.—A. CLEGG 427 George street.

Everybody in King's Co.

Everybody in King's County, N. B., knows Mr. George S. Dryden, of Mitchell & Dryden, Sussex, N. B., He says: "Norway Pine Syrup is the best cough remedy I have ever used. My wife had a very bad cough that was most distressing for ten days. I tried the Norway Pine Syrup and one bottle cured her. I never found its equal.

Catarrh in the Head

Is a dangerous disease because it is liable to result in loss of hearing or smell, or develop into consumption. Read the following:

"My wife has been a sufferer from catarrh for the past four years and the disease had gone so far that her eyesight was affected so that for nearly a year she was unable to read for more than five minutes at a time. She suffered severe pains in the head and at times was almost distracted. About Christmas, she commenced taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and since that time has steadily improved. She has taken six bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla and is on the road to a complete cure. I cannot speak too highly of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I cheerfully recommend it." W. H. FORTNIGHTLY CLUB COLUMN.

No. XLV.

Thomas Carlyle.

The fourth of December last was the 100 anniversary of the birth of the greatest English writer of the 19th Century, Thomas Carlyle. On that day the famous house, No. 24 Cheyne-Row, Chelsea, which had been purchased by subscription, was handed over in trust (amongst the trustees is Mr. Bayard, the United States Ambassador) as a memorial of Thomas Carlye. On this occasion a speech was delivered by Mr. John Morley, so full of wisdom and wit, that we think some extracts will prove interesting to our readers. Very heartily do we sympathize with the writer of the article in the Times, in his regret that so perfect a master as Mr. Morley should desert the peaceful fields of literature, for the turbulent strife of politics. Referring to some characteristics of Carlyle as a man and as a writer, Mr. Morley says:

That Carlisle was not patient, that he thought ill of his age, that he considered many of his eminent contemporaries really poor creatures—we know all these things. But we have to take genius of Carlyle's kind as we find it, and we ought, in my humble judgment, to be very grateful when we get it. I do not think that on an occasion of this kind we ought to lay Carlyle on the dissecting table or take his works and analyze them and show how much cleverer we are than he was, and endeavour to find out all his faults. No, to use an admirable figure of a Greek philosopher, I will not lay hands on my father Parmenides. Our work to-day is of itself a work of praise. I daresay some of you remember that in the "Life of Sterling," Carlyle describes his first interview with Sterling. He says: "We talked about this thing and about that, except in opinion not disagreeing." If you will take the trouble to think over what those few short, pithy words mean, you will agree with me that they contain in themselves no unimportant part of doctrine, and it is a doctrine which I propose to practise in the case of Carlyle to-night, and not to treat a difference from him in opinion as any reason why we should not respect and admire and revere his general character. The precise dogmatic or sceptical opinions of a man all true judges of human life and human nature count for less than character and temperament. I am the last man to deny that opinion has a great deal to do with character, but a right opinion may be held in wrong fashion, and a wrong opinion may be held in such a way as to make it almost more valuable than a right one, and the practical value of an opinion depends in no small degree upon what sort of man holds it. He was, no doubt, to some extent, against human reason. He was, I am sorry to say, in the most vital historical case of his generation, against human freedom, and these, no doubt, are serious flaws. But do not let us over-estimate them.

PERSONAL REMINISCENCES.

It was my good fortune years ago to visit this illustrious man from time to time in his little house in Cheyne-row, and I see friends around me who I know shared that privilege, and I believe they will agree with me that no more courteous, kindly, heery, considerate and encouraging friend and counsellor could be desired for a young man of letters coming to London to try his literary fortune. (Cheers.) He railed, he cursed, he denounced many things which I then and still permit myself to value. He systematically denounced logic. He particularly reviled political economy, which in that day had not been banished to a remote planet. (A laugh.) He was very anxious always to warn you on no account to do two things—he often repeated it—on no account should one write poetry, and on no account aspire to any performance in the direction of what is called London wit. (Laughter.) Natural and constitutional limitations prevented me from error in either of those two directions. (Laughter.) In one sense Carlyle has been taken far too seriously. He himself constantly broke out with friends here who knew him in great fits of hoarse laughter when one of his own excessive extravagances of speech was pointed out to him, and he was always capable of being brought to reason—or rather to consider reasonably any proposition that was laid before him, although at first he was antagonistic to it.

He certainly was one of the most good-natured men in a thousand ways that one could know. I chanced to have said in print that it took him thirty minutes in which to compress his gospel of silence. I was rather nervous the next time I saw him. (Laughter.) So far from being angry, I think he rather enjoyed the jest. But my recollection of him in those days is also, I must add, the same impression which I suppose most of us have got from his books—that there was more inspiration than direction about Carlyle.

CARLYLE AS A TRUTH SEEKER.

For a clear, steady view of things, for the patient handling of complex problems you look to this volcanic man in vain. In those days the earnest pilgrim went away from Chelsea down to Blackheath, where he found Mill, diligent, patient, magnanimous, loving truth and ever seeking it, but, knowing what Carlyle hardly knew, that truth is not always easy to find. (Hear, hear.) I think it was Pascal who used the expression, Cherchez en gemissant—seek truth with many sighs. Carlyle sought it. He seized truth by the head and sought it with objurgations and imprecations. But he was not really impenitent. He knew, I repeat, when he was extravagant, and, as I have said already, in the most historical event of his time in many aspects—I mean the war of American emancipation—he took what some of us think the wrong side, and he was uniformly unfavourable to America and American institutions, as his correspondence with Emerson sufficiently shows.

WILL CARLYLE'S WORK ENDURE?

All the most interesting questions are incapable of answer, and that is true of the interesting question whether the chief works of Carlyle, as it has been put by a distinguished critic, belong to that class of works which attain an enduring and increasing power, or to that other class which effect great things for one or two generations and then become practically obsolete? There are in Carlyle's writings so many powerful things, so many manly and invigorating things, so many powerful and tender things of which you may say, as he himself says in the passage from Francesca in the "Divine Comedy," they are "woven of rainbows on a ground of eternal black"—all these things, I say, are scattered with so profound and untiring a hand through his writings, that we may trust them to attract readers for a long time to come in spite of the perishable nature of much of the material in which these are imbedded. (Cheers.) I should doubt whether everybody was as veracious as Carlyle implored us all to be; I should doubt whether anybody now living has read through the whole of Carlyle's "Frederick the Great." (Laughter.) But if people ever cease to turn it over, if they ever cease to regard it as a living book worthy of admiration, they will lose some of the most graphic pictures of men and women, some of the most exquisite comedy, some of the finest satire, and some of the most vivid and powerful battle pieces that are to be found among the productions of any literary genius of any age. (Cheers.)

When we go to the social pieces, "Chartism" and "Latter Day Pamphlets," and so forth, I think it is much more doubtful. They are certainly full of a true social spirit, they breathe a burning indignation against social drones and shams. As has been truly said, Carlyle had a deep sympathp with the suffering, though he had a perfect scorn for fools; but these pamphlets, I think, betray in every page of them a writer who has never come to close quarters with the immensely difficult and complex questions which he had undertaken to handle and on which he undertook to give his generation light.

YOUNG'S POINT.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Although the weather was very disagreeable last Monday evening the entertainment and Xmas tree, which was held in Herd's Hall, under the auspices of the church of England proved a perfect success. The hall was well filled, there being a large attendance from Lakefield, Peterborough, Selwyn, Warsaw and Smith. Mr. Taylor, Buckhorn, and Rev. Mr. Lord, Apsley, assisted the Rev. Mr. Jupp and Rev. Mr. Hartley during the evening in distributing the numerous presents for the children. The programme, which was very interesting, consisted of:

Overture ..... Lakefield Orchestra
Recitation, "Face Upon the Floor" ..... Miss Lottie Kearney
Song ..... Miss B. Phelan
Song ..... Miss Strickland
Trio, by three little girls, Eva Hockerty, Laura Gordon, Lizzie Hatten
Song (comic) ..... Mr Benson
Song ..... Miss LeFevre
Song ..... Miss L McFarlane
Dialogue, "Joiners" ..... Capt Scollard and Miss Nellie Young
Reading ..... Mrs W Graham
Chorus ..... by the Band of Hope

INTERMISSION.

Waltz, "Parting Whisper" ..... Orchestra
Song ..... Miss L Godfry
Recitation, "Curfew" ..... Miss Louise Kearney
Song ..... Miss Josey Phelan
Song (comic) ..... Mr Benson
Song ..... Miss Strickland
Quartette ..... Misses E Scollard, M Kearney, B Phelan and Mr F Fanning
Song ..... Miss B Phelan
Song ..... Miss L McFarlane
Duet ..... Mr W Graham and Mr Benson
Song (comic) ..... Mr Benson
Song ..... Miss J Phelan
March ..... Orchestra

Rev. Mr. Hartley, with a well-rendered address, moved a vote of thanks for such a large attendance, and especially thanked the ladies and gentlemen who so kindly contributed to make it such a pleasing entertainment, after which all joined in with the beautiful strains from the orchestra of "God Save the Queen."

Mr. F. McPherson, of Peterborough, is visiting friends here.

Mr. A. Smith, of Roseneath, is paying a short visit to friends and renewing old acquaintances.

Misses B. and Josephine Phelan, Lakefield, are the guests of their sister, Mrs. J. E. Kearney.

Mr Geo. Cochrane, License Inspector, Peterborough, was in our village last week.

Mr. F. McMavoy and D. Callaghan were in the village this week seeing after the interests of the Rathbun Co.

Miss E. Scollard is visiting friends in Selwyn.

Quite a number from Peterborough and Lakefield visited our village on New Year's day.

Mr. R. Herd had a shooting match on New Year's day, after which a ball was given in the hall.

Some of our citizens got an early rouse from the effects of the dynamite explosion on Wednesday morning. Some of the residents got quite a shaking up.

The violent wind of the past three days knocked down a considerable number of fences and trees around our village, but no great damage was done.

A number of our young ladies and gentlemen assembled at the residence of Miss Maggie Kearney of the Lakeview on New Year's Eve to see the old year out and the new year in. They were cordially welcomed, and indulged in games and euchre until midnight. Wine and refreshments were served, and after a couple of hours dancing the happy crowd dispersed singing "Should old Acquaintance be Forgot" after an evening of thorough enjoyment.

CHASE WITH A BABY.

A Woman Made to Accept Her Offspring After Leaving it on a Doorstep—Other Hamilton Items.

Hamilton, Jan. 3.—Thomas Levi, 121 John-street south, last night caught a woman leaving her infant at his doorstep. When the baby cried Mr. Levi ran out, and seeing the mother running south, pursued her with the baby in his arms as far as the mountain, where, out of breath, she stopped, and was forced to take the little one from the man's arms. She said she was going on an errand and intended to return.

To-morrow the Reformers of South Wentworth will hold a convention in the city for the choosing of a candidate to contest the constituency, which will be vacant when Nicholas Awrey, M.L.A., is appointed County Registrar. It is said that John Dickenson, of Glanford, will get the nomination.

The T., H. & B. Co. finished its case in the T., H. & B. arbitration to-day. J. B. Nelligan and C. J. Myles were witnesses for the company, the former valuing the property at $5500 and the latter at $6000. The property in question is that upon which the station is situated, and the award will likely be made on Jan. 5.

Mrs. Elizabeth Jardine, in her 65th year, died this morning, at Clifton Cottage, on the mountain top.

Inspector John Brick collected $5826.80—for dog, billiard and butcher licenses last year.

Corporal Gardner and Pte. C. Curran of B Co., 13th, left to-day to take a three months' course at C School.

Sometimes the most careful women are the most careless. Many a woman bundles herself up, to keep out sickness—when she is neglecting the very worst sickness that can come to a woman. She allows a slight disorder to become worse, to slowly sap her vitality. The little pain and the other slight indications of trouble seem to her unimportant. She goes on with increasing suffering, until life itself becomes a drag. Nervousness, "sinking spells," digestive disturbances, and fifty other complications may arise from the derangement of the organs distinctly feminine. Over thirty years ago, the need for a reliable remedy for so-called "female complaints" was recognised by Dr. R. V. Pierce, then, as now, chief consulting physician to the to the World's Dispensary and Invalid's Hotel, at Buffalo, N. Y. He prepared Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, the most wonderfully effective remedy that has ever been used for such maladies.

Send 31 cents in one-cent stamps and receive Dr. Pierce's 1008 page "Common Sense Medical Adviser," illustrated.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

She Ought to Know.

Having used Burdock Blood Bitters for 15 years I cannot keep from recommending it to others. I have sold hundreds of bottles from my store, and as I keep other medicines I ought to know which sells best. It is a wonderful medicine.

NOTE THE ADDRESS

408 George St.

THE TRANSVAAL.

Rumor That Dr. Jameson Has Been Shot.

GREAT BRITAIN AND GERMANY.

Emperor William's Message to President Kruger Causes Offence—London Standard and Times Comment Vigorously—Government Control of the Telegraph Wires.

London, Jan. 3.—J. B. Robinson, the richest of the South African millionaires, the largest employer of labor in the Rands, and half owner of the yacht Valkyrie III., declares in an interview that Dr. Jameson's movement was wholly a British South Africa Company's invasion of the Transvaal.

The Birmingham Post, the organ of Mr. Chamberlain, says that despite the tardy disavowal of Dr. Jameson's action by the British South Africa Company, it may still be necessary that the company shall forfeit its charter.

France Rejoices.

Paris, Jan. 3.—The Paris press are jubilant over the defeat of Dr. Jameson and his followers by the Boers, near Johannesburg.

The Figaro, under the caption, "Will Cecil Rhodes remain Premier of the Cape Colony?" says: "How President Kruger must laugh at the result, and how abundantly justified he is in doing so."

The Gaulois says: "The Boers merit the public esteem which their grand victory has gained for them by showing that they are as wise and liberal in their triumph as they are energetic in the hour of danger."

Black Watch on the Watch.

London, Jan. 3.—A despatch is reported to hav been received by a commercial firm in London, stating that Dr. Jameson will be tried by a Boer court-martial, and his followers who are now prisoners, released.

The Scotch Black Watch Regiment which it now at Mafeking, in Bechuanaland, will stop the advance of the British South Africa Co.'s men from Buluwayo, and, if they insist upon advancing, they will be fired upon by the British troops.

The Kaiser Sends Congratulations.

Berlin, Jan. 3.—The Emperor has sent the following despatch to Paul Kruger, president of the South African Republic:

"I express my sincere congratulations that, supported by your people and without appealing for help to friendly powers, you have succeeded by your own energetic action against the armed bands which invaded your country as disturbers of the peace and have thus been enabled to restore peace and safeguard the independence of your country against attacks from outside."

Calls have been issued in Hamburg Cologne and Berlin for mass meetings to be held on Monday, to express public sympathy with the Boers, and similar meetings are being organized in other places.

Kruger Asks German Support.

London, Jan. 3.—The Globe publishes a despatch from Berlin which says that Dr. Leyd, Secretary of State of the South African Republic, who is now in Berlin, has communicated to the Emperor a direct appeal from President Kruger asking the support of Germany.

It is rumored, the despatch says, that the united action of France and Germany in the Transvaal is projected.

German Soldiers at Delagoa Bay.

London, Jan. 3.—Sir Ellis Ashmead Bartlett, M.P., announces that he has received information that German sailors have landed at Delagoa Bay.

STARTLING RUMORS.

One is That Jameson Has Been Shot—Another That Uitlanders Have Burned Johannesburg.

London, Jan. 3.—The fact that the telegraph wires in South Africa have been devoted to Government work since the troubles in the Transvaal occurred, and the fact that no private cablegrams have been received from South Africa for four days, have led to all kinds of rumors being put in circulation regarding the situation in the South African republic and the fate of the British invaders of that country. One of these reports has it that Dr. Jameson has been shot by his captors, and another is that the Uitlanders in Johannesburg have risen against the Boer Government and given the city over to flames. What truth there is in these stories it is impossible now to ascertain, owing to Government monopoly of the telegraph lines, but it is judged that most if not all of the reports are based upon the fears engendered by the uncertainty regarding the fate that the Boers may have meted out to the ill-advised and foolhardy Englishman who attempted to compel the Boers to grant concessions by force of arms.

It may be, however, that the report of the shooting of Dr. Jameson is true. If he has been tried by court martial and convicted, there is scarcely a doubt that execution would promptly follow the passing of sentence.

At 8.50 o'clock this evening a representative of the United Press called at the Foreign Office to confirm, if possible, the report of the shooting of Dr. Jameson. He was informed by officials there that they have received no information further than had already been made public. No news had been received from the Transvaal since last night.

Mr. Chamberlain was at the office waiting for despatches. He had had frequent conferences with the War Office and Admiralty officials, but no special instructions bearing on the situation have yet been issued to the naval or military authorities.

German Warship Under Orders.

London, Jan. 3.—The Daily News will to-morrow publish a despatch from Berlin saying that the German cruiser Condor has been ordered to proceed to Delagoa Bay, East Africa. The cruiser Sea Adler is already at Lorenzo Marquese.

A Violation of Treaty.

Berlin, Jan. 3.—The Frankfort Zeitung says that the Transvaal regards the invasion as a violation of the treaty entered into with Great Britain in 1884, and that the Transvaal therefore repudiates that convention, thus regaining her right to enter upon international relations on her own account.

The semi-official North German Gazette invokes public opinion in Germany in favor of European intervention in the Transvaal trouble.

Subscriptions are being raised in Germany in behalf of the Boers, wounded in the engagement with Dr. Jameson's force at Krugersdorp. The sum of 100,000 marks has already been collected.

London Press Opinions.

London, Jan. 3.—The Daily News will to-morrow say that it sees nothing hostile to Great Britain in the words of Emperor William addressed to the President of the South African Republic. It adds that they are not agreeable reading for Englishmen, but they will impress some minds sorely needing such impression that the encouragement of filibusters is playing with edged tools.

The Post draws the deduction from Emperor William's telegram that His Majesty considers a war with Great Britain within the limits of possibility and that he has settled the preliminaries with a view thereto. The Post advises Great Britain to concentrate a view thereto. The Post advises Great Britain to concentrate a fleet by recalling the Mediterranean squadron now in the Levant to join the channel squadron.

The Standard Speaks Hotly.

London, Jan. 3.—The Standard will to-morrow say that Emperor William's message is a strikingly unfriendly act. It raises the presumption that he wished to either challenge or destroy British suzerainty in the Transvaal. Germany, it adds, has no more locus standi in the Transvaal than Great Britain has in Havana. Great Britain cannot and will not tolerate the slightest interference between the Transvaal and herself. The paper dilates upon Grman hostility to Great Britain everywhere and avows the latter's desire for friendship. It then issues a warning, saying: "If Germany insists upon trespassing upon our rights we are well able to defend them. eW are a peaceable people, but if others will not permit us to remain in peace we are capable of accepting the unwelcome ordeal with composure."

Thunderer Also Emphatic.

The Times will say: The Emperor's message is of very grave import. All the available evidence shows that he intended to give unqualified recognition to the Transvaal as an independent state."

The paper asks whether it is really true, as it appears, that Germany has gladly seized the opportunity of humiliating England, or to win cheap applause for any easy bit of diplomatic chauvinism, and adds, "She may rest assured that no demonstration of this kind will induce Great Britain to depart from a position which she has deliberately assumed, and which she is convinced it is her good right to maintain."

CANADA'S DEFENCES.

Col. Lake Going to the Old Country to Purchase Both Big and Little Guns —Col. Powell to Retire.

Ottawa, Jan. 2.—The Government has already decided upon a line of action regarding the strengthening of Canadian defences and better arming the militia force. Col. Lake, Quartermaster-General, leaves for England tomorrow to confer with the Imperial authorities on the subject and to purchase a number of guns, it being the intention of the Government to increase all the field batteries by two guns each, making six in all. It is said that a further supply of Lee-Metfords is to be procured. Col. Lake is a Canadian by birth, but has a splendid record in the Imeprial service. He was for many years one of Lord Wolseley's confidential men, and the present Commander in Chief will certainly render all the aid he can to the Dominion to strengthen her defences.

The volunteers of Canada will learn with regret that the "father of the force," Col. Powell, the veteran Adjutant-General, has decided to withdraw from active service. He has asked permission to retire on superannuation allowance, and the request will shortly be granted. He will probably be succeeded by Col. the Hon. M. Aylmer, present Assistant Adjutant-General, who in turn will likely be succeeded by Major Bliss of the Ottawa Field Battery as Deputy Adjutant-General.

A TERRIBLE VERDICT.

A Man Plainly Told That He Would Never Walk Out Again.

SO THE DOCTORS SAID.

He is Saved and Cured by Paine's Celery Compound.

The Only Reliable Cure for Kidney Diseases.

When Mr. H. Ball, the well known auctioneer, of Chatham, Ont., was told by his physicians that he would never walk again it simply amounted to to telling him that his days on earth were short. Kidney disease was doing its deadly work; physicians and medicines had failed, and the last ray of hope had almost fled forever. Mr. Ball, having heard wondrous reports about the medicinal virtues of Paine's Celery Compound, wisely decided to give the great medicine a trial. He was not disappointed; health and strength returned, weight increased, and to-day he is a new man. He tells of his wonderful escape from death as follows:—

"I was so seriously ill I was obliged to take to my bed, where I laid for four months. The doctors here and in Toronto said my trouble was Addison's disease of the kidneys, and told me I would never walk again. I commenced to use Paine's Celery Compound. After having used a number of bottles I was enabled to attend to business, and felt like a new man. Before using the Compound I was very much reduced in flesh; to-day I weigh over 200 pounds. I can affirm with confidence and honesty that Paine's Celery Compound saved my life."

The Saturday Market.

On account of the extreme cold, the market to-day was a large one, though butter was very plentiful, only bringing from 15 to 16c in consequence of the glut. Chickens were high at from 35 to 50c per pair, and geese also brought a good price, 50 and 75c being paid for them; turkeys brought 75c and $1; eggs sold at 20c; apples brought from 75c to $1 a bag.

A Wedding on Christmas.

Mr. Alfred Spencer, plumber for the Peterborough Freehold Co., was married on Christmas Day to Miss Alice McKay, daughter of Mr. Andrew McKay, Davenport Road, Toronto. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's father. The presents were numerous and costly. Mr. and Mrs. Spencer have taken up their residence in the new Bank of Commerce building on Water street. Their many friends wish them much joy and happiness.

The Weather.

The following forecast of the weather for the month of January is from Smith's Planetary Almanac for 1896:—"A stormy month. Some wild stormy days, and severe cold "dips," with a mild, rainy, sleety period. Opening with fair weather, there will be a stormy spell in each week of the month, moderating to clear, cold, bracing weather. The feature of this month will be its blustery, unsettled state, with mean temperature above the average, the closing days stormy and cold.

A Handsome Christmas Gift.

The Toronto Globe says: Mr. Geo. A. Cox has communicated with Mr. H. A. Massey, Chairman of the Consumptive Sanitarium Committee, expressing his hearty sympathy with and approval of the scheme, and to give a practical evidence of this has expressed a wish to provide at his own expense a cottage for a number of patients. As three more cottages in addition to the administration building will be required the committee hope that other public-spirited citizens will follow the example so generously set by Mr. Cox.

Lost his ear Fighting.

Two neighbors from the vecinity of Burnley, went to Roseneath the day before Christmas, to make their usual purchases for the Xmas festival. It seems hard feelings had been existing for some time, and thus a joke passed by an acquaintance occasioned a collision ending in the loss of an ear. A rumor was circulated that it was bitten off, but latter reports go to say, it was torn off by the fence in the tussle. The appendage was sewed up and is said to be doing well and likely to grow up again. Both men are well to do and much thought of in their community.—Hastings Star.

CONCERT AT ST. JOHN'S SOUTH WARD MISSION.

A Programme of Universal Excellence Presented Last Evening.

The monthly concert held at the South Ward Mission last evening proved to be a very great success, under the direction of Mrs. D. Lundy, assisted by Miss Ada Fraser. A number of most beautiful tableaux were shown during the evening and the entire programme was presented in a highly commendable manner.

The Misses English opened with a brilliant piano duet, after which the first tableau, called "The Dancing Master" was presented. Mr. Geo. S. Ames was a capital master of "ye olde school," with his violin, and Miss Pearl Lundy, always charming and piquante, posed most gracefully as the pupil. Two Irish housemaids, watching the progress of the lesson, were Misses Sybil Stethem and Katie Green. The tableau was so exact in all its details and the parts so admirably taken that a burst of applause greeted its presentation, and the effect produced by the burning of coloured lights was indescribably pretty. Mr. J. J. Turner sang several humourous selections during the evening, which were well received.

Another very pretty tableau consisted in a scene from Tokio, where the twelve young ladies in Japanese costume were arranged in an interesting group. The coloured lights being again used the effect was greatly increased. Those taking part were Misses Pearl Lundy, Sybil Stethem, Alice Barlow, Katie Green, Ethel White, Dovie Bell, Eva Bullen, Mary Rush, Lillian Rush, Mary Sawers, Mabel Rickey and Claude Free.

Little Aggie Patterson recited several times during the evening, and by the excellence of her selections and her very cute manner of rendering them earned encores on each appearance.

As the principal figure in the tableau, "Rock of Ages," Miss Cloud Fee was a distinct success, the scene proving one of the prettiest of the evening.

Mrs. Seward's two vocal solos were very much appreciated, being sung in her well-known sweet soprano voice, which she has under such admirable control. Her selections were entitled, respectively, "Blue Feathers" and "Pretty Primroses."

Another interesting tableau consisted of Misses Pearl Lundy and Mary and Lillie Rush posing as "The Three Little Maids from School."

The fan drill was most skilfully executed and reflected very great credit upon the participants, as well as upon Mr. G. S. Ames, who trained them. A hundred difficult manœuvre, in the way of marching and countermarching, were executed with a precision wonderful to witness and the artistic way in which the fans were flourished increased the interest which was manifested in the drill. The young ladies taking part were the same as those who participated in the Japanese tableau.

A jack in the box fish pond was operated by Master Jim Lundy and Master Willie Bullen, and during the evening Master Jack Fraser and Master Herb Mowry, attired as gentlemen of colour, were very assiduous in their duties of showing the guests to their seats and in drawing the curtain.

The South Ward Mission concerts are always very deservedly accorded a large patronage as the excellence of the entertainments given are becoming well known.

THE MAYORALTY CONTEST.

Busy Scenes in the Interest of Mr. Cahill at the Committee Rooms.

A large and enthusiastic meeting of the supporters of Mr. Cahill assembled in his committee room last night. Addresses were given by Messrs. Moore, Dennistoun and Kendry. Mr. Kendry expressed his regret that his absence from town had prevented him from being present at the meeting of electors on Monday, when he would have been pleased to have nominated Mr. Cahill. He was called to New York on important business, and was unavoidably absent. He was here now, however, and he would do all in his power to secure Mr. Cahill's election. He thought that Mr. Cahill's long and valued services to the town in the council, pointed him out as a worthy and deserving candidate for the Mayoralty. The honour of occupying the Mayor's chair was one that Mr. Cahill richly deserved and from the fact that he only wanted it for one year as a preliminary to his retirement from municipal life, he (Mr. Kendry) thought it would be a grateful, as well as a graceful, act for the electors to place him in the position. Messrs. Moore and Dennistoun urged those present to active and energetic work on Mr. Cahill's behalf and felt that united action on Monday would result in Mr. Cahill being elected to the Mayor's chair for 1896.

THE MAYORALTY CONTEST.

To the Editor of the Examiner :

DEAR SIR,—Of course everybody knows that the elections take place on Monday and that one of the most important matters that will engage the attention of the electors will be the selection of a mayor.

As one who has watched with keen interest the management of our municipal affairs for many years, I feel strongly that on the score of past efficient services, as well as on the score of intimate and intelligent knowledge of all important civic questions, Mr. Cahill's claims are paramount. I feel that it would be a misfortune, if at the present time, his services are not secured in the capacity of mayor. There are practical questions, of supreme moment to the town, that must be grappled with and disposed of, and I know of no man in the town to-day who is better, or as well, qualified to handle them with advantage to the interests of the citizens. While Mr. Cahill's fitness is conceded on all sides, I regret to see that a narrow-minded view of the situation is being taken by some persons. These persons, laying aside all considerations of real qualification, see fit to oppose Mr. Cahill's candidature on account of his religion. I hold that it would be a misfortune to deprive the town of the services of an efficient Mayor, simply because his religious views are not the same as those of his opponents. It is particularly unfortunate that a question which should have no place in municipal politics, especially, should be brought into prominence, at a time when it will becloud the minds of the electors and make them, so far, unfit to select a Mayor for the town on his merits, besides tending to mar the spirit of harmony that has hitherto prevailed and should prevail between two sections of the community, whose material interests are common and cannot be separated.

I trust that such a feeling as that referred to will not be allowed to prevail. It is unfair to a citizen who has done so much for the town. How can we expect well qualified citizens to give their services to the town if, after nearly a quarter of a century of such services, when the performer of them wishes to retire, a public recognition of them is withheld on the ground that conscientiously held religious convictions are, in this land of free speech and liberty of thought, to be a bar to a citizen who is capable and willing to serve the town in a most important capacity?

Therefore I hope that the electors will be fair-minded enough to decide the mayoralty question on its merits and not to permit a narrow spirit, entirely out of sympathy with our free institutions, to influence them in dealing with Mr. Cahill's acknowledged large claims to the mayoralty for 1896.

Yours very truly,
RATEPAYER.

THE GEORGE STREET SOCIAL.

Another Pleasant Evening Spent in the Church—An Excellent Programme.

Another social was held last evening in the George Street Methodist Church, being in reality a continuation of the one held New Year's night. Rev. W. R. Young, B. A., the pastor, occupied the chair and made a short address, after which Mr. Will Bradburn rendered one of his popular instrumental selections. Rev. Mr. Cragg made a few brief remarks appropriate to occasion. Mr. James Brown, of the quality of whose excellent voice the public is aware, sang several selections, and Mrs. Goldsmith delighted those present by contributing a recitation to the programme. Refreshments were served during the evening, and the social passed off most successfully, and is added to the long list of pleasant evenings spent in the church.

TO THE ELECTORS :—

Having been nominated as a candidate for Councillor, and having been urged by numerous ratepayers to accept the nomination, I have consented to do so and hereby respectfully solicit your votes and influence.

My health will not admit of my making a personal canvas but I trust that my friends will appear in my interest at the polls on Monday.

If elected I promise to the best of my ability to faithfully discharge the duties of the position.

WARD NO. 1.

TO THE ELECTORS :—

At the request of a number of the ratepayers of the ward I have consented to be a candidate for the Council.

The ward being a large one it will be impossible to make a personal canvas. I therefore take this means of soliciting your votes, and if elected will do my utmost to advance the best interests of the Town.

Yours Very Respectfully,
R. SHEEHY.

Foaming Ivorine Whitens the Teeth.

Dentists are delighted at the admirable qualities of Ivorine, the new preparation for the teeth. Commendations from the Dental profession carry the assurance that fragrant Ivorine is free from the admixture of enamel destroying substances, often the most marked characteristic of tooth powders, and that is the most efficient cleanser yet discovered. Ivorine cleanses from discoloration and whitens, hardens the gums, and imparts to the breath a delightful fragrance.

CURLING.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the two curling clubs yesterday it was decided that the first game of the Lindsay-Peterborough Challenge Cup be played on Thursday, January 9th. Three Thistle rinks will play in Lindsay and three Granite rinks in Peterborough.

It was also decided that the Kendry Cup series should be played off in one match, club against club, on account of the increased membership, rendering single rink competition almost impossible. The games will begin on Monday of next week and two games will be played each day, one in the afternoon and one in the evening.

A meeting of the Granite skips will be held this evening in the rink parlours, when the skips playing in the Lindsay-Peterborough match will be selected, and the Thistles, meet on Monday night for a similar purpose.

The curlers are so enthusiastic over the fact that there is ice in the rink again that the skips will surely have to play five or six men a side to-night.

Following is the draw in the Kendry Cup contest. To play in the

The Lindsay Post says:—At a meeting of the skips of the club, held last evening, the following skips were chosen to play against Peterborough for the Peterborough-Lindsay cup, viz.: Messrs. J. D. Flavelle, W. McLennan, G. H. Little, J. McMillan, W. Needler and T. Brodie. It is expected that the first game in this competition will be played next week. Three rinks will play in Peterborough and three in Lindsay.

A CURLER'S WAR SONG.

Respectfully dedicated to the President and members of the Victoria Curling Club Hamilton, by A. H. Wingfield:

We're brithers a' and ga'hered roun'
The shinin' tee since mair.
To play for beef an' greens, an' help
To drive awa' dull care.
Then tak yer brooms an' play yer stanes
Wi' muckle mirth an' glee;
But O, because ye play them stranght
An' curl to the tee.

CHORUS.

Curl to the tee, my boys,
Curl to the tee;
The channel stane is Scotia's game,
Then curl to the tee.

The skips are anxious, ane an' a',
Now that the game's begun,
They're rianin' o'er wi' canny jokes
And fu' o' mirth an' fun
Now, Robin lad, I ken ye well,
A grosset I will gie
If ye're the first the day to lay
A pat-lid on the tee.

O, Robin, ye're a jewel, lad,
That stane was weel laid doon—
If e'er ye get to heaven, Rob,
Ye're worthy o' a croon.

Noo, Tam, my lad, ye see my broom;
Just lay your stane doon here—
Be sure ye draw a canny shot,
The ice is keen and clear.
Ah! moo, ye're draft! Ye're ragin' wild!
Ye surely canna see!
Ye're o'er the hills an' far away—
Three yards ayont the tee!

Then curl to the tee, my boys,
Aye, curl to the tee;
We canna hope to win unless
Ye curl to the tee.

"Noo, Jock, ye're playin' weel the day;
Ye ken I trust to you;
They're lyin' shot, but let us see
The best that ye can do.
Just ask an in-wick aff this stane,"
Cries oot bold Skip McPhie—
"That shot was worth a mint o' gowd,
For now we're lyin' three."

Then curl to the tee, my boys,
Aye, curl to the tee;
In Hamilton the rule's, ye ken,
To curl to the tee.

The game is done, the victory's won;
Victoria's to the fore;
But let us a' shake hands around,
As in the days of yore.
Our Friens, tho' they're beaten noo,
Hae little cause to murn;
The losers o' the game to-day
May winners be the morn.
But let us a' sit doon again
An' scop dull care awa',
We're a' John Tamson's bairns, ye ken,
An' brithers ane an' a'.

McWILLIAMS
Pump and Windmill Factory,
DICKSON'S RACE.

I take great pleasure in announcing to the people of Peterborough and surrounding country that I have bought out the entire Plant, Patterns, Machinery and Agencies of the above well-known Factory on Dickson's Race.

I have also made arrangements to continue the lease and to carry on the manufacture of Iron and Wooden Force and Lift Pumps, Cisterns, Steel Windmills, Tanks, Fanning Mills, Hand Seeders, Churns, Washing Machines and every other line formerly manufactured in the above premises.

I have also removed the temporary Pump Shop which I opened on Charlotte street a short time ago—and will now be found at my Factory on Dickson's Race.

With the long, practical experience I have had in this business, and with the splendid facilities which I now have for turning out good work, I am confident that I will be able to guarantee perfect satisfaction to all who may favour me with their orders.

J. R. STRATTON,
Examiner Office

A woman never really knows the meaning of happiness and content until she is the mother of a healthy, happy child. She never reaches the full degree of womanly development until she has felt the pleasing responsibilities of maternity. All this happiness may be marred or may be turned into misery if the child is not a healthy child. The health of the child depends on the health of the mother, both before and after birth. Heredity is strong, and it is every woman's duty to give her children the best possible chance in life. Nothing that she could possibly give them can be as valuable as health. Wealth cannot be enjoyed without health. Nothing can be enjoyed without health. Health is life. People who are not healthy are only half alive. The child who starts out with a robust body and vigorous, virile health, has everything to be thankful for and nothing to be afraid of. You cannot expect such a child to spring from a weak and sickly mother. Most all of woman's weakness and particularly the weakness that most strongly influences the health of children, comes from some derangement or disease of the distinctly feminine organs. All such trouble is as unnecessary as it is terribly distressing. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will cure all troubles of this nature. There is no guess-work about this statement, and there is no qualification. The "Favorite Prescription" should be used promptly and persistently until the symptoms entirely disappear. In every case, it restores perfect health and strength and assists in the healthful and regular performances of all the natural functions. The "Favorite Prescription" should be taken regularly by every woman during the entire period of gestation. It gives strength to all the organs involved, lessens the pains and danger of childbirth and insures the health of both mother and child.

A WONDROUS CHANGE.

THE STORY OF A YOUNG LADY IN SMITH'S FALLS.

Her Health Was Badly Shattered—Suffered from a Bad Cough and Constant Pain in the Side—Pale and Almost Bloodless—Her Health Again Restored.

From the Smith's Falls Record.

"I know that if I had not begun taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I would not have lived much longer." These words were uttered by Miss Mossop, daughter of Mr. Johnston Mossop, of this town, and a young lady extremely popular among her friends and acquaintances. Miss Mossop had been ailing for several years, and her recovery to health is a matter of general rejoicing among her friends. To a reporter she gave her story as follows: "I scarcely know how my illness began. The first symptom was a feeling of tiredness upon the slightest exertion. The colour left my face and I became as pale as a corpse. Then I was attacked with a pain in my left side and coughed a great deal. At first home remedies were tried, but as they did not do any good a doctor was called in, and I was under his care

Could not Go up Stairs Without Resting

for about a year. But the treatment did not do me any good, and I was steadily growing weaker and weaker. I was unable to go upstairs without having to sit down and rest when I got there, and the pain in my side became more and more intense. I kept wasting away and lost all interest in life, and at last was so low that recovery was not expected. At this juncture my mother saw an article in a newspaper relating the cure of a young lady whose case was almost identical with my own, and whose cure was due to Dr. William's Pink Pills, and this prompted a trial of that medicine. By the time a couple of boxes were used there was a feeling of improvement and I continued using the Pink Pills until I had taken nine boxes, all the time gaining rapidly, until now I feel that I have recovered my old time health. I can now walk a long distance without being tired, and I am no longer troubled with that terrible pain in my side. My appetite has returned, and I can eat almost as much as any member of the family, and I know that had I not begun taking Pink Pills I would not have lived much longer."

Mrs. Mossop says she cannot express the gratitude she feels towards this grand medicine which has restored her loved daughter's health, and will always speak of it in terms of praise.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are especially valuable to women. They build up the blood, restore the nerves and eradicate those troubles which make the lives of so many women, old and young, a burden. Dizziness, palpitation of the heart, nervous headache and nervous prostration speedily yield to this wonderful medicine. They are sold only in boxes, the trade mark and wrapper printed in red ink, at 50c a box or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of druggists, or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

NEWFOUNDLAND AND CANADA.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell and Sir William Whiteway Discuss Union—Ottawa Notes

Ottawa, Jan. 3.—Sir William Whiteway, Premier of Newfoundland, had a conference with Sir Mackenzie Bowell to-day, when a number of matters of interest to two countries were discussed. Among them were smuggling between Canada and Newfoundland and recent seizures of Newfoundland fishing vessels off the Labrador coast. Incidentally the question of Federation cropped up. Both Premiers are ardent advocates of a union of the two countries; the only matters on which at present the two Governments cannot come together being the financial conditions of union. Last year Canada offered better terms than have been accorded to any other province, but there was still a question of $5,000,000 at issue. It is hoped that as a result of to-day's conference formal negotiations looking to union of the two countries shortly will be resumed.

Ministers of Justice to-day issued instructions for the transfer of Valentine Shortis, the Valleyfield murdrer, to St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary. It was thought that Kingston might be his destination, but the other institution has been decided upon.

The Deparment of Trade and Commerce has received a cablegram from Commissioner Larke stating that no delegates from Australia to the Colonial Office conference have yet been appointed.

Charles Edward Uton Pointon of Toronto, painter, will apply to Parliament next session for a bill of divorce from his wife, Lillian Pointon of Toronto, on grounds of adultery and desertion.

Letters patent of incorporation have been issued to the Power, Rope and Belting Company (Ltd.); the aBin Wagon Co., the Continental Twine and Cordage Co. and the Canadian Fibre Chamois Co.

AFTER SHORTIS' LIFE.

One Hundred Valleyfield Men Trying to Catch and Kill Him.

Beauharnois, Que., Jan. 3.—Shortis left this afternoon at 2.30. He has been driven away to avoid trouble here to-night. About one hundred men from Valleyfield and from here went on the train to Ste. Martine Junction to catch him there and kill him. They are well organized and well determined to do so.

ADDISON LAWR ACQUITTED.

Other Cases Disposed of by the Police Magistrate

Toronto, Jan. 4.

Addison H. Lawr, the C.P.R. engineer who was charged with having committed a criminal assault on a girl named Matthews on December 7th last, was honorably discharged by Magistrate Denison in the Police Court yesterday morning. The alleged offence was said to have occurred at 32 Downey's lane a house kept by Mrs. Walsh. It was clearly proven that Mr. Lawr was in Havelock at the time, and in dismissing the charge, the Magistrate remarked that he believed there was no foundation whatever for it.

Albert P. Grant stole three geese from the store of Samuel Jones, Queen and James-streets, on New Year's eve. He was charged also with drunkenness. He was sentenced to 30 days in jail for theft and fined $1 and costs or 30 days for being drunk.

Henry Smith, 70 Tecumseth-street, pleaded not guilty to a charge of stealing 600 cigars from Joseph McEvoy, Queen-street west. A portion of the stolen property was found in the prisoner's possession. He was remanded till Thursday.

Thomas McEntee of the King-street west auction room, who was charged with stealing $10 from Sylvanus Jarvis of King, paid back the money and was allowed to go on suspended sentence.

John Maloney, the expressman who was charged with cutting his wife's throat, was discharged. Mrs. Maloney's evidence was such that the Crown could not push the case. She swore that the cutting was accidental.

Before Magistrate Miller in the afternoon court Andrew Hickson, an Elizabeth-street tailor, was fined $1 and costs or 20 days for assaulting K. Superior, a pool-room keeper on Queen-street west.

There were several offenders fined for breach of the city bylaws.

TORONTO ITEMS.

Toronto, Jan. 4.

The position of Toronto agent of the Canadian Express Company, rendered vacant by the recent death of Mr. J. D. Irwin, has been filled by the appointment of Mr. Roland G. Wilson, who has been in the service of the company since 1868, and was for many years Mr. Irwin's deputy. The appointment will meet with favor among the patrons of the company.

During the month there were discharged from the Central Prison 54 prisoners; first convictions, 36; second convictions, 16; more than two convictions, 3. There were 32 Canadians, 10 English, 5 Americans, 2 Irish, 1 Scotch. The discharged were convicted for the following, viz: Offences against the person, 7; against property 28; drunkenness and disorderly conduct, 1.

From the jail there were 65 discharged; 43 males and 2 females. Of these 19 were convicted for the first time, and 46 more than once. There were 20 cases of drunkenness.

A little over a year ago, by resolution the directors of the C.P.R. reduced the salaries of all employes earning $1000 per year 10 per cent. and all earning $2000 per year and upwards 20 per cent. This was owing to the depression that prevailed at the time and which compelled the company at its annual meeting to pass the usual dividend to the common stockholders.

The reductions were loyally accepted by employes, especially as it was stated at the time that they would only be temporary. Better trade conditions having prevailed during the past year the company has announced that beginning with this month all the salaries that were reduced will be restored to the old figure. This news has been received with feelings of great satisfaction by those affected in the different departments of the company's service.

COUNTERFEITS.

A few years ago a great discovery was made.

Unprincipled persons are trying to prey upon and dupe people who are led to ask for kidney treatment.

Some of the methods adopted by imitators are as follows:—

First:—To imitate the size, color and shape of Dodd's Kidney Pills and sell them by count.

Second:—To put them up to appear very nearly the same and to be offered at the same price.

Third:—To hook on the word "kidney" in naming catharatic pills so as to increase sales of mere physic.

Fourth:—To give a name so near to Dodd's that unwary people may be deceived and think they are getting Dodd's.

Look out for such dodges. When you want kidney medicine you want the best. And ought not to be the subject of any trick.

So beware.

CHRONIC HEADACHE.

The change in my Mother's condition marvellous.

Scott's Sarsaparilla is a Boon.

MONTREAL, August 29th, 1895.

GENTLEMEN:—There is such a change in my mother's health that I cannot restrain myself from writing you. She suffered for years past with a chronic headache, accompanied with a disordered stomach. She was weak and irritable, and we thought she was going into a decline. For three weeks she has been taking a course of Scott's Sarsaparilla, which was recommended to her by Mr. McGale, Druggist, Montreal. Her headache is now but a memory, her appetite is good, and she has gained five pounds in weight in twelve days. She is a different woman, and I feel that you, in God's hands, have been the means of restoring her to health. I shall always recommend Scott's Sarsaparilla to sufferers from head or digestive troubles. Thanking you again, I close.

Yours sincerely,
Hortense Gavilliere.

Scott's Sarsaparilla is a concentrated extract, pleasant to the taste, and is taken in small doses. It is the finest remedy for disorders of the stomach and liver, palpitation, scrofulous sores, eczema and skin diseases arising from impurities of the blood. It builds up the weak, the strong it maintains in health. $1 of all druggists.

A CHRISTMAS TURKEY.

How an Old Tar Came Near Being Cooked For Dinner.

"I never think of Christmas turkeys without rememberin the time I come near to bein the turkey myself," said an aged sailor to the group of seamen who surrounded him as he sat upon the end of an old spar on South street, New York.

The ancient mariner's name was Jack Brown, and as he had followed the sea as man and boy for over 50 years and had cruised in every part of the world the group listened in respectful silence, well knowing that when old Jack Brown started to spin a yarn it was sure to be well worth hearing.

"It was away back in 1840, and I was little more than a youngster then—only about 18. I had bunked aboard the Jolly Rover; but, mates, she didn't prove to be what her name indicated. We left this port for Melbourne, weathered Cape Horn as safe from Davy Jones' locker as a mountain a mile inland, and all was smooth goin until we were a week's sail into the south Pacific. Then a storm struck us that sent us scuddin along under bare poles like a Mother Carey's chicken afore a cyclone.

"I've run afore many a gale, mates, but that hurricane could give points to any of 'em. One minute the Jolly Rover would plunge out of sight into a big wave, and the next she would seem to be perched like the ark on a Mount Ararat of water. The gale blew nearly all night without a moment's pause. All we could do was to let her run. Suddenly she struck with a shock that made every timber creak. I was below, but I rushed on deck, expectin the ship would go down. An instant later a big wave came over the rail, washed me overboard and swept me on and on. I kept my head above water part of the time, every moment expectin to be dashed agin the rocks. To my joy, I was washed up on a sandy beach. Luckily I had strength enough left to get up and run inland a few feet before the next wave caught me.

"Day was just breakin, and as I looked around I saw Captain Stout, Second Mate Bill Fry and Jim English crawlin out of a big wave and helped 'em up the beach.

"'Look!' yells Fry, shakin the water from his eyes. 'There she goes!'

"As we glanced in the direction of the Jolly Rover she staggered like some gigantic animal with a mortal wound and sank beneath the waves. We watched the beach for an hour, but not another man came ashore. Every Jack Tar of 'em was drowned. Then we started inland to explore the place. We didn't feel at all at ease, mates, because Captain Stout figured as how we must be on one of the smallest of the Solomon islands, which we knew was inhabited by the toughest lot of cannibals and head hunters in the Pacific.

"We realized that we were dead men if we were captured, and we kept a sharp lookout for the cannibals while we were takin in the lay of the land. We saw many cocoanut and breadfruit trees, but the island was apparently uninhabited. I say apparently because about half an hour after we landed a dozen ugly, tattooed savages leaped upon us from the bushes. I knocked one of 'em off his legs before a big warclub brought me to the grass, and Stout, Fry and English had no better luck. The savages were armed with clubs, bows and arrows and bone pointed spears, and their hair was thick and bushy and was stuck full of sticks for hairpins.

"We were all bound hand and foot, and then the savages carried us to a village near by, where we were thrown into a hut and guarded by two big black fellows armed with clubs.

"'Mates,' says English, 'did you notice what was langin up agin the hut next to us?' We all said, 'No.' 'Well,' says he, 'it was the flesh of human bein's, and, as Captain Stout feared, these fellers with clubs is cannibals.'

"'If they are, our goose is cooked, and —and so are we,' the captain says with a hollow sort of a laugh. 'Blast my eyes, he says, 'if tomorrow ain't Christmas day too! Perhaps these blacks are goin to have us help 'em make their turkey dinner a success.' We all shuddered, and Jack Brown for one thought he had seen New York for the last time. We lay in the hut all day and the followin night. The savages fed us very well, and while we enjoyd the mess we couldn't help thinkin that the black villains were givin it to us to make us more fat and eatable. Next mornin we heard a great yellin and poundin of tamtams, and Fry, who could look through a crack in the hut, said that a big party of blacks had just returned from somewhere in large war canoes and had with 'em a dozen native prisoners.

"'It looks,' says Fry, 'as if our captors have been makin war on another tribe that lives in this village. The prisoners they have with 'em evidently got away when the village was attacked, but were chased inland and captured.'

"Fry's guess proved correct, and we soon found that our captors did not live on the island, but on another large one about five miles away. Just after sunrise Christmas day we were loaded into big, handsomely carved war canoes along with the dozen native prisoners, and the savages paddled across a wide channel to their own island. On the shore was a native village, and about 1,000 dancin, yellin drum beatin blacks of both sexes welcomed the return of the war canoes, loaded down as they were with Christmas turkeys.

"Well, mates, the savages carried us up the beach a short distance and dropped us near an ugly idol 20 feet high. Several hundred fires were built near by, and then most of the savages gathered in a circle around the idol. Pretty soon a dozen of the tallest blacks, all armed with long, sharp spears, danced around the idol to the music of a hundred tamtams, and then they ranged the dozen native prisoners in a line facin the idol and speared the poor blacks through and through.

"I won't describe the horrible scene that followed, except to say that we lay there expectin every minute would be our last and saw the cannibals cook and devour their victims.

"'They're savin us for dessert,' says the captain.

"But they didn't save us long. In a very few minutes the 13 big savages were leadin us toward the idol, and we were sayin goodby to one another. Death seemed very near when suddenly we heard the boom of a dozen cannon. An instant later shells exploded right and left among the cannibals, killin scores of them. The remainder took one look at the British man-o'-war, lyin in the channel half a mile away, and then fled, panic stricken.

"We sailors were soon tackin for the beach with every sail drawin, you can bet, and when the warship's boats picked us up Jack Brown for one was heartily thankin heaven he'd saved his wishbone!"

Russo-Turkish Secret Treaty.

London, Jan. 1.—The Standard, commenting on the statement telegraphed from Vienna that Russia would not take over the administration of affairs in Armenia, recalls the fact that a similar statement was made by Austria prior to her occupying Bosnia, and adds that the same may be true in this case, since Russia, having a prospect of taking the whole of Turkey through the person of the Sultan, would not waste her strength in occupying part of the Turkish dominions. Persistent rumors are in circulation to the effect that secret negotiations are going on between Russia and Turkey.

HIS DOG SHOT HIM

The Animal Jumped Against the Gun and His Paw Struck the Trigger.

Pawtucket, R.I., Dec. 31.—Louis Lezotte was shot by his own dog while squirrel-hunting in the woods near Rehoboth, Mass., yesterday afternoon. He had a double-barreled gun with him, and, sighting a squirrel high up in an oak, Lezotte let go one barrel, badly wounding the squirrel. Standing the gun against the tree, Lezotte began to climb to secure his quarry.

The dog, which from the time of the discharge of the gun had been running excitedly around the tree, began to jump against the trunk, as if trying to follow his master. His paw struck the trigger of the loaded barrel, sending a charge of shot up past Lezotte's side and lodging in the muscles of the right arm near the shoulder. Lezotte fell, but managed to make his way to a doctor in Rehoboth, who sent for an ambulance to take the wounded man to the Rhode Island Hospital. There it was said that the arm would probably have to be amputated.

A FATAL SCUFFLE.

Irwin Caldwell Felt Upon William McLure Who Died

Ingersoll, Ont., Jan. 1.—This evening about 5 o'clock Irwin Caldwell, a cabinet maker of this town, and William McLure, who keeps a restaurant here, met in the hallway of the McMurray House, both having somewhat under the influence of liquor. A little scuffle took place, and it appears Caldwell fell upon McLure. Caldwell was taken up unconscious, and laid on a sofa. Medical aid was at once obtained, but he expired almost immediately. McLure was afterwards arrested and locked up. An inquest will be held.

DIABETES CURABLE

Given up to Die—Uses Dodd's Kidney Pills and is Cured by Eight Boxes.

KIRKFIELD (Special), Dec. 23.—Mr. Duncan McKenzie, miller and lumberman of this place, had returned from Kansas lately. Had failed in health and strength, had lost fifty pounds in weight. Was given up by his physician as well as by specialists in Toronto and by himself and friends. Now comes a change—he says in a letter to Dodd's Medicine Co.: "After commencing with your Dodd's Kidney Pills I got help inside of two weeks. I took eight boxes in eight weeks, am completely cured, not a symptom left, general health good. Have regained my old health and weight. Had been bothered with heart and liver, both have vanished with the diabetes. I can walk briskly for miles instead of crawling as before. CUBAN REBELS ADVANCING.

The People of Havana in a State of Terror—Rebels Have Entered Havana Province

New York, Jan. 2.—The Herald publishes a despatch from Havana, which says the city has been thrown into a new state of terror by late reports of the movements of the insurgents, who have invaded the province of Havana. This invasion was unexpected as conflicting rumors of the last few days apparently indicated that the Spanish troops had driven back the rebels as far east as Santa Clara province, and it was supposed that in the raids in Matanzas the people had experienced the worst punishment the Cubans could inflict upon them. It is certain, however, that Gomez's advance columns, under Lacret and Serafin Sanchez, entered Havana province Tuesday.

VENEZUELA COMMISSION.

What London Newspapers Have to Say on the Matter.

London, Jan. 2.—The Westminster Gazette, in an article on the subject of the appointment of the United States Venezuelan Boundary Commission, says: "Great Britain should treat the Venezuelan commission with perfect politeness and give them all possible information, although not admitting their jurisdiction, but should not allow British officials to give evidence in their public capacity."

The St. James' Gazette remarks the absence of ex-United States Ministers Lincoln and Phelps from the commission, but highly commends the appointments of Messrs. White and Gilman.

"The Common People,"

As Abraham Lincoln called them, do not care to argue about their ailments. What they want is a medicine that will cure them. The simple, honest statement, "I know that Hood's Sarsaparilla cured me," is the best argument in favor of this medicine, and this is what many thousands voluntarily say.

Hood's Pills are the best after-dinner pills, assist digestion, cure headache. 25c.

THE ELECTORS.

How Many Votes There are to be Canvassed in the Different Wards

A great deal of discussion is going on relative to the votes, which can be polled in the municipal election on Monday. In order that a fair idea may be gained of the vote which can be polled, a brief resume concerning the number of electors eligible to mark a ballot paper in the coming elections may therefore not be malapropos.

In No. 1 Ward there are 1,070 electors, but of these 154 can not vote in a parliamentary contest. Of the remainder 602 can vote in both municipal and parliamentary elections, and 224 on municipal questions only. Of these latter the great majority are ladies. There are, therefore, 916 votes which can be cast in this ward. In No. 2 Ward 432 can vote in both parliamentary and municipal elections, 313 in municipal only and 153 in parliamentary only. This makes 745 votes to be canvassed in the forthcoming election. In No. 3 545 vote in both cases, 221 in municipal matters and 74 on parliamentary questions only, making 766 shining marks for the canvasser's skill. In Ward No. 4 there are 350 electors who can exercise their franchise in both cases, 160 who can vote only on municipal questions and 77 on the lists as electors in parliamentary elections. Therefore 510 are subjects for a canvasser in the coming elections.

The total number of electors in the town is 3,395 and of these 2,937 will probably be seen and solicited for there vote between now and election day.

The polls in the different wards are located as follows:—

No. One Ward—Wm VanEvery's shop, Jos Lundy, deputy-returning officer.

No. Two Ward—Market Hall, Charles Cameron, deputy-returning officer.

No. Three Ward—Metheral's shop, John Irwin, deputy-returning officer.

No. Four Ward—Wm. Lee's shop, Geo W Powell, deputy-returning officer.

Sirs,—For five years I have been troubled with neuralgia and tried everything I could see or hear of. At last I was advised to try a bottle of Yellow Oil and I refused because I thought it was like all the rest—a failure. A half bottle was given me, however, and I found it helped me, and bought a bottle which cured me. If it cost five dollars a bottle I would not be without it.

.. THE .. Mayoralty Election 1896.

Address of Wm. Yelland to the Electors.

To the Electors of the Town of Peterborough:—

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN—At the urgent request of a large number of ratepayers of all classes, I have consented to accept nomination as Mayor of the Town of Peterborough for the year 1896. In soliciting your votes and support I do so with a full confidence that my past record and experience, both as a Councillor and a citizen, will enable me to discharge the duties of Mayor efficiently and will justify the support I respectfully solicit. My thirteen years' record in the council is before you, and with all due modesty I may claim that it has established the fact that I have left nothing undone that it was in my power to advance the best interests of the town. I have always stood up, fearless of criticism, for what I conceived to be right, and as my record in the past has been so I pledge myself that if elected Mayor my future shall be also. I have a considerable material stake in the town and pay a large bill of taxes, so that it is my personal interest, if I were influenced by no higher motive, to see ours affairs economically administered and to advocate and influence every reasonable project for the material and moral advancement of the interests of Peterborough. In the administration of the affairs of the town so far as I am able to control such administration, I shall see that all classes and all interests receive that justice that their claims and importance deserve and that all laws and by-laws shall be fairly and properly administered. If elected Mayor I shall do what is right and no power, or influence shall induce me to swerve one hairs-breadth from what my judgment declares is just and to the best interests of Peterborough. Trusting that my platform, plain and simple as it is, will commend itself to your judgment and bring me your hearty support, and wishing all the citizens of the Town A Happy New Year, I remain,

Your Obedient Servant,

WM. YELLAND.

Dec. 30th, 1895.

WARD NO. 1.

TO THE ELECTORS:—

Having been nominated as a candidate for Councillor to represent this ward, and having been urged by numerous ratepayers to accept the nomination, I have consented to do so and hereby respectfully solicit your votes and influence.

If elected I promise to the best of my ability to faithfully discharge the duties of the position.

W. RUDKINS.

January 1st, 1896.

To The Municipal Electors of WARD NO. 1.

Having again been honoured with a nomination as a candidate for Councillor in this Ward, I beg leave publicly to accept the nomination.

I therefore respectfully solicit the votes and influence of the ratepayers of "the Banner Ward." If elected, I pledge myself to use my best efforts, as in the past, to protect the interests and promote the welfare of No. 1 Ward and the whole town.

W. H. WHITE.

December 31st, 1895. 4c-153

TO THE ELECTORS OF WARD NO. 3.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN—At the request of a number of the ratepayers of No. 3 Ward to become a candidate for Councillor for 1896 I have decided to do so. I therefore respectfully solicit your vote and influence, and if elected I will serve you to the best of my ability.

ROBERT WEIR.

TO THE RATEPAYERS OF WARD NO. 3.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—I beg to offer myself as a candidate for election as one of the representatives from your ward in the Council of 1896, and solicit your support to secure my election. Hoping to be favoured,

Yours respectfully,

W. H. MOORE.

TO THE ELECTORS OF WARD NO. 4.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—I am in the field as a candidate for election as one of your representatives in the council of 1896. If you approve please give me your vote and influence. I have had some experience in this line, and if elected will do the best I can to promote the welfare of our fair town. Yours respectfully. 3d2

W. EYRES.

TO THE ELECTORS OF WARD NO. 4.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,—Having decided to accept the nomination for Councillor for No. 4 Ward, I desire to solicit your votes and influence. I do not intend to make a personal canvas, but if you see proper to favour me with your confidence, I will devote my best energies to the welfare of the town.

Yours respectfully,

WM. LANGFORD.

GRATIFICATION SALE

PREPARATORY TO STOCK-TAKING!

Our gratification for the successful business which our two big stores have been favoured with during the year just closed, is oozing out of every pore.

Our bounding enthusiasm urges us—perhaps rashly—to making our January business something phenomenal—something better and greater than anything in the past! Besides—

It's Price-Pruning Time, Previous to Taking Stock.

That usually means selling at about cost, but we mean to crowd bnsiness by crowding down prices away below anything you've ever known before.

The whole of our immense stock of Men's, Youth's and Boy's Clothing, Furnishings, Hats, Boots and Shoes, &c., have been marked down for immediate sale to prices that will make the whole Town and Country ring with the startling news!

Our Prices are Dwarfs! Our Values are Giants!

You lucky fellows who have been waiting for the cold weather, have struck it rich! Don't let go of that mighty dollar until you have seen what we are doing in the way of cut prices on Suits, Overcoats, Underwear, Hats and Boots.

The season is almost over with us, but it is only beginning with you. Gough Bros. don't propose to permit an accummulation of stock from season to season—even if it should take to clear the decks. We reign to-day, sure! We are very much alive to the sacrifices we are making, and we haven't lost our heads either.

Another Dynamite Explosion

Every table abounds with Bargains—every Price has been clipped a third or more—and you can't find such Prices at other stores, because you can't gather figs off thistles.

GOUGH BROS.

The Wonderful Cheap Men,

375 and 377 GEORGE STREET, PETERBOROUGH

To The Municipal Electors of NO. 4 WARD.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—Having consented to accept the nomination as candidate for Councillor for No 4 Ward, I hereby solicit your votes and influence. If elected I will endeavour to discharge he duties of the position with an earnest desire to serve its best interests.

As the time is short I will not be able to see every ratepayer of the ward, and would therefore solicit the support of all who desire to encourage an economical policy in the management of our town affairs.

Your Obedient Servant,

JOHN M. WHITE

Jan. 2nd, 1896.

TO THE ELECTORS OF NO. 4 WARD.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN—Having been honoured with the nomination for Councillor, for No. 4 Ward, for 1896, at the request of a large number of ratepayers, I have decided to accept the same. I therefore solicit your votes and influence for the same, and promise if elected to act to the best of my ability in the interests of the town at large and of No. 4 Ward in particular, 3d-1

Yours Respectfully,

JAS. G. GRAHAM.

WARD NO 4.

To the Ratepayers of Ward No. Four:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,—Having decided to accept the nomination as councillor for Ward No. Four, I respectfully solicit your votes and influence. I desire to thank all those who supported me last year, and hope that they will again honour me with their support. If I am elected I will give my best attention to the duties of the office, and I promise to perform the same to the best of my ability.

I remain,

Your obedient servant,

M. H. QUINLAN.

GONE TO SMASH.

Premier Bowell Loses One-Half of His Cabinet.

SEVEN OF THE MINISTERS DESERT

Foster and Tupper Head the Rebels—Charges Against Dr. Montague—Will Bowell Give Way to Sir Charles Tupper—Excitement High at Ottawa

Ottawa, Jan. 5.—The Bowell Ministry is to-night lying around Ottawa in sections, totally smashed. The following members of the Cabinet sent in their resignations yesterday to the Premier: Messrs. Foster, Tupper, Dickey, Montague, Haggart, Ives and Wood. The crisis predicted a week ago in this correspondence as likely to occur before the House met, and dwelt on Thursday and Friday, was precipitated by the publication yesterday of the charge against Dr. Montague that he had written and sent anonymous leters to the Governor-General, accusing Sir Adolphe Caron of having accepted a bribe to promote a bill before Parliament during the session of 1894. These letters are said to have been turned over to the Premier, and by him to the Postmaster-General.

Sir Adolphe Caron, on being seen this evening by your correspondent, made the following statement: "With reference to the article published in The Citizen, purporting to be a despatch from The Toronto World, with regard to the Hon. Dr. Montague and myself, all I have to say is that I neither directly nor indirectly gave the slightest information to the press nor have I any knowledge of how its publication came about." The Postmaster-General added: "I do not think it would be proper for me to say anything further at this time." In reply to a further question as to the political situation, Sir Adolphe, who wore a very jaunty air, said: "There are a lot of rumors, anyway."

Dr. Montague has issued the following statement:

"The announcement that I either wrote or inspired any anonymous letters in regard to Sir A. P. Caron or know anything directly or indirectly in connection with them is a falsehood pure and simple. I did not know that any such insinuation was made against me until yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock or a little later. The moment I learned of it I demanded of the Premier immediate investigation. The whole matter is a miserable, contemptible attempt to injure me.

"I do not know what the anonymous letters are which were sent in regard to Sir A. P. Caron or anything they contain in regard to him, not having the courtesy extended to me. Nor do I know the dates upon which the letters were written, nor, except in the vaguest and most general way, what they contain. When I learn of these facts I shall be able to vindicate my position most thoroughly. Permit me to say, in addition, that I have never yet written any anonymous letters to injure the character of any man, and in this case have neither the motive, the spirit nor the cowardice necessary for such an act."

It would be a grave error to suppose that the Government's coercion school policy is the cause of the collapse. It is an incident, but not the cause. The smash has been predicted because of the intrinsic weakness of the Cabinet and the want of confidence not only of the party but of the people, as displayed in the bye-elections. Of course the ex-Ministers rebelled in the end against the remedial bill, and choose rather to smash Bowell than to be smashed themselves in their own constituencies. Sir Hibbert Tupper himself is sick of the remedial order, but would have gone on with it, except that seeing a chance to go into Opposition, and wishing to be the leader of that Opposition in the House, he seized upon it, and sees the reversion of the Premiership in it. It is well known that the ex-Minister of Justice sees salvation only in five years of Opposition, and also sees a chance in that course to gratify his vaulting ambition. The position of Sir Charles Tupper, the High Commissioner, is a peculiar one. He came over without invitation, ostensibly on other business, but really with the keen Tupper scent to watch over the Tupper interest. No sooner had he arrived with assurances to the Premier of disinterested friendship than a gang of speculators, boodlers, promoters, unscrupulous contractors and the worst element of the Government suporters started a cry that Bowell must get out and give way to Sir Charles Tupper. The heelers and election workers demanded the change with visions of Hudson Bay Railway, Chignecto Marine Railway and other wild-cat and boodling schemes floating before their eyes. Tupper and the slick gang are to rule.

On Saturday morning the excitement was high. The Railway Committee of the Privy Council was summoned to meet at 11 o'clock. The busy railway managers and lawyers in attendance were kept waiting for the "court" till 25 minutes to 12 o'clock, and then Premier Bowell and Sir Hibbert Tupper came along engaged in earnest conversation. No one could imagine that three hours later Sir Hibbert Tupper would throw the Premier over and join the malcontents. Mr. Haggart, chairman of the committee, was over with Dr. Montague in the Department of Agriculture, and did not attend. Premier Bowell, who was joined by Mr. Daly, presided at the afternoon sitting. Mr. Haggart appeared and ran the court, but Premier Bowell would not sit at the same table with him, and did not attend. Mr. Ives went over to see Dr. Montague at noon. In the afternoon, Premier Bowell received the resignations of the following Ministers: The Minister of Finance, the Minister of Justice, the Minister of Railways and Canals, the Minister of Trade and Commerce, the Minister of Militia and Defence, the Minister of Agriculture, and the Controller of Customs. The Premier accepted these resignations, so that to-night all who are left in the Cabinet with portfolios are Mr. Costigan, Minister of Marine; Mr. Ouimet, Minister of Public Works; Sir Adolphe Caron, Postmaster-General, and Mr. Daly, Minister of the Interior.

Your correspondent waited upon Sir Charles Tupper this afternoon. He was quite willing to discuss the Pacific cable matter or the question of the fast mail service, but as regards the political situation, he would say nothing. The Minister of Justice was also seen and he also had nothing to say for publication. So, too, with the other Ministers who have resigned.

The political situation is the all-absorbing topic of conversation amongst the politicians. Late last night a good many members arrived, particularly from the east, among them being McAllister, McDougald of Pictou, and Powell, the new member for Westmoreland. Everybody is anxious to know what the Premier will do and at the present time of writing it is difficult to say what the upshot will be. Last night Sir Mackenzie sent out notices to all the Conservative members asking them to be here on Tuesday. The general impression is that when Parliament meets on Tuesday an adjournment will be asked for probably two weeks. If the Opposition show fight and want to proceed with public business there will be an interesting time. It is felt, however, that Mr. Laurier can hardly refuse to accede to a motion to adjourn, but if he does, there will be nothing for it but to out-vote him, and as the party is a unit so far as its policy is concerned, and the sole desire being to heal existing breaches, there will not likely be any defections from the ranks.

An adjournment having been secured Sir Mackenzie will meet the party in caucus, where the whole situation will be discussed and then will place himself in the hands of his friends. If the desire be for him to step out he will do so and will either retire into private life or take any part in fighting the battles of the Conservative party that may be assigned to him.

It is said that Sir Mackenzie greatly appreciates the attitude of the High Commissioner toward him. It is stated with a great positiveness which cannot be gainsaid, that when the suggestion was first mooted to Sir Charles Tupper that he should take the Premiership he frankly and fully informed the gentlemen who made the suggestion that a proposal of that kind could only come from the Premier himself.

During the talk of the past two days it is astonishing to hear the many expressions of friendly regard toward the Premier. While some Conservatives say that a change in leadership may be desirable, yet it is universally admitted that Sir Mackenzie has done his best under the circumstances. There are some who see in the resignations of the Ministers an attempt to get out of the remedial legislation policy. Supposing a new leader assumes command, the question is asked, "What effect would this have upon the policy of the Government?"

It is generally conceded, and by Protestants at that, that there can be no change in the Government's policy on the school question. Sir Charles Tupper, sr., as Premier, would have to adhere to the course mapped out by his predecessor. The impossibility of changing the Government's policy on the school question must convince any man who carefully considers the situation. In the event of remedial legislation being dropped, Sir Charles Tupper would not be able to get a single colleague from Quebec, and he would at once lose the support of Mr. Costigan, who is without doubt one of the soundest thinkers in the Cabinet.

A modified remedial bill will doubtless be passed by Parliament and to that bill will be attached a string rendering it inoperative, say until Jan. 1st, 1897, by which time Mr. Greenway will have had abundant opportunity of remedying the grievances of which the Catholics of Manitoba complain. During the interval of time before the bill could come into operation, the general elections will have taken place, and if the Conservative party is again returned to power, as seems more than probable, Mr. Greenway would find it to his advantage to tackle the school question himself rather than deprive his province of the power to legislate on educational affairs.

There is a possible contingency that Sir Mackenzie Bowell may be able to reconstruct his Government, and, if it be the wish of the rank and file of the party, he may attempt the task. Men like Hon. Peter White, Hon. G. A. Kirkpatrick, Col. Tisdale and Wm. Smith, M.P. for South Ontario, would inspire confidence throughout Ontario.

What surprises everybody in connection with yesterday's coup is that John F. Wood should have tendered his resignation. Sir Mackenzie and he have been such firm friends that it is a wonder that they should have parted company. In the event of Sir Charles Tupper, sr., taking hold it is generally supposed that Sir Mackenzie Bowell will be a member of the reconstructed Ministry. That he will not go to England as High Commissioner, he asserts most positively. With Sir Charles Tupper, sr., as Premier, it is altogether unlikely that the Minister of Justice would be given a portfolio. Three members of the Government from Nova Scotia, one of them occupying a seat formerly held by an Ontario Minister, would hardly satisfy the Premier Province. The suggestion has, however, been made, that Sir Charles Tupper the younger, might run for an Ontario constituency, thereby removing the disability referred to. That there would be no difficulty in securing one for him is evident by the fact that half a dozen Ontario seats have been tendered to him within the last two years. It is thought more than likely that for the present session, at any rate, supposing Sir Charles Tupper actually becomes Premier, he might accept the vacant Nova Scotia Senatorship, thereby obviating the necessity of a bye-election.

The Caron-Montague episode has been completely overshadowed by yesterday's events, although none the less interesting. Sir. A. P. Caron was seen by your correspondent and asked his version of the affair. He replied: "With regard to the Hon. Dr. Montague and myself, all I have to say is that I neither directly nor indirectly gave the slightest information to the press, nor have I any knowledge of how its publication came about. I do not think it would be proper for me to say anything further at this time."
